CALENDARS.

Instructions to Editors.

The Master of the Rolls desires to call the attention of the Editors of Calendars to the following considerations, with a view to secure uniformity of plan in the important works on which they are engaged:—

He is anxious to extend, as far as is consistent with proper economy and despatch, the utility of the Calendars of State Papers now publishing under his control: 1st. As the most efficient means of making the national archives accessible to all who are interested in historical inquiries; 2nd. As the best justification of the liberality and munificence of the Government in throwing open these papers to the public, and providing proper catalogues of their contents at the national expense.

The greater number of the readers who will consult and value these works can have little or no opportunity of visiting the Public Record Office, in which these papers are deposited. The means for consulting the originals must necessarily be limited when readers live at a distance from the metropolis; still more if they are residents of Scotland, Ireland, distant colonies, or foreign states. Even when such an opportunity does exist, the difficulty of mastering the original hands in which these papers are written will deter many readers from consulting them. Above all, their great variety and number must present formidable obstacles to literary inquirers, however able, sanguine, and energetic, when the information contained in them is not made accessible by satisfactory Calendars.

The Master of the Rolls considers that, without superseding the necessity of consulting the originals, every Editor ought to frame his Calendar in such a manner that it shall present, in as condensed a form as possible, a correct index of the contents of the papers described in it. He considers that the entries should be so minute as to enable the reader to discover not only the general contents of the originals, but also what they do not contain. If the information be not sufficiently precise, if facts and names be omitted or concealed under a vague and general description, the reader will be often misled, he will assume that where the abstracts are silent as to information to be found in the documents, such information does not exist; or, he will have to examine every original in detail, and thus one great purpose will have been lost for which these Calendars have been compiled.

As the documents are various, the Master of the Rolls considers that they will demand a corresponding mode of treatment. The following rules are to be observed :—

1st. All formal and official documents, such as letters of credence, warrants, grants, and the like, should be described as briefly as possible.

2nd. Letters and documents referring to one subject only should be catalogued as briefly as is consistent with correctness. But when they contain miscellaneous news, such a description should be given as will enable a reader to form an adequate notion of the variety of their contents.

3rd. Wherever a letter or paper is especially difficult to decipher, or the allusions more than ordinarily obscure, it will be advisable for the Editor to adhere, as closely as is consistent with brevity, to the text of the document: He is to do the same when it contains secret or very rare information.

4th. Where the Editor has deciphered letters in cipher, the decipher may be printed at full length. But when a contemporary or authorised decipher exists it will be sufficient to treat the cipher as an ordinary document.

5th. Striking peculiarities of expression, proverbs, manners, &c. are to be noticed.

6th. Original dates are to be given at the close of each entry, that the reader may know the exact evidence by which the marginal dates are determined.

7th. Where letters are endorsed by the receivers and the date of their delivery specified, these endorsements are to be recorded.

8th. The number of written pages of each document is to be specified, as a security for its integrity, and that readers may know what proportion the abstract bears to the original.

9th. The language of every document is to be specified. If, however, the greater part of the collection be in English, it will be sufficient to denote those only which are in a different tongue.

10th. Where documents have been printed, a reference should be given to the publication.

11th. Each series is to be chronological.

12th. The Prefaces of Editors, in explanation of documents in the volume, are not to exceed fifty pages, unless the written permission of the Master of the Rolls to the contrary be obtained.

THE present volume of Calendar contains the papers of 11 months, July 1656, to May 1657, instead of only 8 or 9, like its immediate predecessors, the reason being that the meetings of the Council were far less frequent, and that the original papers are less numerous.

The notices of Cromwell vary as usual, according to the quarter whence they come. To his opponents, he seemed a hypocrite whose "cloak is worn so threadbare that " he has nothing left to cover his knavery ;" — " the " King lost his head for raising a little ship-money, but " now things are ten times worse" (p. 52).

His former friend, Sir Henry Vane, wrote and published a work entitled " A Healing Propounded and Resolved," disparaging so severely the Protector's policy that he was threatened with imprisonment unless he would give security in £5,000 not to act against Government ; refusing this, he was sent to the Isle of Wight, to be kept close prisoner, and not permitted to speak to any one except in presence of an officer (p. 98), but after 3 months' confinement, he was allowed to go to his own house at Belton, co. Lincoln (p. 194).

The approach of Parliament, which began its sittings in September 1656, was a cause of much anxiety lest the temper of the House should be unfavourable. The elections were not entirely approved by the Protector (pp. 111), and 140 of the members chosen were not admitted to the House, whereon they drew up a remonstrance, which was seriously debated. Cromwell, however, made a speech of three hours at the opening, which roused a party for him in the House (p. 113).

They passed an Act for the security of his person, condemning all who plot against him and his Government as guilty of high treason (p. 172), and they proposed to offer him the title of King, with the right of hereditary succession (pp. 189). This nearly cost him his life, for discontented army officers and fifth monarchy men engaged in a double plot—to blow up Whitehall with gunpowder, and to shoot the Protector on his way to Hampton Court (p. 243). “The news from England,” writes a Paris resident, “is of plots and treasons, yea, of gunpowder treasons, which would have sent the Protector to heaven in a fiery chariot. Nine of his guards are imprisoned as actors in the intended tragedy, but the prime plotter, they say, was Lambert, who was within an inch of execution.” (p. 250). The whole House went to congratulate him on his escape from the plot, when the multitude so thronged towards the banqueting house that the gallery on the top of the stairs fell, and in it 100 people, 20 being members of the House, and among them Lord Richard, the Protector’s son, but with little hurt.

The effort to make the proposed crown hereditary in the Protector’s family failed, chiefly through the influence of the army party, headed by the Majors-General, but retaliation awaited them. They wished for an Act to confirm their powers for life, but it was thrown out, and they were left at the Protector’s pleasure as to their tenure of office (p. 257). A compromise was adopted that Cromwell should nominate his own successor, who should be owned by Parliament (p. 239), and that a House of Lords should be set up, the members to be nominated by Cromwell (pp. 303, 307, 309). At length, after long and earnest days of debate, the House passed, on 26th March 1657, by 124 against 62, a petition "requesting the Protector to "exercise the name, style, and office of King of England, " Scotland, and Ireland." Some officers did not suppress their dissatisfaction, but it was hoped that they would not raise trouble (pp. 320-1), and the people were on the look out for a coronation (p. 323).

The whole Parliament waited on the Protector at the banqueting house with their petition. "He answered them " kindly, yet discovered nothing of his intentions to refuse " or accept, but took time fully to weigh" the petition. Meantime all remained quiet, and the army promised acquiescence in what the Protector and Parliament should agree upon (p. 324). Hearing of demur to some of the 12 heads of their petition, Parliament decided, by 77 against 65, to adhere to it, and drew up reasons to induce his Highness to accept it in its entirety, all or none (p. 327).

Again, however, the opponents of monarchical rule asserted themselves; a rising of fifth monarchy men and Anabaptists was planned, but discovered in time, and 25 of them taken into custody. Upon them was found a declaration setting forth a new Government, and there was reason to suppose that the plot had wide ramifications (p. 335).

Major-General Harrison, Lawson, late vice-admiral, Colonel Danvers, Venner, and others were sent to prison in the Tower, Lambeth House, or the Gatehouse.

It was probably a sense of the deep-rooted opposition of the army to the restoration of the name of King—though far more than kingly power had long been wielded by the Protector—which led Cromwell to decline the proffered title. It was surmised that he had come to a compromise with the army, and pledged himself that, provided they would not oppose the offer of the crown being made to him, he would content himself with that honour, and not accept it (p. 337). However this may be, he desired an interview with Parliament or commissioners appointed to wait upon him, and declined the kingship as against his conscience, deeming, it was said, that "his contempt of a crown will render him more honourable than any that wear it" (pp. 328, 338).

His answer caused consternation in Parliament, and they urged reconsideration, and pressed the Protector to listen to the advice of the three nations, in things judged to be for the public good, and to consent (p. 328). He gave Parliament a paper of reasons for his refusal, but instead of accepting it, they fell to new debates on the subject, in hope, it was said, that on the return of some regiments from Scotland and Ireland, who were not supposed to partake of the sentiments of the English army, the Protector might be led to reconsider the question (pp. 352-3, 360).

The details of these Parliamentary proceedings are gathered partly from letters addressed to Jos. Williamson by his London friend and bookseller, Hum. Robinson, and partly from papers preserved in the French correspondence. When Sec. Wm. Lockhart was sent ambassador to France in Feb. 1657, the Royalists tampered with one of his secretaries or under-secretaries, through whom they obtained copies or extracts of many letters that were sent to him or his secretary, Wm. Swift, especially those of Sec. Thurloe, and also Lockhart's letters to Thurloe; also of letters to others which passed through Lockhart's hands. The writer of these copies had no keys to the cypher in which some letters were written, but he occasionally guesses at their meaning. Many of these copies are endorsed with notes of their being sent to Sir Hen. Bennet, the King's resident in Spain, or to others of his Council.

When the present volume opens, the fortunes of the exiled Royalists were at a low ebb, and the small English court that usually flocked about Charles II. were through poverty and discouragement "so scattered and retired that " they are scarce visible."

Indeed, so sorely did the res angusta domi press upon them, that it was with difficulty they could keep up their intelligencers in England, although assured that the greater part of the people and the fleet were Royalists at heart (p. 82). One of them, who professes access to the fleet and to persons of quality at Whitehall, has 300 guilders paid towards a correspondence, the cost of which would be 300*l.* a year.

The Earl of Norwich complains that he is obliged to change quarters that he may gain a livelihood on trust, and avoid the affronts of creditors, and scorn of acquaintance (p. 117). Col. Borthwick, an old servant, who, however, was in prison at Bruges, because of suspicions as to his loyalty, complains in a petition to the King that he is perishing for want of necessaries, has not changed his clothes for three years, and is the only person in gaol who has not the smallest fire in winter, "and the limbs that have " carried me many a mile on your service are numbed, " having long been barefooted, and long a beggar, a trade " I never dreamed to make use of" (p. 217).

Dorothy Chiffinch, the King's laundress, and sempstress of the body linen, had much difficulty in obtaining the 4 livres a day which was to include rent of laundry, mending the "laced linen," washing the linen, and making it (p. 258).

The movements of the royal brothers were greatly dependent on those of their sister, Mary, Princess of Orange. In Dec. 1656, she had to go to Brussels on business relating to her son, and Charles II. went with her, hoping to improve the occasion by further intercourse with Don John of Austria, the governor of Spanish Flanders; but Don John retired to his country house 6 miles off before the King's arrival ; a resident records that he came "in a coach with 4 horses, but a poor retinue;" and adds, "He is not overlaid with visits, I never yet saw a coach at his door, and his leveés improve not (p. 189).

The following February her three brothers came to Helvoetsluys to convoy the Princess, but in passing the fort of St. Anace, and again at Sluys, a shot was discharged, either by accident or design, in the firing of a salute, which killed one person, and hurt three others close to the King. (pp. 288, 293).

In April, however, Charles received a long-desired invitation to the Court at Brussels. His entry was made incog., but he and his two brothers were at once visited by Don John of Austria, and his minister, Marquis Caracena, as well as by the Prince of Condé, and the other grandees (p. 325). They were treated with the ceremony belonging to their nominal, rather than their real position, and an adherent writes that "Our master is as much esteemed and loved as we could desire by all who have seen him here, and that is the greatest and best sort, for all the nobility flock to him. He was at a ball on Saturday, where Don Juan was, and danced to admiration. The two Dukes were there also and danced (p. 328)." Balls, and tennis, and games were shared and visits exchanged ; the comedy publicly attended, the English nunnery visited, &c. (pp. 333-4).

Meanwhile the English government were firm and strong in their efforts to crush the Stuart party. They banished all Cavaliers 20 miles from London during the sitting of Parliament, and they passed an Act in Parliament for annulling the title of Charles Stuart, or his brothers, or their descendants, to the throne, and adjudging all who assisted their right by money or otherwise as guilty of high treason, and to be punished with death (pp. 111, 119, 173). This so greatly discouraged the Presbyterians, who for the time were the principal advocates of royalty, that they gave up their projected plots, and waited in hopes of their king returning with an army from Flanders, and regaining his kingdoms through foreign force (p. 287).

Of this hope was entertained because in Jan. 1657, the King of Spain in order to take advantage of royalist proclivities in his war with Cromwell, offered free quarters to any who would assist the King of England, and this brought a concourse of English, Scotch, and Irish to Flanders. The House of Austria and the German Princes also made large proffers of assistance, but in order to avoid expense, delayed acting till the King was ready to pass over into England (p. 229).

One of his warm partisans, Lieut. Gen. Middleton, had not adopted this cautious policy. Encouraged by some vague promise of support made to him by the King at Bruges, he hastened into Germany, and raised a regiment with ease, but was driven to despair because he could not obtain adequate support for it (pp. 322, 334, 342). He urges that he knows not what to do with his soldiers. If he disband them, he will be unable to raise levies in future, yet he must be kept in cruel restraint unless he can raise 3,000 guilders, and not 10 are to be had from his countrymen in Dantzic, whence he writes, though "no place has more kindness for the King" (p. 345). On the other hand, Sec. Nicholas threw the blame of Middleton's distress on his own precipitate rashness. The design of the journey was his own, he was confident of getting money as well as men, and then was promised help if possible, but at present they have not a penny, and "if I were to be hanged, I know not how to help it" (p. 342).

Again, he writes that Middleton has not fallen into straits by neglect of his friends, but by not pursuing his instructions, and that the first 100*l.* given was all that he was promised. The only relief proffered was permission to dispose of his levies to those who would be willing to pay their charges (p. 342).

The levies that came direct to the King to Flanders met with better reception. The governors of the ports were instructed to treat them civilly, the Colonels met at Brussels to memorialise about their lodging and subsistence (pp. 328, 334), and hopes were held out of a supply of money for their pay (pp. 336, 338); but money was more readily promised than paid. An allowance of 400 guilders a day was promised to the King for his expenses, but meantime, having to go into mourning on the death of the Emperor, Ferdinand III., Nicholas writes, "The King has got himself into mourning; how he will pay for it, God knows" (p. 342).

One casual mode of obtaining supplies was the seizure and imprisonment of disaffected Englishmen, who were made to pay ransom before liberation. One, a wealthy merchant, was reported to have said that "the most just and heroic action in the world was that of cutting off the late King's head." He and his brother-in-law were imprisoned at Antwerp, "and will not be released till they have yielded some milk" (pp. 342, 344). Still, at the end of April, Nicholas records that "hitherto we have not had one dollar" (p. 349).

The Duke of York in disgust returned to his sister at the Hague, where a match was projected for him with one of the daughters of the Princess Dowager. Charles II., weary of inactivity, made an offer to the Spanish Council at Brussels, in view of the breach between France and Spain, that if they would join all the English, Scotch, and Irish in their troops to his new levies, and add 2,000 horse, he would command them in person; if not, he would still go with the army, hoping that his presence would tend to draw off the English from the French service (p. 363).

At this juncture the present volume ends.

Among its notabilia is an interesting account in detail of the expenses incurred at the funeral of Charles I., proving that there was no disrespect shown to his remains (p. 69).

A few papers bearing on domestic legislation in England deserve to be pointed out. The attention of Council was drawn to the persecutions inflicted on Quakers; they were sent to prison or the stocks, and even whipped, women as well as men, and those who refused to whip them were fined. One of their most frequent offences necessitated some penalty, as they thought it their duty to make their way into churches—steeple houses or mass houses as they called them,—and publicly to remonstrate against the service. Another offence was refusal to take the Oath or Adjuration, which ought never in fairness to have been offered to them, being intended only to detect an inclination to Popery, and they refused it, not on that ground, but because it was their principle to “swear not at all,” and thus they incurred the penalty. A third was the non-removal of the hat in a court of justice, but this was obviated by an order that their hats should be taken from them on entrance.

Many of them suffered long and weary imprisonments, and were treated with gross cruelty (pp. 123, 229, 230). They appealed to the Protector, and an order was issued in Council for the release of those in prison in cos. Devon, Dorset, Essex, and Suffolk (p. 122, 133), and the clerks of assize in the Western Circuit were forbidden to prosecute those indicted there for similar offences (p. 262).

On the other hand, Anne Blacklyn, of Yorkshirc, was ordered to remain in prison till she had paid a fine of 20 nobles, for going into Haverill church, Suffolk, and calling the minister priest, hireling, deceiver, &c. (p. 305).

An appeal was made to the Protector by hackney coachmen in London and Westminster, who had been soldiers in Parliament's service, but on their disbanding, had availed themselves of the Ordinance allowing soldiers to trade, and had become hackney coachmen. The overseers of the company resented their intrusion, and their non-compliance with the regulations, and tried to effect their dismissal. The coachmen represented this as a political grievance, declaring that Cavaliers were admitted and they excluded (pp. 26, 27, 45).

It is stated in the proceedings that the number of coachmen within 6 miles of London and Westminster is limited to 200 or 250, the coaches to 300, and the horses to 600; but 235 pairs of horses more were employed, and as it appeared that the overseers of the Company had taken bribes to admit some men, and had unjustly prosecuted others, it was ordered that all such prosecutions should be stayed, and the bye-laws of the company reformed (pp. 74-76, 162, 163, 180).

The most important of the papers relating to local objects are the following:—

Incorporations of Lynn Regis, Norfolk (p. 22), Colchester (p. 79), Leeds (p. 181), Abergavenny (p. 233).

Bartholomew's hospital and that for seamen at Chatham (p. 52).

Also that at Chester (p. 264).

Hatfield Chace, and the draining of the fen levels (p. 80).

Dungeness lighthouse (p. 138).

Dover harbour, its damages, and repairs needed (p. 265).
Also Dunbar harbour, Scotland (pp. 331, 370).

The conservancy of the Thames and the grant of a ballasting office therein (pp. 291).

The enlargement of the buildings and renewal of the charter of Glasgow University (pp. 304, 305).

A volume containing an account of the collections made in the several churches in England and Wales for the Piedmontese Protestants affords statistics of the wealth and liberality of the respective towns (pp. 222–223).

By those interested in revenue generally, attention should be given to the weekly accounts of receipts and payments at the Customs, Excise, and Exchequer Offices (p. 223).

DOMESTIC PAPERS.

VOL. CXXIX. JULY, AUGUST, 1656.

July 1.

1. Petition of Thomas Warren, merchant of London, and company, to Council, for satisfaction for service. On 29 May 1654, the Committee for Preservation of Customs and Redemption of Captives contracted with us for redemption of the captives in Morocco, and we thereupon gave special order to our factor, who went in person to the city of Morocco to treat with the King, and after 9 months' residence there, with much danger and difficulty, effected their freedoms. On their arrival, we presented them before the said Committee in Sept. 1655, with the account of their cost, and the Committee, finding 1,000*l.* was due thereon, granted an order to the Commissioners of the Customs to pay it, which they refused. We returned their resolution to the Committee for Redemption, who refer us to you for satisfaction. [1 page.]
Annexing,

1. I. *Order by the Committee for Captives, &c., to the Commissioners for Customs for repayment to Warren of the said 1,000*l.* 22 May 1656. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]*

1. II. *Certificate of the Committee for Captives, that they ordered the Commissioners for Customs,—who, by order of the Navy Committee of 21 Oct. 1652, lent 5,000*l.* Algiers duty money for redemption of captives to Rich. Hutchinson for the Navy,—to pay 1,000*l.* thereof for his expenses therein, but they give their reasons why they cannot pay it; request that they may be ordered to pay it. [1 page.]*

1. III. *Certificate by the Customs' Commissioners that they do not pay the 1,000*l., because the order of the late Navy Committee, being delivered in as a voucher for that sum, would not be a discharge to them, the Algiers duty being expired before their time, and also that they are obliged to pay all customs in weekly to the Exchequer. 14 June 1656. [1 page.]

July 1. Order thereon that the Admiralty Commissioners issue their warrant to the Navy Treasurer to pay 1,000*l.* to Warren towards repayment of the said 5,000*l.* Algiers duty. Approved 12 July. [I. 77, pp. 214, 244.]

VOL. CXXIX.

[July 1.] 2. Petition of Isabella, wife of Hen. Clarke, prisoner at Ilchester, co. Somerset, to the Protector, for her husband's release in person and estate, on good security for his submission to government. He was acquitted on his trial, but has since remained 13 months in prison, to the ruin of herself and 10 children, and his estate was of late sequestered on certain general instructions to the Majors General, so that they have nothing to live upon. With reference thereon to Council, 18 June 1656. [1 page.]
- July 1. Order thereon in Council that the Maj.-General and Commissioners order Hen. Clarke to be set at liberty, on security in 2,000*l.* for his not speaking or acting to the prejudice of his Highness and the present government, and that the bond be sent up to Council. [I. 77, p. 215.]
- July 1. 3. Request for an order to the Remembrancer of the Exchequer that—as a commission was issued in 1645 to Nath. Stephens and others, and another in 1649 to Lord Whitelock and others, to enquire concerning the spoils of Dean Forest—the master of that office be ordered to send down the said commission to the swanimote by some attorney of the Exchequer Court (Mr. Higgins is a fit man), the return of the commission being too bulky to be copied. Also request for an order to the master of the capital office to attend at the justice seat, having ready the records of the last justice seat for the forest, in 1634. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]
- July 1. Orders in Council thereon as requested. Approved in person. [I. 77, p. 218.]
- July 1? 4. Statement of the legal officers required at the Court, viz., 4 judges, assistant to the chief justice in Eyre, the attorney or solicitor-general, and a serjeant-at-law on his Highness's behalf; a clerk of the Iter to read the records, summon the forest officers, and direct the Court's proceedings, &c.; a crier to make proclamations, &c. The claims of the country to be received on a fixed day, and notice given by proclamation. [ $1\frac{1}{4}$  pages.]
- July 1. COUNCIL. Day's Proceedings.
2. Order on certificate from James Stapeley and 3 others—to whom, by order of 24 Jan. last, the examination about the Jacob of Amsterdam, which came ashore near Arundel, co. Sussex, and her lading was referred—that Strickland, Jones, and Desborow, speak with the Admiralty Judges, give them the papers, and take effectual course for releasing the persons concerned.
5. Order on a return by the sheriff of co. Hereford on a writ of ad quod damnum that there will be no damage to any one in granting to the inhabitants of the market town of Bromyard 3 yearly fair days—to advise his Highness to grant the same for the Thursdays before the feast of the Anunciation, St. James' Day, and St. Luke's.
7. Wm. Lenthall, Master of the Rolls, to cause Lord Borthwick's evidences and writings, ordered 5 June last to be transmitted to the Council in Scotland, to be sealed up and sent by such way as he thinks fit.

Wm. Boseville, Rich. Sydenham, and John Sparrow examine the account and certify. Annexing,

5. Report of the Treasury Commissioners, approving that of the Trustees for Sale, &c., [see 24 Jan. 1656] but referring the decision as to Parker's relief to Council. 7 May 1656. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

10. The Maj.-General and Commissioners for co. Oxon to allow Mr. Allestree to officiate as chaplain in the family of Sir Ant. Cope if they think fit. Approved 12 July.

11. The petition of Rich. Goddard, for permission to practise in his profession of common law, referred by his Highness to Council, read and put, and passed in the negative.

12. The petition of the next of kin, 20 in number, to the late Wm. Toomes of Hackney, and that of Edmund, Earl of Mulgrave, with that of Rich. Toomes, of Potterspury, co. Northampton, and the report from the Great Seal Commissioners annexed to Mulgrave's petition, referred to Desborow, Strickland, Lisle, Wolsley, Jones, Fiennes, Rous, and Sydenham, to report.

13. The order of 5 June last, on the certificate from the treasurers concerning the 2nd moieties upon the purchasers of the Marquis of Winchester's estate, to be sent to the Treasury Commissioners, who are to learn what has been done thereupon, and to see it put to effectual execution.

14. Out of the first money coming in for the said 2nd moieties of the said estate, satisfaction to be made to Mary, wife of Maj.-Gen. Rich. Fortescue, for damage by reason of a judgment had against him in an action of waste by Lord St. John, and for all costs and charges thereby. Approved in person.

15. On payment of 4,000*l.* by the Earl of Devon to the War Treasurers, for pay of the militia forces according to the establishment, he is to be discharged from further proceedings by the Maj.-General and Commissioners. Approved in person.

17. Order on report on the petition of the mayor, &c., of Gloucester, that the late cathedral with its utensils, cloisters, churchyards, library, and schoolmasters' and other houses, be henceforth enjoyed by them, for the preaching of the Word, education of children, and other public uses, they keeping the same in sufficient repair. Approved in person. Annexing,

6. Report on which the said order is founded. [Unsigned draft.]

20. The Admiralty Commissioners to give warrants to Capt. Alderne to put 2 hogsheads of brandy on board each of 6 ships bound to transport soldiers to Jamaica, for their use on the passage. Approved in person.

VOL. CXXIX.

July 1.

21. As it appears that the whole sum of 1325*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* is due to Capt. Rob. Greenwood, on 3 accounts, stated by the Commissioners for monthly Accounts in co. Derby, after defalcation of free quarter, the whole sum is to be paid him out of  $\frac{1}{2}$  his discoveries, instead of the two-thirds ordered Thursday last. Approved in person.

23. Scobell to learn in what service Mr. Slader acts, and by what authority, and to report.

24. Order—on petition of Robt. Parkhurst, of Pirford, and of the inhabitants of Wisley and Pirford, co. Surrey, against the intended union of the parishes of Wisley and Biffleet, and for the union of Wisley with Pirford—that the Trustees for Maintenance of Ministers enquire into the matter, and report. Approved in person.

27. Lucy Barlow, prisoner in the Tower, to be sent back to Flanders, with her child, and Sir John Berkstead to see it done. Approved in person. [I. 77, pp. 213-219.]

July 1.

7. Arguments by Dr. Walter Walker, Admiralty judge, against the maxim that if a ship be free, all the goods she carries must be free, because an enemy might hire a friend's ship to convey his goods, or a ship might be laden with goods belonging partly to friends partly to enemies. Quotations from legal works, ancient and modern, on the subject, answers and replications. [6 closely written sheets.]

July 1.
The Speaker,
Cadiz.

8, 9. Thos. Pointer to the Admiralty Commissioners. The fleet having finished its work at Lisbon, weighed from Cascaes Road and came to anchor before Cadiz, 27 June. A frigate having arrived from England, with packets for the General, several of the ships were thereupon ordered home. It is conceived there will be no action here, the Spaniard not daring to adventure his fleet, but people wonder that such a near neighbour enemy, who does all the injury he can, is not looked after, and some course taken with him. There are daily complaints of poor merchantmen being taken, while our fleet is lying idle and scarcely takes a boat in a month, but the seeking after great things hinders our doing good things.

Dunkirk is a thorn in our sides, and when the place is at our disposal, it will be a great benefit to England.

P.S. July 5.—There has been a very great storm, and the damage and loss to the fleet will exceed 800*l.*, as several ships were forced on the enemies' shore; this will be a very bad coast for the fleet to winter upon. [2 pages.]

July 2.
Winchester.

10. Col. Wm. Goffe to Thos. Collins, Chichester. By an Order of the Protector, of 21 June 1656, you are to pay 176*l.* 10*s.*, the  $\frac{1}{2}$  of the sum paid to you by the executors of John Albery, of Arundel, Sussex, to Jas. Goffe and 3 others. I beg you to do this, and to give Albery's executors a receipt for 100*l.* more, which will make up the money received to 353*l.* The 111*l.* 8*s.* 7*d.* which his Highness orders you to pay me for Capt. Mat. Draper and his soldiers, pay to Lieut. John Alexander and Quartermaster Thos. Talbie, who have Draper's power-of-attorney for it. I leave it to you to follow his Highness's orders as to the residue. The parties concerned allow you 40s. for your pains. With receipt for the 11*l.* 8*s.* 7*d.* same day. [2 pages.]

July 2.

11. Receipt by John Pellatt, for Jas. Goffe and others, of the said sum of 17*l.* 10*s.* Endorsed with note by Collins, 20 April 1658, of Goffe's acquittance for 60*l.* 19*s.* 6*d.*, his share of the above, and of a power from Wm. Woodman to Pellatt to receive his share. [1½ pages.]

July  $\frac{2}{12}$ .
Paris.

12. C. George to Williamson, Saumur. I forward the enclosed. Tell Mr. Calander I have received his letter, and sent it to London. [French,  $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

July 3.

COUNCIL. Day's Proceedings.

3. Order—on petition of the mayor, aldermen, and common council of King's Lynn, co. Norfolk, and the surrender of the charter of the borough to his Highness—that Desborow, Jones, Lambert, Sydenham, Strickland, and the Lord-Deputy consider the charter, and what the petitioners offer for the good government of their borough, and report what should be done about renewing the charter. Approved in person.

4. The same Committee to consider whether the charter of Woodstock should be renewed, and report.

5. The petition of Jasper Clutterbuck, late Receiver of the monthly Assessments in co. Gloucester, referred to Desborow, Sydenham, Jones, Lambert, and Lisle, to report.

6. The Treasury Commissioners to take security from Col. Harvey, and the other late Customs' Commissioners, for the rest of the money they have to pay, according to an order of 5 June last.

7. The petition of many poor planters of English tobacco in and near co. Gloucester, with the certificate of divers justices of the peace and other well-affected inhabitants of the county, referred to Desborow, Jones, Lambert, Sydenham, and Lisle, to report.

8. 13. The Admiralty Commissioners to give instructions from time to time to the present Commissioners and officers of Prize Goods, according to the commission and instructions given to the Prize Goods' Commissioners, a copy whereof is to be sent to the Admiralty Commissioners. Approved in person.

10. The Admiralty Commissioners to give warrant to the Ordnance officers at the Tower to deliver to Capt. Wm. James 10 minions with 300 balls, on security to return them or their value within such time as they shall agree upon. Approved in person.

12. The following draft of a declaration concerning the accounts of some officers in Ireland, not yet stated, read and approved.

13. Order on a letter from the Council in Ireland to the Lord-Deputy, of 28 Jan. 1655-6,—shewing that several officers of the army in Ireland served first in England, but were not paid, on account of their speedy transfer to Ireland, nor had their accounts stated, and that the Commissioners for stating accounts for the army in Ireland cannot state them, because the muster rolls and other necessary documents are in England, at Worcester House; in consideration whereof, and of the great merit of the said officers, a declaration was published (whereof a copy is enclosed), and the said officers having performed their part in pursuance thereof, have sent an agent to England to supplicate, and to have their accounts stated and papers made out, to enable them to receive satisfaction in Ireland. Also that several officers and soldiers (whose names are annexed) have arrears due for service in England, who, either being in England, or having their vouchers in England, could not put in their claims to the Commissioners in Ireland, according to the declaration of July last. Also that some others, whose vouchers were lately sent over, have desired to have debentures to obtain their English arrears:—That the Worcester House Commissioners state the accounts mentioned in a list from the Council in Ireland, and those in a list annexed, and certify the arrears due to each, his capacity, under whom he has served, and his time of service; and that the Commissioners for stating accounts of officers and soldiers in Ireland give them debentures for their arrears, stating the sum due and the time of service, to be paid from the lands, houses, &c., in Ireland at the disposal of the State; which debentures shall be as effectual as any given by the Commissioners for Accounts in Ireland in exchange for debentures in England. With a list of 46 officers alluded to. Approved in person.

15. Desborow, Jones, Lambert, Fiennes, Sydenham, Lord-Deputy, Wolsley, and Strickland, to receive from the Commissioners on fraudulent debentures the obstructions to the effectual execution of that service, to send for whom they please, and give fit directions for removal thereof, and if any difficulty occur, to report to Council for further directions. 2,000 coverlids.
 2,000 pair of breeches.
 200 steel spades.
 200 hatchets.
 180,000 nails.

With sundry other necessaries upon the officers' private account.

14. Statements before the Committee for hackney coachmen, of Rob. Wood, Thos. Brankler, Mrs. Bartlet, whose husband is a soldier in Jamaica, and of several late Parliamentary soldiers, of their being put to prison or otherwise unduly fined, and obstructed in acting as hackney coachmen. Counsel was heard on both sides, and only 4 of the corporation of hackney coachmen being offenders, it was pleaded that the corporation should not be dissolved, that the additional rules for it were read and confirmed by his Highness and Council, and that they are ready to admit a limited number of soldiers. 16. Navy Commissioners to the Admiralty Commissioners. It is not pleasing to us to fill your ears with complaints, yet we judge it our duty, while entrusted with so great a share of the Naval affairs, to again remind you of the emptiness of all the stores, and the great want of masts, deals, and canvas; now is the season to make provision. We have not been wanting in obtaining supplies by means of fair promises, and now we are hardly thought and spoken of by those who cannot obtain their money, which cannot but reflect unhandsomely upon us and others; and although we have endeavoured to husband things to the utmost, by granting imprests, so as to draw in a considerable quantity of goods, yet those very bills are unpaid, by which means we cannot procure any further supplies.

P.S.—We have large demands of canvas for sails at Chatham, and have none in store. [1 page.]

The Speaker,

17. Thos. Pointer to the Navy Commissioners. The ships have arrived from Vigo, where they only burnt 2 men-of-war, and a prize, with the loss of the steward of the Assurance and two men wounded. The Cullen was too near 50 pieces of ordnance to be meddled with.

The design upon Vigo had proved successful but that the Friars on shore at Lisbon were too quick for us, our enemies very many, and our friends very few. Capt. Smith of the Lyme has taken a vessel with silk and other stuff, which will prove a rich prize.

18. Petition of John Serle, for the inhabitants of Buckarell, co. Devon, to the Protector and Council. We never within the memory of man have had a qualified minister, our vicarage not being worth 20*l.* a year, and in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Exeter, the sheaf let for 3 lives, from which 9*l.* is paid to the Trustees for Ministers, which was before paid to us by the Committee for Plundered Ministers, and we made 50*l.* out of Edm. Windham's estate, now unduly discharged. We have lately outed a scandalous minister, and a good man being tendered to us, we beg you to make up the 9*l.* augmentation to 30*l.*, and we will therewith make up a competence. 20, 21. Petition of Ant. Robert to the Protector. In July 1654, I had 7 bales of cotton and 20 chests of soap seized in a ship bound from Marseilles to Rouen, which was a French port. By your recommendation to the Admiralty Court, and attestations from France, I got an order for the goods, but before I could bring it to the Commissioners for Prize Goods, they had sold for 134*l.* goods which in France would have yielded double the money, but I should lose the rest of their value in charges if I had to go to Rouen for proof. I beg you to accept an attestation and my declaration on oath as to their ownership, and to discharge my bail. With reference, 23 April 1656, to the Admiralty judges, and their report, 9 May 1656, that the proof of propriety is not legal, though the presumptions are strong, and therefore they cannot discharge the bail. 3. The outside of the purse to be prepared for the Great Seal to have a suitable figure embroidered therein.
5. Order on report from the Committee on the petition of Col. Edm. Salmon and his wife Mary, for themselves and the children of the late Gen. Lancaster, formerly conveyed to the widow and children of Gen. Deane, should be paid from the treasury at Drury House, and that the Commissioners have allowed John Currance a debt of 281*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, chargeable on the said manors—that in satisfaction for the said debt the Treasurers for the sale of forfeited Estates accept 281*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, allowed to Currance as so much ready money paid into the Treasury, and that on his bringing in so many public faith bills and debentures as will amount to the said sum, the Treasurers give him a double bill in lieu thereof, to purchase delinquents' lands, there exposed for sale; and on receipt of the said double bill, he is to discharge the manors of Halsall and Downhelland; and if any others have debts charged on the said manors, and consent to accept like satisfaction, the Treasurers are to proceed therein as in this case. Passed, with slight additions, 10 July, and approval signified by the Lord President.

15. An additional instruction to the Council in Scotland. At the Parliament convened 5 July 1650—considering that John, Earl of Cassilis, William, Earl of Lothian, Alex. Brody, Geo. Windram, of Liberton, Sir John Smith, of Grottall, and Alex. Jeffray, provost of Aberdeen, took up for the service 7,500*l.* sterling, giving not only the public faith but their own private security—there was ordered for their relief a levy of 108,000*l.* (Scots) on the shires and boroughs of Scotland, most of which is uncollected, and the rest remains in the collectors' hands. You are to give warrants for its collection and payment into the Exchequer for Scotland. Read and agreed to.

18. N. N. [Maximilian Vernatt] to [Sec. Thurloe.] All news about C. St. [Charles Stuart] is mute. The Marquis of Newcastle was lately here to take the air. The rest of the English, through poverty and little hopes of amendment, are so scattered and retired that they are scarce visible. I know a whole college of Irish priests; their patron makes much of me, and is familiar with Ormond; either he is too cunning for me, or there is nothing in agitation. Spain is said to have lately yielded the benefit of his share in piracy at Dunkirk to Charles Stuart, but it will be of small comfort to him if good order be kept there. Capt. Evertsen is taken by the English, with 3 Holland merchant ships coming from Spain. The hopes are that the Hollander will not endure it, and his discontent will burst out into open war. The crew express much hatred to you there, and expect much advantage by such a falling out. I wish I had not to hear their injurious detestations. [Extract, Flanders correspondence, 19 July, 1656.]

[July 10.] 23. Petition of Capt. John Lyes to the Protector. I served actively and faithfully in the late war from 1642 to 1652, except in 1647, when I was sick, and was dangerously wounded and plundered by Sir Wm. Russell, governor of Tewkesbury for the King. There is 100*l.* due to me for service, and on public faith. I beg that the Commissioners for the peace of co. Gloucester may examine my certificates, and consider the best way for my payment. - [July 10.] 24. Representation by the churches of Christ at Winchcomb, Burton-on-the-Water, Tewkesbury, Odington, and Deerhurst, co. Gloucester, to the Protector, that Col. Rich. Aylworth, of Aylworth, was the first gentleman in the county who took up arms for Parliament; that he was valiant, active, and faithful, and a great preservation of those parts in the hottest of the wars, and the principal agent in stopping the late King's army at Stow-in-the-Wold; that his sufferings and expenses were unequalled in the county, and weigh on him to the ruin of that ancient family, and disable him from service, which is grievous to all who fear the Lord in the county. Beg relief for him. Signed by the 5 pastors. [1 sheet.]

Their mother, Alice, lady Borlase, had 800 marks for life out of the Exchequer, of which 4,000*l.* is due, and for this and her husband's good service, 4*l.* a-week was allowed her, which continued till her death. [See Composition Tables, 24 August 1653.] Their father, by reason of the troubles and non-payment of his arrears, had to sell his estate, and left debts of 1,200*l.*, Sir John, the eldest son, being engaged for 900*l.*, and his pension of 2*l.* 6*s.* 0*d.* a-week stopped these 9 months. In 1644, John Rogers, M.A., was sent by Parliament authority as our minister, and has laboured faithfully ever since. At first he had 150*l.* a year by Parliament's order, 23 April 1645, from the possessions of the Dean and Chapter of Durham, and on sale of their lands by the Commissioners at Newcastle-on-Tyne, the tithes of Billingham, value 120*l.*, were settled on him; but these have not lately reached 80*l.*, so that he cannot so comfortably

I beg leave that John Ashburnham, my most material witness, who is under restraint by your command, may be present at the trial, or I shall be in danger to be overthrown in a just cause. - July 10. Approved in person.

42. Order on learning that Thos. Babington, Thos. Crumgrave, 2 officers attending the Trustees for sale of the late King's lands at Worcester House, have not observed the orders of the Committee of Council for removing obstructions about discovery of fraudulent debentures, but instead thereof resigned their places, that they might have the better colour for such their contempt—that the serjeant-at-arms have warrant to take them into custody. 32. T. Ross to Sec. Nicholas. I had not yours till Sunday, because we had no letters till the Duke and the Princesses returned to town. The enclosed is from my wife, who wrote it from Weston's mouth, sealed it in his presence, and was strictly enjoined secrecy, so that I do not know the contents. I think it is about the Levellers. Weston wanted her to stay in town about it, but for want of money, she is obliged to live with my mother at Richmond, and only goes once a week; but if the King thinks she should repair to this side for instructions, she will do so. Weston is anxious to know that you have the letter safe.

I am certain that Armorer had the letters from the King to Hopton. Hopton is troubled with Armorer's intrigues, and wishes to keep his business in your hands. He and Pile will send a fuller cypher.

I look daily for the express. I hear it is to be Mason, a very worthy person, and most knowing in your affairs. I have with me Col. Thornhill's son, a hopeful young man, ordered by his father to do any service the King may command. The father is only prisoner in his own house, and being frequently visited by gentlemen, can solicit for money, &c.

I have received from Sir Spencer Compton a letter of Lord Gerard to the Earl of Strafford's brother-in-law, and I am going into Poictou to deliver it and fetch him thence, to be ready to obey our master's commands. I shall be absent 10 days, but your letters will be forwarded.

Before Adm. Blake went his last voyage, he complained to Col. Thornhill of Cromwell's usage of him, joining him in commission with a worthless fellow, so that he expects no good of his voyage. Thornhill and Dr. Cole should be requested to probe Blake.

Extreme want of money has created a Parliament for September.

July 15. 34. Petition of the Marquis of Argyle to the Protector. In 1644 having, by God's blessing, raised an army in Scotland to assist the Parliament in England, at the desire of the Commissioners of Parliament, I came into England with the army, as President of the Committee appointed by the Committee of Estates in Scotland, to dispose of the army, but in 2 months I was ordered back to quell an insurrection in the north of Scotland.

The same year a party of Irish landing in Argyleshire, and joining with Scotch malignants, murdered many of my friends, kindred, and tenants, and destroyed and burnt my estate, so that for many years I received no rents. The Parliament of Scotland thereupon ordered me 15,000*l.* sterling for subsistence, and 30,000*l.* for relief of the shire, but of this I only received 10,000*l.*

The Parliament of England accepted the Parliament of Scotland's assignment of the whole sum, and by an Act of 17 June 1648, declared themselves debtors to me for the remainder. Being ready at all times to venture all for the interest of the 3 nations, I laid out large sums therefor, both in England and Scotland, for many of which I am still bound, besides other engagements to the public for 12,000*l.*, for payment of which the Parliament of Scotland assigned me, by an Act of 6 March 1649,  $\frac{1}{2}$  the excise of wines and strong waters till paid.

In 1638, during all the troubles in Scotland, I never received a penny as a committee-man, nor as president of the Committee that came with the army to England in 1644, nor as commander-in-chief in Scotland, nor as colonel in England and Ireland, except 100*l.*, nor did I take free quarter wherever I served.

I beg that these Acts and Ordinances may be made effectual, and that I may not sink under the burdens undertaken in the honest cause, having observed the articles made with Gen. Deane, and confirmed by you, wherein my debts were assured to me. With reference thereon to Council, 24 April 1656. [1 sheet.] Annexing,

July 16. 42. Commissioner Peter Pett to the Admiralty Commissioners. Chatham. What I offered to you about a supplement to the chest at Chatham will prove of very great value; those who speak least mention 500*l.* a year, but I hope Mr. Alline, of Margate, near Rochester, will state the fact, he knowing most about it, and the Maj.-General has lately conferred with him.

I am sorry the Seal is passed, yet hope that when his Highness is informed of the value, and the convenience for the chest, and that Sir John Hawkins' hospital, which now maintains 10 aged seamen, is built upon that land (and I fear some of the chest land at Chatham lately let, and at least 600*l.* in houses built upon it), he may see just cause of granting that revenue for the advantage of so many poor wounded seamen, many of whom perish for want of means to buy bread.

As the new 2nd rate ship will be ready to launch on Saturday week, I want a warrant to the Navy Commissioners, and a name for the ship, unless some of you Commissioners intend to be present. The new ketch will be ready in 14 days, and the Reserve has gone to the Hope. Copley, gunner of the Triumph, asks the gunner's place in the new ship. With P.S. by Capt. We therefore beg your order to continue the cathedral to us. With reference thereon to Council, 15 July 1656. [1 page.]

send an account of what has been granted me by imprest, and of what will be further required. All that has been assigned to me is 114,500*l.*; the State ordered victuals for 25,000 men for 6 months. which, at 8*d.* a day each man, amounts to 140,000*l.* The 10,000 men's beef and pork for Gen. Blake's fleet, amounts to 6,000*l.*, and the petty warrant to 20,000*l.* more, whereof above 18,000*l.* has been paid; all put together amounts to 166,000*l.* What has been and is yet to be received by imprest being only 114,500*l.*, there will remain 51,500*l.* unsatisfied; to meet that, I entreat a warrant to the Navy Commissioners to make out bills weekly for 4,000*l.* for 12 weeks from 30 Aug. when the last imprest ends. I also beg such a further sum weekly during my absence as the weekly receipts will justify; I have not yet received the  $\frac{1}{6}$  of what has come into the Treasury for the use of the navy, although promised at least  $\frac{1}{4}$ .

I will send the accounts of provisions at the ports, and hope you will give directions for taking off those at Plymouth and Kinsale, the stores being very full. [1 page.]

July 17. 49. Order in the Admiralty Committee for the Navy Commissioners, to make out bills of imprest to Capt. Thos. Alderne for 2,500*l.* weekly, for 8 weeks, from the determination of the last order. [ $\frac{1}{2}$  page.]

July 17. 50. Hum. Robinson to Williamson. I am sorry your goods were damaged. We have had scarcely any rain here, and it is prayed for. The 4th volume [of the Bible] advances apace. The bookseller can have what he likes in exchange, and the rest in ready money at 6 months, as we deal at Paris, Lyons, and Rouen. Private affairs. Mr. Lamplugh has given his living to Mr. Wetherel. There is to be a general election 20 Aug., and Parliament 17 Sept. [ $1\frac{1}{3}$  page.]

[July 18.] 51. Petition of Phil Tandy, registrar-accountant for sale of delinquents' lands, to Council, for an order for payment of a salary of 50*l.* quarterly from the next money at Drury House, all money being now to be paid into the Exchequer, and he obliged to divers trusts for one only salary. July 18. 53. Petition of John Sanderson and 3 others, on behalf of the hackney coachmen of London, Westminster, &c., to the Protector. We have spent most of our lives as coachmen, and are unfit for anything else, but as we fought for Parliament, the disaffected rulers of the fellowship have unjustly suppressed us, and admitted for money cavaliers who are not coachman, traders, and others who are not admitted by the Court of Aldermen, to our ruin. We beg speedy relief, and leave to labour for our living. With reference thereon, 26 June, to the Privy Council. [1 page.]

Annexing,

53. I. Certificate by W. Wheeler and 7 other justices of peace of Westminster, that several overseers of hackney coachmen have violated his Highness's Ordinances by dismissing honest and well-affected coachmen, and daily troubling them, to their utter ruin. [1 page.]

53. II. Petition of the overseers of the fellowship of hackney coachmen to the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen. We have tried to reduce the supernumeraries who have set up since his Highness's Ordinances and the by-laws of our court, those who were left of the list of 250, and also those who have since been dismissed for neglect, disobedience, and contempt, and who impede our hopes of obedience and uniformity. We have also punished transgressors who cause great trouble and clamour. If there were vacancies enough, and they would be conformable to government, we would admit them, but as there are many ancient coachmen still excluded, or only allowed one pair of horses, and some soldiers who are recommended by the Army Committee, we beg a request to his Highness and Council for a greater number of coaches and horses. Read 15 July 1656. [1 page.]

July 18. Reference in Council of the petition of Sanderson, and others, to the Committee for Petitions, with a report of Lord Chief Baron Steele and Ald. Ireton, to be considered forthwith. [I. 77, p. 261.]

July 18. 54. *Petition of David Thomas, late receiver-general of the monthly assessment, co. Radnor, to the Protector. During my receivership, I sent the Treasurer of War 182*l.* by Hugh Stevens, a drover, who embezzled 22*l.*, and to defraud the State, mortgaged his lands, and then sold them to Roger Stevens, his brother, and left the country. As I was pressed by the quartering of soldiers on me, I paid the 22*l.*, and, applying to the county Commissioners of Assessments, obtained their order for distraining the goods of Thos. Rushell and John Dalow, mortgagees of the lands, and tenants of Roger Stevens, and regained the 22*l.; but Rushell and Dalow have preferred a bill in common law against me, and gained the hearing of the trial to be in Shropshire, their own county, where the jury will be their neighbours, and under their influence. I beg stay of this trial, and a reference of the case to the Maj.-General and county Commissioners. [1 page.]

July 18. Order thereon for a letter to Maj.-Gen. Berry, to call the parties before him, compose the difference if he can, and if not, to certify the facts. With letter accordingly, 22 July. [I. 77, pp. 262, 922.]

14. The warrant approved last Tuesday for persons named to be sent on board the Grantham, bound for Jamaica, to be directed to the commander of the provision ship, bound for Jamaica.

17. In the draft of the order and declaration for the next 6 months' assessments, the moneys payable for the latter 3 months, from 25 March to 24 June are to be paid next Nov., and the Committee to prepare and bring in a declaration to that effect next Tuesday.

18. Order on report from the Admiralty Judges of 4 June, on petition of Dan. Thyssen, merchant of London—concerning the Golden Falcon seized by our ships on her way from Malaga to Middleburg, and part of her lading claimed by him, concerning which some question is yet depending in the Admiralty Court—that the Admiralty Judges proceed in the case according to law. Approved in person. Annexing,

19. Order—on petition of Capt. Chas. Glapthorne and a report from Sydenham and the other referees for stating demands of pay for service in Jamaica, that he served as lieutenant to Capt. Corbett's company in Col. Buller's regiment from 15 Jan. 1654–5 to 30 April 1655, for which his pay amounted to 21*l.*, of which he has received, by his wife 16*l.* 16*s.*, and 4*l.* 4*s.* remains due, and that he had a commission as captain in a regiment of foot raised by Capt. Holdip at St. Christopher's, which seems to have been reduced on or before 23 July 1655, and for which there was neither establishment nor muster—that Fras. Hodges pay 10*l.* to the petitioner, and allow him to return to Jamaica in some ship bound thither passage free, for which the Admiralty Commissioners are to take order. Approved in person.

20. Order—on report from Mr. Bowes, Fillingham, and Sydenham on a general reference on the Jamaica petitions, in the case of Edw. Beswick, that he, being in the State's service in Jamaica, was taken prisoner by the Spaniards; that not knowing when he was taken, they cannot tell how long term he served, but if in regard of his deplorable and meritorious condition, his whole arrears of pay be allowed him as drummer to Capt. Davis in Col. Fortescue's regiment, without defalcation for clothes or provisions, it will be 24*l.* 12*l.* 4*d.* above the 3 months' pay already allowed him—that Hodges pay it him. Approved in person.

Fernandez Caravajal, merchant and free denizen of England,—complaining that last December, he having freighted the Irish Merchant, an English ship, from London to the Canaries, where 53 pipes of Canary and 677 West India hides were put aboard for his account, brought back in the ship to London, entered in the Custom House, and Customs paid, but the same were seized in port by Rich. Order for the issuing of the present 6 months' assessment, beginning 24 June 1656.

As the forces are in present need of money, and part of the assessment must be disposed of to the forces in the counties wherein it is raised, and therefore cannot first be sent in to Guildhall, the Army Committee are empowered to order the assignment of the assessment as seems best for payment of the forces, and the Receivers General of counties are to obey such orders, warrants, &c. All moneys which the Receivers General of the assessment receive, or acquittances which they give as above, shall remain in the hands of the War Treasurers, towards satisfaction of the 360,000*l.* appointed to be paid out of the Exchequer by warrant, under Privy Seal of 15 July 1656, till the whole 360,000*l.* be satisfied.

July 22. 60. John Keyling to Mr. Scobell. According to your order, I am attending at the door to answer Council about the records of the Forest of Dean, and beg to be called in. With note that all the records about that forest were delivered by Keyling's father to Mr. Ryley, by order of a Committee for sale of forest lands. [1 page.]
- [July 22.] 61–63. Answer by Wm. Ryley, keeper of the Tower records, to a demand for the records of the Forest of Dean.
I am bound by oath not to permit any records to go into other hands, but if required I will carry them down to the justice seat to be held in the Forest, and will assist in that affair with the knowledge obtained by 25 years' experience of the method of justice seats, where I have constantly attended with records, or I would serve as assistant to the clerk of the Iter, under the Chief Justice in England.
I want an order from him, or from the Protector and Council, to carry down and have the sole management of the records; also an imprest to buy 3 horses for myself, my man, and the records, or an order to Frost to pay me 50*l.* on account of my salary, which I shall spend on this service if I may be reimbursed. [3 copies, with slight differences, one endorsed with note that his Highness gave a warrant, 21 Aug. 1656.]
- July 22. 64. Wm. Grove, [Dick Pile,] to [T. Ross]. I have seen yours to your sister of July 19, but am a stranger to what you say about Blake. Sir Philip Musgrave was so free with me that I think he would have told me had he delivered anything from Armorer to Hopton. By the last post I received this from Cooper (or Shannon), which much comforts me, for I hope the difference between the King and the King of Spain is fully concluded on; but the second part makes me wonder, when I compare it with what you said in your letter to me. I am so disordered by it that unless Sec. Nicholas sends immediately to me [for on the hint about Armorer I caused my partners strictly to enjoin me not to receive anything for us but what he sends], I shall quit this place, and attend my own business, which is so neglected that an execution is laid on my estate.
Here is sad news from the King of Sweden. Warsaw is taken by the Poles, and all in it put to the sword—the soldiers were 6,000—but the Straits' fleet have sent prize into the Downs 4 Dutch ships heavily laden, beside 40,000*l.* in Spanish coin, which must be bound for Flanders, though they say not. Send me 3 pairs of tweezers. [1 page; the italics are cyphers undecyphered.]
- July 23. 65. Petition of Capt. Greg. Butler to the Protector, for an order to the Navy Treasurer for his pay, and a commission to empower such privateers as offer to serve against the Spaniard. Was diligent in the last West India expedition, and spent 400*l.* in promoting it, and since his return home, has always been ready to forward the service. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.] Annexing,

- July 23. Order thereon in Council for payment to him of 500*l.* for his arrears in the West Indian expedition, viz., 200*l.* from the Exchequer, and 300*l.* from moneys to be received in the Caribbee Islands. Approved 23 July. [I. 77, pp. 273, 275.]
- July 23. 66. Petition of Isabella, wife of Hen. Clarke, of Enford, co. Wilts, to the Protector, for relief. My husband was suspected of being in the late insurrection, indicted, and acquitted at Chard, but has since lain prisoner 16 months, and his estate sequestrated by the Major General. I petitioned you and you referred me to Council, and I have long attended, but their weighty affairs prevented any order for my relief. With reference thereon to Council, signed by the Protector, 21 July 1656. [1 sheet.]
- July 23. Note of its being read in Council. [I. 77, p. 274. See 1 July p. 2, supra.]
- [July 23.] 67, 68. Petition of Mary, widow of Sir Thos. Wortley, of London, to the Protector. Elizabeth, Countess-Dowager of Devonshire, in consideration of my marriage in 1613 to her son, the late Sir Thos. Wortley, settled on me and our heirs male Whitton Manor and other lands, co. Lincoln, with reversions to Charles and Henry Wilmot and their heirs male, but all have died without male issue. On suggestion that Hen. Wilmot is Henry, Lord Wilmot, a delinquent whose estate was forfeited in 1651, the Treason Trustees have surveyed the lands in order to their sale. I know not how I may be prejudiced by my husband's default in not obtaining an allowance of his claim in due time before the Commissioners for removing Obstructions, but having no other satisfaction for a large estate I brought in marriage, I beg an Order to them to transmit their allowance to the Trustees named in the Act of Parliament of 16 July 1651, that so my estate may not be sold. With reference thereon to the said Commissioners to certify, 13 June 1656. [2 copies.]
- [July 23.] 69, 70. Like petition to the Protector. The Commissioners for removing Obstructions, by reason of the many causes depending before them, had not time last term to examine my case, and have now adjourned. I beg an order to the Trustees for sale of forfeited lands not to sell these till you are rightly informed as to my title. With reference, 12 July 1656, to Privy Council. [2 copies.]

24. Order—on report from the Committee on the petitions of John Winchcombe and Jane Ensor, widow, that in 1640, Sir Greg. Norton, trustee for Winchcombe, demised the site of the Manor of Weston, near Bath, co. Somerset, for 16 years from 1641, at 400*l.* a year, to Thos. Wild, since deceased, and John Chapman, Arthur Shurstow entering into a statute of 3,000*l.* for performance of covenants. That in 1645, this site, with a farm at Lansdowne, worth 120*l.* a year, and 450*l.* arrears, was sequestrated for Winchcombe's recusancy, when Chapman, on pretence of his being a delinquent, obtained a grant of the premises at 200*l.* a year. That Winchcombe being cleared from delinquency before the Sequestration Committee, they ordered the Commissioners of co. Somerset to allow him  $\frac{1}{3}$  of his estate. This was not done, on pretence that he might be sequestrated in co. Berks, and that he removed from Newbury to Wales, when the late King was likely to lose Newbury, and the Sequestration Committee being dissolved, he lost the fruits of his appeal. That he then petitioned the Protector, and it was shewn that undue means had been used to bring him in a delinquent, and also in reference to his estate, which was valuable, and yet little had accrued to the State. Also that Jane Ensor lost her husband in the service:—that  $\frac{1}{3}$  of the clear value of Winchcombe's estate brought into the Exchequer be paid him, and the other  $\frac{2}{3}$  sequestrated for recusancy leased to him at a fair rate, and 200*l.* therefrom paid to Jane Ensor. The Treasury Commissioners to see this executed, examining into the frauds, levying the arrears, and paying them as ordered. Approved 1 Aug. [I. 77, pp. 272-6.]

July 26.
Excise Office,
London.

79. Excise Commissioners to Council. On your order to give our judgments about farming the excise of beer and ale in London and Westminster, we offer—

1. That such farms are more disliked by the people than the impost itself, because they think that what they pay a tax collector is for the public good, but the other is for his private benefit.

2. It will greatly disgust brewers, innholders, victuallers, ale-house keepers, &c., a numerous company, for the brewers are incorporated and a wealthy body, but rough and surly, and the notion of private interests would disturb this considerable weekly revenue, and the quiet of the cities.

VOL. CXXIX.

3. The receipts quietly collected increase so rapidly that they will soon reach a larger sum than that propounded, for remedies are being applied to indirect practices. We are now gauging their tuns and vessels, which they have enlarged to elude excise.
4. Judicative and executive power is vested in the grand Court, and cannot be delegated, so that all complaints made by the farmer and his officers must come before us. Many brought by other farmers are frivolous and impertinent, and the complaints of these farmers would be daily, as the brewers are a contentious and froward people, so that our time would be taken up, and our other work hindered. If we do not comply with the farmer's complaints he may withhold his rent, as we have had a late experience, and it would take 6 or 8 months to recover it. We suggest—
  1. Whether it will be well to divert a growing revenue of 12 years' settlement into a form of levy liable to so many hazards and ill consequences.
  2. Whether the present advance of 10,000*l.* a year will countervail the loss in case the farmer relinquishes the farm, and we have to resettle the excise into its former course. Signed, John Ireton, Thos. Aleyn, Wm. Puckle, Nath. Manton. [1½ pages.]

July 30. Pres. Lawrence to the Lord President and Council in Scotland. Whitehall. His Highness and Council, on consideration of Capt. Henry Ogle's faithful service to this Commonwealth, ordered on 21 Nov. last the Council in Scotland to set out of the forfeited lands in Scotland lands of inheritance of the yearly value of 100*l.* to him and his heirs and to cause him to be put in possession thereof, and report the particulars of the lands, that a grant might be passed.

Since your answer of 20 Feb. last, enclosing a letter from the Trustees for Forfeited Estates saying that the debts charged on estates, and the provisions for wives and children, can hardly be discharged as it is, without any further orders for setting out land, Council have heard that there is a probability of satisfying that order out of forfeited estates, and being anxious for Ogle's order to be made good, desires you to consult how lands of inheritance of that value may be made over to him accordingly, and report particulars ; but if this course prove impossible, to consider how to satisfy him out of other lands. [I. 77, p. 924-5.]

July 31. COUNCIL. Day's Proceedings.

5, 6. The petition of Anne and Kath. Tregonwell, of Abscourt, co. Dorset, for discharge from decimation, referred to the Major General and Commissioners, to decide on. Also a like petition of John Jeffry, of Folke, co. Dorset. Approved 1 Aug.

7. To prepare an instruction for the Majors General in their respective counties, that where  $\frac{1}{5}$  has been allowed to wives and children of sequestered ministers, and is detained, they shall cause it to be paid, unless they find just cause to the contrary.

8. Order—on a certificate from Unton Croke, justice of assize in co. Surrey, on a trial in an action brought by Rich. Dumbrell, against John Parsons and 3 others—that the clerk of assize be required to return the postea on the trial to Council, and to summon the jury to attend Council. Approved 1 Aug. Annexing,

84. Report alluded to, that Dumbrell accused these persons of seducing his wife Jane to go from him, and carry away his goods, and remain away 3 weeks, to his damage of 100l.; that they plead not guilty, because the woman only left with her own apparel, to go to be baptized by Parsons, differing in judgment from her husband. That the jury ought to have found for the defendant, there being no assault, but found for the plaintiff, and assessed damages 20s. [1 page.]

12. Order—on report from the Treasury Commissioners on the petition of the Earl of Berkshire, and a certificate of Peter Brereton concerning the grant of the post fines claimed by him—that Council, finding the post fines are, and have been for many years, paid into the Exchequer, do not think fit to make any alteration therein.

15. The report from the Committee on the petition of the Trustees for sale of forfeited estates referred to Pet. Brereton, Edm. Wingate, Rich. Sydenham, Ralph Hall, Rice Vaughan, and Geo. Johnson, to receive information concerning reprises allowed by the Trustees without order from the Committee for removing Obstructions, to hear the Trustees, examine the whole matter, send for any records of sale of lands, and make a certificate thereof to Council, within 14 days.

and to give notice to the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland accordingly. Approved 1 Aug.

Order on Sydenham's report from the Committee to consider what sums charged on the Exchequer must first be paid—that 27,000*l.* must be paid forthwith, of which they have but little over 20,000*l.*—that the Treasury Commissioners see that  $\frac{2}{3}$  of the 27,000*l.* be paid out of the 20,000*l.*

46. Order that the Royal James frigate—a small man-of-war of the enemy, which attempted the Recovery of Bristol, but such a defence was made that many of the men were killed, and the ship seized and brought into Bristol—be given to the master and company of the Recovery, as a reward for their valour, and towards reparation of the damage sustained by their ship in the fight.

47. The mayor of Bristol to return to the Admiralty Commissioners an account of the time that the 27 prisoners taken in the Royal James have been at charge, and the said Commissioners to allow 4*d.* a day diet to each, to be paid by the Prize Commissioners, but the mayor is to require all such as are able to work for their livelihood. Approved 13 Sept. [I. 77, pp. 295–304.]

July 31. An additional instruction to the Council in Scotland—

Whereas great inconvenience has grown by not putting in execution the Ordinance of 6 Aug. 1654, concerning public preachers in Scotland, through default of the provincial certifiers named in the Ordinance, and we are unwilling that such ministers as intend their duty, and live peaceably under the present Government, should be kept out of their stipends for want of their certificates, which they cannot get from the provincial certifiers;—you are authorised to allow such ministers as satisfy you their respective stipends, with the arrears, their houses, and the privileges due, and to see the same done. 86. Report of Lambert and Wolsley, on a reference of the petition and proposals of M. Blondeau, which suggest advantages by his mode of coining money, viz. :—

That his coin will not be capable of being clipped, as all pieces will be of the same weight, the variance in which has hitherto been a great inconvenience, and he will receive and pay out the bullion by weight.

That it will be very difficult and costly to counterfeit it.

That it will be very handsome, and can be coined at from 1s. 6*d.* to 1s. 7*d.* per lb. troy for silver, and 7s. per lb. troy for gold.

That they have heard the officers of the Mint, who offered several exceptions, but none are considerable, save that Blondeau will not be able to do the work at the rate he has proposed ; but a trial may be had of his ability to perform the undertaking, on his giving security for the bullion given him to coin.

In case it proves satisfactory, and it is resolved that a Mint be erected in Ireland, money being so generally corrupted there, Blondeau might be trusted with that work, and if he punctually performs his agreement, he might then be admitted to the charge of the Mint in England.

Also that a house be provided for him in London for the trial, and order given to the graver of the Mint to prepare dies with devices and inscriptions.

That one side should have his Highness's effigies, and the other his arms, with differences between the gold and silver, for avoiding fraud in gilding and putting off silver pieces for gold, and that a sum not named be allowed Blondeau for preparing his engines. [ $2\frac{1}{2}$  pages.]

Instructions to Gen. Rob. Blake, Commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean fleet. You are to go to Algiers, send for the English consul, ascertain what English prisoners they have, and what prizes have been taken by Algiers' ships, and demand restitution of all ships and goods taken since ——— from English subjects, and the liberty of all the captives. You are to say that we wish to agree on articles for a friendly correspondence and mutual commerce, and you are to treat on articles of peace, such as are usual and necessary. If they refuse to do us justice, you are to use the force under your command to compel it, and assault them by land or sea, as you think fit. [Entry book, Charles II., No. 4, pp. 17-8.]

Aug. 1. Reference thereon in Council to Sydenham and Strickland, to report. [I. 77, p. 306.]

Aug. 1. COUNCIL. Day's Proceedings.

1. Lambert's report from the Committee on the new college at Durham, of a draft of a charter for settling the college, referred to the counsel learned, to report.

3. Six iron sacres and 4 iron minions to be delivered from the stores to Capt. Gregory Butler, as lent for use on his voyage to the West Indies, and to be returned at the expiration thereof, and a warrant to be issued to the Ordnance officers accordingly.

5. Out of the 4,000*l.* ordered to be paid into the Exchequer by the Earl of Devon, a second 1,000*l.* to be paid to the militia forces within the association of Maj.-Gen. Boteler, and the same to those of Maj.-Gen. Haynes.

6. To advise an order to the Treasury Commissioners to pay the War Treasurers the 2,000*l.*, to be thus disposed of.

8. Serjeant Bradshaw to be discharged from the office of chief justice of Chester and justice of assize for cos. Flint, Denbigh, and Montgomery, and his Highness advised to appoint some other fit person.

9. If Col. Edmond Ludlow do not, between now and next Tuesday, give security before the clerk of Council, with sufficient sureties in 5,000*l.*, to do nothing prejudicial to the Commonwealth, he shall be taken into custody and stand committed.

10. The Army Committee to issue warrants for the payment of the Earl of Devon's 4,000*l.* as ordered, 2,000*l.* to Major Haynes, and 2,000*l.* to Major Boteler, for their militia forces.

11. A present, value 1,500*l.*, to be prepared for the ambassador from Sweden, and Pickering, the Lord-Deputy, Sydenham, Lisle, and Strickland to consider its quality and direct its preparation.

12. Letters of marque to be granted Capt. Greg. Butler, under the Admiralty Court seal, against the ships and goods of Spain, on the usual security.

13. Like order for letters of marque to Capt. James.

17. To advise a warrant for payment to Thos. Warren of the 1,000*l.* ordered him from the Portugal money.

19. The Army Committee to direct their clerks to examine the books, &c., in their custody, for the names, quality, county or garrison, and time of service of such persons as the Commissioners for Discovery of Fraudulent Debentures desire, and report particulars.

88. Commissioners of Customs to the Protector and Council. The laws prohibiting export of gold and silver do not make any allowance to the seizer for his pains and hazard in prosecuting. It was this that prevented the recovery of the 2,060*l.* in gold, seized by the Gravesend searchers [See 18 Nov. 1655]. Thos. Gill, of Bristol, has been at great charge in seizing and recovering 82*l.* 9*s.* in gold. We pray that he may have one half, and that we may be directed to pay, and the Barons of Exchequer, and Auditors of Imprests, be ordered to allow it on our accounts, as has been done in like cases for the late Committee for Navy and Customs. 89. Tim. Halton to Williamson. The factions are perpetually driven on in the house, so that I perceive no great hopes of election for fellows; 80 has denied the society their dividends till the drences [differences?] are composed. Edmondson and Lough are made arbitrators of the business. If Rawlins were removed, the passage would be easier; DCCCI and DCI highly opposed our reaping any benefit of Masters' places; possibly they could not spare so much. 6 has lost his dividend this quarter, 600 taking the opportunity of proposing it in 330 [Lamplugh's] absence. I suppose he will return to college next Michaelmas. He has disposed of his parsonage to Mr. Wetherald; yet he lost his dividend this year. DCCCI would gladly have fingered it, but could not.

There was an election of Tabiters at term time, viz., Jo. Robin, B. Simpson, Pickering, T. Denton, and Skelton. 25 [Clem. Ellis] is Master, and made no supper; kissing goes by favour.

We have got a second Gerard Langbaine, baptized by Dr. Wallis after the new cut, without godfathers. 110 has been tried on a charge of incontinency; the woman who accused him, a turnspit, was imprisoned and banished.

Addison has made his public recantation in chapel, on his knees, for his offence with Sacheverell; you know the story. There is no Act, on account of the Vice-Chancellor's absence; he will resign to Dr. Wilkins, who is the rising sun since his marriage with the Protector's sister. Aug. 3. 91. Jonas Palmer to the Admiralty Commissioners. I have
The Adventure. served the State several years as carpenter, but myself, the master gunner, boatswain, and purser are abused by our captain, who is a great enemy to the State, and a confederate of Lady Overton, at Hull, and of Harrison, at Scarborough. He has books which are libels against his Highness,—that his cloak is worn so threadbare, that he has nothing left to cover his knavery,—and because we do not agree with him, he threatens to put us ashore, and says he has your orders for it, though we have neither disobeyed nor embezzled.

He says that the King lost his head for raising a little ship-money, but now things are ten times worse, and if the purser's books are examined, it will be seen that he does not care to be at sea, and has been two months out of four at anchor in one place or the other. He lately came on board drunk, from Scarborough, and put the lieutenant and gunner in irons for nothing; he says that seamen should not be servants to soldiers, that you have not done well to put so many godly men in prison, and that his Highness cannot protect himself, much more three nations, and that both General Overton and Maj.-Gen. Harrison would have scorned to take the post of Protector. [1 page.]

Aug. 4. 92. Commissioner Peter Pett to Maj.-Gen. Kelsey. I received
Chatham. your letter from Hill House, with the state of the case of Bartholomew's Hospital. We cannot now draw up a petition to the Protector, as some of the Governors are from home, but we have written to the Commissioners at Worcester House, where Mr. Alleyn is to have a hearing to-morrow, against Mr. Hayward.

We enclose the letter, and desire it may be forwarded, after the Admiralty Commissioners have seen it. I spoke to Hayward touching land held at St. Bartholomew's, belonging to the chest, and he acknowledges that part of it does, and that he is willing to do anything reasonable in renewing leases in reference to that, but I would rather wish not to lie at his mercy. [1 page.] Enclosing,

92. I. *Commissioner Peter Pett, Thos. Rabenett, and Thos. Arkenstall, to the Commissioners for Discoveries, Worcester House. We understand that part of some lands at Chatham, lately belonging to the Brethren of St. Bartholomew's in Chatham, granted to some persons by the Lord Protector, belongs to the Chest at Chatham, by lease for lives, for the maintenance of wounded seamen. Sir Jno. Hawkins' Hospital in Chatham, for 10 aged seamen, is built upon part of it, and others have also built upon it to a considerable value, believing it to be the chest's freehold. If this land be granted away, it will ruin the Hospital, whose funds are so low that we cannot repair the small houses, so as to enable the poor creatures to lie dry in their beds. 93. Major Wm. Burton to the Admiralty Commissioners. The Reserve and Wexford are in the Roads, waiting for the Vulture or Wren. I hear Capt. Smith has sent them to Portsmouth; if so, he does these parts great wrong, for I have not a ship to send with the coal fleet, between Yarmouth and Orfordness, which is as dangerous as from Newcastle to the Roads. The poor women whose husbands are prisoners in Ostend are glad to hear of an exchange. Capt. Country has brought in a prize with 27 men and boys; so we have now 80 prisoners, and desire that they may be exchanged for the English abroad, and that a convoy may be sent for the herring fishery and for other purposes.

The Preston and others are gone northward to secure the coal fleet; the herring fishers will be ready by the 24th; there should be 4 small ships and 2 as large as fourth-rate, because the Dutch convoys, which lend their busses, will not be commanded by small ones. This fishery is the greatest in England, they come as far as from Lyme westward, and Sunderland northward. [1 page.] Enclosing,

93. I. II. *Nich. Jasper, and 18 other masters of ships, to the Admiralty Commissioners. We beg a convoy, having long waited in vain for Capt. Nutton of the Norwich, to our great loss and damage, by lying at great charge, and seeing our goods daily taken away under our noses by the Dutch, and entertaining poor taken men, who come to us for succour. We are much abused and jeered at because no convoy arrives. There is also a report of a sudden war, and the Dutch people are generally mad for it, seeing the number and value of their ships taken by the English; all the Dutch captains were summoned before their Admiralty last Saturday, on some private business; consequently if we are not soon fetched away, it is feared we shall be stopped. 93. III. *Robt. Fenn to his wife. We are hardly dealt with, our allowance of 2d. a day, a loaf, 1 oz. of butter, and 2 ozs. of cheese, is reduced to half, because their men who come from England say they were so served there. 94. Capt. Wm. Whitehorne to the Admiralty Commissioners. Little has been done of late with the enemy, they being afraid to come in or out; as they endeavoured to fit again the shallop which was put on shore, I sent Capt. Nixon with a party of 50 men, in boats, to fire her, which he did without any loss, as the enemy's foot regiments would not face them. If 10,000 men had been landed at our first coming, it might have been done without opposition, but it is now too late, as they have now drawn down their horse guards to the shore, to save their men, should any more of their ships be put on shore. I retook from them a French vessel, laden with freestone, and sent her to Dover by the Hawk. I sent the President, Mermaid, and Red Horse pink to ride in the Flemish Road, but doubting they would not be sufficient, I called them back. Many of Charles Stuart's party are in Dunkirk, and animate them to fire on us from the coast. Two of their small frigates came out yesterday, and I have sent 3 after them, but they were clean and got away. I want some clean ships that could get alongside them. I take all the care I can, night and day, and the commanders and men are very ready and active. We want good sailing ships that could follow them to the sands.

I enclose an account of the State's ships off Dunkirk and Ostend, and particulars of their movements. I must have the Channel sounded; the pilots are afraid there is a middle ground grown up. Send me more ships, and I hope to block the enemy. Also the beer and anchor formerly demanded. Enclosing,

95. Capt. Wm. Whitehorne to the Admiralty Commissioners. The packet boat has come out from the Splinter, where she had been detained. They would not let any one go on shore, or come to me, and have imprisoned those that were cleared at Ostend, and will not suffer any to come near the ships; they have some design in hand. There are several men-of-war and fireships ready to come out of Dunkirk and Ostend, two carrying 30 and 32 guns each; I am much troubled because our ships are very foul. If I go to Ostend, the ships here will go westward; and if I draw off the other ships to block this place, those at Ostend would soon be out. If you would send 4 ships that are clean, I do not question but to be able to keep the enemy in; 2 or 3 clean ships should be sent to Capt. Sparling, that they may not force us to join. They give out that they do not care to fight us, as they shall very shortly be otherwise provided. The vessels chased by the Mermaid and Red Horse have 100 men each, and will do much damage unless taken. Particulars of ships. Capt. Sparling has taken a fishing boat with 6 men, and allowed one to go on shore to exchange prisoners, and if ordered, will capture all the fishing boats he can, so as to get an exchange of men. 95. 1. Order in a Council of War. Hearing that the enemy's force is such that if they join, and we cannot prevent them, they will ruin us at Ostend, we resolve that, unless we are strengthened with more ships before the 9th, we will repair to Ostend to secure those ships for the following reasons:—

1. That the enemy's greatest strength is at present at Ostend.

2. That they have many frigates northward, which daily come in, notwithstanding all diligence and endeavours to prevent them, their sailing being far better than ours, from their being clean and we foul.

96. Capt. Thos. Morris to the Admiralty Commissioners. When 10 leagues to the westward of Scilly, on the 4th inst., I chased and came up with 2 frigates, of 22 and 24 guns. I put the ship in order for fighting. One of them put out a red ancient, with a hand and sword upon it, and a Burgundian flag, and the other a like ancient. I consider them to have been Swart and his consort. We began to engage with them about 10 o'clock, and with the first broadside carried away the ancient of the one, and with the next the great maintopmast yard-sail and flag of the other. They tried to get the weather gage of us, board us, and overpower us with men, but we prevented them. We fought until 5 o'clock, when our powder and shot being exhausted, and our rigging damaged, we were forced to give them liberty to bear away, which they gladly accepted; but if I had had sufficient shot and ammunition, I should have either taken or sunk them. I lost 2 men, and had 2 or 3 slightly wounded. I have come in to recruit the ammunition. [1 page.]

99. Petition of Daniel Wise, prisoner at Haverfordwest, co. Pembroke, to the Protector.

When with Mr. Boddilow, gathering the excise at Wiston, co. Pembroke, 20 Oct. 1655, I had to distrain the goods of Thos. Davids for neglect of payment, and sent my servants to execute the distress, whom they beat, and when I came up, I found one lying almost dead. When they saw me they gave a shout, and cried, "There is the exciseman; kill him." They ran upon me, and I in self-defence struck with my hanger John Hugh but one blow, which, contrary to my intention, became mortal. Eleven witnesses can testify to the truth of this statement, whose depositions were returned to the Committee of Indemnity. I was imprisoned and tried at the next assizes, when my adversaries were my prosecutors, and was cast for my life, notwithstanding an injunction served on them not to prosecute at that assizes, but to appear in London before the Committee of Indemnity, on 3 May 1656, to shew cause why I should not be indemnified, which they did not obey.

The Major General, and some other honest men in the country, acquainted with my honest and civil carriage, petitioned the judges for a reprieve, which was granted till further order. Consider, I pray you—

- (1). How little hope good men can have of their lives, when their greatest enemies are prosecutors and witnesses.
 (2). The general hatred to excisemen in this country.
 (3). My distance of 200 miles from my wife and children, and my trial by Welshmen. (4). That hardly any will gather excise when country people have such a precedent as this will be, if I die for this thing. Pray send me beyond seas, or use me as you think fit, so as to save my life, and ease me of this sad imprisonment. [1 page.] Annexing, disapproval in a letter of January last to the Governor of the island, adding that, though unable to grant those proposals, they would be ready to consider any the inhabitants might wish to offer, should they be really for the good of the island.

This letter was communicated to you, and you disavowed the overtures that had been made.

Nevertheless De la Marsh and Haviland, in an address to his Highness, have further insisted on the same proposals, with such lack of the respect due that Council has determined to receive nothing more from them in the capacity of persons authorised by you, which his Highness and Council desire to signify to you, not doubting your fidelity to Government, and they will show their esteem in all ways requisite for your safety and encouragement. In proof thereof they have already resolved, in answer to your petition, to add to the quantity of wool and calfskins allowed by your charter to be transported hence custom free, and will regulate the same to your public advantage. The renewal of your charter is also under consideration, and anything else you may petition for rightly shall be acceded to or not as is found best for you. [Aug. 6.]

103. Petition of Wm. Hockley, one of the late overseers of hackney coachmen, to the Protector and Council. At the time of the Ordinance for regulating the company, Lopus, a victualler in Martin's in-the-Fields, kept a coach and 2 horses, driven by Rich. Edwards, his servant, to whom the following August he made over his coach, knowing that he should be questioned as being no coachman, and Edwards still drives it, though not admitted by the Lord Mayor and aldermen.

In Oct. 1654, Edwards asked me whether he could drive, and I said he could not unless admitted, when he said he cared not for the Ordinance, and threatened me, and I retorted, not conceiving him to be a soldier, as his wife is a Roman Catholic. I am sorry if thereby I am conceived to have uttered anything derogatory to Government, but Edwards complained of me in malice. [1 page.]

Aug. 7. 106. Petition of Edm. Harvey, Rob. Tichborne, and Mark Hildesley, and of Hildesley, as executor of Dan. Taylor, late Customs' Commissioners, to Council. In the Great Roll of the Pipe in the Exchequer, 57,722*l.* 5*s.* 10½*d.* is charged on them for the remainder of their account ended 24 June 1653. In their last accounts up to the end of their employment, 25 March 1656, they are charged with 23,000*l.*, and they have paid in 1,098*l.* 16*s.* 0½*d.* On 5 June last, on consideration of their proposals about the 22,000*l.* due, it was ordered that on payment of 10,000*l.* within a month, and security for payment of 12,000*l.* more at 3,000*l.* quarterly, the Pipe Roll should be discharged. In compensation for my ship taken to carry Irish to Spain, I was ordered ½ of my discoveries of concealed lands and goods, amounting to 1,600*l.* Now if 100*l.* is discovered I have to pay ⅓, being 20*l.* to the discoverer and 50*l.* to the State, so that I only receive 30*l.* I had almost as well sit down with my first loss of 1,600*l.*, besides 25 months' attendance, as spend time for such small profit. I beg alteration of the order, and grant of all the money I bring in, till the 1,600*l.* is paid. [1 page.]

Aug. 7. 108. Case of Armiger Warner as above, and request for either all paid in on his discoveries, or allowance for what he has to pay the discoverer, and ¼ of the State's part. He has had the order 10 months [see 5 Sept. 1655,] and cannot get any discovery on these terms. [⅔ page.]

Aug. 7. 110. Petition of James, Lord Ogilvy, to the Protector. Though I never acted against Government, whilst peaceably residing at my mansion house in Scotland, I was seized by a party of horse under Gen. Monk, and sent to the Tower in London, where I stayed a year, when the Council of Scotland allowed me liberty, on security not to depart the Commonwealth without their leave, which I have not yet obtained, though this is the 5th year of my restraint, to the utmost undoing of my fortune and family. I beg to taste the fruits due to my innocence and sufferings. With reference to Privy Council, 22 July 1655. [1 page.]

Aug. 7. Order that he have liberty to go for 3 months to Scotland, on security to Sir J. Berkstead not to act against his Highness or the State. [I. 77, p. 319.]

[Aug. 7.] 111. Petition of Thos. Sampson for the inhabitants of Sherborne, co. Dorset, to the Protector. I have rented this parsonage from you for 2½ years, and taken much pains to gather in the corn, but owing to the great plenty of corn, I have lost 132*l.*, and not had a peck for my own use.

For the last 2 years, since the death of Wm. Lyford, the town has been without preaching minister, and I have had to procure a weekly supply, but as there is no certain maintenance, I cannot get a settled minister. I served faithfully in person and estate through the wars, maintaining myself and 6 men, and raising several foot companies at my own charge, suffering loss, imprisonment, and banishment, and receiving nothing. I was a main instrument in suppressing the late insurrection in the West, and trained and maintained 40 men.

I beg allowance of the 132*l.* from the rent of the parsonage, allowance of 40*l.* charges in procuring a minister, and an augmentation, that a minister may be procured, and 5,000 souls not be left as sheep without a shepherd. [1 page.]

On your former order [see 14 Feb. 1656] I have attended 2 months with my accounts, and after much consultation and examination, the referees certify my demands at 5,638*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.*, but they have defalked 429*l.* 16*s.* for quarter, which I do not owe, having certified the Committee of Accounts that I had paid it, and they take off 232*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, said to be payable by Parliament, though I have never received it. As discoveries are long in making out and uncertain, and as my creditors will not wait, I beg 200*l.* or 300*l.* to supply my present wants and carry me to Ireland, and authority to the Lord Deputy and Council to set me out lands in Connaught or county Clare worth the whole 5,000*l.*, according to the rate for adventurers and soldiers, and I and my friends, being settled there, hope to improve the revenue and increase the value of the lands. 119. T. Ross to Nicholas. Yours came to me at Thouars, whither I went hoping to bring back young Mr. Stan[ley], whose mother wished me to take him into my care, but the Duchess is resolved to bring him with her a fortnight hence, in her passage to Court, to solicit the release of her son, the Prince of Taranto. I cannot now answer yours, nor write to Mrs. Bromwell,* having only just come from Orleans.

Thanks for the liberty you allow me both for a smoother current of the King's business and for communicating to Sir Edw. Hyde as well as yourself, but I cannot infringe the least article of trust from those who have strictly enjoined me that what they send should pass through your hands only to the King, and you know what an aversion Pile has to it.

I think Cooper (or Thornton), on some hint from Armorer, has written to Pile that he had not communicated freely to you, as had been desired. Pray satisfy both Cooper and Pile. It all arose from a mistake as to who Douse alias Cooper was.

I will write to Hyde if you can show me how I can do so and yet discharge my friends' injunction, though Hyde must think me inconstant, or seeking to gain preferment from him, if he has a voluntary offer from me, after I refused his pressing arguments at this place, and Seymour's at London. I would rather remain in this low sphere than rise by base compliance. I will tell Weston tomorrow that you have delivered his letter to the King.

In England there is much bustle about choosing Parliament men; some counties have chosen Bradshaw, Ludlow, Salloway, Harrison, and Rich, at which Cromwell is so incensed that he has ordered them to give bail to the Majors General of their counties. My wife is going to Dover to get a convenience for Mason to go to the Duke of York. I hear from young Musgrave, that Mrs. Benson† is become ward to a physician who lately applied to the Princess Royal to board with her, and one Bronkard, who is with her, and they are to go with her on her next journey, and be spies on the King's department.

P.S.—I think Blackman must mean Wildman. [2 pages; the italics are cyphers undecyphered.]

*Holyhead, and the others run on shore. The enemy took all the goods, money, and clothes, and then sent their masters on shore to obtain 50l. to redeem their vessels, which they procured from Mayor Swift, otherwise they would have burnt or sunk the ships. The Mayor, hearing that we had a frigate at Beaumaris, sent out after her, but it was like shutting the stable door after the steed was stolen. 121. Capt. Wm. Whitehorne to the Admiralty Commissioners. I hear from Capt. Sparling that the enemy is not so strong at Ostend as was reported. I would willingly invite them to fight our party, 6 ships, if I could, but it will awe them that we do not quit this place. Send the Yarmouth to Sparling with water and wood, and the Jersey to me, and when it and 2 others have arrived, I will so dispose of the fleet under my command that they cannot get out without our knowing; there must be 12 sail here, and 8 at Ostend, and in 4 months the rogues who have flocked hither will be gone. If this could have been done last April, the pirates might have burned their ships for anything that could be done with them.

I have sent the pilots with Capts. Fenn and Crapnell to sound the Flemish Road, and they are all against the Essex going in there, in regard of her length and draught of water; fourth-rate frigates are big enough for the service here. The taking of the enemies' fishing boats is not neglected, nor anything else to their prejudice. Those at Ostend will not release man for man for the fishermen. I send particulars of the stations of the fleet, how long each ship has been out, and what provisions they have. I want an anchor of 25 cwt. sent out. The weather is bad; I can get no intelligence from Dunkirk by the packet. I fear some subtle design, and our ships being near the town will be in danger from fire ships. When the ships arrive, we will spare a small vessel to keep in all the fisher boats that come out of Nieuport, which would prejudice them much. [1 page.]

Hugh Audley bought Sir P. Pres. Lawrence to the respective Majors General. His Highness and Council hearing that, notwithstanding the directions given you and the Commissioners on the 4th head of the order concerning the apprehending and disposing of dangerous persons, rogues, vagrants, &c., who follow no honest calling, there has been no result from the order, but rather an increase of such persons, and being sensible that were it carried into effect, it would conduce to the prevention of the many robberies and murders which are daily committed, they earnestly recommend you to arrest all such persons, and they have appointed a committee to treat with merchants to send them speedily out of the country.

You are therefore required to send speedily a list of such as you have already apprehended under the order, and to use great despatch in apprehending such as are still at large, and return their names to the said Committee, and convey them under charge of the army forces or new militia to such ports as shall be assigned by the said Committee, with whom you are to keep a correspondence. enemy, and wholly cut off their fishing trade. On the arrival of the Yarmouth I will give the command to Capt. Mackey. I have recalled 2 ships from the Flemish Roads, as the enemy have made many flourishes as if they would come out, but I suppose they are not all ready. Last Lord's Day they made many fires all along the coast of Flanders and fired a great many guns, but I do not know its meaning.

There are a great number of ships to come out next spring [tide], and I believe they intend to break through with all their great ships, quit the place, and go southerly. I cannot get any intelligence from the town. They keep a very strong guard of horse and foot all along the coast, and are so fearful of us that I cannot get a fishing boat, as they fish in the Splinter under command of the guns. The firing or sinking of any ships in the harbour would be to no purpose, as it ebbs dry, and they have a boom across the harbour, so that a boat cannot go near the ships. I think if 2 or 3 large old ships were sunk at the mouth of the Splinter to the westward, and close to the wooden fort, it would wholly spoil the place and much annoy them, but the year is too far spent. Small clean vessels would be of great use to keep in their fishing boats, and to follow the small men-of-war amongst the sands. The enemy have not done any mischief in coming in or out since I have been here, and I have done my best to hinder them. I believe if they could be kept in another month, many of their men would leave. Capt. Sparling will look after the Iceland fishermen. Let the Taunton and Dartmouth be hastened out. 133. Capt. Wm. Whitehorne to Robt. Blackborne. The enemy have kept very close ever since we have been here, and have strongly guarded their coasts, both with horse and foot, and it is their advantage that they can fight us when they please, and not before. I wish some course had been taken earlier, but the state of affairs would not permit. The enemy can get men no longer than they get purchase, which prevented, they would be soon gone. We have had very bad weather already, and as it is a very dangerous coast to ride upon, much care lies on me both by night and day. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

[Aug. 19.]

134. Petition of John Sanderson, Wm. Donne, Thos. Jackson, and Wm. Coape, for the hackney coachmen, to the Committee for Petitions. His Highness referred our former petition to his Privy Council, who have with much patience examined the abuses complained of, and suspended proceedings against us; yet this notwithstanding, several of us have been indicted, and on 11 Aug. Wm. Donne was put to 6*l.* expense, and others of us are threatened. We therefore beg speedy relief. 42 signatures. [1 page, copy.] Annexing,

II. Request that as the Lord Mayor and Aldermen have by law nothing to do with Westminster, the execution of the Ordinance may be suspended in Westminster till further order, and that the justices of peace at Westminster may see to the regulation of hackney coaches there. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

[Aug. 19.] 135. Statement, that the Ordinance orders all persons admitted as hackney coachmen to pay 40s. towards the company's stock on their admission, but that the overseers compel a payment of 50s. or 5*l.*, though some of themselves paid nothing, and most of them only paid lately. The Ordinance limits the number to 200, but there are 300, and many would not have set up had the overseers done their duty. They have also broken their oath to punish offenders without favour or displeasure. With numerous cases in which Treasurer Bray took bribes to wink at persons driving who did not belong to the company, and to admit them, which he has not yet done. Also cases in which the overseers spoke against the Protector and Government, and said they were resolved to keep out the Parliament soldiers. Also that they presented Sir Chris. Pack with a piece of plate to stand their friend. [ $3\frac{1}{2}$  sheets.]

Aug. 19. 136. Remonstrance of the present overseers of the hackney coachmen. The Protector and Council limited the number of coachmen within 6 miles of London and Westminster to 250, the coaches to 300, and the horses to 600, leaving their government to the Lord Mayor and Aldermen, who made by-laws, and obliged the overseers, on their oath, to keep them.

This notwithstanding, several tradespeople have set up coaches and horses to hire, and others, who were dismissed for neglect of the by-laws, have continued to drive, and by our endeavour to reduce them, we have causelessly incurred complaints and odium. We beg to specify the principal actors in this great disturbance, against whom we can prove charges of speaking against Government and other offences, viz.—

Wm. Donne, Thos. Jackson, and John Sanderson; also Rich. Locke, and many others who have had to give security to Maj.-Gen. Berkstead, as having been of the late King's party.

We have never received a penny of the complainants' money, their fines and compositions have been moderate, and paid to the use of the fellowship. We have acted entirely on the Ordinance and by-laws, nor have we arrested any since the cause was heard before Council, except such as have been indicted at common law for nuisances, though Donne has arrested one of our servants. The power of admission is not with us. Our opponents try to take the bread out of the mouths of the ancient coachmen, while we, by the annexed petition, prayed the Protector and Council to admit them by increasing the number of coachmen. We beg, however, that none may be allowed to drive unless bred thereto, and that to prevent future contests, the government of hackney coachmen may rest as first established. 8 signatures. [ $2\frac{1}{2}$  sheets.]

[Aug. 19.] 137. Report by the Committee of Council on the hackney coachmen. Having heard both sides, we find that the overseers have taken money on the promise of admittance from persons who have not been admitted, and have used great extremities against others, by arrest and seizure of coaches and horses, and therefore until the business can be settled, we think a letter should be written to the Lord Mayor and Aldermen to release those now in prison, and restore the coaches and horses seized, or the money for which they were sold, and to refrain from further prosecutions on the by-laws. Signed by Pickering and Strickland. [1 page.]

137. I. Note that Thos. Scott was committed by the overseers 9 Aug., and Wm. Osborne 11 Aug. Also that Rich. Smith's 2 horses, worth 25l., and Alex. Lindridge's and Mrs. Bartlett's coaches, with 2 horses, each worth 30l., have been taken from them by the overseers. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

137. II. Alex. Lindridge, a poor soldier, to Lord [Deputy] Fleetwood. I was wounded at Tredagh, and have served both in Scotland and England, and having no trade, I became a coachman, conceiving myself capable, on his Highness's Ordinance for Soldiers, to follow trades. But Benj. Fleming, one of the company, has taken away my coach and horses for working, so that without favour of Council, I and my wife and children will be utterly ruined. The case is now before Council. 4 Aug. 1656. [3 pages.]

Whitehall.

Pres. Lawrence to the Lord Mayor. Council find something in the by-laws for hackney coachmen that should be reformed, and therefore intend to revise them. Meantime you and the aldermen are to stay all prosecutions upon these laws till further order. As several complaints have been made to Council, by some that they have been unjustly prosecuted, by others that they have been rigorously dealt with on the said by-laws, and as some of these persons are in prison, and others have had coach and horses taken away, Council desires you to consider how such cases, in respect of their poverty, may be relieved, and to give orders accordingly. 138. Petition of Daniel Winn, mews-keeper, to the Protector. Has been at large expense in providing fire and candles for the Horse Guard in the Mews, and has not received any money for it since 21 May 1655. Has borrowed so much that he cannot tell where to borrow any more, and is in danger of arrest and imprisonment. Was put in by Lord Fleetwood's commission 5 years ago last April, and was paid first out of the contingent money of the army, and afterwards, was ordered to be paid by Mr. Frost. Has applied to many officers of the army for 9 months to get an order from Council to Mr. Frost, without success, and he and his family are put to great straits. Having his bills examined by Mr. Surveyor Embree, by appointment of Lord Lambert, begs speedy payment, an order for passing his accounts at the end of every quarter, and information where he is to receive his money. 141. Cor. Cooke to Col. Jones. Being unable to obtain access to you, I write to say that I am a creditor to the late King for 136*l.* for meat and drink. I had a warrant 4 years ago from the Trustees empowered by Parliament to pay, and was first in the list, but when the money came from Scotland, it was taken out of their hands. I have spent an alderman's estate in the service of Government. You say none are to be paid above 40*l.*, and I am not poor enough, yet I would give 1,000*l.* to change estates with some to whom you have paid 200*l.* You will have fewer friends if this be their reward. That on 19 Oct. 1651, Lieut.-Col. John Lilburne, Mr. Nodell, and others, committed a great riot, taking possession of Santoft church, and not allowing the minister to preach. That on 21 Jan. 1655-6, some of them broke in pieces the windows, doors, seats, and pulpit, and fired at some of the Dutchmen, and this is proved by depositions and confessions. 12 June 1656. His news was that the King of France was to match with the King of Spain's daughter, and to have all Flanders as her dower; that large promises are made to the Scottish King, and that the greater part of England, as also the fleet, are for him. As Capt. Seymour was going to the Downs, I sent him to the commander-in-chief there, to be further examined.

The enemy are daily gravating their ships. I have here, besides the Yarmouth, the Tiger, Mermaid, and Drake; we will do all we can to prevent their going in or coming out, but I wish another clean ship could be sent over, as it would be very advantageous to the service. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

His importunity with Mackey to begone,  $\frac{1}{2}$  an hour after he was aboard his ship, occasions a surmise for the worse, but I shall be civil to him. I send his letter to Sec. Thurloe. I received by post 4 blank papers with 10 printed libels, addressed to me and Captains Clarke, Whitehorne, and Eaton, which are so abusive and derisive to the present Government, of such a malignant tendency, and so liable to corrupt and disorder the minds of the seamen and others, if openly permitted, that I have sent them to you; and to secure their coming safe, I license the deputy-governor of Dover Castle and the mayor, White, to stay and open all post letters sent to seamen, that the authors and dispersers of such villainous pamphlets may be discovered, insurrections prevented, and the honour of his Highness vindicated. although there was a fair wind, and have this day come back with a storm of northerly wind. The Sapphire came in with a convoy from the Maas, and as many Hull and Newcastle ships were here laden with cloth and lead, that have long waited for a convoy, and much complained for want of one, I appointed her to see them over.

I send one of several letters arrived from Dunkirk and Ostend, by which it will be seen how prisoners break prison daily in England, and go over in the packet boats. Here is a list of prisoners from thence, sent to me to change our Yarmouth men, man for man, but for Capt. Welch, who was taken coming from the Straits, they demand a man of the same quality. 152. I. *Thos. Wilock to Jas. Cheney, Yarmouth. At my first coming to prison, by reason of my wound, I got leave to be at a friend's house, but 8 days since I was put into prison, and cannot get out till there be a general exchange, which the Commissioners of England and Flanders have been about, but have broken off. We have neither bed nor straw allowed, nor bread nor broth, so that I have to maintain myself. We are extremely abused by them, and meantime prisoners in England break prison, and come over 10 or 12 a week. But our prison is so strong that none can break out; so they get home, and we are left here, eaten up with lice. The Lords here see their prisoners come home so fast that they do not look after a general release. I have written to Jas. Johnson to ask that he and Major Burton would get me and 2 or 3 others clear by sending 2 or 3 prisoners from Yarmouth in our stead. A captain must be sent for me. I hope the magistrates will not be timorous in clearing a man without order from above. Those of Dover and other places do it for their friends and neighbours. 153. Capt. Rob. Clarke to the Admiralty Commissioners. I have just returned to the Downs. Dispatch of ships. On the 17th I heard of several vessels at Rotterdam and the Brill, bound for England, but kept in at the Brill by 2 Dunkirk sloops, so I sent 2 vessels in to fetch them, and lay off with the Sapphire, examining most vessels bound in, as to what they were. On the 21st we sailed. That morning a Dunkirk frigate came through our convoy, as they plyed off to us before day, and sailed northward; at 9 we espied 2 sail, but too far windward to overtake them. A Greenland man said he spoke with the Dunkirker that took the Cullen, but thought she would go for Dort.

Of the 2 vessels that lay at the Brill, one had a Scotch captain and an English lieutenant; when there, they put the Burgundian colours at topmasthead, the Scotch colours under, turned the wrong way, and the English colours under all, with the cross downward. Capt. Allgate told the burghers, and sent me word of the abuse, and I wrote to the governor of Brill, but the vessels sailed next day.

Several of their frigates are gone northward, and will do much spoil. The masters of the ships that came out with us, hearing we were off Gowrey, requested the burghers and lords at the Brill to stay the Dunkirkers which waited their motion, till they sailed out out to us, but were refused. The Wexford is a mere bauble, and money laid out on her is cast away. [1½ pages.] Enclosing,

153. I. Capt. Rob. Clarke so the burgomaster of Brill. I think it my duty to signify to you the great abuse offered to England by the Ostenders and Dunkirkers riding within your port, wearing English colours in a most disdainful manner, which abuse to the State of Holland would not be suffered in any port in England. I desire you will require a more civil carriage in your port. Had I seen the abuse, I would have ventured hanging but I would have made them sensible of their miscarriage. I hope that a fair correspondence may continue between the nations. The Unicorn, off the Muas, 20 Aug. 1656. [Copy, ¾ page.]

Accountant-General, and they jointly carried the account books and vouchers to Auditor Beale.

(4.) All orders for issuing money were directed by Parliament or the Navy Committee to the Commissioners jointly.

(5.) *Avery endeavoured with the rest to clear the accounts with Beale, till they combined against him, prosecuted him in the Exchequer, and have since detained the books and accounts, kept him in ignorance, and yet endeavoured to force him to account. The iniquity of their proceedings is shown by the bills, answers, and orders of the Court of Exchequer, for seizure of his person and estate, and his committal to the Fleet on a pretended contempt of court, when he constantly appeared and attended on summons; but his heart is well nigh broken by the discovery of the foul miscarriage of his ungracious son, on whom, upon his marriage in 1651, he settled most of his estate, and has since paid 3,000*l.* for his debts, and therefore he hopes his son will be made to pay the debt due to the State.*

(6.) *A year ago Avery presented a petition to your Highness for payment of 4,766*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.* owing 9 years, for which he still pays interest, and you referred it to Council, so that he hopes speedy favour, that he may serve the State.*

(7.) *Mrs. Huntly, a rich widow, has for many years detained 5,000*l.* due to his son in right of his wife, on pretence of a will made by Mr. Huntly, first husband of Dudley Avery's wife, which will has been questioned, and he begs examination of it.*

(8.) He often went to Auditor Beale to assist with the accounts, until the books were removed to the house of Chas. Lloyd, another Commissioner, and till he was sent to prison. [1 sheet.]

III. *Copy of the preceding petition, and of another to the Protector, begging release, discharge of bond, and stay of proceedings in the Exchequer, being attached by the Sheriffs of London to appear before the Barons next term, and having given bonds in 7,000*l.* to be a true prisoner. 156. Maj.-Gen. Thos. Kelsey to the Protector. At the Maidstone election, there was a sad spirit in the county against whatever good you have endeavoured to do. Most of the Cavaliers fell in with the Presbyterians against you and the Government, and the spirit is generally bitter against swordsmen, decimators, courtiers, &c., and most of those chosen to sit in the ensuing Parliament are of the same spirit. Therefore the Commissioners for securing the peace met to consider affairs, and would have written to you, but there was not a full meeting, therefore they requested me to tell you what was in our hearts, viz., that without some restraint we fear blood and confusion. The party give out that they will down with the Majors General, the decimators, and the new Militia. We think there should be commissions dormant to some gentlemen, that the honest party may know to whom to repair, and at our next meeting we will present you with names. We think a recognition may be so penned as to keep out those that are most dangerous, and better that they be kept out than you be forced to turn them out.

All who go into the House should be engaged not to meddle with the instrument of Government without your consent, nor yet with what has been done by you and Council, in order to the peace and safety of the nation. We will stand by you with life and fortune, but there is such perverseness in those chosen that, without resolution in you and Council to maintain the interest of God's people, which is to be preferred before 1,000 Parliaments, against all opposition, we shall return to our Egyptian taskmasters.

May the Lord direct your heart what to do in this juncture, and if Parliaments will not do it, to take such to your assistance as will stand by you in the work, which God will undoubtedly own and carry on, maugre all his enemies. Better perish in his work than look back, having put our hand to the plough. Though the murmurings of God's people, and our unsuitable walkings under the precious enjoyments we have from the Lord may provoke Him to leave us to be overcome by our enemies, and cause us to hang our harps on the willows, and the enemy to ask for one of the songs of Zion in a strange land, yet if the Lord take pleasure in us, He will carry us through the seas of blood that are threatened against us, and the howling wilderness of our difficulties, and bring us to that blessed haven of reformation endeavoured by us, and cause all our troubles to end in a happy rest and peace, when all His people shall be one, and His name one in all your dominions, which is my daily prayer. Hide, concerning the Jacob of Amsterdam, and her lading, which was stranded near Arundel, Sussex; whereby it appears great violence and disorders were committed by several people thereabouts, in plundering and detaining the ship's lading and spoiling the ship—that as such proceedings are unwarrantable, an additional cruelty in affliction, and dishonourable to the State, being acted on strangers in distress, all the papers be transmitted to the Admiralty Judges, who are specially recommended to take particular care of the case, and on learning the fact, and who have proceeded thus, to punish them according to law, and have justice done, and restitution made to those injured with all possible expedition. [Aug. 28.] Warrant [to the Attorney-General] to draw up a proclamation by the Protector, commanding all who have been in arms against the State to depart out of London, Westminster, and all places within 20 miles of the same, by 20 Sept. 1656, as follows:—

We,—foreseeing the dangerous consequences to the public, especially now Parliament is about to meet, of the freedom of access to London, Westminster, &c., of Malignants, who, notwithstanding their numerous disappointments through God's wonderful mercy in infatuating their counsels, and the great grace shewn them, continue to sow seeds of sedition, endeavouring to poison the hearts of the people, and raise rebellion, as appears by the books they boldly publish from time to time,—having advised with Council how to restrain their confluence,—Our will and pleasure is for you to prepare for our signature a bill containing a proclamation, enjoining all persons abiding in London and Westminster, not under restraint, who have borne arms against the State, or encouraged any in so doing, to depart out of London and Westminster before Sept. 12; or if under restraint, within 5 days of their enlargement, on their peril if they disobey, unless such be their place of residence with their families. And we command the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London and Westminster, &c., and our Justices of Peace for cos. Middlesex, Herts, Essex, Kent, and Surrey, and the Militia officers within the said cities, and in the boroughs of Southwark and the Tower Hamlets, to keep strict watch, make frequent search, and apprehend all such persons as aforesaid, whom they shall find, and certify their names, qualities, and particulars to Council, that they may be proceeded against as disturbers of the peace, and contemners of authority.

Also to command the sheriffs, bailiffs, constables, head boroughs, captains of guards, officers, and soldiers, &c., to assist in the execution of the same; and all persons appointed to depart as aforesaid shall depart at once to their places of abode or birth, unless they are ill and cannot travel without danger, or have suits-at-law which inevitably require their presence, and not return within 6 months from the date of this proclamation. Hereupon his Highness and Council have ordered the petition to be transmitted to you, to confer with the judges there herein, and to order suspension of all proceedings against the petitioners' estate till the justice of their case has been considered; and to certify the case to Council here, that if the debts are chargeable on the Duke's estate in Scotland, the creditors may apply thither. When I was on a visit to my relations, I used to have sea diet allowed for myself and servant, but the purser now detains it for himself. If stopped to me, it should return to its fountain, and not to crooked channels. I complain of no one, but I must trouble you in regard to the disproportion of my salary as Judge Advocate to what it was when fleets were smaller, and the trouble and hazard less. I had a common pay allowed till lately, but the Navy Commissioners have now refused to pass my tickets. I was always allowed a clerk, at common pay, to copy, and a servant for cabin attendance, but having only one at present, and intending the entertainment of another, I find it is not freely relished, so have desisted; but what with both, I shall be a loser of 24*l.* yearly, and cannot forbear remonstrating against the loss I am likely to sustain, after 11 years' service at sea, in the greatest extremities of times and danger, and not without loss of blood and fractures, which have so broken my body that ere long I shall probably be compelled to seek a haven in some hospital. 164. Petition of Wm. Astell to the Protector and Council. Abr. Jansen has put in scandalous lines against me, but do not credit him, for he speaks nothing but untruth. I would have vindicated myself by oath before Judge Godolphin, but he would not allow it. Jansen's solicitor, Tappum, is as bad as himself. Jansen so abused me to my landlady, to whom I owed rent, that she turned me out, and I have no home. When I first took the business in hand about these 3 silver ships, the Dutch said they had only 6 months to bring in their witnesses, but they have had 20, whilst 2 of our witnesses died between Jan. and Sept., before examination. The time from examination to publication was 1½ years, and the trial lasted about ½ a year, and then the ships were cleared, Jansen and his wife causing their loss, though my pains were not wanting. Leave me not in this languishing condition, for I have been the chief actor; my partner, Mr. Pembroke, left me 27 June 1653, and took up arms, and I have been at the whole charge of furthering the State's business. 23. Examination before Capt. Wm. Whitehorne, of Bart. John-son, of Bridlington, master of the Hope from Dunkirk. Was taken on his voyage home, and carried to Ostend, where he was confined 13 weeks, and then sent to Dunkirk, where he has been 3 weeks confined in an English house. While there, heard Capt. Bradshaw and others say that ere long they should blow these English ships away. Englishmen daily resorted to Dunkirk, including a Capt. Ogle, who dined on the packet boat; heard him state that 60 Englishmen of quality had landed at Rotterdam, and gone to the King of Scots at Bruges, and that 2,500 had enlisted under him at 6 stivers a day soldiers, and the officers at 12. Bradshaw is entertained as master of the Dart, and lately came from the King at Bruges with 400 men, and intends going to sea until their army is ready. He wears a dagger, and boasts it is the same as killed the English agent [Dorislaus] at the Hague. Ships are getting ready now.

Many other Englishmen repair to the King from all parts, and it is reported that great sums of money are daily sent to him from England, that he has great encouragement from the King of Spain and others, and a great store of seamen for the ships in preparation to come out, and hopes to have an army of 30,000 men in England within 3 months. Jas. Watson, of Hull, has been released by the King of Scots' order, and he has also sent to other prisoners that if they will take up arms for him, he will procure their enlargement; 35 have been removed from Dunkirk to the prison at Bruges, where they are very badly treated. Ogle is said to be coming over in the packet with his son William, a lad of 16. With suggestions by Capt. Wm. Whitehorne that if the packet boats were well watched, it might be known who sends money to Stuart. [1 page.]

Sept. 18. 31. Hum. Robinson to Williamson. Private affairs. Dr. Owen preached [before Parliament], and the Protector made a speech of almost 3 hours, which will be printed. We are like to continue enemies to Spain for his life, for he told them that the Spaniard had always been our enemy, and now has espoused the King of Scots' interest, and now he has 10 regiments at command, and Don John has promised 5 more. Of our Parliament men, 140 are excepted against, and not admitted the House. The secluded members have drawn up a remonstrance, asking the minds of those in the House, which is now under debate. Some think most of them will be admitted. They are about an Act that none of the [late] King's posterity shall inherit anything here. We are daily raising men, and fortifying all our seaports.

As to religion, he holds forth freedom for all judgments, and believes there are Godly men of each. He named only the Independents, Presbyterians, and Anabaptists. It is supposed that he has roused a party in the House, and that now we shall have some Acts to purpose. [1 page.]

VOL. CXXX.

The dealings of God with us have been wonderful, but great has been our ingratitude. The Lord might well say to us "Ephraim is joined to his idols, let him alone." We have deeply grieved Him in not mourning over our barrenness and profaneness; in not improving mercies, in neglecting to punish vice; in blasphemies, in want of Christian love; in not being sensible that in the late change of authorities, God has set up rulers who allowed the free exercise of religion; in a lukewarm and atheistical spirit; in a spirit of dissatisfaction. We ought to humble ourselves and pray that He will infatuate the counsels of those who are against His people; that He will be present with those who manage the affairs of these nations; that He would appear as the mighty counsellor; that He would grant us the unity of the spirit; and that these nations, being delivered from their enemies, may serve him without fear. Wherefore 30th October is to be a day of solemn humiliation and prayer, whereon all are to abstain from work or recreation, and no fairs or markets to be kept. Officers of justice to cause due observance, and all ministers to take notice. [5 pp., printed Coll. of Acts, Vol. 2. No. 96, Rec. Off. Library, 498, F.]

Sept. 25. 34. Petition of Sir Chr. Pack, governor, Charles Lloyd, deputy, and the merchant adventurers, to Council for a convoy for 2 ships laden with cloth, &c., to Hamburg, answerable to the danger of the enemy and the richness of their lading; to remain 14 days in the Elbe, and reconduct their vessels to the Thames, and for warrants of protection from impress. We applied to the Admiralty Commissioners, but find that course stopped by special order from you. [1 sheet.]

Pres. Lawrence to the Right Hon. Gen. Geo. Monk, commander-in-chief in Scotland. His Highness and Parliament have ordered a general fast for 30 Oct., for England, Scotland, and Ireland, whereof all ministers are to take notice. We send several copies of the Declaration, that they may be dispersed by your order to the several parishes and congregations in Scotland, which, with the most effectual way for publishing his Highness and the Parliament's resolution, is recommended to you, and a strict charge to be given for their diligent dispersion. Earl of Norwich to the King. Suffer me not, amongst my other invincible misfortunes, to be traduced to you, my sacred King and master, the joy and care of my life. I thus wander merely to change quarters for livelihood on trust, and to avoid the affronts of my creditors, and scorn of my old acquaintance. Meanwhile be not offended if, in discharge of my duty, I say positively that you cannot possibly arrive at the possession of your 3 kingdoms by the way you now only take. Private emissaries to particular persons, how powerful and willing soever, will never do your work; no, nor any power abroad neither, unless otherwise raised, quickened, and consorted with such as must second them when time shall serve. Pardon this presumption, and suspect not my fidelity. [Endorsed by Sec. Nicholas. 1 page. Flanders correspondence.]

37. Petition of the Governor and Company of Levant Merchants to the Protector. Roger Fowke was appointed by the ambassador at Constantinople to supply the place of the lately deceased consul at Cyprus till another was appointed. He has committed misdemeanours in engrossing the commodities of the country, and setting his own rates upon them, and in an unjust demand of 400*l.* salvage from the Hopewell, laden at Scanderoon for England, and forced on that island, and has imprisoned the master, and kept part of the lading till paid.

We have therefore appointed Mat. Lister consul, but we fear that Fowke will interrupt him, if permitted to remain there. We therefore beg your orders to Ambassador Bendish to remove Fowke from the island, and to Fowke to obey. [1 page.]

Levant Company to Sir Thos. Bendish. Roger Fowke, substituted by your lordship, but never approved by us, to manage the employment of Consul at Cyprus, has so provoked us by several injuries offered to such of our Company as have traded thither, that we could no longer omit to appoint some other person to negotiate in that place. Therefore at a late general court, we chose as consul there Mat. Lister, who is now coming to Constantinople for the requisite authority and commands. Fowke's actions lead us to suspect that he will not leave the island if he can secure his own stay. We desire you to use effectual means to remove him from power over that place, according to his Highness' orders, which Lister brings. [Levant Papers, Vol. IV, pp. 274-5.]

- Sept. ? 38. Petition of Anne, wife of Rich. Swayne, to the Council of State. There is a parcel of land in the inclosure of Shrewsbury Castle, belonging to her husband, now in his Highness' possession, for which she is to receive 4*l.* 17*s.* 4*d.* rent, but the rent is 2 years in arrear, and her husband prisoner for debt, and she has 8 small children and is expecting a 9th; begs that they will buy the fee simple of the land that she may pay the debts, and not be troubled to come any more to London. [3¼ pages.]
- Sept. ? 39. Note that she has a letter of attorney from her husband to sell the land, and has been waiting 10 weeks, and is ill of an ague and her children in sad condition at home, and that the inheritance is recorded in Mat. Lee's office. [Scrap.]
- Sept. ? 40. Wm. Maister, mayor of Hull, Thos. Raikes, and 6 other merchants of Hull, York, and Leeds, to the Admiralty Commissioners. We obtained leave from Col. Salmon, with much importunity, for the Preston frigate to convoy the Elsing, of Hull, laden 15 July last for Dordrecht, with cloth so valuable that it has paid 400*l.* subsidy, to Yarmouth Roads, to meet there the ships from London, which have not arrived; it is in danger both from wind and the enemy, and Major Burton is displeased with us for troubling him about a convoy, yet the cloth will spoil by long lying. We beg you will appoint us a sufficient convoy. 8 signatures. [1 page.]
- Sept. 41. Edw. Norris to Williamson, Saumur. You have acquitted yourself so well that I may use the saying, "Il ny a pas tant d'honneur à ne point faillir qu'il en a à s'accuser de la sorte." The watch shall be bought to-day, and I will send it the first opportunity. [1 page. French, damaged.]
- Sept. [Angers.] 42. Edw. Norris to Williamson, Saumur. I must learn to get up early and to use the horses of M. de Kechanchee, when I know the terms of a cavalier, about which the young gentlemen of Angers often treat—but that cannot be unless you send me 10 pistoles till my first bill of change comes. Salute Mr. Leigh and my other friends. [1 page. French—much damaged.]

Oct. 1. 44. Petition of Rich. Moore, on behalf of the merchants of York and Hull, to the Protector and Council, for a convoy for their ships to go to the Sound of Denmark, and to return with naval commodities.

Many merchants have before petitioned the Admiralty Commissioners [see 29 Feb. 1656], who say they have no power to appoint a convoy; 3 ships are lying in the Humber ready to sail and richly laden; the Preston frigate is in the harbour, and the season is far spent. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

Oct. 1. Order thereon that the Admiralty Commissioners be recommended to appoint a convoy, and to consider if the Preston frigate mentioned as in the harbour, be fit for that service, and if convenient, to appoint it. Approved in person. [I. 77, p. 413.]

Oct. 3.
London.

Levant Company to Spencer Bretton. In answer to yours of 19 May, 21 June, and 23 July, we are glad to hear that the late disturbances and the escape of Bogus have produced no worse effects, and that our debts are at last totally cleared. Although those concerned in lading the 3 last ships were somewhat more burdened by the leviation of  $1\frac{1}{2}$  dollars per cloth than they expected, yet we are content, hoping for future ease in trade by a freedom from leviations.

For settling our debts at home, we can devise no better means than we prescribed in our last, viz., the levying of an extraordinary consulage in Turkey on all goods in and out, to be paid by such as are not creditors to the account of such as are; and what exceeds our constant charge there to be invested in silk, and returned hither, consigned to the husband for the Company's account on 2 ships bound for that port.

We having suspended our Act for general shipping, allowing any ships observing the Company's orders to lade, you will receive from our husband a list of the goods here fairly entered; on the rest, which may have escaped our duties and brokes, levies are to be made as usual. On the ships now departing we desire more especial care, because on view of their entries, we find more interlopers' goods than usual, on which we pray you levy the broke, or at least the value of treble impost at 4s. 8d. the dollar, and double consulage in ready money for unfreemen, and the like of such as are freemen, and not creditors.

Since we presume these ordinary duties will more than suffice to bear our charge, we desire you not to reserve money in your hands, but as it comes in in cash, to send it here.

We approve your proceedings on your difference with the Dutch, which we consider a notable affront from them to our nation, and shall represent the same to our superiors here.

We have written several times to the ambassador to obtain the release of Geo. Davies, taken by the Turks from an English ship in service of the Venetians ; pray remind his Lordship, and use all means for accomplishing the same at his friends' expense.

In our next we shall intimate the Company's resolution concerning the Treasurer's expectation of allowance for consulage extraordinary ; meantime, let them not neglect their duty in collecting it. [Levant Papers, Vol. IV., p. 275-6.]

Levant Company to Jonathan Dawes. We have lately appointed as Consul as Cyprus Mat. Lister, who will take passage thence to Constantinople, to receive authority and commands. We pray you on demand to pay him 650 dollars, which we have promised him there.

By your letters of 11 May and 4 July, you seem content with the salary of 800 dollars a year, and we expect you will return what you have heretofore received above that sum, without waiting till you come to England.

As for the consulage of goods laden at Smyrna by order thence, although we acknowledge some prejudice in it in point of exchange, yet we cannot but hold it best that consulage be paid in the place where goods are first laden or landed, as has been the custom in all cases. For lessening our debts at home we have resolved on a consulage extraordinary, which you are to collect. His Lordship's letters of 8 May and 7 July are just to hand, which we will speedily answer. [Levant Papers, Vol. IV., p. 277.]

Levant Company to Sir Thos. Bendish. In answer to yours of 7 July, with a copy of that of 8 May, concerning Mr. Lawrence, we hope the accounts between him and Mr. Dawes, and all things else are long since accommodated, and himself discharged from attending there at so great charge to us, according to his Highness' order. We are content Dawes should remain treasurer at 800 dollars a year, but we have written to him to restore what he has had above that sum, and request you to order this accordingly, as we are only dissatisfied with the extravagant salary, and hope to find nothing amiss in his accounts.

We are glad that Aleppo was so soon eased of the siege by Sidee Achmet, and that we are so well freed from danger at Smyrna by Bogus' escape. We doubt not your endeavours to keep peace in all places, for the better collection of our duties, and carrying on our trade cheaply.

We learn from Aleppo of the unequal dealing of the new Vizier in his passage from Damascus ; the consul, failing to procure justice from him concerning the custom there paid on money, we hope you will find an opportunity to give a contradictory command to what he sentenced there.

We regret that you find such difficulty in the release of Geo. Davies, which you must still try to procure.

Being cleared of our debts abroad, we are taking means to extinguish those at home, and have ordered an extraordinary consulage, which we desire you to collect. [Levant Papers, Vol. IV., p. 277-8.]

Narrative of the success of the State's fleet against the King of Spain's West India fleet, compiled from the letters of the Generals.

7 Spanish ships, 4 men of war, and 3 merchants laden with gold, silver, pearl, &c., from the West Indies, came in 58 days near Cadiz, and having heard falsely from a Portugal prize that they took that the Spaniards had beaten the English from their coast, they came confidently into Cadiz.

Most of the English fleet had gone to Wyers Bay, Portugal, to recruit, but a squadron left of 6 or 7, under Capt. Stainer of the Speaker, saw the fleet on 8 Sept., and sailed out to attack it. The admiral, a small ship, with 600,000 pieces of eight, ran into Cadiz, where it is said she ran on shore and sank. The vice-admiral with money and jewels, &c., value 1,100,000 pieces of 8, was taken after 6 hours' fight, but fired by the Spaniards, and in her 110 men, including the marquis, his wife, and eldest daughter, were burnt. The rear-admiral was taken, and another ship, laden with sugar and plate was also taken, but burnt by accident; the small man-of-war escaped to Gibraltar.

The Spaniards say there is taken or lost to the value of 9 millions of pieces of eight, besides the ships and lading, and more than 440 prisoners, including the children of the Marquis and Don Diego de Villa Alva, governor of Havannah.

Thus the Lord has again appeared for us, and triumphed gloriously over the King of Spain, the enemy of religion; and this reasonable mercy came when the people were laid low in their own expectations. Therefore his Highness and Parliament appoint 8 Oct. as a day of thanksgiving in London and Westminster; and all ministers are to read this narrative in their congregations, the better to stir up the hearts of the people to praise the Lord. 47. Hum. Robinson to Williamson, Saumur. I hope you have received the 240 crowns. I have sent your letters. Private business.

You will have heard the news of taking the Spanish treasure, which came as the House was voting a war with Spain. That Act passed, also one annulling all right of Charles Stuart and his posterity to these territories; and one to establish the ministry for life in sequestrated livings. We shall have one for regulation of apparel, and many more, as soon as the rest of the summoned members appear. They are erecting high courts of justice here, and at Edinburgh and Dublin, for the safety of the Protector. We are also raising forces for Sweden, and sending supplies to Jamaica.

P.S.—What says your bookseller to his novelties? Selden's book is not finished. Dr. Molins Juxon has published a Latin book at 10s., against Amiralduis against Presbytery. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

49. T. Lamplugh to Williamson. Sir F. Norris sends you 50*l.*, and 5*l.* for his son's private purse; I rejoice that he uses his time so well. I hear you are for Germany. I am sorry your journey to Italy should be stopped. I wish you could get some insight into physic, without making it your profession, for both the college and this poor church need your endeavours. I will warrant you a fellowship at your return, but the provost wants you to take your M.A. degree as soon as you can; it will save you money to be admitted ad eundem at your return, but he will not dispense with your exercise; so be preparing your lectures at vacant hours. I have pumped the provost about his directions to you, but he is stoical, and will tell me no more than he told you. He would have you pitch, not on an ordinary subject, but on some point of philology. Dr. Owen is continued vice-chancellor for next year, and is to preach at the opening of next Parliament. We have no dean or divinity reader pitched upon. You should write to Tully and Barlow, and send some knick-knack to Hum. Robinson.

Wm. Wright is chosen mayor, whether he will or not, and Mr. Crook, a Parliament man. [1 page.]

I will not dispute about the fine of 1,166*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* set on me, yet all know that during the differences between the 2 nations, I was a child at school. I am quite unable to pay the fine, for my father sold a large part of his estate, most of the rest is rented by my mother, and what remains will hardly defray the interest of debts and assessments, and my father has left 5 children unprovided for, and this is the strict truth.
I beg you to consider my condition, my innocence, and my sufferings through aversion to the courses of those lately in arms in Scotland. I offer my person and estate to your disposal, and beg you to discharge that heavy fine. [1 page.]

consideration of the whole matter, and of certificates and reports thereon—

- (1.) That on the excepted persons whose estates are overcharged with debts paying a fine of 40,000*l.* into the Exchequer of Scotland, according to proportions to be settled by the Council in Scotland, in halves, the first by 25 March and the 2nd by 24 June next, the creditors shall be allowed to release their interest, and where the proprietor is deficient, transact for their own interest in the said estates.
- (2.) That thereupon the excepted persons shall be admitted to their estates, free from any incumbrance, and receive the rents from Martinmas 1656, if within 2 years they satisfy all debts with interest till Whitsuntide 1650, and do not further sell, alien, or incumber their estates, save to the use of the creditors.
- (3.) That as the donatives have fallen particularly on 2 estates, the Council in Scotland must call those concerned, and acquaint them with this disposition, and that they shall be satisfied for their said lands at the rate of 10 years' purchase.
- (4.) That if still they are unwilling to part with the land, on account of money and pains they have bestowed on it, a reasonable allowance shall be made them for the same.
- (5.) Nothing in this order to interfere with a grant of 600*l.* a year for life to the Countess of Lauderdale, and to her heirs by John, Earl of Lauderdale; nor with lands given to Lieut.-Gen. John Middleton.

42. Order that as the donative given by Parliament to Gen. Geo. Monk was on lands of the Duke of Hamilton, which Monk has sold, and given security to the purchaser for quiet enjoyment, the Council in Scotland forbear to proceed upon the foregoing order, until the excepted persons have secured Monk from any prejudice to himself or his securities.

The Army Committee did not know of this, and great quantities of petre came in, and was sold cheap, because of a restraint upon the export, on which the Admiralty Commissioners refused to take what I bought off my hands. It will not sell in England, because I and others have imported 600 tons this year, and ordered a great quantity for next year, therefore I beg licence to export it. [1 page.]

66. Rich. Bradshaw to the Admiralty Commissioners. Thanks for your good news, which I also heard of from Secretary Thurloe. I have sent notice of it to all parts, so that both friends and foes may know it. I trust such a signal and seasonable mercy, coming as a seal from Heaven in approbation of the unanimous vote of Parliament, will stop the mouths of such as scoffed at the undertaking of that war, and be an encouragement for the effectual carrying of it on by his Highness and the Parliament. Their good agreement is not the least of our mercies.

Though you seem satisfied that I have not been to blame about the powder and masts, yet I am troubled if those whom I employed neglected their duty so notoriously. I asked you in my last that a commission might be sent to examine into the frauds, and having been publicly traduced by the State's enemies, as false to my trust, I will use my utmost endeavours to search the business to the bottom, so that if the merchant here has played the knave, he may smart for it. I wonder at the badness of all the powder; it was bought in remote parts, there being none in the city, but the merchant who bought it was well-affected, and would not willingly buy bad powder. I hear that when it came in it was mixed with the store powder, so the fault may be in that at home, for  $\frac{1}{4}$  of what was bought here was sold at current price 3 years after, and no fault found with it.

I never before had any fault found with the masts, and am surprised that after the first two ship loads of powder and masts proved so bad, order should be sent to buy a greater quantity without any notice of the defects of the former. If a fraud has been committed at Hamburg, such a commission, if effectually prosecuted, would find it out. I hope you have ordered payment of my disbursements, they being all the advantage I have had in the business. [ $1\frac{1}{2}$  pages.]

As Dungeness, on the coast of Kent, is very dangerous—a long point of land running out into the sea—Wm. Bullock, I, and others, at request of many thousand merchants and mariners, and with consent of the Trinity House, have at excessive charge erected and maintained a light there 40 years. The Earl of Thanet, on a pretence of a title in law to the ground where the light stands, prosecutes us to destroy the works, which must ruin many mariners, for, expecting the light, they will fall on the sands for want of it. I beg that the public may be provided for, whatever becomes of my

84. Petition of the officers at arms to Parliament. For some years, and especially since the Parliamentary Committee for regulating the office of arms has ceased to sit, great abuses have been committed in the wearing of arms and erecting of monuments, and achievements and escutcheons have been used at the burial of executed malefactors, the continuance of which will destroy all the distinctions anciently used in this nation. Beg redress. With a note by — relating to the prosecution of Hancock, Browne, and Crowne at the Committee for Examinations, the searching and sequestering of me, my imprisonment, and after accusation in Barebones' Parliament, all from July 1643 to Sept. 1653, without intermission. [1½ pages. Endorsed with notes of grants from Rich. II. and Edw. III. of the temporalities of bishoprics.]

Ludovic Bray to the King. That you may not think my request unreasonable, I inform you that my grandmother's affection to the Queen of Scots was such that she persuaded my grandfather to mortgage Cottingham near Hull, worth 500*l.* a year, and the Queen had most of the money. Queen Elizabeth unjustly putting the Queen of Scots to death, my grandfather could not redeem the estate, and thus the estate of my father suffered; he came in servant to King James, then served your father and you, and died a prisoner for you. Milston Edges, in Derbyshire, and the rest of our estate, very ancient in our family, Parliament sold to Sir Edw. Leatch. My father had with my mother 5,000*l.*, which he spent at Court. I have not been wanting when I might promote your affairs. The year that Duke Hamilton came into England, 15,000 Kentish men came up near Greenwich; I was drinking Epsom waters for my health. Lord Fairfax was marching from Windsor to meet them with but 2,000 men, yet was reported to have 10,000 men well appointed. I knew this rumour would startle the Kentish men and send them home, and yet, had they beaten Fairfax so near London, they had set the King on his throne again. So though I was ill, I took horse to persuade them to keep together and fight, but met so many returning home that I could not pass. I rode to Rochester and told them how small Fairfax's force was to theirs, but they would not fight, so I said I could serve you better in Cambridgeshire, and I left them. The enemy pursued me, but having a good horse I got to the fens, got over by boat to Essex, and applied to Jas. Reynoldes, and engaged him to raise 500 men in 2 days. On his march to Cambridge, a party too strong for him dispersed him.

When I came to the Court at Richmond, I was learning to be a merchant, but my father told your father that if he would give him a place, with leave to resign it to me when you were created Prince of Wales, he would not make me a merchant. This the King promised, and ordered that I should wait on you meantime, so I

Levant Company to Roger Middleton. These are to give you notice that the Levant Company, out of their love and affection for you, and in hopes that you will fully answer their expectation, have chosen you consul at the Morea, and have, with the consent of your friends here, made several articles of agreement, answerable to those of your predecessors; one part whereof will be sent you, to be sealed, delivered, and witnessed there, which you are to do within 14 days of receipt thereof, and transmit hither to us on the first opportunity. For your effecting this, and your performance of the articles, your friends are obliged in 2,000*l.* penalty. 85. Edw. Norris to Williamson, Saumur. I have sent letters and a bill for you to Paris. I would not hazard a month more here, so buy me a trunk and send me 10 pistoles and all my clothes to the house where you lay, or any other you think convenient. I hope to be there on Friday. I doubt about Equide's (?) house, because his horses are ill managed. I had promised Mr. Gray, but Mr. Manchy is a mathematician and master of languages. I am glad you are to have Mr. Paget, yet at his age it is hazardous, for reproof galls, and yet I have heard nothing but good of him. My mother forbids me to think of Italy, but invites me to Paris, not knowing the expense. [1 page, noted answered Nov. 1.]

The last 3 days a partridge (?) has visited me at 7 a.m.; I thought at first that it was to accuse me of ingratitude to my mistress, for not having visited her since my arrival, but it was for Mr. Lowther and Whorwood; I must leave you to solve the enigma. service; I pressed a mare from John Normanton, senr., and he and his family forcibly detained her, with many blows, and now they bring an action of assault against me, and being themselves witnesses, have procured a verdict, and threaten to bring more suits, though I never struck one of them. The verdict was procured against the Judge's directions, by the malignity or weakness of the jury. I beg indemnity against Normanton and his family. With order thereon, 24 Sept. 1656, signed by the Protector, to Major Rich. Fincher and Capt. Wm. Thornhill to enquire into the case and compose it or certify, and their report that the defendants refuse to end the difference, or forbear proceedings at law, and should satisfy the petitioner for his wrongs, and that Normanton is a turbulent and contentious man. 26.* Order that the Ministers' Trustees be advised to settle on Ben. Taylor, minister at Willington, Sussex, 20*l.* 8*s.* rent reserved from the rectory there to the Dean and Chapter of Chichester, and supply the minister to whom they disposed that rent some other way.

27. Order on the petition of Col. Thos. Ceely—shewing that on a reference to Goldsmiths' Hall for his arrears and disbursements, there appeared due to him 4,500*l.*, of which he has received nothing, and that he has discovered lands in South Milton, Killigarth, Leigham, and Trelly, cos. Devon and Cornwall, belonging to his Highness, being extended for a debt owing by Sir Jas. Bagg to the late King, on report of which his Highness ordered him a 3 years' lease, to try the title, and recover possession—to advise a grant of the said lease, he paying in half the profits, until from the other half he is repaid the 4,500*l.*, with reasonable costs for the recovery. [I. 77, pp. 484–491.]

Nov. 13.] 103. Petition of Edm. Buryman, shipmaster, to Council. Had a reference from the Protector, allowing his arrears of 300*l.* for his faithful service out of any discovery made on his behalf. His friend has made a discovery, and the moneys are brought into the Exchequer, but his labour will be abortive without their order for a Privy Seal to recover the money, which he requests. With the Protector's reference alluded to, ordering him this 300*l.* beside the  $\frac{1}{2}$  allowed to discoverers; 30 Aug. 1656. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.] Also note of an order on the case (missing), 13 Nov. 1656. Annexing,

103. i. *Edm. Buryman to Sir Gilt. Pickering. Begs that his petition may be called for, and a Privy Seal granted for the 300*l., without which he cannot receive it. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

v. 13. 104. Petition of Elizabeth, widow of William, Duke of Hamilton, and Ann, Elizabeth, Mary, and Margaret, her daughters, to the Protector. On my marriage in 1639 with the Duke, then Lord Lanark, my portion of 10,000*l.*, and 10,000*l.* of the Duke's, were settled on trustees, till he conveyed lands to me and my issue. In Sept. 1649 he settled on me and my 4 daughters Kenneel and other lands in Scotland, value 800*l.* a year, and then the money was paid to the Duke. But the lands have been given to Gen. Geo. Monk, who has sold them at 11 years' purchase.

By the Act of Pardon for Scotland, you ordered us 400*l.* a year of land from forfeited estates, but we have received nothing. There is an order for taking off forfeitures in Scotland, on paying the donatives at 10 years' purchase, but the lands of Kenneel are exempted, on pretence that they are held at 30 years' purchase.

The lands were settled on us before any offence committed by the Duke, and we shall lose the 400*l.* a year intended us, through the Act taking off forfeitures. We therefore beg to compound for our estates in Scotland on the same terms as others, and that Monk's purchasers may be satisfied out of the general fine on estates, all of them paying their proportions towards the 10 years' purchase, and the overplus.

Thus the purchasers will not be injured, you will save 400*l.*, and we may raise something to preserve us from utter ruin. With reference thereon to Council 6 Nov. 1656. [1 page.] Annexing,

I. Case of the Duchess of Hamilton [see 11 Jan. and 12 April 1654], detailing the marriage settlements, on which James Maxwell, afterwards Earl of Dirleton, paid in 10,000*l.* himself, and 6,000*l.* the Earl of Lanark's money deposited with him, the house and goods being valued at 4,000*l.* more, and this money went to pay incumbrances on James Duke of Hamilton's estate. Requests of the petition repeated. The estates having been sequestered 5 years, she has had to borrow 5,000*l.* to live upon, and has neither a house to live in nor a bed to lie upon of her own. [1 page.]

Nov. 13. 105. Petition of Ann, Elizabeth, Mary, and Margaret, daughters of William, late Duke of Hamilton, to the Protector. Our father settled 10,000*l.* on us, having with monies obtained by contract of marriage paid part of the debts of James, Duke of Hamilton, his elder brother. But the lands being confiscated and no provision made for us, we must have starved, had not Anna, Duchess of Hamilton, who hardly had whereon to subsist, taken care of us. We hear of an intended discharge of forfeitures, but without your special goodness, it will not avail us, for our mother being married to another husband, cannot help us, as he rejects all such motions. We beg redress for present miseries and future ruin. With reference thereon to Council 6 Nov. 1656. Not signed. [1 page.]

Nov. 13. 106. Reference of both the petitions to the Committee of Council for the affairs of Scotland, to report. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page; also I. 77, p. 500.]

Nov. ? 107. Petition of Lady Anne, eldest daughter of the late Duke of Hamilton, to the said Committee. I dissent from the petition unwarrantably preferred in my name and my sisters unknown to us, and contrary to the petition of my most honoured and indulgent mother, to whom I submit myself and my fortune. I beg the disposal of my interest agreeably to my father's agreements with the Earl of Dirleton on marriage, and best suited to my mother's present condition. Signed. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

Fenwick on an Order of Council of 25 July, whereby it is proved that the election of a town clerk for Berwick was illegal, as several well-affected burgesses were not allowed to vote, but several officers, &c., of the late King's party admitted to vote; also that Ald. Step. Jackson had encouraged the disaffected to vote, saying it was but undergoing his Highness' displeasure—that the election is void, being contrary to the proclamation prohibiting delinquents to bear office, or to vote in the election of officers; also that a letter be written to the mayor and aldermen of Berwick to proceed to a new election, and to the Commissioners of Customs there to discharge Jackson from his office of collector for Berwick. Respited by the Protector 23 Dec.

110. Petition of the overseers of the hackney coachmen to Council. His Highness and Council restrained the number of coaches, and put them under the government of the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen, because they had so increased that they pestered the streets, caused tumults and bloodshed, and raised the prices of horses, horsemeat, leather, &c., and the rent of stabling.

On this the Court made by-laws; and to prevent loss to the supernumeraries, granted them 6 months' time for selling their coaches and horses, but they still continued their calling, and animated other traders to set up coaches. We proceeded against them, and got several verdicts by Lord Chief Justice Glynn and in the Sheriffs' Court, on which the offenders addressed the Protector; he referred them to you, and on 4 Sept. you ordered stay of our proceedings, pending a revision of the by-laws. On this they say that they have made void the by-laws, and they have arrested our officers, and threaten our ruin by vexatious suits. We entreat you to revise and settle the by-laws, lest our fellowship be dissolved. Signed G. King, clerk of the fellowship. [1 page.] Annexing,

111. Petition of the overseers of the fellowship of hackney coachmen to the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen. On a petition to his Highness of the supernumerary hackney coachmen, Council appointed a committee to hear them, and desired your Court to consider how those who considered themselves aggrieved might be relieved. On a full hearing of parties on 24 Sept., you sent an answer, for which, though we solicit and attend daily, we cannot obtain a hearing, so that the supernumerary coaches have increased to more than 100, the streets are daily more annoyed, and the shopkeepers much aggrieved; some of us are arrested, and one of our beadles cast into prison on actions for 1,700l. by these refractory persons. We beg your intercession to Council, that the letter may be read and the by-laws speedily settled. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.] Annexing,

111. i. *The Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen to Council. We have heard at large the complaints of the coachmen about the suits brought against them, and the answers of the overseers, who have not exceeded the Ordinance and by-laws, whereby they were bound by oath to bring offenders to punishment. Therefore we could only persuade the overseers to remit the penalties recovered, or part of them, but this they are unable to do, as they are answerable to the stock of the fellowship for them. 24 Sept. 1656. 112. Petition of Edw. Pelling and John Moore, searchers at Gravesend, to the Protector. On your order of 5 Jan. 1654-55, we seized 2,060*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* gold coin, which was being exported without license, and prosecuted a recovery in the Exchequer, and on a full hearing, a verdict passed for your Highness in Trinity term 1656. In Michaelmas term, Jas. Wright, the merchant who claimed the gold, on some informality, obtained an order for a new trial by a Kent jury. This was had, and contrary to clear evidence, a verdict was given for the defendants, as might be expected from jurors many of whom are guilty of like offences. We were preparing an appeal, when the Commissioners of Customs, on an injunction of the Court, delivered up the gold.

We spent on this business 200*l.*, chiefly borrowed, and have petitioned the Treasury Commissioners for our charges, but in vain. We are now in suit in the Exchequer for 1,189*l.* 6*s.* in gold, seized on a ship bound for the East Indies. We beg allowance of our expenses from this last seizure. [1 sheet.] Annexing,

116. Navy Commissioners to the Admiralty Commissioners. More workmen are wanted for the ships at Chatham. Major Burton says you have bought of him some cordage which is to come from Holland; we hope that you have made a proviso about its goodness, as there is deceit and bad performance there as elsewhere. It should be ordered to Deptford. We have ordered 2 cables and a coil for shrouds for each ship; also a main, fore, and topsail for each, but want 20 bales of canvas to finish them, and we cannot buy it except at extreme high prices and for present payment, our credit being not a little questioned, because we have not fulfilled our promises. The stores are so empty that you would find the inconvenience, if there were any call more than ordinary. We would not grasp at the public purse, except it be to the interest of the State. 117. Petition of Wm. Cockayne for the East India Company, and 15 other merchants of London, to Council. On 21 Sept. 1654, you and his Highness appointed the Committee for Preservation of Customs and Redemption of Captives to give their warrant to the Customs' Commissioners to pay 5,382*l.* 9*s.* 11*d.* due to petitioners for advances at Merchant Tailors' Hall, on an Ordinance of Parliament for redemption of captives at Algiers, in part whereof they paid 1,000*l.* to David Offley, our appointed treasurer. By reason of alterations in the Commissioners for Customs, &c., the said Committee cannot now grant their warrant for the balance of 4,382*l.* 9*s.* 11*d.*

Beg an order for its payment, any Act or order for weekly payments of all money into the Exchequer notwithstanding. [1 sheet; 16 signatures.] Annexing,

137. Petition of 12 merchants of London trading to the Levant, and free of that Company, to the Protector. Roger Fowke, merchant and consul in Cyprus, has much money and many goods of ours in his hands, besides his own goods and debts in the island. He is not guilty of the misdemeanour complained of in the petition of the Levant Company [see 29 Sept. 1656], nor has he set rates on other goods than his own, and that only at the price current, the buyer being at liberty to take or leave. He demanded no more from the master of the Hopewell than he really disbursed, and his duties in protecting the ship, value 15,000*l.*, from the insolent Turks, who would have seized it as a shipwreck. He has suffered imprisonment, and been at charge to maintain the trade of the island, has served the State's ships sent for convoys with provisions, and spent his own money for their port-charges, as Cpts. Badiley and Appleton can testify. He was also forced to disburse 3,000*l.* towards the debts contracted by the Levant Company's former consul, which are not yet repaid by the Company. We beg examination of the case by honest persons, and meanwhile the revoking of all orders for his removal or banishment, that he may not be ruined by his enemies, unheard. 12 signatures. With reference to Strickland and Sydenham, 18 Nov. 1656; their appointment of Thursday next for hearing all parties concerned, 24 Nov.; and for another hearing Monday next, 28 Nov. [1 sheet.]

[Nov.]

138. Report thereon by Sydenham and Strickland to the Protector. We find that on complaint of the Levant Company, you appointed Martin Lister consul at Cyprus, and ordered Ambassador Bendish to remove Mr. Fowke from the island, which removal is the only thing in question. The Company say that he has engrossed and adulterated cotton, the principal commodity there, and taken consulage twice from the Hopewell, to the value of 1,440 pieces of 8. They fear that he will disturb the succeeding consul, because he pretends a debt of 3,000*l.* of the former consul, which they deny, or if it be true, they say it is determinable before the English ambassador at Constantinople.

The petitioners deny the engrossing and adulterating, and say the charge for the Hopewell was only for its salvage, and is owing to Fowke, and if he is removed, it will much injure them, as he has 14,000*l.* property of theirs in his hands.

VOL. CXXX.

The expedient proposed by the governor is that Fowke should remain, on security to be peaceable towards all English, and especially Mr. Lister, and then the Company will not oppose his remaining, but this security the petitioners refuse to give, alleging that they cannot hazard more, he having so much of their estate in his hands.

Only if the Company will undertake the repayment of the 3,000*l.* they will promise that he shall live peaceably. [2 pages.]

138. III. Examinations of John Harris, of Redriff, Surrey, and other officers of the Hopewell, on interrogatories of John Green and company, that Fowke preserved their goods from seizure by the Turks, but seized some in payment of the 1,800 dollars, until which was done he kept 4 of them prisoners in his house, under the custody of janizaries. 12 June 1656. [9 pages.]

138. IV. Deposition of And. Ellam, merchant of London, to the good conduct of Fowke in preserving the said ship from seizure by the Turks as a wreck. Also that 4,000 sacks of cotton is the yearly produce of Cyprus, and Fowke never had more than 300 at a time in his hands. That he never engrossed commodities nor hindered trade, and that he was several times imprisoned by the Bashaw for the debts of the late consul. Deposed before Wm. Harrington, Master in Chancery, 29 Sept. 1656. [1 page.]

138. V. *Like deposition by John Harris and Sam. Randall, of the Hopewell, that the Bashaw came down with 300 or 400 soldiers to take the ship as a wreck, but Fowke defended it therefrom, and also from payment of custom, which the Turks would have forced; that he had to give presents, which with his consul's duties came to 1,800 dollars, and that but for him the ship, worth 15,000*l.*, would have been seized. 14 Oct. 1656. I am sorry you should have so ill fortune with me, but the past cannot be recalled. I hope the comfort you will have with Mr. Leigh will supply the vexation you have had with me. You had ground to write to our parents, but I hope your goodness has overweighed justice. Devilish inducements have often power for a time over the best natures. I have bought my experience dear, and it will be an antidote in future. Send me an answer by Mr. Marsh. You should not come, as they will have an eye on you. I am clear of all here except 10 crowns, which I owe to my landlady. You are my only prop. If you would give me money for 2 months, it would be a great obligation, and I would return it. Also send my accounts, and something about our voyage. I have neglected it hitherto, but now I will write it out.

P.S.—Pray give the servants something for me. A plaguy rumour will arise, but necessity must be preferred before a little discredit. [1 page.]

4. Note that 235 hackney coaches and pairs of horses are wrought in and about London more than allowed by his Highness' Ordinance, of which 50 have been set up since Council's order to stay all proceedings on the by-laws, besides many not yet discovered and brought into the list, and others daily setting up, encouraged by the stay of proceedings. [½ page.]

Dec. 2.

Order thereon in Council, that the suspension of proceedings on the by-laws touching hackney coachmen, ordered 19 Aug. last, be taken off, and the Lord Mayor and Aldermen consider the ordinances for their regulation, the by-laws, and the complaints of the persons aggrieved thereby, redress them, revise the said by-laws, offer to Council what they think fit to reform their severity, consider who are now overseers, take care that only honest and faithful persons be overseers, and put out such as are otherwise. In the number of coachmen to be allowed, special regard is to be taken of such as are well affected, and the business to be so regulated that there be no just cause of complaint, and no prosecution of any for offences against the by-laws since 19 Aug., when proceedings thereon were suspended. 7. Petition of the inhabitants of Leeds, co. York, to the Protector. We bless the Lord that His hand has been your guardian in all your undertakings for the governing of this Commonwealth, and will do our best for your preservation.

In 2 Charles, we were made a corporation, with 1 alderman, 9 burgesses, and 20 assistants, but the patent was procured without a general consent of the clothiers and inhabitants, and there were defects which have caused many vexations and evils. To appease this, it was agreed that the old charter should be surrendered, and there should be a new patent requested, for a mayor, 12 aldermen, and 30 common councilmen. This was done in 1642, when the King was at Nottingham, and the wars began. Then the present governors revived the said government, and there has been much oppression and illegality, unjust by-laws, oppressing the clothiers, and unlawful taxes, imprisoning, and taking of goods. We therefore beg a new charter of incorporation, with a mayor, 12 aldermen, and 30 common councilmen, to be indifferently chosen, with power to elect a burgess to sit in Parliament. With reference to Council, 1 Dec. 1656. [1 sheet, and 10 sheets of signatures, a large proportion being by mark.]

Dec. 2. Order thereon for incorporation as desired, Mr. Shepard and the other Commissioners for Charters to consider of fit powers and privileges, prepare a draft, and present it to Council. Approved in person. [L. 77, p. 539.]

3. The report from the Treasury Commissioners on the petition of Wm. Paul, farmer of the prize of wines, under Sir Wm. Waller, and the papers annexed, referred to Desborow, Jones, the Lord Deputy, and Pickering; Mr. Secretary to assist.

4.* Order—on petition of the inhabitants of Cheshunt, co. Herts, that the profits arising from the small tithes due to the vicarage there are only worth 30*l.* a year (beside 57*l.* given by King James for the tithes of Theobald Park), and being scattered in 26 fee-farm rents through Essex and Herts they are not worth more than 40*l.* a year on account of the public taxes, and the charge of gathering them, and that the whole 70*l.* a year is not a competent maintenance for their minister, John Yeates, a Godly and able preacher—that the Trustees for Maintenance of Ministers be recommended to settle an augmentation of 50*l.* per annum on him.

5.* Approval of an order by the Trustees for Maintenance of Ministers of the continuance to Jas. Wyer, present minister of Doddington, co. Oxon, of an augmentation granted by the Committee for reformation of the Universities of 80*l.* to Nath. Partridge, minister, who is removed.

M. M. Vernatt to [Sec. Thurloe?]. C. St. [Charles Stuart], with his sister of Orange, came hither on Thursday in a coach with 6 horses, but a poor retinue. He is lodged in a house of Duke of Bournanville, at his own charge, for what I can hear. She came to further a suit about some lands belonging to her son. He I know not for what, except to keep her company or press something that concerned him with Duke John, but how welcome may appear by Duke John's going to Ternuerne, a house 6 miles off, at the news of his coming, to avoid obligations to use him with ceremony. He is not overlaid with visits; I never yet saw a coach at his door, and his levies improve not; they say it is because all imaginable course is taken in France to hinder more from coming, but they expect more next year, when armies draw out into the fields. Lowther.

22. Elizabeth, Lady Lowther, to Williamson. Our great distance from London, and my brother's unsettledness there must excuse delay in our letters. You press our resolution about my son Tom's exhibition whilst beyond seas with you. I have a great opinion of your ability and temper, and wish him to be with you, and any reasonable demand you made for your salary as his governor we should not have disputed; but by your general demand of 250*l.* a year for him and yourself, we think you conceive his future estate more ample than it is; for at present it is so charged with jointures, and overrun with debts that it will hardly bear the sum you name, nor should I desire him to be bred highly, the moderate course being more likely to advance his studies. I have known more gentlemen return home "absolute in judgment and knowledge" who spent under 200*l.* a year, than those that spent double that sum. An overplus leads to vanity and flattery; but I hope your judgment will help him to avoid those rocks and others. He should not desire what would contract his future freedom. He can live more handsomely in France than here till we arrange his final settlement. Whilst he is at Sanmur I hope 200*l.* a year will cover all expenses, with more when you remove; but if you insist on the 250*l.*, I will try to get my brother's assent, only you must expect no more when you travel, I am glad you give him so good a character; thanks for your love and care of him. [1½ pages.]

Dec. 11. 23. Petition of Hen. Hayhurst, physician to the army late under Ferdinando, Lord Fairfax, to the Protector. I served from 24 Oct. 1642 to 23 Jan. 1645-6, and laid out large sums for physic, but when Hamilton came into Lancashire with the Scots, they burnt all my accounts, and threatened to burn my house. I went soon after to serve in Ireland, but a friend with whom I left my affidavits neglected to get my accounts stated. Lord Thos. Fairfax requested the Army Committee to state them, but they said they were forbidden to do it until the army then in being was satisfied.

I beg an order to the Committee for soldiers at Worcester House to state my accounts, and to the Committee for Accounts of the soldiery in Ireland to allow of them, and give out debentures, that I may be paid from rebels' lands in Ireland. With reference to Privy Council, 27 Nov. 1656. [1 page.]

Codd, Walsh, Williams, and Marks, the surgeon. The few that remain are of little esteem, the major part being poor soldiers.

If the Commissioners will grant an exchange, it will be a great comfort to the prisoners of both sides, and give me liberty to go on parole to Biscay, to set at liberty Wm. Cooke, Thos. Templeman, Chas. Yeo, or John Cutt. If I fail, I will return to the prison at Exeter, on the word of a Christian and a soldier. Last year I procured liberty to Cpts. Country and Stafford, on my parole, which I have never broken.

32. Thos. Barret to [Sec. Thurloe]. Though I am almost useless by my present privacy, yet I am diligent for you. I went to Suffolk to see an acquaintance of the old party, to try if I could sift anything, as it borders on their most eminent coast for designs from abroad, but none have any thought of a plot, but expect what [Charles Stuart] can do by open force.

Lately discontented expressions fell from a Presbyterian M.P. who was not permitted to sit in the House. I think his name is Shuttleworth. He advised a cousin to lay in arms and horses, and be in readiness.

There has been a great private meeting of Presbyterian parsons, and gentlemen, where this M.P. was present, but since the proclamation, all [Charles Stuart's] agents are dispersed, so until that is expired, I shall be unable to serve you.

That you may see how really I deal, I send you part of your doctor's letter, just received, also the enclosed from the old messenger, which I have marked with the true names. I beg instructions from time to time. I will advise you of whatever comes over or stirs among them, and return to service when the proclamation is expired.

P.S.—I send you one of the libels dispersed in the country, which do no great good, nor much harm. [2 pages.]

33. Capt. Jo. Topping to the Admiralty Commissioners. I am sorry to give so much trouble about the release of Wm. Clerke, but I am much importuned by his friends, he being in a sad condition. Pray order the release of Brookes, late quarter-master to Capt. Tyssen, who is in the custody of the bailiffs of Scarborough, and I will see that Clerke has his liberty first. There is here a Mrs. Fenwick, widow of Capt. Fenwick, who first kept Tynemouth Castle against Parliament. Upon Sir Thos. Liddell's being appointed governor by the late King, the Earl of Newcastle gave Capt. Fenwick a command in his army, and he was slain in Yorkshire. When the Scots took the Castle, Mrs. Fenwick was turned out, and the profits of the sea lights on the tower, which is 4*d.* for every ship that anchors in the river, were enjoyed by Col. Geo. Fenwick and Capt. Blount, the successive governors, and then came to Mrs. Fenwick again. As she continues as cavalierly and malignant as ever, I am much blamed for continuing to her the profits of the sea lights. I beg your directions therein. [1 page.]

Dec. 16. 34. Petition of Rich. Parry, gentleman, of Llandedr, co. Denbigh, to the Protector. Living in the quarters of the late King, I was drawn by youth and indiscretion to join his party, and therefore doubt my freedom to practice as clerk or attorney—my only means of subsistence. But laying hold of the indulgence of your late declaration for real converts, I present certificates of my demeanour, and beg leave to exercise my profession. [1 page.] Annexing,

You have given other pensioners warrants to be paid from the Exchequer for their greater security, and I beg the same, and also a warrant for my arrears. [Dec. 16.] 36. Petition of the colonels and other officers of the brigade of foot raised in co. Chester for the late engagement at Worcester, to Maj.-Gen. Lambert. Their case, as to their 2 months' pay for the said engagement, and their arrears for former service, was presented to the Speaker of the last Parliament, by the Protector's letter of 21 Oct. last, and the security intended for the present army requested for the petitioners; but as many of their friends were discontinued from Parliament, nothing was done before the resignation of their power to his Highness, who has since referred the case to his great Council, and the Lord President has ordered the petition to be entered. There are 4 forests reserved in the Act for sale, as security for the army. Also the treasurers of co. Herts are to pay in arrears of the monthly assessment of that county to the Army Treasurers before 10 April next. Beg a hearing of their petition, payment of the 2 months' pay, and their arrears, from the said forests, and from the arrears of the said assessments. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.] Annexing,

7. The report on the petition of Capt. Peter Whitty, citizen of London, shewing his faithful services by sea and land, for which he is in arrear a considerable amount, and that his uncle, Rich. Whitty, was seized in fee of the Manor House of Ballitege and 1,000 acres belonging, whereof, although he is blind, impotent, and 75 years old, he is dispossessed, though he was never in arms—referred to the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland, to grant the petitioner a lease of the said manor house and lands, according to the rules in the commission now to be offered to his Highness, authorizing the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland to let leases of lands in Ireland; and if they find any equity in the petitioner's case, to consider it in the rent, and the Lord Deputy to be written to accordingly. Approved 23 Dec.

9. Order on a report from the Admiralty Commissioners, with an extract of a letter from Capt. Mackey, commander of the Yarmouth frigate, come lately from Bordeaux, with several ships under his charge—relating the hard usage of the English merchants by the Governor of Blay Castle, in extorting several sums from the masters of English ships, besides imprisoning their persons on pretence of their not saluting the Castle, or not doing it in the right place, contrary to the capitulations of the peace—that the extract be delivered to Mr. Secretary, to speak to the French Ambassador about the matter.

10. A report from the Committee on a paper from the Commissioners for managing estates under sequestration, concerning the salaries of themselves and officers from 25 March 1655 to 24 June 1656, and a list of the said Commissioners, their officers and salaries, referred to the Treasury Commissioners, to speak with the said Commissioners concerning the time of their actual employment and that of their officers, and see what different consideration in point of time or salary may be had as to any of them, and report.

He is an old Cavalier, and an imperious, impudent fellow. What shall I do with him? He is of too malignant a spirit to abide here.

I have sent 2 ships to convoy vessels for the north, and in their return, to annoy the enemy's men-of-war infesting those parts. [1½ pages.] Enclosing,

42. 1. Examination of Cornelius Van Leen, master of the Samaritan of Flushing, brought in by Capt. Parker from Dunkirk. While there, 3 prizes were brought in, 2 laden with coals from the northward, and the other with sugar and tobacco from Barbadoes. There is a great ship of 50 guns ready to be launched this spring [tide], and another of 24 guns upon the stocks. The Hamburger hoy with 200 Scots arrived at Dunkirk from the Downs 14 days since, the Scots having stabbed their captain, and forced the master to carry them thither ; they were well entertained there, and 6 days since set forward towards Charles Stuart's party at Bruges. That party were so uncivil to the people of the town, that they were told if they were not soon quiet, it would be the worse for them. [1 page.]

I have heard from Biscay that Mr. Sommers escaped three days before my letter and the copy of the order arrived, and 3 months before those on the other side promised Sommers he should be liberated in exchange for me. He sent the promise to London to his wife, and by her soliciting, the Admiralty Commissioners ordered the exchange, it being agreed upon on both sides; there being no irregularity on my part, I think the Commissioners should order my liberty. Sommers would in 3 days have been set at liberty by exchange, and thus saved expense. I crave justice and performance of the Commissioners' order. [1 page.]

Levant Company to Spencer Bretton, consul at Smyrna. We are sorry for the tartness of yours of 29 Sept., which being so peremptory, and you seeming so indifferent whether you continue there or not, unless on your own terms, the Court was much inclined to ease you, but for the interposition of those who stood bound for you, and who have renewed their engagement for your conformity with us, according to the former agreement. We refer you to the enclosed general letter, praying you to see the particulars executed, especially the despatch away of Mr. Lawrence, the prohibition to lade fruit and corn, or allow any licence for doing so, and a more exact collection of our own and strangers' consulage; the want thereof causes you not to be supplied with money to defray your occasions. at Smyrna and intimation to you. We hope the matter is settled ere now, that we may be able to give a good account thereof to his Highness; but if not, we pray you quickly satisfy the 155 dollars due, and see that he gives the Treasurer at Constantinople such vests as he formerly provided on our account, and receives for them 400 dollars, rather than cause further delay. In case of further demand by reason of his longer stay, satisfy him according to his Highness' letter in his hands, but on the easiest possible terms, and with a discharge from him on behalf of the company.

On hearing from Smyrna that the Prosperous is laden with several tons of fruit, which, as a prohibited commodity, may expose us to great danger, we have resolved totally to prohibit the lading of fruit, cute, and corn, and desire you to see that no licences are granted for lading such, and to hinder any attempting a practice so dangerous to the trade.

We desire you to continue your endeavours for the release of Geo. Davis, so long a captive with the Grand Seigneur, whose friends here frequently solicit us.

Hen. Page having disbursed 1,500 dollars there on the Company's occasions, which, with interest amounting in all to 1,740, he now demands as his due, we desire you to have his account proved in Mr. Gough's books, and let us know whether he be a creditor or not, and if he has not had the money allowed in some other way. It is brought to our credit in 1646, and we wonder that we have heard nothing of it in so many years. [Levant Papers, Vol. IV., pp. 280-1.]

Levant Company to Rich. Lawrence, Constantinople. We are sorry to hear, by yours of Sep. 23, that our letter to Smyrna about your affairs was so little regarded, and hope that by now the matter is settled, and you are returning homewards; yet to prevent the worst, we have expressed both to Smyrna and Constantinople our sense of their disesteem, not only of our own, but of his Highness' interest, with positive order for your speedy satisfaction, it being much against our will that you are detained, and little to their credit who are cause thereof. [Levant Papers, Vol. IV., p. 281.]

Levant Company to the consul, treasurer, and factory at Smyrna. Rich. Lawrence having so long remained there at our charge, we were confident there would be no obstacle to his removal, on receipt of his Highness' letter of revocation, and our positive order for satisfaction of his dues, sent both to his Lordship at Constantinople, and to the treasurer at Smyrna. Your lack of compliance troubles us, not only on account of the further charge we fear we shall undergo, but in respect of his Highness' interest and distaste, which will reflect discredit upon us; for it is well known the English in Turkey have often adventured to raise sums of money on slighter and less occasions. Therefore if the business be not fully determined, and payment made before arrival hereof, we expressly order you speedily to settle his account, either by loan made on goods in the country, or in some other way as you can best contrive. But see that he is fully satisfied of all claims on us, and take his discharge.

VOL. CXXXI.

Although in this special case we allow you to raise money as above suggested, we cannot doubt but it might have been satisfied out of our usual duties, had they been properly collected. We hear of several ways used for defrauding us therein, not only by the masters' short entries and their giving in false and late manifests, to avoid payment of consulage, but by like evasions of sundry of the factory, and by omitting the former custom of strangers' lading and unlading at the treasurer's scale. If this is the course usually practised, it is no wonder we are at a loss for our ordinary charge.

We press you to more conscientious observance of our orders and of the interest of that trade, and to compliance in payment of our duties, and do not force us to use unkind means to obtain them. We have ordered the treasurer to send home the consulage of every ship apart, expressing the particular factor's name, and for whose account the same is paid, whereby it will appear who are behind in payment.

Complaint has been made of a great quantity of fruit laden on the Prosperous by some surreptitious licence procured by the master or others. As it is a forbidden commodity, and we, by former experience, are fearful of such disasters as may consequently ensue, we publicly disown any such attempt, and forbid the lading of fruit, or the grant of licence to do it, which we desire you to observe, as a small parcel of fruit, cute, or corn may endanger the whole lading of a ship. 44. Edw. Norris to Williamson, Saumur. I have been 6 days from Blois, and have seen Tours and Richelieu, and have been very civilly treated by an Englishman. I am sorry to see one so much changed, having lost half a finger. To-morrow I return to Blois. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

45. Petition of well affected persons in and about London and Westminster to the Protector. From tenderness to the cause of spiritual and civil liberty, concerned in some late proceedings of Parliament, we have petitioned them to remit the remaining punishment of Jas. Nayler; and considering your interest with Parliament, we address you, that you will be pleased, according to former declarations, and our experience of your interest in liberty and conscience, to weigh the consequence of these late proceedings, and according to the 37th article of the instrument of government, and on the ground you declare upon in your war with Spain, to stand up for the poor people of God. 87 signatures. 45. I. Petition of the same to Parliament. Your clemency in respiting Nayler's punishment has refreshed the hearts of thousands, and opened their hearts to behold something besides the terror of Mount Sinai, and gives us hopes to see you come forth yet more in the spirit of Jesus. We beg you to remit the rest of his punishment, leaving him to the Lord and gospel remedies. [1 page, copy. See Commons' Journals, Vol. VII., p. 471.]

Dec. 20.
The Essex,
Downs.

Capt. Wm. Whitehorne to the Admiralty Commissioners. The Mermaid has returned, having been to Dieppe, and landed Mr. Moreland at Rye. I have appointed her and the Cheriton to ply upon the coast of Flanders, and endeavour to surprise and destroy the enemies' vessels; but if nothing presents, then to cruise towards Ostend Roads, for I have had notice, by a great Flemish flyboat laden with salt, that was taken and brought in by the Eagle of Calais, of 10 more bound thither with that commodity. The Adventure and Red Horse have come in with several vessels richly laden, bound for the Thames. I ordered the Acadia to take charge of them, as also of 3 Swedish vessels with masts for the State, one of which is bound for Chatham.

Capt. Nixon, hearing of a man-of-war riding off St. Valery de Somme with his prize, went ahead of the Adventure and the convoys, and coming up, prepared to board him, but he shot down Nixon's main-yard, and so escaped amongst the sands, it being night. The prize, which was only a stone boat, and had everything valuable taken out of her, was carried by one of the convoys to Caen, not being worth bringing over. Capt. Nixon says that when about to board, his carpenter ran down into the hold; as he is a very lewd and debased fellow, Stephen File, his mate, is more fit for his place, and John Hills of the Essex for the place of gunner's mate.

I have appointed Capt. Plumleigh and some other ships to fetch some homeward-bound vessels from Caen. A Hamburg hoy also came in with above 200 Scots on board, bound for France; Capt. Parker understands by the packet boat at Dover that they went for Dunkirk, but whether by the knavery of the master, or the rebellion of the Scots, is not known; the merchants at Dieppe however made enquiry of Capt. Foot for such a vessel. If any more Scots are designed for France, they should either be transported in English vessels, or the master that carries them over enjoined not to go without convoy, so that C. S[tuart's] party may not be encouraged with strength that way. [2 pages.]

- Dec. 23.] 47. Hen. Milles, mayor of Bridgwater, to John Lord Desborow, General of the West, and M.P. Your ready assistance encourages me to represent our cases, we having no help towards repairing 120 dwelling houses consumed in the late war. We beg your order for some stones undisposed of, belonging to the late garrison,—viz., a small sconce at the foot of the bridge, and a wall near the castle, 50 feet long and 5 or 6 high,—towards the rebuilding of our almshouses, which were utterly demolished; many poor shall bless you for them. Bridgwater, 16 Dec. 1656. [1 page.]

President Lawrence to Gen. Monk, Commander-in-Chief of the forces in Scotland. We have considered the condition of Elizabeth, wife of William, late Duke of Hamilton, and of her 4 daughters, Anne, Elizabeth, Margaret, and Mary, and finding that the Kenneal lands in Scotland, settled on her for her jointure, and on her children after her death, were set out to you by Parliament for a donative, and the interest therein transferred by you, and now vested in Mr. Bilton, we desire you to have 5,000*l.*, part of the fine to be paid by confiscated persons in Scotland, paid to you, or to the persons interested in the donative, for redemption thereof. If this proposition be refused, the said 5,000*l.* shall be deposited in safe hands for 2 months, during which time the said duchess and others concerned may dispose of it, and use all means in their power to redeem the estate; and if some concerned refuse to act within the 2 months, then the others concerned may, at the end of 2 months, act without them.

We also desire you to use your influence towards persuading Mr. Bilton, and others concerned, to accept compensation, and allow the Duchess to redeem the estate. [I. 77, p. 950-1.]

President Lawrence to the President and Council in Scotland. To the same effect as the preceding. In case the 5,000*l.* and the propositions are accepted, liberty is to be given by common consent for a sale to be made of such part of the donative as will make good the propositions for redemption, which being a matter of great concern to the Duchess and her children, and others concerned, you are desired to accommodate the business between the parties, and if it take effect, to see that the remainder of the estate be disposed of to the best advantage of the Duchess and her children, or of those to whom, by the laws of Scotland, it belongs in reversion. In case there cannot be an accommodation, you are to see that the 5,000*l.* be secured to the best advantage of the Duchess and her children. [I. 77, pp. 951-2.]

53. Petition of Katherine, widow of Col. Thos. Cholmley, to the Protector. In 1644 and 1645 my husband was plundered of 1,000*l.* personal estate by the late King's party at Carlisle, and had several houses burned and plucked down. To reduce the city, he raised a troop of horse and regiment of foot, for which 1,521*l.* 3*s.* 4*d.* is due to him. In 1648 he was again plundered and made prisoner, till you regained the city from the Scots, when you promised him reparation. He has died and left me with 4 small children, and many debts, and when I came to London last winter to supplicate you for relief, I was arrested by one of my husband's creditors for a 300*l.* debt, and am still detained.

My husband being collector of customs at Carlisle, owed 56*l.*, and for this the Commissioners of Customs have extended the little land he had left. I beg that it may be deducted from his arrears; that I may be allowed in part of the arrears a rent of 29*l.* yet unsold, on Little Sunkeld Manor, Cumberland, and that the remainder may be charged on the forest lands, or otherwise secured. Dec. 25. 60. Petition of Major Wm. Hill, of Guildford, to the Protector. From the beginning of the wars to the finishing of the great business at Worcester, I served with my best affection, as captain and major, and was in actual service from 18 Nov. 1642 to 1 Jan. 1647-8, for which 1,100*l.* 17s. 6*d.* is due to me, as appears by my account, stated by the Commissioners for the Monthly Assessments and disbanding supernumeraries.

I have long waited, but had no benefit of the securities intended by the Ordinance of 24 Dec. 1647, as other supernumeraries have, because my account was not bonded within the time limited, for I was ignorant thereof, being in actual service in 1648 and 1649, and to the end of the expedition at Worcester against the King of Scots.

To support myself, wife, and 13 children, I beg an order to the Worcester House Committee to put my debentures into bonds, that I may have the like security with the army, and to the Army Committee, to transmit my debentures. With reference to Council, 18 Nov. 1656. [1 sheet.]

Pres. Lawrence to the Company at Hamburg. His Highness and Council, having heard several complaints against Francis Townley, a member of your society, of affronts, &c., offered to his Highness' resident there, summoned him to attend Council here, to answer these charges; and as after attending Council several times he departed to Hamburg without leave, the resident secured him on his arrival, till his Highness' pleasure should be known. His Highness and Council, much resenting his contemptuous departure, ordered his return by the next ship, which order Townley evaded or refused to obey; they therefore now order the resident to send him in custody, by sea or land, to answer the charges and his contempt, and require you to give your assistance to the resident in this matter. You enjoy so many advantages under his Highness protection that you should be tender of the honour of his public Minister. [I. 77, p. 596.]

Dec. 25.
Whitehall.

Pres. Lawrence to the Lord President and Council in Scotland. His Highness and Council having considered the petition of the creditors of confiscated persons in Scotland, have passed the enclosed order, and desire you to assemble the persons concerned, and see the order executed. [I. 77, p. 940.]

Dec. 25.

Pres. Lawrence to the governor of Sandown Castle. His Highness and Council having ordered the removal of the Earl of Crawford and Lindsey from Sandown Castle to Windsor, and resolved to give him leave to come without a guard, upon his parole to render himself up prisoner to the governor of Windsor Castle within 6 days, we desire you to receive his parole, and dismiss him accordingly. [I. 77, p. 953.]

Dec. 26.

61. Order by the Lords Commissioners of the Great Seal. His Highness having granted Rob. Villiers a patent to assume the name and arms of the Danvers family, and Lady Danvers having complained of great prejudice to the family thereby, he wishes to examine and determine the case. We therefore appoint a hearing of both parties in the Court of Wards Chamber on 23 Jan. next, when the Solicitor General, and Garter, Clarendieux, and Norroy, kings-at-arms, are desired to be present. 62. Rich. Lowther to Williamson. I find you have informed Mr. Northleigh of my close departure, though you advised me not to do. It might well have been spared, and engenders great harm. I hope you will return the balance of the 30*l.* sent, which should be 20*l.*, as I have few arrears due to you. Those for tennis and my landlady I hope to pay in 3 weeks. As you have told Northleigh of the tennis, pay something to the marker of the tennis court.

The past I shall bury in oblivion, but I have heard from friends every word that you have written to my father, which is not what I should have thought; I hope you will lay by past oversights, and send me, with other things, something worthy my father's acceptance, which I may send him next term. I am going into chambers at the Temple. Do not make me incur my father's displeasure further. You know what lies upon it, which is no slight business.

P.S.—Tell me your intentions in travel. I should have taken leave of Mr. Calander, but he was in bed. [1 page.] Annexing,

63. Jeffery Northleigh to Williamson. You heard 8 days since of Rich. Lowther's return. The bill of 30*l.* was payable to him to defray the charges of his return, and 120*l.* was made good to you, according to promise. I have showed Richard your letter, but he acknowledges but small arrears. Send particulars. Your disbursement for him should be repaid. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

64. Edw. Norris to his father, Williamson, Saumur. Your letter was hardly arrived before I presented it to Mr. Norris, who regrets being so near a happiness without embracing it. He says that he maintained that Saumur was the nearest way from Rochelle to Tours, and would have tried it, but his companions said it would be uncivil, and so he cannot welcome his father. 65–67. Petition of the inhabitants of Plympton Mary parish, co. Devon, to the Protector. Our tithes were leased by Windsor College to Art. Perryman for 74*l.* rent, which for 2 years was granted by the Long Parliament to our minister, but the Revenue Committee stopped this, Parliament was dissolved before further application, and the rents were gathered by a receiver, till your Ordinance constituting the governors [of the almshouses] of Windsor [Castle], who have received the whole tithes, being 200*l.*, since 25 March 1655, when the lease expired, but have given no allowance to a minister. We beg 100*l.* therefrom for him. 12 signatures. With reference to Scobell, Jessop, and Nye, and their report that the rectory and tithes were vested in the governors to maintain the almshouses; the revenue being then 1,186*l.* 13*s.* 5*d.*, of which 1,086*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* is to be for charitable uses; that 200*l.* above the 1,086*l.* 13*s.* 5*d.* was ordered to be paid to the Commissioners for approval of Preachers, and that now some leases having fallen in, and the rents being thereby raised, there will be enough to pay that 200*l.* and 100*l.* to the minister of Plympton Mary. [3 papers, the report being in 2 copies.]

including a stable, 2 barns, and a yard with buildings, by leases from the Dean and Chapter of Rochester, the last of which, for 21 years, was dated 10 Jan. 1639. The stable and barn being useful for the State, the Navy Commissioners have had it at a rent of 13s. 4d.; but when of late I wished to take them back, the Navy Commissioners refused them, and I am unwilling to contend for them. I beg you to have the case examined, and relieve me according to justice. [1 page.]

69. Petition of Col. Wm. Borthwick, prisoner at Bruges, to the King. As an unjust judge hears after much importunity, surely the justest of all mortals will at last notice me; 8 months ago, being ill, I wrote to Lord Newburgh, begging a divine, a physician, and the benefit of justice to clear myself from calumny, but I have had no answer, and Fox will not pay my keeper a few shillings advanced for medicine. My comfort is that you have not known my condition.

I served 7 years under your father at my own cost. I voyaged between Scotland and Ireland in 1648, to advance the Duke of Hamilton's engagements, and when 700,000*l.* sterling was due to that army, I brought 6 troops of horse over in sight of the Parliamentary ships, which took a son of Sir Wm. Stewart, and it cost him his life.

The Parliament offered a large sum to that army, and had I been remiss, I could have got 5,000*l.* paid in Edinburgh. In the fines laid on malignants, mine was twice as much as the Earl of Rothes', and 3 times as the Earl of Kelly's, and I have since been fined and forced to lend monies, or be undone with quarterings upon me. I gave 300*l.* when your forces were in danger of breaking at Stirling, and Duke Hamilton said no colonel in the army would do the like. I had losses at Worcester, at Dundee, &c. I never took moneys in place of bringing levies; my regiment was the largest and best fitted, nor did I ever fail in any trust.

I know not what is laid against me, but 2 years since my Lord Chancellor questioned me on some information of an infamous fellow, utterly untrue.

In reward of my fidelity, I am perishing for want of necessaries. I have not in 3 years changed my clothes, nor had a fire in winter, which the smallest person in the gaol has, except myself; and the limbs that have carried me many a mile on your service are numbed, having been long barefooted, and long a beggar, a trade I never dreamed to make use of.

May not my blood prove heavy if I perish in a small room in a miserable gaol, where I have neither air nor society? If it be for my last unfortunate journey, all I had to do was only concealing 2 persons. I could not have gained 10*l.* had I told all I knew of your affairs; I should have waited to make a better bargain before I parted with my honour. I will yield to none in fidelity to you. [2 pages.] Annexing,

69. 1. Questions for Col. Borthwick's examination:—

1. When did you come into Scotland, and where did you land, with what pass, and how obtained?

2. Whom did you tell that you came from the King with his letters and commissions, or were sent by the Earl of Glencairn?
3. Where did you leave your letters and commissions, and who knew where they were?
4. Did your brother, the Major, know this, and did you know Col. Blatake or Capt. Phipps?
5. Were you in their company after you knew the letters and commissions were taken, and how did you know it?
6. Did you often come to Blatake's chamber when he kept himself secret, and his father in a room apart?
7. When you were advised to beware of Phipps, did you say that he was a Cavalier at heart?
8. Did you say that Monk was no enemy to the King, and would give him better conditions than Cromwell?
9. Had you an anonymous letter, asking you to write the word Parrall over the chamber door if you would admit the writer?
10. Did you see the writer, and confer with him touching Monk or Phipps?
11. Was this person reproved for advising the Earl of Glencairn to beware of himself?
12. How did the said letter get out of your hands, and was anyone imprisoned for writing it?
13. What money had Blatake, or your brother the Major from Phipps, Col. Daniell, or Monk's secretary, and to what purpose? [1½ pages.]

70. Rich. Lowther to Williamson. You seem to resent my letter highly, and call my writing scarcely legible; I have acquired a scribbling hand, a lawyer's attribute here, but your writing is not always good. I did not think it officious to consult a man, yet I dare not argue with your 7 years of philosophy; you judge me hardly, and my transgressions were not so boundless as you judge them, but I am glad you did not go to the utmost. If your conscience were so strait-laced between father and son, the one would scarce have countervailed the other; but I thank your provident policy, as my Saumur friends are blab-mouthed. It must be my blind ignorance not to see what you say, that I have had more service than either my father's liberality or my merit could expect.

I did not travel the road you advised, for the soldiers were passing there, but went by Vendosme. I can spend my time better than in answering yours by parcels. I wrote you about the 30 livres I owed my landlady, &c., &c. [1¾ pages.]

UNDATED, 1656?

71. Petition of the inhabitants of Barnstaple, Bideford, Ilfracombe, and Minehead to the Admiralty Commissioners, for two small nimble frigates to be stationed at Ilfracombe and Kinsale to convoy and protect their fleets going to and from Ireland with cattle, wool, corn, tallow, &c., their towns being most proper for the Irish trade, which has been a great supply to eos. Cornwall, Devon, Somerset, and Dorset, and of great advantage to Ireland; but the frequency of Spanish men-of-war on the coasts prevents their trading without protection. 61 original signatures. [1 sheet.]

72. Request of Thos. Browne of Fulham to Lord Lawrence and the Council, for licence to erect and maintain a bowling green behind his house, for the recreation of gentlemen. [ $\frac{1}{3}$  page.]

73. Petition of Jas. Bends and Rob. Moore, prisoners in the Gatehouse, to the Admiralty Commissioners. Bends has served through the war, been 9 years carpenter of the Resolution, in 3 voyages, and in several engagements against the Dutch.

Moore has long been employed in making ironwork for the navy, and behaved faithfully. John Golding, Bends' servant, saved some ironwork from a ship which was sunk by Gen. Blake's order, Capt. Gilson bidding the men save what they could. Golding offered it for sale to Moore, who refused it because it was Flemish iron, but Bends bought it, and for this they are both committed, to the ruin of them and their families. Beg discharge on bail, in consideration of their services, their poor estates, and their wives and children. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

74. Like petition for a hearing this day, or release on bond. [ $\frac{1}{3}$  page.]

75. Petition of Jas. Bends to Gen. Blake, to like effect. Has served under him in 3 voyages, and he is now accused for what was done 3 years since. [1 page.]

76. Like petition to Maj.-Gen. Desborow, for leave to send for two of his shipmates who can prove his innocence. Has been a fortnight in prison. Is offered release on payment of 50*l.*, but could not raise the money, were it just to pay it, being 150*l.* in debt, and his salary only 23*l.* a year. [1 page.]

77. Petition of Martin Brice to the Admiralty Commissioners. You released me on parole to procure the enlargement of Capt. Hare and others, prisoners in Majorca, and not only they, but divers others are set at liberty on my account. You refer me to the Protector. As my parole is nearly expired I beg its extension for 3 months, that I may endeavour to obtain liberty from his Highness. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

78. Petition of Rich. Busby to Lord Lambert. About 2 years ago, I made a considerable discovery to the Admiralty Commissioners against Capts. Kedman and Tirrick, who offered me 80*l.* to cease my prosecution, whereon I addressed Col. Clarke, who promised me satisfaction for my discovery. They have put in security to pay a large sum, but I am still unpaid, though I have attended the Admiralty Commissioners a fortnight. Pray obtain me satisfaction. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

79. Petition of the inhabitants of Hanwell, Middlesex, to the Protector, to settle Sam Tomlins, of Trinity College, Cambridge, in their rectory. Have been  $\frac{1}{4}$  of a year without a minister, and have had good experience of his fitness. Signed by Hen. Hodges and John Ledgoulds, churchwardens, and 14 others. [1 page.] Annexing,

79. I. Certificate by John Harrison and Sid. Simpson that Tomkins is able, orthodox, pious, and well affected. [ $\frac{1}{2}$  page.]

80. Petition of Aaron Jeffryes, for self and 4 prisoners at Ostend, to the Admiralty Commissioners. We were taken last Sept. by 2 Dunkirk men-of-war, and have been prisoners since in great misery. I was released on parole to come to England to clear Arent Skoomaker in Plymouth, and procure the release of 5 others at Plymouth, and 1 at York, the lords of Dunkirk refusing your proposal for the 5 at Chelsea College, because they had another proposal for them. I beg Skoomaker's release, that I may not be forced to return. Noted in shorthand, 4 at Plymouth to be proposed for the other four. [1 page.]

81. Petition of Jone, wife of Edw. Jolly, and Mary, wife of Thos. Dingley, master and master's mate of the Hopeful Mary of Ipswich, to the Admiralty Commissioners. Our husbands, who faithfully served in the late wars, and have large families, and several others were, on 27 April last, taken in sight of Newcastle by a Dunkirk man-of-war, after 3 hours' hot fight, put into their ship, and carried prisoners to Ostend, where they lie in a perishing condition, stripped of all they had, sick, and wounded. The rest of the men being left in the ship, were rescued by the Tredagh frigate, who retook the Mary, and carried her to Dover, with 12 Dunkirkers, 9 of whom are not yet exchanged or released. We beg that they may be exchanged for our husbands and the 3 others in like calamity. [1 page.]

82. Petition of John Patshall, bailiff of Leominster, co. Hereford, to the Protector. The borough was incorporated 28 May, 1 Mary, and enlarged by other princes, and the government committed to 24 inhabitants, which are too many, there being few well affected, and alehouses, vice, and wickedness abound. Begg that they may be reduced to 13 or 7, to be named by his Highness, and chosen by the greater part of those that remain. [1 page.]

83. Petition of divers inhabitants of London to the Protector. The Court for probate of wills and granting administrations has time out of mind been kept at Doctors' Commons, and the registry in Warwick Lane, which was very beneficial to the city. By their removal to Westminster, divers houses in those places have become empty, and rents so decayed that people cannot pay their taxes, and such as require to go to the Court are at great expense by attendance at Westminster. We beg restoration of the Court and records to their former places. 85 signatures. [1 sheet.] Annexing,

83. I, II. Proposed Ordinance by the Protector and Council, to encourage the study of civil law, and right administration of justice, that all cases of wills, administrations, legacies, marriage, divorce, and separation with alimony, be henceforth determined by civil law. [½ page, 2 copies.]

84. Petition of Mary, widow of Capt. John Taylor, to the Admiralty Commissioners. On your motion, Parliament granted me for the loss of my husband 250*l.*, and 100*l.* to each of his children, the proportion of any who died to be given to the survivors; but both his children by me have died, and I spent nearly the sum given in their sickness and funerals. To bring up my husband's youngest son of 11, I have little more than the interest of his 100*l.*, so I beg the portions of the dead children, the 3 elder sons being grown up and provided for. [1 page.]

85. John Rowe to Generals Desborow, and Montague, Col. Clerk, and other Admiralty Commissioners. I have conferred with Mr. Hampton, and hope he has a savour of the grace of God in his heart. His abilities "are but weak and mean," yet by diligence and exemplary conversation, he may be useful among the seamen. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

86. Edw. Wood to the Admiralty Commissioners. Begs payment. Was employed to provide hemp and tar beyond seas for the navy, and has delivered 17,000*l.* worth, of which 4,000*l.* is unpaid. Had only 2 per cent. profit, paying freight, customs, and excise. There is 3,000*l.* more due to him on bills of exchange. Lost 656*l.* in a ship taken 16 days since, and carried into the Groyne. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

87. Certificate by Wm. Leman, Hen. Scobell, and 4 others, to the fidelity, honesty, and good affection of Thos. Marsh, as cashier in the Army Treasury and other places of trust. [1 page.]

88. Case of Capt. Fras. Wayte, prisoner in the Fleet. In June 1635, Rob. Walthew and Henry, his son, entered into a bond in 4,000*l.* to pay 2,080*l.* to Thos. Wayte, receiver for the late King, which was absolutely in trust for Wayte. Several sums were paid thereon, but in 1642 Thos. Wayte died, and petitioner as administrator put the bond in suit in the Exchequer, where it was shown by report of the Barons that 850*l.* was still due, but before judgment, old Walthew died.

In 1651, Hen. Walthew pleaded the Act of Oblivion, and thus with loss of the money and 14 years' interest, petitioner is like to be ruined. [1 page.] Annexing,

88. I. Bond alluded to, and note of payments thereupon, 26 Feb. 1640 to 5 Dec. 1642. [1 sheet.]

88. II. Report of the Barons of Exchequer alluded to, 9 May 1648. [Copy, 1½ pages.]

89. Answer of Hen. Walthew to the petition of Capt. Fras. Wayte, that he has repaid most of the principal, and it is only interest that is behind; that he has offered to sell his estate towards payment of his debts proportionably, but Wayte refused to agree with the other creditors, by which he is reduced to great misery; that he still thinks he ought to have the benefit of the Act of Pardon, but begs

92. List of his Highness' fleet under command of Vice-Adm. Wm. Goodson, 21 ships, of which 14 are with him in Southwold Bay, 4 gone before towards the Sound, and 2 at Quinborough, with Sir Geo. Ayseue. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

Pass by Charles II. for Lord Culpepper, of the Privy Council, and keeper of the archives, going by his express order from Cologne to Flanders to join the King, with servants and baggage. [French draft. Flanders correspondence.]

93. Petition of Dan. Barton, to James, Duke of York. I came over to Bruges with Alex. Goffe, having goods of my own, and lending him money for his expenses. I beg to have my own goods, which are with Goffe's, and satisfaction out of his for charges disbursed. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

94. Pamphlet entitled, "The fulness and freeness of God's grace in Jesus Christ declared in two general points. First, that personal election is no ground of the saints' perseverance in the grace of God by Jesus Christ. Secondly, in what sense the Scriptures speak the saints' perseverance in that grace. The third part, by Francis Duke." [Printed, 4to, 114 pp. With manuscript notes of part of the contents, quoting those of Chap. 13, which contains an answer to Col. John Lilburne's 6 particulars. 2 pages.]

95-97. Three receipts for the laying on of quicksilver; 1 French and 2 English. [3 pages.]

98. Edw. Norris to Williamson, Saumur. The watch is bought, and is in my pocket. It will cost you 50 francs. I will change it if it does not go well. I am surprised at your naming an account for ribbon sent in; but I shall pay nothing unless I know that I owe it. Send me the small remainder of our account.

P.S.—Mr. Leigh is still on the way, having broken a chariot wheel at Tours. [1 page, French.]

99. Note book of Jos. Williamson, containing several drafts of letters to parents of his pupils, from Saumur, one to Smith and one to Luc. d'Achery, of the Bibliothèque of St. Germain des Près, Paris, the two latter in Latin. With other literary notes relating to the studies of his pupils. [16 pp. 24mo.]

16*. The petition of Sir Thos. Wiseman, of co. Essex, and a certificate from the county Commissioners, referred to the Major General and Commissioners, to report their advice therein.

17. A paper from Phil. Meadows, concerning the account of 50,000*l.* from Portugal, of which 600*l.* remains in Mr. Bird's hands, and the allowance for the receipt thereof, referred to Jones, Desborow, Sydenham, Strickland, and Wolsley, to consider what must be done about the 600*l.*, and what allowance made for the receiving of the money. Also to ask Mr. Bushell and the Trustees for Bishops' lands, &c., whether they have any land that would yield 100*l.* a year, in order to accomplish his Highness' and Council's order to grant a lease of so much to Mr. Meadows for 99 years; also to see what has become of the lands formerly granted to Mr. Lockyer and since reconveyed to his Highness, and to report.

18. Maj.-Gen. Lilburne to order the receivers of militia money in the counties of his division to pay Maj.-Gen. Chas. Howard 500*l.* towards arrears to his troops and civil officers in cos. Northumberland and Cumberland, for the year ending June 24 1656. Approved 8 Jan.

19. 2. When there shall be occasion to impress mariners in the Isle of Wight for the fleet, the Admiralty Commissioners, or the press gang under their orders, are to communicate the same to the Governor of the Isle, and with his assistance, to give it in charge to the press masters.

20. Order referring the request of Thos. Andrews and And. Haliburton, merchants of London, to be allowed to export the value of 4,000*l.* in pieces of 8 to the East Indies, to the Customs' Commissioners, to certify. Annexing,

3. Request alluded to, 15 Dec. 1656. [Scrap.]

26. Order—on Lambert's report of the account of money disbursed by Maj.-Gen. Kelsey, for travelling charges for himself and others, sent to bring plate from Portsmouth to London, which Mr. Jessop certified to amount to 230*l.* 3*s.* 11½*d.*—that his Highness be advised to order payment.

27. The petition of Rich. Shalcross, for discharge from the extraordinary tax set on lands mentioned in deeds recited in the petition, referred to the Major General and Commissioners for co. Derby, to settle the matter at their next full meeting. Approved 8 Jan.

28. The petition of Sir Ralph Sydenham, of Youlston, co. Devon, for discharge from the extraordinary tax, referred to the Major General and Commissioners of co. Devon, to consider as to his discharge from further proceedings, and act as they judge meet. Approved 8 Jan.

29. Order on a paper from Lord Nieuport, ambassador from the United Provinces, concerning the Charity of Rotterdam, seized on her way to Bilboa by a State's ship, and brought to Dover—that Strickland, Wolsley, and Jones inquire into the case, and report.

30. The order of 4 Sept. [see p. 97, supra] about Maj.-Gen. Worsley's widow and children, given to avoid suits or trouble, is not to extend to lands worth 14*l.* a year purchased by the major since the settling of his estate, but only to the lands in difference between the parties, in respect of the former settlement.

4. Navy Commissioners to the Admiralty Commissioners. According to your order of 27 Nov., we have consulted with Vice-Admiral Badiley, and other persons, touching the serviceableness of some pricked wines for making beverage, and think them not proper for use; but we presume the fleet may be supplied with better wines and at easier rates, both from Portugal and other parts. We send a letter from Mr. Longland, who will probably comply in case you give order therein. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.] Enclosing,

4. I. Chas. Longland to Vice-Admiral Rich. Badiley. I see by your letters that, with much ado, you had got a peace with Portugal; you may thereby guess what strong affections that King has to us, who is so hardly brought to peace, which I believe will last no longer than it turns him to account. His ambassador at Rome (or to say better, one that would be his ambassador there) has been labouring these 12 months for reception from the Pope, with 6 millions gratuity for him in his hand, but the Spanish party is so strong that he cannot be admitted openly, although the French are in a manner fallen out with the Pope about it; but 'tis said he has been privately received, and the Pope has restored Episcopacy, creating such bishops as the King desires; of so great a power is his millions. Any indifferent, disinterested man would tax King John's judgment for purchasing the Pope's friendship at so high a rate, and slighting the Protector's although he has it gratis (for I account the money he pays to be a debt, the charge of the fleet in the year 1650), but this is according to the prophetic revelation, "All the world shall wander after the beast, and kings shall give their power or strength unto her until the appointed time." I know not how it may please God to prosper this peace with Portugal, for there has been much dissimulation used by that King, and bloody cruelties even in the very signing of the articles. I doubt he may prove a Benhadad.

I am very sorry for the loss of the Cullen, with so much ammunition, which has prevented your land service. From your first setting out of England, I was always of opinion that such a fleet as yours had a further design than to tack to and again off the South Cape (like the French army of 40,000 men), and to take a port in Spain would have been rather a burden than a benefit, because no part of Spain can yield provisions for our fleet; but a Spanish port in Barbary, such as Oran, or Mamora, methinks had been an enterprise worth your undertaking, where you might have careened your ships, and refreshed and victualled them, and your men. Whether Oran be a good port, I know not; but if it were ours, it would be of great concernment to our nation, for the ships that go and come from Turkey, and I am confident might be made a seat of great trade for the coast of Barbary.

I have been oftentimes thinking to send you a ship of beverage wine, but it would cost 20 dollars the butt, and I suppose you have it cheaper in Portugal; however, if you have the least occasion, upon your advice, I will furnish you with 5 or 600 butts. I am sorry the wine I sent proved sour, and the 2 chests I sent by Capt. Hare proved but one, and that his own too. I sent the General 4 by him also, but never heard what became of them; he may have presented them or part of them in his own name, but I paid the freight for all, and gave him a chest besides to be careful of them, but knavery is so grafted in some men that there is no truth left. Capt. Cox will deliver you a couple of chests of old Saragossa wine, a cup of which, in raw cold weather, will not be amiss; the General may like it, pray deliver him a chest.

We have freighted 2 Dutch ships from Muscovy to bring some caviare and hides from Archangel, which was done for 2 reasons, viz., that we have them for half the freight of English ships and the Dutch give content, and not discourtesies as I received from Capt. Hare. If you or the General should meet them, I beg you will send a frigate with them hither, as  $\frac{5}{8}$ ths of the caviare belongs to me, and my friend Mr. Smith, and all the Muscovy Company are

5. J. Evelyn to the Navy Commissioners. I beg an order for a survey of the sluice adjoining Drake's dock in the State's yard at Deptford, and for its repair; as upon the rising of the spring tide, the water not only threatens the little ground of mine contiguous to the defect, but also the whole level; and if not seen to, the same great and unexpected danger may again occur as happened to the marshes at Greenwich, and our neighbours thereabouts. A small expense will now secure the work, which concerns the public interest as well as private persons. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

Jno. Thomson to Rob. Thomson, Navy Commissioner. Hearing of your magnanimity, I become a suitor to you. I was brought up to merchandize, but having lost a considerable estate at sea during the wars, I entered the service, and expected to be entertained by my neighbour, Vice-Admiral Lawson, but was frustrated through his resigning; I then entered the Great President, the master being my friend, and if Capt. Sacheverell had lived, he would have endeavoured my preferment. I officiated in Capt. Fenn's time as his clerk, and being employed about our provisions, had no opportunity to accept his proffer on his removal into the Bristol. Capt. Potter, our present commander, although a gentleman, is a stranger to me, and has others to serve. I beg you to accept or recommend me, as I would rather serve those of my own name. Being sprung from an ancient family in Yorkshire, I will never act anything to their dishonour, and would rather serve those of my own name. [1 page.]

I have spent many years in attendance, am growing old, and have a wife and 6 children unprovided for. 9. G. Stradling to Williamson. I am glad you received the 110*l.* I sent, but sorry that our return to Blois failed. The money due to Mr. Norris has been returned to me, and I do not know how to get the remaining 100*l.* paid at Blois, as I know no merchant that trades there. Thanks for your kindness; I will try to serve you punctually. I cannot hear of Mr. Lowther's having been here. I will enquire further.

I hear from Flanders that the King of Spain having granted free quarter to all that will assist the King of England, there is a great concourse to him of English, Scotch, and Irish, who are well paid, and several regiments are formed. Great assistance is promised by the House of Austria and the German princes, but our intelligencers say they will not be used till the King is ready to pass over into England, both to conceal his strength, and to avoid the charge of paying so large an army. I hear from Sir Rich. Browne and others that the Hollanders are like to quarrel with England.

Last week 400 English soldiers forced their officers, who were carrying them to Dieppe, into Dunkirk. Private affairs.

P.S.—One Capt. Gouldin is come in to the King of England in Flanders, with a ship of 28 guns; a good leading card to the rest of his rough tribe. [2 pages.]

11. Appeal by 7 Quakers, prisoners for conscience sake in Horsham gaol though they have hazarded their lives for the nation, to the Protector. Thos. Patching, Bryant Wilkinson, and John Fursby have been 24 weeks in gaol, committed by justices for owning some books set out by Quakers, and publicly sold, containing an account of the state of regeneration, but no sedition.

Ninian Brocket, committed for refusing to swear at the county sessions, and not doffing his hat.

Nich. Rickman, committed by Thos. Sutton, Mayor of Arundel, for writing a paper containing nothing against the present Government or godliness.

Margaret, wife of Wilkinson, and Frances, wife of Rickman, taken from their children and servants, only for speaking, as moved of the Lord, a word to 2 priests.

We present our wrongs to thee, knowing that when David was King, divers suffered by his officers, contrary to his will, and without his privity, and we hear that thou hast declared that none in this nation shall suffer for conscience. 23 Nov. 1656. With order signed by the Protector, 2 Dec. 1656, that Col. Geo. Fenwick, Major Fenwick, and Thos. Moore, examine whether they were committed to prison according to law, and certify. 2 Dec. 1656. [ $1\frac{1}{4}$  pages.]

[Jan. 6.] 12. Information that Thos. Laycock, who engaged his life in the service, was taken out of the house of his friend Nich. Rickman, by Thos. Sutton, Mayor of Arundel, on 10 Nov., sent to the Bridewell as a vagabond, kept 10 days in a damp room, without fire or candle, inhumanly beaten, and his friends not allowed to see him [Scrap.]

[Jan. 6.] 13. Note that Rich. Luckin, gaoler at Horsham, was committed by some of the justices to the house of correction for allowing the said prisoners a little liberty sometimes, and has been there 6 or 8 weeks. [Scrap.]

[Jan. 6.] 14, 15. Reference signed by the Protector of these papers to Lieut.-Col. Fenton, Methuselah Turner, Rich. Eccleston, Rich. Smith, and Thos. Moore, to certify whether the persons have been committed according to law, 5 Dec. 1656; and their report, 24 Dec., that they sat 15-17 Dec., examined the prisoners, justices, gaoler, and keeper, and the mittimuses, and find—

1. Patching committed 21 May 1656, for not giving security for his appearance about publishing seditious books, and for his good behaviour.
- 2, 3. Fursby and Wilkinson 9 June, for endeavouring to publish scandalous books, and refusing security.
4. Laycock 10 Nov. 1656, to the house of correction at Arundel, as a disorderly wanderer.
5. Rickman 10 Nov. 1656, to Horsham gaol, for not finding securities.
6. Frances Rickman 10 Nov., for misbehaviour and refusing to find sureties.
7. Marg. Wilkinson 16 Nov., for disturbing John Chatfield in his sermon.
- *8. Brockett 6 Oct., for refusing to plead to an indictment.
9. Luckin to the house of correction, near Lewes, 11 Oct., for suffering great assemblies of people to have access to his prisoners, and disperse seditious books among them, and for setting them at liberty without warrant.

They consider the commitments illegal—

- (1.) Because of the insufficiency of the crimes.
- (2.) Because the mittimuses do not provide for their delivery by course of law.
- (3.) Because they were not brought to trial the next sessions.

[Jan. 6.] 17, 18. Petition of Rob. Jennings to the Protector. Though I have submitted to your government, yet I was ejected at the visitation of co. Oxon, because I was educated at Oxford when the late King's garrison was in the town, though I was imprisoned for refusing to go upon the guards, and never meddled in the differences between him and Parliament. I have quitted my employment in obedience to your order, but without your help I am ruined, having no maintenance but what I can gain by my learning. With reference, 20 May 1656, to the Maj.-General and county Commissioners of Berkshire, to enquire and report, and meantime to stay further proceedings; and their report that Jennings was ejected in 1648, when very young, but has not offended since, and has a minister's certificate for learning and goodness, and should therefore be examined by the Committee for Approbation of Preachers. Signed by Col. W. Goffe, and 5 others. [1 page.]

Jan. 6. 20. Petition of Sir Thos. Vyner and Edward Backwell, goldsmith of London, to the Protector and Council. On 30 Oct. 1656, they contracted for all the Spanish bars, pieces of 8, and plate brought to Portsmouth by Gen. Montague, before seeing them, at 5s. 4d. the ounce for the Spanish assay of 2380, which is to be 18 pennyweights better, and so in proportion according to the fineness marked on the bars; were informed that the Spanish assays were reformed, but this silver was marked 3 years since, and many of the assays upon the bars are found falsified from 1d. to 6d. the oz., and in one great bar, near a quarter of the whole bar. In the whole quantity there were but two bars of the full fineness of 18 pennyweights better, which is 2380, by which finest silver they cannot make 1d. in the ounce towards advance of money and provision; have already paid into the Exchequer 130,000*l.*, being at great charge in procuring and paying interest for the same, for the speedy supply of his Highness. Beg a warrant to transport 10,000*l.* in pieces of 8, and 50 of the worst bars custom free, without which they will suffer great damage. [1 page.]

21. Barth. Wormell, deputy-mayor of Lynn, and 4 others, to Gen. John Desborow. Capt. Jeremiah Courtney has had an engagement with a Dunkirk man-of-war on the coast, when the captain and 7 of his men were dangerously wounded. We have had their wounds tended, and beg you to report this to Council, that we may be paid our charges. In times of peace, we traded with those of Flanders, so that they know our creeks, and will spoil our trade, for rich vessels come from London, &c., and there is no convoy. We beg you, as the Dunkirker escaped, and carried away a hoy which was under convoy of the Roe ketch, to take steps for guard of the coast and preservation of trade, as Courtney cannot soon be cured of his wounds. I am a great sufferer by the malicious oaths of the malignants, and am ejected by the late Act, though with great reluctance by the Commissioners, and to the grief of many godly Christians, as is known to Lord Rich. Cromwell. I have many testimonies of good conversation and abilities from my neighbours and godly ministers in co. Hants, and I feel a call to preach the Word. I beg restoration at the desire of the people, or leave to labour elsewhere. I shall pray that, having lived amongst us a glorious ruler, you may for ever reign with the King of glory. With reference to Council, signed by the Protector, 27 Nov. 1656. [1 sheet.]

answered. Here has been "Pray and fast," both at Whitehall and the House. We hear our fleet is not successful. Last week a plot was discovered; in the chapel in Whitehall were trains of powder, and other combustibles to fire it, and meantime some desperadoes were to assassinate the Protector. Part of them had taken a house in the road to Hampton Court, whence they were to shoot him with a blunderbus which will carry 30 or 40 bullets. Some are in custody, being discontented army officers and fifth monarchy men.

Nayler at last was sentenced by Parliament, whipped and bored through the tongue here, and now sent to Bristol, where his blasphemies were committed, to ride to the horse's tail through the city, and then to be whipped. 21. The Irish Committee to consider the case of Col. Owen Rowe, and the order of the Lord Deputy and Council in Ireland made thereon 28 Jan. 1653-4, and to report.

22. On report that John Boatman, minister of Norwich, whose case was referred 23 Dec. last to Maj.-Gen. Hezekiah Haynes and the Commissioners for ejecting scandalous Ministers, has not prosecuted his reference, but has preached at Norwich, pretending authority for so doing;—order that the said Maj.-General and Commissioners, or any 5 of them, of whom 2 are to be ministers, examine the whole business of the charges against him, and report, and meantime he is to forbear preaching.

23. As on 27 Nov. last, the 3 new raised companies under Col. John Hewson were ordered to march and be paid with the 6 new raised companies under Col. Rob. Guibon, but it has since been decided to continue Col. Hewson's own company here:—order that the Army Committee issue warrants for its payment accordingly, and for the payment of the 13 Irish companies in England as formerly. Approved 23 Jan.

[Jan. 22.] 45. Petition of John Light haberdasher, of London, and James Light, ironmonger of Sarum, to the Protector. Our father, John Light, was collector of Green wax 2 years since, under Mr. Cole, then sheriff of co. Somerset, and became bound with others for payment, but fell 400*l.* in arrears. We have paid and secured 200*l.*, wishing to cover anything that might reflect on our father, but the other 200*l.*, most of it due to Sir Wm. Bronker's office, is a burden above our power, as we are young and have families, and our father left us nothing, so that without your clemency we must perish. We beg you to authorize the Treasury Commissioners to treat with Bronker for our discharge, if possible, from the 200*l.*, and to report. With proposal of an order to the Treasury Commissioners to discharge the petitioners' debt of 147*l.* due to Bronker's office, to be abated from Bronker's rent, and to discharge them of other debts to

Though you order, 15 April 1656, that any debtor in Scotland who declared on oath that he could not pay from personal estate might pay in real estate, on the valuation of indifferent persons, yet little has been done through fear of alteration by Parliament, and we are much injured by the delay, as the time limited in the Act is near expired. We beg your order to the judges in Scotland to appoint that creditors for more than 1,000 marks shall accept lands for their debts. Signed by Home and Foulis. [1 sheet.]

Bruges.

Michell Deane to [Sec. Thurloe.] Last week I was in Holland and missed the post. It was my first error, and I will commit no more. Middleton is not returned from Dantzic, nor do I believe he will do anything to his advantage. Col. Blake is 3 days since returned from the Duke of York, and says he left him in Amsterdam, on his way to the Hague, and so hither. I will not believe it till I see it. His sudden departure hence puts all things in great disorder, for our condition here is very poor, and little hopes of amendment. Our number will not be 2,000, and ill accommodated. The Spaniard begins to frown upon us, for Rochester was found by the Spanish Commissary to muster false, which does much harm to King Charles. He is only allowed 500 firelocks, without any ammunition.

The Duke of York's sudden departure hindered Bristol's going his intended journey, but he is still in France. Ormond is gone to the Duke of York. We are not in the condition you hear we are in.

The Hollanders are preparing their shipping to join the King of Spain against England and France. We hear from Holland that some of their ships met Gen. Blakè, and sank him. The Zealanders are mad for war, and will make all their companies full hundreds 54. Chas. Perrott to Jos. Williamson, Saumur. I drop the epithet of honest to you, as you disallow it. You call me knight errant, I dare not assume the name of Don, but I would gladly be your esquire, and a trusty Sancho Panza, to follow you in quest of your Dulciana. Your canonizing of saints smells of superstition. Pray remember your dear saint of the Reformation, and do not add new saints to the Calendar of Rome. I wish you were more with us, but you have the Athenian itch, and want me to cure it by Paris news. I would send you the Gazette, but it will only tell you how the King danced, how his guard of 100 gentlemen liked the blue livery, and where the Queen said her Ave Marias. The news from England is of plots and treasons, yea of gunpowder treasons, that would have sent the Protector to heaven in a fiery chariot. Five of his guards are imprisoned as actors in the intended tragedy, but the prime plotter, they say, was Lambert, who was within an inch of execution. This news is in a letter from young De Bourdeaux to his father.

I suppose you have heard of the difference between the King and the Duke of York about Sir John Berkley, the King preferring to leave his brother than part with such a servant. I hear the business is composed, and the Duke returned to Bruges, where the levies go on slowly enough. The Irish expected out of the French army pay their duty in excuses; their answer—especially young Muskerry's—being that they know not how to dispense with their engagement to the French. 55. Navy Commissioners to the Admiralty Commissioners. Some months since, divers ropemakers contracted to deliver proportions of cordage for the use of the State, and some of them completed what they undertook, but others are still short of performance, whereby a considerable quantity remains to be delivered. We have often called upon them for a compliance, but without effect, and although it is true there is a clause in their contract that, if payment be not duly made within a month after delivery of every 10 tons, upon application made and notice given to the Navy Commissioners, the contractors are to be at liberty to continue to deliver or to desist, yet the meaning of this was only to secure them against staying in course, and they have never appeared until lately to declare their desire to be dis-obliged, in respect of a non-compliance of punctual payment. Some of them, when they saw the prices of this commodity advance, neglected to take up and pass their bills as they ought, so that the time of payment was past before they presented them. We were resolved to sue them upon their contracts, but upon the representation of some of them who had had their bills signed, that they had used all possible means, and attended several times for payment, but without effect, it was agreed on both sides to refer the whole matter to you. I with others discovered to the Committee for the Revenue 10,000 acres gained from the sea in Kent, and proved the same by two commissions returned into the Exchequer, which Committee entertained the same for the benefit of the State, and settled the sale of the lands to the discoverers for 3,000*l.*, promising them letters patent to be confirmed to them for ever, and referred the business to the Attorney and Solicitor General, Sir Thos. Widdington, and Serjeant Greene for their advice. Sir Thomas and Serjeant Greene were almost ready to certify, when Serjeant Greene died, and no certificate was made. I beg a reference to some others to certify, that further course may be taken therein. With reference thereon to the Treasury Commissioners, 5 Sept. 1654; their reference to Att.-Gen. Prideaux, Sol.-Gen. Wm. Ellis, and Nich. You granted me 1,000*l.* 9 Sept. out of those discoveries, but my counsel say there is a defect in your order, which may cause a new Exchequer suit. I beg full authority to the Treasury Commissioners for payment, so that all suits may be stopped, and a speedy course taken for bringing in the 5,550*l.* in Audley's hands; also allowance of  $\frac{1}{3}$ th of my discoveries, in which I have been at great expense.

We therefore beg you to allow payment of our debt, confirmed by Parliament, which, with interest to this time, amounts to 2,200*l.* out of concealed delinquents' estates to be discovered by us. 61. Like petition. Having shipped several sorts of goods and provisions for the army in Jamaica, the Prize Commissioners for satisfaction thereof were ordered to sell him the Seahorse and Stronghold, formerly belonging to the Dutch, and taken prize for trading to the English plantations, contrary to law. ## COUNCIL. Day's Proceedings.

1. Mr. Secretary to see it added to the instructions already passed that lands in Ireland be only set out to Protestants.

2. The business of the East India trade to be considered forthwith.

4. A paper from Lord Nieuport to his Highness,—asking for release of the Charity of Amsterdam, bound from Flushing to Portugal, laden with divers goods on account of Balthazer Robyn, citizen of Amsterdam, which fell on the Goodwins, sprang a leak, and having to put into some port, was ordered by the commander-in-chief in the Downs to go to Dover, where she has since been detained, although she belongs to the United Provinces, and was sailing from a free port to a town in amity with this Commonwealth—referred, with the papers, attestations, and examinations annexed, to the Admiralty Court, to speak with the Advocate and Proctor, and with Mr. Dorislaus and the Prize Goods' Commissioners if necessary, and report the whole state of the case.

64. 5. The report from the Treasury Commissioners about moneys unpaid when Sir C. Pack, Ald. Avery, and others were Commissioners of Customs, and the petition from Pack, Chas. Lloyd, and Walter Boothby, with their reasons why they should not be involved in the account, referred to Sydenham, Desborow, Jones, Skippon, Wolsley, and the Lord Deputy, to speak with the parties, report the several cases, and give their opinion. Annexing,

64. I. Treasury Commissioners to Council. Finding a large sum unpaid when Sir Chris. Pack, Ald. Avery, Mr. Lloyd, and others were Commissioners of Customs, we directed the auditor of imprests to perfect the accounts. He made out a joint account, whereupon Pack, Lloyd, and Boothby have sent in reasons why they should not be involved in the account with Avery, who was treasurer, and is alone accountable. We therefore directed the auditor to state the accounts severally, which being done, we ask directions whether to proceed on the joint or several accounts, Jan. 14, 1656-7. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

64. II. Petition of Sir Chris. Pack, Chas. Lloyd, and Walter Boothby to the Treasury Commissioners. In 1644, when Parliament much wanted money, we, with Sam. Avery and Rich. Bateman, were earnestly pressed to advance sums, and for our security were made collectors of the customs brought in by loan on the duties of tonnage and poundage, not then settled in a legal way, with a defalcation of 15 per cent. We first declined the service, being fearful of intravailing our estates in Exchequer accounts, but on promise that we should only receive moneys on account, and issue them on orders of Parliament or the Navy Commissioners, which orders should be our discharge, we consented.

*An ordinance passed in Feb. 1644-5 thereupon, and we lent 50,000*l.* at once, and then sums amounting to 140,000*l.* in all, and our salaries were less by 6,000*l.* a year than formerly given.*

Jan. 27.

At first we divided the work, each commissioner taking his own share and keeping his own accounts, and in Aug. 1645, our accounts were called for, given in, and cleared.

The Navy Commissioners then wished all the money to be paid in to one treasury, when Avery and Bateman were appointed treasurers, and Avery's son Dudley, cashier, and this continued till July 1649, when our employment ended.

Since then Auditor Beale, ordered by Parliament to take our accounts, refuses to take them separately, and urges us to give in a joint account, according to the usual course of the Exchequer, so that if any of us fall short, the debt shall be charged on the other Commissioners, which we think contrary to Parliament's intentions, and the order of the Navy Commissioners, when they settled one treasury; for in case the treasurers fall short, it would be unjust to charge the arrears on us.

We beg your directions to Auditor Beale to pass our particular accounts, and not to involve us in the Treasury account, of which we are wholly ignorant, and to stay the declaring any joint account. [1 sheet.]

64. III. Additional reasons by Pack, Lloyd, and Boothby, why they should not be liable to a joint account with Avery and Bateman. That a promise to the contrary was the condition of their undertaking the business at so small a salary. That the Act of 8 August 1649 exempts accountants who have discharged their respective accounts from joint accounts. That the settling of one treasury was made contrary to their will.

That joint accounts are injurious to their credit, as they are said to be indebted many thousands, when in truth they owe nothing, but have served to the best of their power, and tried in vain to bring the treasury to an account. [1 sheet.]

Willoughby, on an order of Parliament of 11 July 1651, for money spent in defence of the Thames during the insurrection in Kent and Essex, and by Council propounded to be paid out of excise in course, with interest; also that by a certificate from the Auditor of Imprest, 2,450*l.* appears due to the petitioner for freight of ships employed in the service in 1644, and that no part of either sum has been paid,—order that the Navy Treasurer pay the 1,622*l.* 16*s.* 4*d.* from money arising on sale of timber ordered for the navy's use, and the 2,450*l.* in the same way as others have lately been satisfied for similar debts, by sale of old and unserviceable shipping. Approved 29 Jan.

24. The petition of the owners and employers of the Poole Merchant, and the Blessing of Poole,—shewing that they have a quantity of salt in Newfoundland, and must send their ships thither on a fishing voyage at their great charge, and praying that their seamen may not be impressed,—referred to the Admiralty Commissioners.

when I could pay ; such passages do not argue much reality of the love you profess. My coat is threadbare, therefore do not think to grow rich by me ; but write me plainly and downright, directing to Inner Temple Gate, how my moneys are engaged. As to the 30*l.*, my father intends to abate 20*l.* in my brother Leigh's bill, and the 10*l.* is for charges and small arrears. Do not send more such papers as you sent to a good friend of mine. I find it dangerous to rely on any. I would rather wear a patched coat than have my father to know. Mr. Whorwood's father is here, railing against you as a very ill-conditioned man. Let me know how to send money, and I will discharge what I owe there, but I do not owe the limner a penny.

P.S.—Tell me where Norris and Whorwood are, and remember me to my brother Leigh. [1 page.]

66. Hum. Robinson to Williamson. Dispatch of goods. I have got the books, but they had nearly gone back to Nantes for want of a letter of advice. Lamplugh now thinks he shall obtain a pleasant living near Reading.

Our old speaker, Widdrington, is laid aside through infirmity, and Whitelock is in his place. Last week the whole House went to congratulate the Protector on his delivery from the late plot to murder him, and in going up the stairs into the banqueting house, the multitude passing after, the gallery on the top of the stairs fell, and in it 100 people, 20 being members of the House, and among them Lord Richard, the Protector's son, but had little hurt. The solicitor had a leg broken, and some other harms. These 2 days they have sat all day about the Majors General, expecting an Act to confirm them for life, but it is thrown out ; they are now at the Protector's pleasure as to continuance. It was supposed those were the principal men that opposed the succession in the Protector's line. We have a day of thanks 13 Feb. for this delivery. [1 page.]

67. Edw. Norris to Williamson. All that I can say about the past 8 days is that I have arrived here alive ; love cannot be cured by medicine, and I have suffered much in absence from one who still has my heart. I am glad the gun is not lost, for our cloaks have not found their way to Blois ; I was not much inconvenienced. Thanks for your kind letter. My service to Mr. Leigh. [1 page, damaged, French.]

68-70. Petition of Jas. Hardman, innholder of Lancaster, to the Protector. I had the chief inn in Lancaster, and had goods of great value at its burning by the late Earl of Derby and the Popish party ; and the castle not being provisioned, my wines, goods, &c., value 350*l.* were taken for it. I served with 2 servants 6 years, and was provost-marshal of the garrison, and when the Scots invaded, I found more provisions, so that 420*l.* is due to me. By these losses and setting out one son in the army in Scotland, and one in the fleet, my wife and 10 children are in much want ; yet my goods are seized for 700*l.* which I owe as agent to the Sequestration Commissioners in the county. I beg defalcation therefrom of what is justly due to

73. Petition of Dorothy Chiffinch, laundress and sempstress of the body linen, to the King. My predecessor, Mrs. Freeman, was allowed 4 livres a day and a place for washing the linen, and I had 20 sous a day for mending the laced linen, and for making linen, I was paid by the piece, at the rate the Queen set; but when both places were given me, I was content with the 4 livres, sending in bills for the making and mending, but I was to be paid monthly, and have a place for my work, being at great charges in keeping servants to do it. Yet I am more in arrears than any of your servants, and have had to take up money on interest. I beg the arrears, and an order for the 4 livres a day, and the rent of the laundry to be paid monthly. Feb. 2.

Declaration of the Protector and Parliament for a day of thanksgiving on Friday 20 Feb. :—

This people, after long contest, are restored to peace and freedom, yet the rancour of many lately designed new troubles, by rising in arms, but they were prevented. Then discontented spirits, called Levellers, arose, who were also discovered and suppressed. Their latest practice has been to unite with the Spaniard, and knowing that God has used the Protector "as a most eminent and principal instrument, and the leader of his people," they conspired to murder him, as appears from their own confession, viz. :—

That 4 months since, Miles Sundercomb persuaded John Cecill that it would be a very good service to take off the Protector, and then things would come to confusion, and the people would rise, and that money should be provided.

That they first tried to waylay him on the road, Toop of the life-guard engaging to serve them, and give them notice of his going out, but though they waited 5 or 6 times, they failed.

That then Sundercomb went to Hyde Park to shoot him, but failed. They then took a house at Hammersmith from which to shoot.

That they plotted to fire Whitehall, and placed a firework in it on 8 Jan., between 5 and 6 p.m., with lighted matches, expecting it would have fired by 12.

That Boyes, a principal actor, assured them that when the Protector was dispatched, forces would come from Flanders, in ships hired with the King of Spain's money. That a port town was to be seized, and a large sum would be given for it.

That 30 or 40 men are engaged to take away the Protector's life. That he was to have been shot the first day of Parliament, as he went in his coach, but they were discouraged, because there would be no possible way of escaping. That they hired a house near the Abbey in Westminster to shoot him as he went from the sermon to Parliament, but there were so many people about, they durst not do anything for fear of discovery.

That Sundercomb pretended to be hired by the King of Spain, said he should soon be a colonel of horse, and promised another a troop of horse and 1,500*l.*, and said it was better that Charles Stuart should reign than the Protector. That five beside Toop were engaged in the design.

God so worked on the heart of one of them that he discovered the design to his Highness. For this eminent mercy and other mercies, the Protector and Parliament appoint 20 Jan. as a thanksgiving day, in England, Scotland, and Ireland, in which all are to abstain from labour; the ministers are to read this narrative in their congregations, and pray for the Protector, and those in authority. [6 pages printed. Col. of Acts, Vol. 2, No. 98, Rec. Off. Library, 498, F.]

Feb. 2. 75. Elizabeth, Lady Lowther, to Williamson. I wonder at my letters failing; I sent 3 in 6 months, and my last was in folios, answering every particular as far as my power reached, and I hope seconded by my brother Hare. I trust you have had a bill of exchange for 100*l.*, I will write to my cousin Northleigh about it.

As to my son's advancement, the narrow compass of his estate will rather contribute to it than hinder it. Let him live low and studiously, redeeming his lost time, leaving his father's errors, and learning such humility and temper as may recover his fortune out of ruin. We send him, not for gallantry, but to contract himself and double his diligence, where he will not meet with so many allurements as at home.

Your letter was not dated, but must have been written lately, because you name our son Richard's return. [ $1\frac{2}{3}$  pages.]

There were sundry moneys and goods due to the late Dean and Chapter, which we cannot recover by law, though they were never sequestered. I have 65*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* due as waggon-master of the artillery train in co. Dorset, and being much decayed in estate, I beg payment. [1 page.] Annexing,

- Feb. 3. 78. Petition of Hen. Seymour, prisoner in the Tower, to the Protector and Council. In April last, I was released on bail to render myself on summons from the Lieutenant; I was summoned in September, and went in on 1 Oct., to the injury of health and fortune, both of which are ruined by restraint. I beg to have liberty on bail, or to be committed to the Serjeant-at-arms, where I may hope for such enlargement as shall preserve my life, till you give me a more perfect liberty. 85. Petition of the mayor, aldermen, and citizens of Chester, to the Protector. Randal, Earl of Chester, founded a hospital in the suburbs, with a revenue to maintain 13 poor feeble persons. The mastership has been time out of mind granted by the Kings by patent, and by the late King to Geo. Hope, by whose decease it is void and in your disposal. By neglect or corruption of the late masters or governors, the revenue is much decayed, and the rents embezzled, and thus the hospital ruined. We beg you to have the case examined, and a master appointed. With order thereon that the Major General settle a governor, and that he and the County Commissioners enquire into the case, and certify. 27 Nov. 1656.* [1 page.]

86. Petition of the mayor, aldermen, and citizens of Chester, to the Protector. On our former petition, touching a decayed hospital, founded by Randal, Earl of Chester, in the suburbs, for relief of the poor, you referred us to the Major General and 3 County Commissioners, who have taken great pains, and drawn up good expedients for establishing it, and the revenue. We beg you to confirm the rules they offer, and to pass a patent for their confirmation. With reference thereon to Council. 10 Jan. 1657. [ $\frac{1}{2}$  page.]

87. Petition of John Freeman, senr., merchant of London, to Council. By your order of 1 Feb. last, you permitted me to export 50 tons of saltpetre to Amsterdam, and I entered 16 tons 18 cwt. in the Custom House, London, but before I could ship the remainder, the Customs' Commissioners were forbidden, on any pretence, to accept any more entries of saltpetre. Since then the public has been so well supplied that the transport of so small a parcel can do no harm, and I am delivering large quantities of powder weekly by contract into the Tower. As I have been a great sufferer at sea by pirates, I beg leave to export the remaining 33 tons 2 cwt. [½ page.]

But we did not find any such allowance in their last account of 1638, so we consider that Sir Wm. Waller ought not to pay customs for any prizage wines granted him. The Majors General are voted down, which makes discontent in the army. There will now be no great opposition why the Protector may not be King; 400,000*l.* is granted towards war with Spain. Mr. Barlow hopes to get the Archbishop of Armagh's vast library conferred on the public. Our thanksgiving day is not till 20 Feb. Before then, the principal actor [in the late plot], one Sundercomb, a discontented officer under trial, will suffer. 21. The report from the Admiralty Commissioners—representing on what grounds it might not be convenient to alter the course of trade by appointing a consul at Tetuan, on the coast of Barbary, and yet that it might be very convenient for victualling the fleet that there should be a providore there; that Nath. Luke is a fit person, and that Gen. Any public minister employed as providore, could within 4 or 5 days buy oxen half as cheap again as in England, and could supply other refreshments. I recommend Nath. Luke, who has traded to and lived in Tetuan, to be employed as salaried provider. 29 Dec. 1656. [1½ pages.]

107. I. Certificate by Capt. R. Badiley, that when the fleet was in Tetuan last Midsummer for fresh water, &c., the governor treated them very courteously, letting them have what the country could afford, and sent a messenger to the Generals to request articles to be interchangeably ratified between them and him, and to have a public minister from England to whom to complain in case the English did any injury. The Generals excused themselves on account of haste, but I think it most necessary (during this breach with Spain), that an agent, consul, or provider should be sent, or they of Tetuan will be ill-disposed to our fleet, and delay them, whereas with a minister, they might soon have water, and 400 or 500 head of oxen. "My house in Wapping." 3 Jan. 1656-7. [1½ pages.]

107. II. Adm. Edw. Montague to the Lord Deputy of Ireland. I hear of an application made to you about an agreement to be made with those of Tetuan, on the coast of Barbary, within the Straits' mouth. I knew something of the place last summer, and think it very convenient to be done, both for our merchants, who have a pretty trade there, but no ground of security (more than confidence in the fair dealing of the inhabitants), which discourages them from living in the city; nor have they such privileges as they might, on a capitulation and the settling of a consul there. It would also be useful to the State, this being the chief place in the Straits for our ships to water or victual at. It would be well for us to be free to do this, for now it is wholly loose, and though we had the benefit of it last summer, yet we often, when we sent for water, had to wait for a license from the governor, and to give him a present. A consul would transact business for the fleet.

When we were there, the governor of Tetuan much wanted an agreement for commerce, but our haste to return to Cadiz hindered a conclusion; hereafter there will be opportunity for it, if Gen. Blake be put in mind to effect it.

I hear that Mr. Luke, a son of Sir Sam. Luke, is commended to you for employment there. I think him a fit person, and have heard Vice-Admiral Badiley commend him much. When we were at Sally, we had thoughts of

107. IV. Answer of the Levant Company to the Admiralty Commissioners. On your request for our opinion as to the establishment of a consul at Tetuan, on the coast of Barbary, we offer—

That Tetuan being no port, but an open road exposed to contrary winds, there can be no great hopes of further trade than is already exercised by the inhabitants repairing for barter to the ships, and this avoids the paying of custom. This privilege would, we fear, be lost by landing goods there, and they would be insecure in a place where there is no appeal to any superior jurisdiction, Tetuan being subject, not to the Grand Seignior, but to the King of Morocco, with whom the State has no trade capitulations. We therefore think that it will be better to continue the practice of trading on shipboard, and that there is no need of a public minister. Signed by M. Evans, Sec. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

107. V. Report of the Admiralty Commissioners on a reference of 8 Jan. 1656-7, that they agree with the above answer as to a minister at Tetuan, yet think it would be advantageous to the fleet to have a provider of victuals there, and that Nat. Luke is a suitable person.

Also they think that Gen. Blake should be empowered to give commission to such captains as are sent to Tetuan to treat with the governor or magistrates on articles necessary for maintaining free commerce and trade. 10 Feb. 1656-7. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

Marquis of Newcastle to Sec. Nicholas. Thanks for yours of the 22nd. I am much rejoiced at the kindness of the King and Duke of York. This is his 7th wife, the next will be the 8th, and then I believe the mark will be out of his mouth. I speak like an experienced horseman. disaffected party, opposing godliness and reformation have, ever since 1638, carried on malignant courses, and separated themselves from our ministry, and having contrived 6 months after a change of magistrates, they obtained the appointment of Matthias Simpson, formerly minister in the north of England, "who sews pilions under their arm holes," and bears down opposers, and to him they have given the maintenance of the second minister, and  $\frac{1}{2}$  the preaching place. This has encouraged other malignants in congregations to separate from their pastors, and receive ministers after their own mind, and has lifted up the head of the malignant party in Stirling, and is likely to deprive the people of Mr. Rule's ministry, for want of maintenance, and may do of Mr. Guthrie's too, the opposition against him for 7 years has been so strong. We beg Mat. Simpson's removal, and the restoration of the maintenance to Rule. [1 sheet.]

We beg that it may be paid out of 3,000*l.* which the late Commissioners of Customs are to pay into the Treasury next April, and 3,000*l.* next July. [1 page, damaged.]
- Feb. 17. Note of its reading in Council. [I. 77, p. 715.]
- Feb. 17. 118. Petition of the Greenland Company to the Protector and Council. By the Navigation Act, Parliament prohibited the import of whale and fish oil and fins, unless caught by ships of this nation, on penalty of confiscation of ships and goods. But this notwithstanding, large quantities have been brought in from Holland and elsewhere, and the Customs' officers and those appointed to seize the goods have connived, and accepted a low composition for them, so that the revenues have been diminished, merchants discouraged, our navigation prejudiced, and that of foreigners improved. We have had great losses in our late voyages, and have large stocks on hand that we cannot sell, so that without help we must give up the fishing trade, and it must fall into the hands of the Dutch and others. We beg an order to the Customs' Commissioners and others not to take these compositions, but to seize and confiscate the goods. [1 page.]

Lowther.

120. Elizabeth, Lady Lowther, to Williamson. I am sad that my son repines at the circumscribing of his thoughts, not his expenses, the sum limited being the full of what he will find at his return, and more than would have been allowed for his education had his father lived. It is an ill recompense for the pains his friends and I have taken with his estate. If travels make him soar above his sphere, I must hope comfort in his return, and gratitude when he knows the state his affairs were in when we undertook them. He is nearly as old as my father was when my grandfather died, and left him to manage an estate 4 times as large, and family cares and business in Parliament, which he so managed as to increase his estate ½, and provide for a numerous issue; so I hope if he will be tractable, and not aim at things above his reach, he may soon manage his own affairs. We intend to go to Scotland at Midsummer, to consult his friends about him before his return. My brother will send you money where you direct.

I thought philosophy and other arts taught men a temper far outgoing feminine weakness, but I doubt the vanities of his companions will make deeper impressions than your instructions. I will not abridge his fantasy in much, or anything my brother complies in, though such things are pleasures rather than perfections in gentlemen. A few things thoroughly known are better than grasping at all. I had rather he were threadbare than have vain habits and a vainer head.

P.S.—My brother will send money to my cousin Northleigh, whom you must direct to what town to send it. [3 pages.]

Feb. 19. 123. Petition of John Hingston, David Mell, Wm. Howse, Rich. Hudson, and Wm. Gregory, for themselves and other professors of music, to the Committee of Council for Music. By the dissolution of the choirs in cathedrals, many of us have died in want, and there being no encouragement for music, no man will breed his child in it, so that the science must die in this nation with those few professors now living, or must degenerate. We beg the erection of a college of musicians, with power to practise music publicly, to suppress obscene and scandalous songs and ballads, to reform the abuses in the making of musical instruments, and in all things to regulate the profession; with power to buy lands, and have a common seal, and with restoration of such lands and revenues as have been heretofore employed for maintenance of music. 5 signatures. 125. The Protector to [the officers of Militia]. We hear that the Cavalier and Popish party are shortly intending a new insurrection, and that the late King's son, in conjunction with the Spaniard, intends an invasion with an army from Flanders, where he now is. For safety of the nation the forces must be put into a posture to prevent or repel these intentions. You are therefore to give notice to all the officers and soldiers of your troop to provide themselves with horses and arms, and be prepared, on the first notice of danger, to come to a rendezvous.

Be vigilant, lest you be surprised. If you find any of the party riding armed, holding frequent meetings, or giving any cause of suspicion, you are to apprehend them. In case of insurrections or invasions, do your best to suppress them, and you will receive further directions from your Major-General, with whom we have spoken more at large. If you find any of that party keeping more horses than usual, seize their horses and arms, and keep them for the State. Assure your troop that care will be taken for their pay, according to the establishment. [1½ pages, signed by the Protector.]

126. John Finch to Anne, Viscountess Conway, Kensington. The heavens and mankind have resolved to make me break my promise of writing you constantly, for I have had a flood of public business here, where I expected privacy. I must now make my servants deny access to all, that I may discourse with you. Would that I could return to the former happy converse! Tell me what you would have me write about, and what knowledge impart to you.

At Boshki, 30 miles from Smyrna, is an ancient Greek church, wherein are several images and pictures, a yard high and 2 inches thick, weighing 50 lbs. each. On St. George's day, if the priests do not take them down, they come down of their own accord, and go out of the church, and the priests go with them in procession. Now what is strange and yet true is, that if a Turk carry any of these pictures, he cannot let it fall from his head, but is terribly beaten, and is thrown into bushes and under the horses' feet, and the pictures rise up  $\frac{1}{2}$  a yard and fall down upon their heads, and beat them to the ground, so that the Turks reverence the pictures. Barnardiston and Hodges, 2 merchants here, thinking the Turks were imposing, made their janizaries, being Turks, carry the pictures last St. George's day, but they were so beaten, and yet only the pictures seen, that a Christian was forced to take them, for when a Christian touches them they are quiet. One began to beat Mr. Hodges, who was carrying it, and he was forced to call for some one to take it from him. Barnardiston is a sober gentleman. On their salvation they told me this. They will soon be in England.

At Jebell, 300 miles from Tripoli, is a whole province where, by petrifying blast or sand, all things are turned into stone, in the same postures they had when living. I have a piece of a camel's bone thence, and have ordered a body of man, woman, or child to be brought me. The Duke of Florence has a hen with all her chickens in stone, and all the colours of their feathers. One in Venice has a bough with apples on it, all the natural colours. [1 page.]

127. Petition of Sir And. Cogan to the King. I hear that the cause of your displeasure is that I arrested John Goulding, though you had forbidden him to be touched, and that I refused Sir John Mennes' bail. As to the first, I only heard you say that you did not sell your pardons, and when I asked you to order Goulding to pay me, you said he might do what he pleased with his own. I refused the bail as being contrary to the constitution of the land, nor did I think you would in the least have had to do with it, but if I had done ill in arresting him, you would have commanded me to withdraw the action, which I should have done immediately; for who can suppose that one who, like me, has disbursed and lost 34,000*l.* sterling for his loyalty, would fail of his duty to you to gain so small a sum? I therefore beg you to pardon my offence, restore to me your favour, and order some one to determine the difference between me and Goulding. [1 page.]

Blank Marshall to Sec. Thurloe. Last Monday, Charles Stuart and the Dukes of York and Gloucester came to Sluys to convoy the Princess Royal, but had a mischance from the fort of St. Anace, by the volley they gave him passing by, which hurt one of his footmen, and 2 of his gentlemen close by himself. The shot was aimed at himself at their entering into Sluys, and one was killed. They lodged there all night, Charles Stuart returned next morning, but the 2 Dukes went on the next day's journey. All 3 intended for Brussels last week, but were stopped for want of money, which they expect daily.

I see no appearance of what you mention in your letter. If you are prejudiced by my neglect, let me suffer, but I know as much as any of my quality here. If you will have your business well followed, send me more money; what you sent last I gave at once to my creditors, and I ought to be able to go with Charles Stuart, wherever he goes. Now or never is the time to take care of that business.

I find alterations of late, often Councils, and business done with great secrecy. Many lay wagers that we shall be in England in 6 weeks, but I see no appearance as yet; there is something which ere long must be known.

Middleton has not returned, and I do not believe he has done anything. Next week I go to Dunkirk and Ostend, for I must look after them and Holland. If any come that way where you are, I shall come myself, so that I would know by the next how to continue dealing with you.

In Holland they make great preparations, building 30 new ships, and rigging out all the old ones, but the design not known. The Spanish ambassador was better received in Amsterdam than the Prince of Orange has ever been. They gave him the command of the city the 3 days he abode there. At his return to the Hague, he made a ballet for the ladies and nobles, which cost him much. There are 2,000 men on foot in Denmark. I send an addition to my former note, for they are the people we must deal with; they are always busy with Charles Stuart, and will be the first merchants that will go. 128. Petition of Anne, wife of Jas. Nayler, to the Protector and Council. Though my husband, after all his extreme sufferings, needs refreshment for his recovery, he is cast into the Hole in Bridewell, where the damp strikes up his legs like water, and he wants air and fire. He is kept under 3 keys, in 3 several men's hands, and not allowed a candle, and I cannot see him unless 4 governors be present, nor may he have what I carry him. This is contrary to Parliament orders, and yours, for you allowed me to come to him, and expressly ordered him necessaries. His keepers are cruel, especially one Win, who refused him some conduit water, because there was a little sugar in it, and would not let him have a dish of turnips and other things I had taken him, to preserve his life.

To harden your hearts, they raise a false report, that he starves himself, and will not eat what is taken to him, but he only refuses what is too strong for his weak state. They have kept his condition from me, and now the doctor orders him milk, with sugar of roses.

If he is to continue in prison, I beg that he may have air, fire, and candle-light, and that I may attend him, and supply him with necessaries out of his own estate. But rather I beg his release, as he has suffered all the parts of your sentence, and is only prisoner during pleasure. [1 page.] Annexing,

John Somer to [Sec. Thurloe.] I have been to Zealand to borrow money, for you seem to have forgotten me.

At Middleburg I saw Col. Hollis, commander of the English under Ormond. Lord Wilmot was there, buying 1,000 muskets and arms of defence. At Flushing were many officers who have resigned service under the United Provinces to attend Charles Stuart, who is in such want of money that he cannot pay his soldiers, and many of them are disbanding.

The Princess of Orange is gone for the Hague, her brother, Charles Stuart, convoyed her to Sluys. As they passed the Spanish port, the volley of shot killed one of his followers, very near to himself, and at Sluys another was killed in like manner, at which ominous accident he was somewhat astonished. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page. Flanders correspondence.]

[Feb.]

Relation by Sir Rob. Welsh of his carriage in England. Being prisoner in the Bastile, the governor told me that there was a way for my release, if I would run the hazard of it. I told him I would do anything that a man of honour might undertake. He asked if I would destroy him that had destroyed my religion, King, and country, viz., Cromwell, and I might have money and liberty, if I would undertake it with one whom I knew well; but as no army was to go, I refused to have anything to do with murder.

Being a prisoner without friends, I tried to ingratiate myself with Cromwell, by informing him of the design, but he never owned hearing of it from me.

However when I left the Bastile, I made this a pretext to get a footing in England, and wrote from Rouen to the Marquis of Ormond that I was going into England, and would do all I could to further his Majesty's interest, but would not meddle unless he would be surety to the King for my loyalty; this he became, and assured me that my going should not be the least prejudice to me.

I went last February, to try and ingratiate myself with the State there, in order better to serve my King. I wrote to Thurloe of my arrival, telling him that I had no pass, nor agreement with them, but begging that, on my submission to the present government, he would let me live in the country, or make me leave it. Not hearing from him, I ventured to London, and at last got to speak with him, begging leave to live here, without intermeddling with State affairs. We talked much of France, Spain, &c., and I thought I stood well with him, but in a few days I found him very cool, as Cardinal Mazarin had given me a very ill character, and Sir Kenelm Digby had inveighed against me as not to be trusted.

I saw him once again with difficulty, and he asked me how I stood at Bruges. I said very ill, for that the King had banished me his dominions, and in 7 years, I had not the least correspondence with any in his Court. He said—"Then you cannot serve us, for we must be served by those who have power and interest there." I said that now, being permitted to live in England, I thought I could through a friend, the Marquis of Ormond, ingratiate myself at Court. He bade me write to the Marquis, and show him the reply, but I could not get another interview, and though promised that I should live quietly in England, I was sent to the Tower.*

Three months after Lord Broghill came to me to the Tower, and asked if I did not repent not serving Parliament as he would have had me. I told him my eyes were better opened now, and I thought I might serve them. He then promised to do wonders for me, if I would give him particulars of a design for killing the Protector. I told him I believed that there was none, but that the informer wrote of it for the sake of drawing his pension. He asked if I could live in the King's court, tell him the truth of this, and give him intelligence, and if so, I should have my liberty. I promised, and in 2 days he brought me my discharge, and told the design to the Lieutenant of the Tower. Lord Broghill then summoned me to his house for the next night, and we were in private contriving a cypher, when one Owen arrived, with whom he stayed  $\frac{3}{4}$  of an hour in another room, and then told me he could give me a perfect account of all in Bruges; that his intelligencer had arrived, and told him the King had 800 officers and 600 soldiers, &c.

Next morning he pulled out a letter which he said was from the third person about the King, saying they needed not apprehend so much, and that the King said some Scots designed for the King of Sweden's service had landed at Dunkirk. He wished me to go at once, but I told him I must have money. He gave me 50*l.*, which I said was too little. He told me it came from his own purse, for he durst not demand money from the State, as he had with difficulty prevailed with Council that I should be the man employed, there being then in the Tower those who had formerly shown affection to the State. Every day I told Lady Ormond and her son what had passed. I also wrote to B. to tell Lord Ormond that I hoped soon to be in condition to discharge my trust.

I then undertook my journey, and went on board at Gravesend, but the wind being contrary, I went to Dover, there to take the packet for Dunkirk, having the Secretary of State's pass. By the way, I was taken at Canterbury, by the warden of the Fleet's warrant, and brought to the Fleet. I applied to Lord Broghill, and send you his answer, as also a copy of his letter to the Lieutenant of the Tower on my behalf, and of the answer thereto.

Being in the Fleet, an old acquaintance of quality applied to me, and promised to sevre me if I would deal clearly with him. He told me he knew I was employed by the State, and would recommend me to his friend, the third person about the King, who sent all material intelligence weekly; and that if I would give him the name of the friend I relied most on with the King, he would give me the name of his friend. I named mine, and he named his, with circumstances to prove the truth.

I thought it no small service to show the King what he was, and had done so but my application was rejected. I told the Marquis of Ormond what power I had, but only named the third or fourth person to the King, being loth to name him till I saw what reception I had ; but I offered to name him in a few days, and to prove that if the King showed him any letter of concern, and left it in his hands, a copy would be sent to the State, and I would surprize it on the way.

Sir John Barkstead believed me so much his that he told me that for many years he has had, and still has, the opening of all letters from the Queen of England sent to London, and those sent from London to her, but he sealed them all up again to avoid discovery, and he told me who showed him these letters.

I was also charged with an offer to the Prince of Condé of 1,000 or 1,500 men, not to cost him 1s. till landed in Flanders, and then no assurance of payment but his capitulation.

I was also empowered by a very sufficient person to assure the King that he could contrive to bring with him to Flanders 5 or 6 men of mighty estates, who have always been against his Majesty, and would soon ransom themselves at 100,000*l*.

I named these things to his Excellency at Ghent, as the reason why I believed myself capable of serving the King. He told me I should hear his Majesty's pleasure in 3 or 4 days, which is that he will not make use of my service, but advises me to get out of these countries, or prepare for the consequences. There is nothing I wish more than to clear myself as a loyal and true subject, and this is not the reception I expected for my hazards. Endorsed, "A copy of Sir Rob. Welsh's relation of his carriage in England, delivered to the Lady Abbess of Ghent." Signed by Nicholas. [4 pages. Flanders correspondence.]

Sir Rob. Welsh to the King. To the same effect as the above, with slight variations. I have studied to serve you 7 or 8 years, and thought to do it by getting credit with Cromwell, or that wicked State that governs your kingdoms. I went to England by Rouen and Dieppe, landed at Rye without pass, and wrote to Thurloe offering service. I fell sick at Rye and stayed 4 or 5 days, and thence to London. I was there a month, and being unable to get access to Thurloe, I wrote to Fleetwood, deputy of Ireland, offering service. He received me very civilly, and sent a gentleman with me to Whitehall to Thurloe, who said he would acquaint Cromwell with my good wishes. He bade me come again, and I thought I had gained something on his rigid humour. I saw him again in 2 or 3 days, and told him if I was under any suspicion, I would leave the country and seek my fortune elsewhere, but he bade me stay. We spoke of the breach between France and Spain, and he asked me if I would take service. I said not against Spain, because having formerly served you, I should be suspected as an intelligencer, but that as matter of conscience, I might very well serve against you, as it was not for me to examine whom God has ordained to possess these kingdoms—"expressions, God knows, far from my meaning or thoughts."

On another interview I gave him good intelligence from France of what was resolved on by the Cardinal. A week after I told him I had thought on a business never asked by any, and not intrenching on the subject's purses, but worth 1,000*l*. or 2,000*l*. a year. He bade me name it, and told me I should have it. I will tell you what it is when you command me, "but he kept his word as they do, and ever will do in all things." I wrote several times afterwards, but could never see him.

I still lived in the town, when 2 or 3 months after, Sir John Barkstead wrote me to come to him to the Tower. I went to Thurloe, but could not see him, so I went with a friend to Barkstead; he was civil, took my address, and made me promise not to leave town or change my lodgings without informing him. A fortnight after he sent 10 soldiers to my lodgings in Mark Lane, who at 6 a.m. carried me out of my bed to the Tower. I waited till 11 before I could speak to him; he then asked if I knew anything of a plot, and on giving my word that I did not, he set me at liberty. Ten days after he sent soldiers to my lodging; I wrote him that I would wait on him on notice, so he sent for me, and showed me Council's warrant to make me prisoner in the Tower, and told me he had provided me a good lodging, with my Lord of Canterbury, Lord Capel, and the ambassador of Portugal's brother. There I lay 4 months, and then wrote to Thurloe, but had no reply, and there I had lain till Doomsday, but for Lord Broghill. My progress with him you will have heard. If my credit had been kept by keeping intelligence with him, I should have written only what you or your minister would set down, for I have shown him my cypher with Lord Broghill. What I intended was that when you should have an army in any of your dominions, I would once or twice give them intelligence that should enable them to cut off 200 or 300 of your horse, and then, when they thought me true, give them such intelligence as would absolutely ruin them.

Then I grew so intimate with Lord Broghill that I gained much information by him to be given to you, and if I had kept credit with him, as by your order, telling him things that may not much prejudice you, I had returned to England, gained credit with Cromwell, and then been able so to serve you as it would be difficult to any to find the like.

If the King of Spain would give me all Flanders, I would not appear in England, yet no danger should prevent my obeying your orders. I could name the 5 or 6 persons, whom I offered to bring from England without costing a penny, who should yield 100,000*l.*, but I was told on proposing it that you also had friends in England. I could not bring Cromwell's head in a bag with me, but if I could, I would. I should not have had, as my reward for wishing to serve you, a common gaol, and such usage as the highest criminal could not have worse. My son, who might have made himself a fortune, must partake my unjust ignominy. If you find the least guilt in either of us, let us suffer; if not, I beg justice and reparation. As I cannot serve you, if I clear myself of this ignominy, I beg your pass to some foreign service, though but in very ill equipage. If you knew the calumny I lie under in England, you would not consider me an ill subject. I was so ashamed of myself in England that I went one night to lodge with Col. Wm. Bourke, now here. Being in bed, I said, "Will, you are very ill spoken of as to be a betrayer of the Cavaliers to the State, which I do not at all believe; and to show you that I do not, I will show you my Lord of Ormond's letter to me, to give me freedom of being here, and to do as shall best seem to me. You know I am censured by all the Cavalier party, because I frequent Whitehall. They know not themselves for what particular to censure me, yet you see, for my duty to my King, what I suffer, and allow myself to pass for a knave. I know that there be 20 base letters writ of me, but when I know myself clear, I care not a straw what people say, and so consequently I guess the same by you." Col. Bourke saw my Lord's letter, and said it was his hand. Endorsed, "A copy of Sir Rob. Welsh's relation of his carriage in England, sent to his Majesty by him, through the hands of the Earl of Rochester." [Copy signed by Nicholas, 4 pages. Flanders correspondence.]

Queries by Nicholas to be asked on the preceding relation:—

What was the design proposed by Lord Broghill to Welsh, and by him undertaken to be performed, wherewith the Lieutenant of the Tower was to be acquainted, and for doing whereof he had his liberty?

Who is that third person about the King mentioned?

Who is the B. to whom Sir Robert says he wrote?

Who is the gentleman of quality and parts that applied to him, and who is that third person about the King that he named to Sir Robert as sending weekly intelligence to the State, and what were the circumstances that showed that he spoke the truth?

Who is the person that let Barkstead see the letters to and from the Queen?

Who gave Sir Robert power to offer the Prince of Condé 1,000 or 1,500 men to be landed in Flanders without any charge to him?

Who gave Sir Robert power to assure the King that he could bring 5 or 6 men into Flanders that would give 100,000*l.* for ransom? [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page, corrected draft. Flanders correspondence.]

Whitehall.

[Sec. Thurloe to Amb. Lockhart.] There are great debates in Parliament about the remonstrance. The time has hitherto been spent on the manner of the debate. To-morrow we shall fall on the clause about his Highness declaring his successor, which I believe will pass with some clearance. That of kingship, whereof the House is most desirous, is postponed till other things in the paper are settled, especially those which concern the revenue. There are mutterings in part of the army, but I do not fear much disturbance there. The House itself is exceedingly set upon a national settlement, though a few in power much oppose it. [Extract, French correspondence.]

March 3. 1. Petition of James, Lord Ochiltree, to the Protector. In 1630, by the influence of my adversaries with the late King, I was committed to prison, and detained till reduced to great extremity. I had 6s. 8d. a day allowed me from the revenue in Scotland for food and myself, wife and 10 children, and have no other estate, but from the cruelty of the treasurers and the long troubles, I have had nothing for many years. I am 80 years old, and desolate. I beg my arrears and future payment, or reference to the Council there, that my starving condition may be prevented. With reference, 27 Nov. 1656, to Privy Council. [1 page.]

March 3. Order thereon in Council that the Council of Scotland grant him a sum for his arrears, and a yearly sum in future, and that a letter be written to them accordingly. With the letter, 10 March. [I. 77, pp. 739, 967.]

[March 3.] 2, 3. Petition of Rob. Hitch, clerk, of Guisley, co. York, and his children, to the Protector. Having lost much by the King's party for services to Parliament, and wishing as I grew old to secure portions for my children, I bought a rent charge of 100*l.* a year from Rich. Hutton, of Goldsborough, co. York, who paid the first 50*l.* in Sept. 1654, but falling into that unhappy rebellion, he has since refused it, saying the Commonwealth has seized all his estate, so my children are like to be undone. I beg examination and relief. With reference to the Major General and Commissioners for the peace of the county to examine, 9 Dec. 1656; and their report that the purchase of the rent charge on lands at Cawmire, Farleton, and Overforth, Westmoreland, was a real transaction. York, 30 Jan. 1656-7. [2 papers.] Anneving,

March 3. 4. Like petition to the Protector, for leave to extend the rest of the unsold lands of Mr. Hutton, for breach of covenant and non-payment of the rent charge, he having assigned those on which it was fixed long before, though intending to redeem them. With reference to Council, 25 Feb. 1657. [1 page.]

March 3. Order thereon by Council that the rent charge of 100*l.* a year be allowed him for 2 lives out of the rents of Walkingham, part of Mr. Hutton's estate. Approved 12 March. [I. 77, pp. 742, 760.]

March 3. 5. Petition of Wm. Covell, of Enfield, Middlesex, to the Protector. By my marriage with Dorothy, widow and executrix of Major Rich. Beaumont, I am entitled to his personal estate; 218*l.* is due to him for arrears, and I have also bought of Capt. Jas. Straughan and 4 others arrears entered and claimed in Worcester House, amounting to 490*l.* Hearing that Enfield Chace is to be disposed of to pay Army arrears, I beg that the Commissioners of Assessments for soldiers in Worcester House may examine the said accounts, send them to the Trustees for sale of Crown lands, and authorize the Trustees to give bonds for their payment out of Enfield Chase. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

March 3. Order thereon in Council that the Worcester House Committee give debentures for payment, and that the Trustees give bonds thereon to be accepted in purchase of any Crown lands, in like manner as bonds given for the rest of the army. Approved 12 March. [I. 77, pp. 744, 760.]

[March 3.] 6. Petition of the inhabitants of Hamsted Norris, co. Berks, to the Protector. The maintenance of our minister being very small, the Committee for Plundered Ministers ordered an augmentation of 50*l.* a year for our late minister, John Lewin, who laboured faithfully 7 years, and died last November, after 1½ years' sickness, which wasted his estate, and he has left a widow and 4 infant children upon our parish, already overburdened with poor. We beg for the widow the 2 years' arrears of the augmentation ending 25 March 1657, as she provided a good supply during her husband's sickness and since his death. 17 signatures. Recommended by Corn. Holland and Sam. Wightwick. [1 page.] Annexing,

6. I. Certificate by Sam. Bellingham, treasurer for augmentations for co. Berks, that 1½ years' payment of the augmentation to Lewin is in arrears, for want of which he suffers much distress. 22 July 1656. Deposited by Anne Lewin, his widow, 22 May 1657, before Dr. Wm. Harington, Master in Chancery. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

3, 4. The said Trustees to settle augmentations of 30*l.* on the minister of Little Raveley, co. Hunts, and of 40*l.* on Thos. Ewens, pastor of a church at Bristol. Approved 3 March.

5. Order on petition of several inhabitants of Owston, co. York—that the parish consists of several hamlets and many families, and the maintenance for a minister is but 20*l.*, and the 10*l.* formerly allowed from Darington tithes is now denied, and 40*l.* from a rectory of Sir Gervase Clifton's is taken away by his composition—to advise the Trustees for Maintenance of Ministers to settle on him 40*l.* out of the improved rent of Fishlake rectory. 8. Toby Tully [Sir Edw. Hyde] to Mr. Deane, at Mr. White's, care of Mr. Lewis, Gray's Inn. I was glad to hear from you, fearing that you or your friend were ill, and being in trouble about Mr. Pattison. If he do not lessen his charges, he will fall into a consumption, and we shall all repent it too late. Persuade him to take the air, and visit his friends at Nuton. There were many unfortunate accidents as to the gentleman who visited him at Oatley. Mr. Wakefield, knowing what was like to fall out, gave notice to Mr. White, who wrote to Mr. Sherborne, and White being just then in trouble, the letter was not sent.

Tom Heslington desires that Mr. Paltipu would return that gentleman's visit, and speak freely with him about the heads, and her portion, and he will find him very ready to advance the match; he knows more of the jointure and what will be insisted on than you are aware of, but he must not be suspected to deal in it. If this can be done, it will prevent many inconveniences about the treaty. Send me word whether Paltipu is willing; if not some other course must be thought of. Remember me to Mr. Rudd. [1 page. Also on a paper of proposals from Mr. Gillespie of the draft of a warrant for his Highness' signature, which was compared with a former warrant granted by the late King for a charter, the state whereof is reported in a certificate from Mr. Jessop and Mr. Beck for comparison; also on the report from the said Committee of their opinion; the said report recommends—

- (1.) That a new charter should be granted, confirming their ancient revenue.
- (2.) An exemption from taxation according to the old charter.
- (3.) A power of jurisdiction within the lands appertaining to the said University, according to the 3rd proposal.
- (4.) A privilege of printing all sorts of books useful to the corporation, according to the 4th proposal.
- (5.) A confirmation of endowments bestowed by his Highness and Council's ordinance of 8 Aug. 1654, according to the 5th proposal.
- (6.) A new bestowal of such revenue as formerly belonged to the Dean and Chapter of Glasgow, and has not been given for maintenance of ministers nor paid to the State's use, if it do not exceed 200*l.* a year, and the University to make their claim within 18 months of the date of their new charter, and limit it to the places specified in the said draft warrant annexed to Beck and Jessop's report.
- (7.) This to extend only to the stipends usually disposed of for pious uses, in case of vacancy, by the presbyteries and parishioners.

Order to advise his Highness to approve the above-named report, and issue a warrant for preparing the charter accordingly. [L. 77, pp. 746-750.]

Finch will give it cheap, having sold a captainship to Mr. Sanderson for 50 pistoles, to enjoy when Finch comes to power, according to the obligation lately found by the Duke of Buckingham.

Col. Lockhart entered Paris last Wednesday in the King's coach, and met by the ambassadors and several court officers, 4 pages, 16 lacqueys, and 8 or 10 led horses, but he is vexed that out of the great number of English there, only merchant Wildgoose went out to meet him. He spoke at his audience at the Louvre through an interpreter, and had as much honour as former ambassadors. There was a dispute for precedence between the ambassadors of Savoy and Holland.

There is much talk of a coronation at London; the letters say it has been voted in Parliament, opposed only by 14, but his Highness will not accept it unless it pass nem. con. The breach between the King and Duke of York is not quite made up; poor hopes of a kingdom divided, or of brothers where the bond of unity is broken.

P.S.—Mr. Fuller, the ambassador's chaplain, tells us the coronation is a certain thing, and will surely come to pass soon. [1 page.]

I should have written you earlier, only I expected to return you some moneys due to me in this town, but am disappointed thereof. I beg your leave for the same before I use the pass which Don Alonso de Cardenas has sent me, and which I asked lest the ministers here might formalize upon it and prejudice your service, unless I first told them of it. much affection to his Highness in all their debates, and I believe have as great confidence in him as people ever had of a prince. [Extract, French correspondence.]

March 9. Maj. Firbank to Wm. Swift. Parliament are still on the great business of altering the Government. They have voted that his Highness shall choose his successor, and that Parliament shall consist of two Houses. They have spent some time on the qualifications of the members.

Some of the army officers have been discontented, but are satisfied with the present proceedings, and desire rather to wait and see what Providence will produce than meddle with things they understand not. I trust that for the good of these nations the Lord will incline his Highness to close with what Parliament shall offer. The debate for the present Government is passed very successfully. [1 page, copy, French correspondence.]

March 9. 16. Chas. Longland to Vice-Adm. Badiley, London. I notice what Leghorn. you say about Lisbon, that if the fleet should return home, the beverage wine would be cast on our hands and lost, as the customs would eat it up. I have had a great deal of trouble in the business, and cannot get above 100 butts; I have agreed with a ship to go to Naples to take it in and deliver it to the fleet; its scarceness at Leghorn is attributed to the sickness in Naples, which hinders their trade with Leghorn. Dutch Ruyter has been here with 6 ships of war, and went towards Spain last week; it is reported that he took 2 French men-of-war. The Dutch vapour much, as well against England as France, and if they fall out with the latter, they cannot be long friends with us.

P.S., 11 March.—I have since laden 200 butts of wine in the Bachelor, and consigned it to Gen. Blake off the coast of Spain, and will send the bills of lading in my next. I hope the ship for Naples will lade 200 more, and bought at an easy rate, which will make amends for what is now bought, as a good part cost 14 and 15 rix dollars first penny; such commissions must not be given at so short a warning. I am freighting another ship to send to Trapani or Calabria. It is generally believed we shall fall out with the Dutch, and it will therefore be wise to look out in time for hemp and cordage; I think I could procure a lading or two out of Calabria, Sicily, and other parts, but it cannot be done in haste, and therefore I desire timely directions from the Commissioners as to the price of cordage, and what sorts are most useful. If they give me the commission, I will readily serve them. [1½ pages.]

To encourage the soldiers in Exeter to stand out, they were paid out of this corn, but were obliged to resign the city to the enemy, who, the articles of agreement notwithstanding, seized all they could discover belonging to my husband, and swore to have his life for his activity in that public work. He applied to Parliament (of which he was after a member), and they ordered him 2,000*l.*, but since his death, I have waited 3 years to get some supply for myself and children. I hope this second petition will not be successful, the case not admitting of delay, as my husband had to discharge his foreign engagements by the costly course of drawing the moneys to and fro by exchange, which has much augmented the first sum. Levant Company to Spencer Bretton, Consul at Smyrna. Since our last of Dec. 19, we have yours of Nov. 27, showing of how little consequence the consulage extraordinary is likely to prove, if limited only to such as are not creditors, and of your enforcement to raise a leviation of 1½ dollars per cloth. On consideration, we repeal the order for extraordinary consulage, knowing that if you carefully collect single consulage, it will defray the charges there. If on any occasion the consulage happens to fall short, we are content that a moderate leviation be made for supply thereof, care being taken for an impartial receipt of the consulage, whereby to prevent leviations, and on necessary occasions, to moderate them so as to be least burdensome to trade.

This is sent by the Phoenix, which, with the Hunter, is laden for Smyrna; also the Castle frigate, bound for Leghorn and Smyrna, whose entries you will receive by each of them from our husband, with intimation of such as have or have not entered here. We pray you give the treasurer all assistance to hinder loss by short entries, &c. Let him and other treasurers continue the course now used of expressing the weight of silks and other commodities; also of satisfying us with the consulage of every ship apart, with every factor's name, by whom laden, and for whose account, as ordered in our last, wherein we explained our resolution concerning contraband goods, as fruit, cute, and corn, the lading whereof we expressly prohibit.

We are glad the rumours of taking up Christian ships for transporting the Grand Seignor's soldiers to the Islands of Lemnos and Tenedos is come to nothing, and hope you will avoid their engagement in services of this kind.

Hearing you are in doubt concerning the consulage on steel and cloth rashes, we have settled steel at 10 dollars the quintal, and a cloth rash is to be equally valued with a Suffolk cloth.

In your last account, of 28 Oct. 1656, our auditors observed several extravagant sums which we shall not allow as due; viz. 197 dollars spent on Nov. 5, which we have so often disclaimed, and 39 dollars for Jef. Keble's burial, although his salary be paid after, out of which that charge ought to have been paid. [Levant papers, Vol. IV., pp. 286-7.]

Levant Company to Henry Riley, Consul at Aleppo. By ours of June 16, we ordered that when our debts abroad were cleared, a consulage extraordinary should be taken to clear our debts at home; but on information from the Consul at Smyrna, we have revoked the order, and desire you to collect single consulage only, which ought to suffice for ordinary charges, if properly collected; but if it fall short, on any special occasion you may make a moderate leviation.

We have received yours of 9 June, with the treasurer's accounts, and a list of leviations, giving notice of Mr. Frampton's arrival and of the course you have taken for securing the Company's books sent over with him, by registering a list in Cancellaria, of which we approve.

We observe the trouble you have had with the covetous Vizier, in his passage from the Bashalic of Damascus, without receiving any greater civility from him, or return for his present, than the continuance of the  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on money without advancing the same, which he would pretend for a favour, though he would not afford you justice, which you may be able to procure at a more seasonable time.

Meanwhile collect our consulage on the Dover Merchant, and on all others. Our husband will send you an account of the entries on her, for your guidance in receiving our dues.

P.S.—We have received yours of Aug. 28, and approve your choice of a new treasurer and auditor, for proving the former account, with particulars therein mentioned. [Levant papers, Vol. IV., pp. 287-8.]

[Sec. Thurloe to Amb. 32. Petition of Capt. Rich. Moyse, of Debenham, Suffolk, to the Protector. I hazarded my life and fortune both in England and Scotland, and my disbursements and arrears are 800*l.* When the nation was settled, I farmed the estate of Capt. Thos. Bedingfield, recusant, of Suffolk, and the County Commissioners allowed me my arrears of rent, viz., 132*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* in part of my disbursements. But as the revenue and arrears of recusants are brought into the Exchequer, I am threatened with seizure for arrears; I beg that they may be discharged, and I eased of future trouble. [1 page.]

The country has been of late swarmed with idle vagrants, who cause great charge in passing them away, and the erection and repair of houses of correction, gaols, bridges, &c., will be a great burden. Mills, each of the colonels is to have from the Ordnance stores 400 matchlocks with bandoleers, and 200 pikes, the Admiralty Commissioners to issue warrants to the Ordnance officers for their delivery, and the colonels to keep them free from embezzlement, and in a fit condition for use.

9. Order on report from Gen. Desborow—that the late King, Car. 3, granted a lease for 31 years of 1,000 acres in Dean Forest to John Guibon, who sold it to Sir Rob. 12. Order on report of the Committee of Council on Meadows' case—that they cannot find any lands from which the 100*l.* a year ordered him 15 July [see p. 22, supra] can be paid—to advise, as he is speedily going envoy to Denmark, an order for 1,000*l.* to be paid him gratis, in lieu of the 100*l.* a year.

13. To advise his Highness to order Phil. Meadows' immediate dispatch on his business as envoy to Denmark.

14. The Treasury Commissioners to receive the contract made with Edw. Backwell, goldsmith of London, for so much of the 50,000*l.* as has been returned from Portugal, and see the contract performed.

18. Order that—as by Council's order of 28 Aug. 1656, the rest of the Portugal money was to be delivered by the Master of the Mint to Edw. Sir Fras. Mackworth to Sec. Nicholas, Bruges. Thanks for yours. You cannot oblige me more than by dealing plainly with me. What I meant by being invited to my duty as well as others is this. When I was first at Bruges, I presented myself to his Majesty to command in the place, Sir Wm. Throgmorton was invited to, not by his Majesty's immediate act, but the persuasion of others who preferred him to me. He is meritorious, but I have spent twice the time in the service, and at greater charge. All I can do is but my duty, yet occasions may require a dutiful person to be invited to performance, but whatever is thought fit by his Majesty will be pleasing to me. I had rather beg my bread than obstruct his proceedings, my great desire being to see him happy. I will not discuss in writing what was said about my former employments.

The King of Sweden is expected at Bremen; Ragotsky with his army is about Cracow, but pretends to mediate between Denmark and Sweden. Our States are sending out their second fleet of 36 gallant ships, but our Admiral goes not with them, but will quit that charge. The States of Holland will not meet next week, but will keep themselves neutral as long as they can. I wrote Mr. Chancellor of business that could easily have been done when the Princess Royal was there, but will be now difficult. I never expected you to answer every letter of mine, only when you have spoken to the King, let me know his feeling. I will be ready to attend his commands on summons. [Sec. Monday last and 3 days last week were spent about religion. It was voted that the Protestant religion, as in the Old and New Testament, should be professed in these nations, and that articles should be drawn up by his Highness and Parliament, depriving of public maintenance those who differ from this profession; but if they are pious and sober, they may be capable of places of trust. Parliament voted to-day that the lesser catechism of the assembly

There are now 3 men of Dartmouth, Thos. Ternegod, Hen. Willes, and Jno. Lamsunde, prisoners at Dunkirk, who have desired me to help them, which I am willing to do, and will continue to help all those of the West parts; and if you will give your assistance at the Admiralty Court in London, I will do the same at Dunkirk. I enclose an Act of the Admiralty Court at Dunkirk concerning 3 common men named, who are prisoners at Plymouth, and if you can get them released at their coming over, the 3 Dartmouth men shall be released in exchange, or else upon my parole. I hope we shall have further correspondence together, as to releasing poor prisoners on both sides by exchange. Before the wars I corresponded with divers persons in London, and lately with Wm. - March 28. Lieut.-Gen. John Middleton to Sec. Nicholas, Bruges. Thanks for your letters, but I am disappointed not to have a positive resolution. If I had been used with plainness since I left Bruges, I should not have been in these difficulties. If the King were not concerned, my sufferings should not sink me, but I know not how to keep from shame and infamy. I can only keep the men I have levied till next Tuesday, and then must disband them, and be thrown into prison for the 1,600 guilders I owe for them to a number of poor people who despair of payment, and will run against me like enraged savages, and no words will satisfy them. I could not get 10 ducats in this place, for I have done all that possibly can be done without prostrating our master's honour; I must now expect the worst, and shall be arrested, though his orders were positive for my release. I hear we have a crown made with a cross, which we thought would not be endured, and this being finished, it is thought they will not [stay] much longer. We are daily raising men, and it is said that 10,000 men are to join you against Denmark.
- There was likely to have been a match between the Earl of Warwick's grandchild and the Protector's daughter, but this new dignity has altered it. It is reported that a match may be found in your parts.

His vanity and falsity will be shewn by the mere reading of my writings. I want to know the opinions of men of sense about punctuation and various reading. March ? 52. ——— to Lord Conway. I was very sorry to be absent from London when I received yours of 15 June and 15 July, having gone into the country, and thus lost an opportunity of being useful to M. de Frisend, and especially shown my zeal and obedience to you. It was not fancy but private business that detained me, but if it prevents my serving you, I shall regret having affairs of my own.

I do not see how this State can assist the Swedes, otherwise than with money or by sea. The transport of men-of-war has always disappointed us, even in Ireland; much more will it in Germany.
* * * The Protector, though constrained to diminish his revenue * * * but he may be better able to assist now than before, because Parliament, for payment of his debts, which amounted to 400,000*l.*, has given him a tax on houses in the environs of London, which will bring in a large sum.

There would be little difficulty by sea if the Danes were not included in the league with the Hollanders. But if Dunkirk is taken this coming summer, all the strength of our State will be employed in Flanders. There is a powerful succour very near, if any attempt on our young Republic requires it * * * I can only attribute to envy the inconstancy of your neighbour princes who take part against you. Preparations are making in this country for the coronation of the Protector. I am sorry you have suffered by the peace of Germany, but your spirit will conquer greater things. I want to know why you have not married all this time. Thanks for your offer about Hamburg * * * [3 pages, French, damaged.]

We get no horses worth anything, except by means of a silver spur, and I have promised the money due at the end of the month at the beginning, so I shall be obliged if you will let me have it in a fortnight. [1 page, French.]

March ? 56. J. Ogilvy to Williamson, Saumur. The degree to be taken in this town is only in the laws, is granted to stranger or native, Protestant or Papist, and costs 30 crowns, but the graduate must be here in person. February is passed, when you promised to honour us with your presence here. My remembrances to Leigh and Calander. [1 page.]

April  $\frac{1}{11}$ . W. W[alker] to W. Swift. Little has been done since Thursday last. Friday was spent about dressing up the petition to his Highness, and appointing a committee to attend him on Saturday, which was done, and he has desired a conference with the whole House, which will be in the painted chamber to-morrow, so that the whole world are in expectation. This conjuncture must soon come to a period, lest it beget unsettlement. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page. Copy, French correspondence.]

April  $\frac{2}{12}$ . Sec. Thurloe to Lockhart. Last Tuesday the whole Parliament Whitehall. was with his Highness in the banqueting house, and presented a humble petition concerning the government of these nations, advising him to assume the kingly name and office, as the best means to secure their liberties and his person, and did it in a very affectionate manner. He answered them kindly, yet discovered nothing of his intention whether to accept or refuse, but took time fully to weigh the whole petition they presented, and promised to answer them very shortly. This he has not yet done. Meantime all things are quiet, and the army promises to acquiesce in what his Highness and Parliament agree upon. [Extract, French correspondence.]

April  $\frac{2}{12}$ . J. Howard to Viscount Falconbridge. I hope my last came to Westminster. you by the ambassador's packet. The scruple of religion being over, his Highness wrote to him to treat with you about the particulars of your estate. There was a report of your intending to marry Lady Kath. How[ard], but it was not mentioned by his Highness, and on the whole, he seems satisfied. He speaks with much respect of you, and I believe really intends to match with you, if satisfied in your estate; he did not except against the general account I gave him of it. I shall be always glad to serve you; no relation of blood can be a greater tie upon me than my friendship for you.

P.S.—His Highness has taken a few days to consider the answer to our petition. [1 page, French correspondence.]

57. Capt. Thos. Morris to the Admiralty Commissioners. On 14 March, I instructed Capt. Jeakin to convoy some ships of Yarmouth and Hull for Bordeaux, but on the 15th, when I came into the Road, the fleet which I expected to convoy for England had left 5 days before, whereupon I wrote several times to Capt. Jeakin to hasten away, but perceive he is engaged by some merchants to stay for some other ships, which are making all speed to go with us. I have now 30 passengers on board who were prisoners at St. Sebastians, and who say that 2 new frigates have been built at Passage of 4 or 500 tons and 40 guns each, and they are using all expedition to get to sea. Yesterday there was a general embargo of all Dutch vessels and goods through the land by order of the King, but what the effect will be is not known. I will hasten to England. [1 page.]

April  $\frac{2}{1\frac{1}{2}}$ .
Brussels.

R. Belling to Sec. Nicholas. Nothing happened extraordinary in the King's journey here, except his reception at Alost; the garrison horse met him a mile out of town, and the foot in arms in the market place, but not by public order. His entry here was incognito; the contriving of lodgings has been the chief business since. The King and his brothers have received compliments from Don Juan, the Prince of Condé, and the other grandees here, and a visit last night from Don Alonso. This will be a day of Council and business.

To-day the Dukes of York and Gloucester muster the Scotch regiment, and the Court is thinner by the resort of the officers to their respective quarters. Yesterday a recruit of gentlemen, lately come out of Germany, joined the Scotch regiment. Lord Bristol is still at Ghent. Mr. Bronckard has arrived from the Hague. [3 pages, Flanders correspondence.]

April  $\frac{3}{1\frac{3}{8}}$ .

[Sir Edw. Hyde, Chancellor of the Exchequer], to Sec. Nicholas, Bruges. We came so soon on Monday to Ghent that the King went to the monastery and received a handsome collation. Next morning we went to Alost to dinner, and came to Brussels in good time. Wednesday was spent in compliments between the King and Don Juan and the dukes, and at night Don Alonso [de Cardenas] waited on the King. Yesterday the King and Don Juan met and spent an hour together. The afternoon was spent in visits from the Prince of Condé, and Marquis Caracena, who called on the King and dukes severally in their lodgings. To-day the two dukes met Don Juan in the park. I think we shall despatch satisfactorily what we came about. Don Juan has made ample acknowledgments to the King for St. Sillin (?), and his professions are all we could wish.

I hear nothing from England but what you write, therefore I wish you had enlarged your intelligence. I do not think Lord Goring is on his way; no letter from Madrid mentions it. I have not spoken with the King since I received yours last night, having taken such a cold that I could not leave my room after sunset, so I can say nothing of the Earl of Lothian, but I suppose the King would give him leave to go where he had a mind, and the good lord will do less harm in Scotland than anywhere else. I am sorry they send wine to this town; it must be chargeable, and is no dainty. You shall be remembered on the payment of the first money.

P.S.—Mr. Boswell, the ambassador's son, came through this town yesterday, to carry word to the States that all their ships were seized in France. [1 page, Flanders correspondence.]

Lieut.-Gen. John Middleton to Sec. Nicholas. I trouble you more than civility approves, but necessity is above law. Though you say that his Majesty appointed some to consider my proposals, I have heard nothing for three posts. I have with much ado silenced those who trusted the soldiers, by promising not to stir without the ports of the town, till they were paid. The affection of the soldiers to his Majesty is such, that they are still waiting, though I have neither money nor trust for them, so that I can keep them together till the 10th, but I hope his Majesty's directions.

Mr. Davidson writes me that you wrote him that I had received none of your letters. I think I acknowledged to you the receipt of all 5 from Bruges, Jan. to March. News from Sweden and Poland. [2½ pages, Flanders correspondence.]

58. Rich. Knowlman, a Quaker, to [an Admiralty Commissioner.] Thou being in a place of authority in this nation, which I own so far forth as thou doest that which is just, thou wilt not be offended that I do not give thee titles of honour, as others do, though in their hearts they are enemies. I have served the Commonwealth both by sea and land, and to the loss of my limbs, since 1641, and am willing to continue to serve in any other capacity than as a gunner; not that I desire a higher place, but I would be free to act against all deceit, in whomsoever it reigns, for I see most men, especially those in the navy, and of the most rank and quality, are corrupted, and will remain so until a seed of God springs up in them. I have heard that thou dost countenance those that have a desire unto righteousness; I write to thee therefore because I desire thee to procure me some other employment, which will be a livelihood for my wife and family, however mean the place. Mayest thou feed on the true bread of life. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

59. Capt. Thos. Sparling to the Admiralty Commissioners. I conveyed some ships from Hole Haven bound for Dort, and sent the Drake in to see them out of danger. During her absence, I chased several of the Dunkirk or Ostend frigates, but they managed to escape; since the Drake came out, I have spent most of the time between Ostend and the Wellings, but have not heard or seen any of their ships, or of those that were to join with him, and therefore suppose they have designed the squadron for some other employment,

VOL. CLIV.

I met and spoke with Capt. Holland of the Assistance, but he was designed for other service. I have taken one of the fishing boats belonging to Blackenburg, which, with her nets, will be a great help in supplying the squadron with fresh fish, after which, as it is not worth more than 10*l.*, I hope you will bestow it on me. I have come in by contrary winds, and while waiting orders, will take in my spare anchor which has lain here 6 or 7 months, and fill up my water casks. [1 page.]

April 4. 60. Petition of David Yale and Henry Dalley, nearest friends of the distracted widow of Edw. Hopkins, to the Protector. You have shown particular respect and favour to her late husband by employing him in weighty matters, and the widow, who was well known to be eminent in virtue and discretion, is now the pitiful object of a weak melancholy. She only arrived with her husband from beyond sea 4 or 5 months since, and was settled in one of the houses belonging to the Navy Office, where he laid out much money in endeavouring to restore her decayed and lost senses. We beg leave that she may remain in the house, as removal will be hurtful to her. With holograph reference by the Protector to the Admiralty Commissioners, to consider the matter, and return their opinion to him. [1 page.]

April  $\frac{5}{15}$ . George, Lord Goring, to [Sec. Nicholas.] I wrote you before on Madrid. behalf of Wm. Blunden, to whom his Majesty promised, at your intercession, the command of a ship of 24 guns. The ship on which he relied was returned out of the Straits before the commission reached him. He has always been entirely zealous to his Majesty, and will prove it on occasion. I defer what I have to say till we meet. Endorsed by Nicholas, "R. July, being the last I had from him, who died in July following." [1½ pages. Flanders correspondence.]

April  $\frac{6}{16}$ . W. Walker to [Ambassador Lockhart.] His Highness being London. indisposed, wrote to Parliament. A committee attended him, and the enclosed is his answer to the petition. The committee reported on Saturday; the House on debate, decided by 77 against 65, to adhere to their petition, and it was adjourned till to-day, when a committee was ordered to draw up reasons to induce his Highness to accept the petition in all its 12 heads, and to it was added a vote of the House, in effect, all or none.

Lord Lambert answered me about Lady Hamilton's business. He partly understands it, and will do what he can for her and for you, though he says it will require little protection. [1 page, copy. French correspondence.]

April  $\frac{6}{16}$ . [Sec. Thurloe to Ambassador Lockhart.] Last Friday his Highness desired Parliament to send a committee to speak with him about the petition; and on their coming, he said he had considered their advice, and they had done well to provide for the two great interests dear to God, viz., our liberties as men, and as Christians, which, he said, were the two great ends he had engaged for, and he would live and die in defence thereof. But as for the title, though he was grateful for the honour done him, he did not see it his duty, either to God or to them, to accept it, and this answer his conscience obliged him to. The answer caused great consternation in Parliament, who hoped to come to a settlement by this means. However next morning, Parliament voted that they would adhere to the advice they had given his Highness, and have ordered that to-day, the whole House go to him, and desire him to reflect on the obligation laid on him to listen to the advice of the Parliament of the 3 nations, in things which they judge to be for the good of the whole, and to give his consent. [Extract. French correspondence.]

VOL. CLIV.

Brussels.

Sir Edw. Hyde to Sec. Nicholas. I entered on our correspondence as soon as possible, and you shall not fail to hear from me on the 3 usual days; at least I will do my part, though I can tell you little news, for I stir not out of doors more than I did at Bruges. We have not heard of Hannibal Sestad since he left Bruges. If he had made any contract in Spain relating to the service of this country, he would have been here before this.

I cannot slight what you propose about the ports; I have always been of your mind that a declaration should first be published, and am pressing it all I can, yet no declaration will do good if the governors continue sour and uncivil. Had what was first declared and printed been seconded by their good carriage, it would have served the turn. I am pressing for and am promised speedily an extraordinary letter to those governors.

Pray ask my tutor to look over his papers for a copy of the letter written to the Duke of Florence about Sir Theop. Selby, and send me a draft prepared for the King's hand, the former having miscarried.

I am heartily sorry for the strait you are in. If you have been worse used than any servant his Majesty has, I wish he who has been faulty towards you, or not endeavoured to serve you with the same affection as he could have done to his father, may never find a friend. I hope one day you will believe it. [1 page. Flanders correspondence.]

April  $\frac{7}{17}$ .
Brussels.

Sir Hen. de Vic to Sec. Nicholas. I have little to write about, as Mr. Chancellor [Hyde] will tell you the inward and essential part of affairs, of which I am wholly ignorant. On Saturday, according to a resolution in Council, his Majesty met Don Juan in the usual place and manner. The Dukes of York and Gloucester have now done the same; he treated them as belonged their quality; he alleged their incognito as the impediment for not first visiting them in their own lodgings.

They are preparing here for the field, 800 of the levies they expect from Germany being already come to Ruremond. They will not be long in garrison, that they may not be surprised by Cromwell in his design on Dunkirk. I believe, till his Majesty's troops have better uses, they will make use of part of the troops to secure that and other maritime places. They will hardly have better quarters than their present very ill ones, till those of the King of Spain are drawn out and make room for them.

Our master is as much esteemed and loved as we could desire by all who have seen him here, and that is the greatest and best sort, for all the nobility flock to him.

P.S.—He was at a ball on Saturday, where Don Juan was, and behaved to admiration; the two Dukes were there also, and danced. [2 pages, Flanders correspondence.]

61. i. *Statement that though, by order of the House of Commons of 27 July 1643, no minister should be appointed to any important living without approval of the assembly of divines, Laphorne obtained his appointment without it; that he has behaved covetously and injuriously, and out of spite let the living worth 500*l.* for 300*l.* a year, and he should bear the loss, and not ruin Vincent's family, 3 of the sons being Oxford scholars, and 2 to go to Westminster School, and their mother much in debt for them.* [1 page.]

61. ii. *Certificate by Rich. Lilburne, and 4 other Commissioners of Durham of the accounts of Ant. Laphorne, showing his whole 10 years' receipts as 2,129*l.* 4*s.* 1*d.*, leaving only 29*l.* 4*s.* 1*d.* balance beyond his 200*l.* a year; besides which, he questions several sums, and demands 255*l.* 15*s.* 4 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. disbursements, &c. 61. iii. Certificate by Wm. Sedgewick and Ant. Smith, 2 other Commissioners, on the accounts of Ant. Laphorne, Thos. Middleton, and Thos. Buttery, about Sedgfield rectory, 1646-49, noting some demands which are not to be allowed. 23 May 1650. [Copy, 1 sheet, see 14 July 1657.]

63. Petition of Cols. John Fiennes and Edm. Temple to the Protector. You ordered the stating of our accounts for service in England by Auditor Broad, who certifies 944*l.* 15*s.* 1 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. due to Fiennes, and 1,089*l.* 1*s.* 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. to Temple. We demanded 1,145*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.* more, which he deducts for mounting money and free quarter, though some of the arrears were due before free quarter was in use, and afterwards we were so far from taking advantage of it that we were at more charge than when our soldiers were duly paid. The arrears have been due 10 or 14 years, and others have received them without these deductions. We beg in payment some forfeited lands near, at the rates allowed to others. [1 page.]

15. On report from the Lord Deputy and Council of Ireland on the petition of Mary, widow of Col. 22. On report from the Committee on the petition of the inhabitants of Dunbar, shewing how the demolishing of their harbour has injured the town and the country from Berwick to Leith, and that since the storm of December 1655, there has been no shelter for the herring fishery there, which yields employment to most of the inhabitants round about ; and though they are thankful for the ease granted in their assessment, which encouraged them to try to repair the harbour, they have not succeeded, by reason of the greatness of the work and their indigence, and therefore pray further help ;—order that the Council in Scotland devise some means to afford additional assistance ; and enable the petitioners to do the repairs. 69. Rich. Bradshaw to the Admiralty Commissioners. I send a letter from Capt. Haddock, who is staying to convoy 15 merchantmen richly laden, and as it will be a service to the State, I hope his stay will be excused. I requested that a commission might be sent over to examine witnesses to clear me of the foul aspersion of Fras. Townley, merchant, of being false to my trust. I want to examine on oath those employed for buying powder and masts for the navy, but I have not received any answer. It is no small disparagement to me for merchants and strangers at Hamburg to observe that only Townley and his servant Cambridge are honoured with your commands, they having so notoriously misbehaved themselves towards his Highness, through me as his public minister, that they have been commanded hence by his Highness and Council to answer for their misdemeanours, which I suppose they will be called upon to do when greater affairs are over, as at present there is no leisure for such petty business. [Sir Edw. Hyde] to Sec. Nicholas. I am sure you would write, yet we have no letters from Bruges. It is the resident's fault, as he can keep but one man, who is sent on everybody's errand, so that what is of much importance is often left undone. I have waited till 9, and the post leaves at 10. I wonder I have not heard from [Perry] Church as I gave him notice we should be here.

Our business proceeds slowly. We cannot get any answer to a paper we gave the first day we came, and till we know what they will say to that, we are in the dark for other propositions. The King spends his time not unpleasantly nor uselessly, having entered into another kind of conversation with Don Juan than is natural to an incognito condition. The other night they met at a ball and danced. Yesterday they played at long paume, a Spanish play with balls filled with wire, and to-morrow they have a match at tennis.

They are very kind to each other. I now see why Don Juan had wanted us to defer our visit to this week, because they hoped that by this time money would be come, and yesterday the French letters brought bills from Madrid, to what value I know not, but they look cheerfully upon it, and say we shall speedily have a libranza for money. We have our eyes fixed on Holland, to see how they will behave towards France. The English letters are not yet come. Carteret luckily came in time to prevent the duel between Sir Ce. Howard and Geo. Hollis. [1 page, Flanders correspondence.]

Lord Newburgh to Sec. Nicholas. * I requested Sir John Mennes to write excusing my not answering yours, having just returned from mustering all our companies, so our officers will now be received into pay. Mr. Chancellor showed me the Lieut.-General's letters to you, and he wrote to me to the same purpose. I am greatly troubled, not only for his distress, but for the little hope there is of relieving him from the engagements he has taken on him. Nothing is yet done about settling the regiments, but his Majesty tells me he will not stir till we are all well provided for. [1 page. Flanders correspondence.]

Sir Hen. de Vic to [Sec. Nicholas.] We hear that the Emperor is dead, which is very unseasonable for the troops that were expected from Germany.

To-day the Colonels here are all to meet, to resolve on a memorial of what remains unperformed of the capitulation for their lodging and subsistence, wherein are such great defects as that, without speedy remedy, we shall see that little body of ours become much less, to the irreparable prejudice of his Majesty's affairs. I am to go this morning to Don Juan for money to supply part of the King's wants, of which I have more hopes as bills have come from Spain for 250,000 crowns, beside 50,000 for the Prince of Condé. But we may yet have difficulties; therefore the time of the King's return to you is uncertain, for he must not leave with only good words and promises, and performance is very uncertain as to time.

Meantime I think neither he nor his brothers are displeased to be here, and all the nobility is glad of it. They were yesterday publicly at the Comedy, and sat in the Prince of Condé's box. This afternoon they go to the English nunnery.

The Low Countries have forbidden all intercourse with France. Had they seized ships and goods, we should have hoped a more vigorous resentment than such soft proceedings on so great provocation betoken.

P.S.—A little box has been sent me for you, shall I forward it? [3 pages. Flanders correspondence.]

W. W[alker to Ambassador Lockhart.] On Tuesday the House adjourned till Wednesday; next day all the members in town were ordered to attend, and a committee waited on his Highness to ask when the House might offer somewhat to him. He met Parliament in the banqueting house on Wednesday. The heads you will see in a pamphlet enclosed. Another committee is to confer with him to-morrow. This evening at 7, notice came to Whitehall of fifth monarchy men assembled in Bishopsgate Street. A party of horse seized them as they were getting on horseback to go to some place appointed in the country; 25 are just now brought in, and some under examination. Doubtless it is deeper than can be seen into at first. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page, copy. French correspondence.]

[Sec. Thurloe to Ambassador Lockhart.] Parliament not being satisfied with his Highness' refusal of being King, reinforced their advice on Tuesday by the Speaker, the whole House attending. He answered that he had declared his mind. He also hesitated about other things in the petition, but was willing to give his reasons, and hear theirs; so the House have appointed a committee to confer with him on the whole matter. We pray that God will incline him to listen to Parliament's advice.

Meantime he has had a new testimony of God's favour to him. The fifth monarchy men designed an insurrection, and were so ready that they had appointed their rendezvous this night at Mile End Green, but we had notice of it, and seized some 20 of their ring-leaders, as they were ready to take horse, took many arms and some ammunition, and their chief standard, a lion couchant, with the motto, "Who shall rouse him up?" There was a declaration in which they set forth a new government. We are sending up and down to apprehend others engaged in this design, and hope to break it. [Extract. French correspondence.]

R. Lovell to [Sec. Nicholas]. I wish your pious discourse of proceedings in England well laid to heart by those whom it concerns to have an end put to that usurpation and tyranny, and I should hope to see the power of that villain [Cromwell] quickly broken; if he were once deprived of the strength he has, more from the displeasure of God against our actions than any delight He can take in his. But while our sins are increased rather than repented of, how can we expect any ease to our sufferings?

There is only one piece of news from England this week, viz., that of the 12 articles debated and agreed on for the settlement of the kingdom, that for an oath abjuring the Royal Family is now rejected, not for its wickedness, but for the distress into which it would bring a great multitude. Cromwell has refused to take the title of King, but they must be very ignorant of the man who believe him ingenuous in it, or that he does not most strongly design what he would seem to avoid.

The news of the Emperor's death is believed here. I pray it may not produce a worse change in the affairs of Christendom. The difference between the States and the French grows high, for not only all French ships, but bills of exchange and estates are arrested, which is more than was ever done in the heat of war. [Sir Edw. Hyde] to Sec. Nicholas. I know not what more to say to the Lieut.-General; be sure we are not slow here in pressing for money to assist that levy, and on my conscience they would help us if they could, but they must first provide for their own companies, so that Middleton had best pursue the advice last given him, and as the state stands, I hope he may make no ill conditions. For Mr. Roper there is an unhappy change in that whole affair, by the death on the 2nd of the Emperor, which so perplexes these ministers that we cannot speak with them. It is unfortunate to Christendom, and will be agreeable to none but the Cardinal and Cromwell. Sir Hen. de Vic could get your letters for Vienna put in the Spanish ambassador's packet. The Germans will now have too much to do themselves to relieve their neighbours.

Mr. Bruncard has been and has gone back, and though he was said to be sent to the King, his Majesty knows no more of his business than you do. "I believe the good [man] your friend, who gave him the advertisement never had any authority so to do. I hear he is at the Hague very well received, and a member of P. R's (?) persecuted crew."

I have your 4 of the 18th, and I wonder Church did not send his direct here. I wish you had sent a letter of revocation, for Lord Bristol knows not the exact form; it cannot be done by to-morrow's post, and when done, must be sent to you to seal, for your brother secretary has no signet, of which we find the miss. Send a draft letter, and if we prepare another meantime, you shall have a copy of it.

I would tell you when we should be at Bruges if I knew it. I wish myself there, in this melancholy time by the death of the Emperor; I hope we may get off next week. Everybody is pleased with this place, but I have only been twice out of doors since I came. I have a good garden to walk in. We have only had one person from England, an honest man, sent by honest men, but on a very sleeveless errand. I hope for some good turn there, and then all that you can wish will be done from hence. In Holland they are very angry. A little time will tell us what to trust to. My heart is set upon money. If there be 2 dollars in the house, there are 100,000. My service to my good Judy. John, Lord Culpeper to [Sec. Nicholas.] * * * *
There are several reasons given here why Cromwell demurs to accept the crown. Some think it is to be only pro forma; others believe that it is real, and that he intends to build on this foundation, and to do the business better to his advantage, with more power and hereditarily, by the triennial Parliament which is to be in September. The third is that he, finding too great oppositions in Lambert and

72. Capt. Robt. Plumleigh to the Admiralty Commissioners. I doubt not but the commander of the Downs' squadron gave an account of our departure for his station off Dunkirk, on 22 March, as also of our having passed the Earl of Dorset from Dover to Calais. In company with the Dartmouth and Red Horse pink, I chased two Ostend men-of-war into Feckham Bay, and then returned to Calais, and anchored in Mardike Pitts, to wait for the remainder of the squadron; the easterly wind has prevented us from recovering the Flemish Road. Since being on the coast, I forced two of the enemies' men-of-war on shore, and sent my boats to set one on fire, but the men of both escaped; the Adventure chased another until dark. I send the names of the ships forming my squadron, and particulars of their stations; I will not quit the coast while the spring [tide] will admit any of the enemies' ships to come forth. We have had strong easterly winds, and all have a longing desire to be in the Flemish Road. I want 10 or 15 men to be added to Capt. Nixon's company, and 2 saker guns; he being well acquainted with the coast, and an active person, will be very useful. [1 page.]

73. Capt. Wm. Whitehorne to the Admiralty Commissioners. The Merlin has come in to clean and revictual; I have ordered her to Dover, and the Mermaid to remain on that side until she is fitted. 74. Capt. Wm. Whitehorne to the Admiralty Commissioners. Notwithstanding the easterly and northerly winds, I believe Capt. Sparling and his squadron have got to their station, save the Drake, which, having broken her bowsprit in Dover Road, remained behind. The John ketch, contracted for by Mr. White of Dover, has arrived; as she had only 4 men and a master, and no powder, I have supplied her with 2 more men and necessaries out of the Essex, and will direct Capts. Plumleigh and Sparling to put 2 more men each on board, and in case of any sudden service, what other men and necessaries they may deem fit. The Mermaid has been cruising in the Narrow. I have ordered her to accompany the John ketch to Capt. Plumleigh, and to inform him that there are 2 ships fitting at Dunkirk for the King of Spain, and one at Ostend, intending for the northwards, and to fall upon the fishermen, so as to regain men to redeem their own imprisoned in England; if they are soon expected out, he is to keep the Mermaid 4 or 5 days for his assistance, but if not she is to return and cruise in the Narrow. I hope the soon going over of the frigates to the other side may prove beneficial to the nation and to trade, annoying the enemy, and securing Charles Stuart and his party on the other side. As the fishermen will be ready to go to sea on the 23rd inst., they would be glad to be assured of a convoy at their first coming out, otherwise it will be a great hindrance to them. [Amb. Lockhart] to Lord Rich. Cromwell. The late news meets various constructions, according to the different apprehensions of his Highness' motive. I wait the issue of the new application. Sir Hen. de Vic to [Sec. Nicholas.] I cannot do more now than thank you for yours, as to-morrow morning I receive the communion, and it is high time, not having had it this 15 or 16 months. I hope, whatever else we suffer here, we shall not be so long without it.

Sir Rob. Welsh pretending to have something important to disclose to the King, the King of Spain, and the Prince of Condé, his Majesty sent me to fix a time when he could be heard in presence of persons to be appointed by all 3, but Don Alonso, wishing to have him apart, heard him yesterday. The King has appointed Lord Bristol to do the same for him.

I have so often urged the King and the Colonels to meet and agree on a memorial to be drawn of their common wants and demands, that I think it will be done at last. I have often been with Don Juan and Caracena about a supply for his Majesty, and payment of the Duke of York's arrears, but get only promises, so that I cannot tell when we shall return; we shall be here a week longer at least. We are all putting on black for the Emperor. Send no letters here, except for my Lord Lieutenant and Mr. Chancellor [Hyde], because of the charges and trouble. If you send others,

79. Capt. Willoughby Hannam to the Admiralty Commissioners. I left Capt. Stoakes on 19 March, he ordering me to sail to Plymouth, with the Bonadventure of Bristol, taken by the enemy, and retaken by us, together with 17 prisoners, whom I shall deliver up at the prison at Plymouth; there were also 6 Englishmen, who belonged to the ship. I met 2 ships of Dartmouth, laden with salt and oil, off Cape Finisterre, and they came in with me. I had great storms, with easterly winds, and have been in the Soundings of the Channel 14 days, but only met with a Bristol ship from Virginia, laden with tobacco, bound for Holland. I cannot hear that any West India ships have arrived in the Groyne, or parts adjacent. If you have any orders, I hope you will send them at once, as Capt. Stoakes commanded me to hasten back as soon as I had delivered up the prize to the Commissioners for Prizes. [1 page.]

April 13.

80. Capt. Wm. Whitehorne, to the Admiralty Commissioners. I received his Highness' order for sending over two gentlemen from Dover to Dieppe, and have appointed for it the Oxford, which has just come in from cruising with the Cornelian in the Narrow. While there, they spoke a ship of Holland and another of Denmark, who were sent there to warn their ships, the former not to put into France, lest they should be stayed, and the latter not to put into the Sound, for fear of the Swede; both desired they might ply without molestation. The Pembroke has come in with several convoys from Seine Head; I have ordered her for Woolwich, and the Cornelian to see her convoy to the Yarmouth Roads; the Assurance having come in for water and ballast, I have ordered her to Deal. I send account of ships in the Downs and on the coast of Flanders. [1 page.]

April 13.

81. Chas. Longland to Robt. Blackborne. I have despatched 2 ships, one with beverage wine direct to the fleet, and the other to Naples, whence these wines came, to buy and lade some. The intercourse of trade is limited by the sickness there, so I have to freight ships there in Italian names, whereby the Admiralty Commissioners will be as really served as heretofore, although not so punctually. I have fitted another ship for Naples, to comply with Mr. Goodwin's contract; the other two were for Vice-Admiral Badiley's. Though the ships are Italian, they have 2 or 3 Englishmen in each, with English colours, to save them from the Turks of Algiers. These wines have been so scarce that they will be rather a loss at 24 dollars, and there will be loss by the exchange, as the Commissioners have agreed at 4s. 9d. the dollar, and the exchange is now 4s. 10d. or 4s. 11d. The Commissioners should not leave any purchased wine on our hands if the fleet is recalled, or they would ruin their servants; if they continue to be served with it, I hope to have the commission, as I can get what quantity they please at 23 dollars per butt, if they will pay as the exchange goes; but if I lose 2d. per dollar it will import  $\frac{1}{4}$ .

without cause, as they publicly brag at Leghorn that they have joined with Spain, and are now sending out 30 sail to lie off the South Cape, to catch Portuguese; but whether they speak the truth or not may be seen. Ruyter has taken 2 French ships of war, and the French some Dutch merchantmen in these seas.

It is reported from Vienna that the Emperor died on the 2nd inst., without making any settlement of his posterity in those dignities, which cannot but make great broils in Germany, as most of those princes were weary of the house of Austria, and think their own heads as fit for the imperial crown as any other; and besides the Spanish affairs are utterly ruined, as all their expectations of support and succour were from thence.

Two Majorca and 2 Dunkirk ships of war were about Porto Longone, to rob our and the French nation, and when between Pantalania and Cape Bona they met 2 English ships, supposed to be the Ann Percy and an Eastland merchant, with whom they fought 6 hours, and all being well banged, were forced to retire. T. Ross to [Sec. Nicholas]. I send you my cypher with Mr. Magden, which has hardly any additions. Thanks for your news from France; I pray that it may have the issue we desire. Lord Gerard says he is to raise his horse-guards at once. The King's allowance of 400 guilders a day for his family is said to be settled, and that of the dukes will follow. To-morrow they go to visit the Princess of Condé at Mechlin.

Col. Jamot has arrested 2 spies here, Bernard, merchant of Rotterdam, and Radport, his brother-in-law; Bernard is rich, but a very rogue. Sir John Mosley is in town to witness that he said, "The most just and heroic action in the world was that of the rebels cutting off the King's head," yet Sir Simon Tosse presumed to write to the King in his behalf, and was at Court to-night, talking with Grigg, who is too clear a soul to entertain any argument for such villains. The dispute between Sir Cecil Howard and Col. Hollis was settled, through the King's command, by my lord of Ormond, and Rochester.

P.S.—In my cypher, tenants meant soldiers; Martha was for Mr. Magden, and Elizabeth and Beck for Mr. Hall. [2 pages, Flanders correspondence.]

quickly for a share. They say the Spanish Ambassador at the Hague will be here to-morrow for a momentous consultation. I dare say all will be said on our behalf that can be wished, for you may lay your life upon it this people is most hearty, and wish the same things that you do. They are drawing out their forces to the frontiers on the noise of the motions of the French, and the succours which are to come from England; but I do not think the Cardinal is so forward, and this alteration in Germany will put new thoughts into their heads, and Cromwell may have more to do with his men than to spare them for France. [Sir Edw. Hyde] to Sec. Nicholas. If I durst, I should be angry with you for not opening Mr. Roper's letters, which could contain nothing that you should not see, and might contain something in cypher which I could not understand without your help.

I do not wonder that Middleton is very sad, but if I were to be hanged for it, I know not how to help it. We have not received a penny yet, and when we shall I shall only know the end of this week. He is not fallen into these straits by any neglect of his friends here, or by pursuing his instructions. There was neither a promise made, nor a word in his whole negotiation which passed not your hand. The first design of the journey was his own, on confidence of getting a good sum, and when he had the first 100*l.* assigned, it was as much as he looked for. It is true if he found the ways he proposed to fall short, and should return an account how and on what terms he could prevail, we promised to get what money we could of the ministers here. I hope my letter will satisfy him, for no doubt he may dispose his men to his advantage, and those who have them will be glad to pay their charges.

Thanks for your advice of credentials for Mr. Roper, which shall be dispatched and sent you, for there is no signet here; this makes me send you a testimonial for an honest man to seal.

88. Lieut. W. Sheppard to Commissioner Hopkins. You will wonder at receiving a letter dated from the Providence in the Downs so soon after our being bound for the fleet before Cadiz, but we and the Yarmouth have brought in a Spanish galleon; although it is the Yarmouth's prize, the Providence was the first to give chase, yet with all our dexterity and skill, we were only spectators; I cannot compare this ship to anything but the impotent man at the Pool of Bethesda, for still one or the other steps before her; and this is not covetousness, but a proud emulation to discharge our duty to God and the nation. Thanks for your good opinion of me, which I

April 16. 89. Capt. Jno. Littlejohn to the Admiralty Commissioners. I
The Providence, Down's, conveyed the Golden Parrot and Hopewell, bound for Jamaica, to the Land's End, by order of Capt. Stoakes, and after lying to for 60 hours through the wind, returned to my station. I met Capt.
Mackey off the North Cape, expecting Capt. Stoakes, and saw the galleon now brought into the Downs. I beg orders as my ship is fit for sea, but wants carpenter's stores. [1 page.]

April 16. 90. Capt. Wm. Whitehorse to the Admiralty Commissioners. The
The Essex, Down's, Yarmouth and Providence have brought in the Sta. Maria, a Spanish merchant, which Capt. Mackey met off the North Cape, laden with tobacco, wool, sugar, hides, brazil wood, turtle shells, &c., from the West Indies, and bound for the Groyne, having 90 seamen and passengers, and 18 guns. I send a letter from Mackey, and have arranged with him to stay for further orders, as also to provide against any embezzlements. Particulars of the arrival and departure of other ships. Many have arrived from several ports, without meeting any of the enemies' men-of-war. [1 page.]

April 16. 91. Capt. Robt. Mackey to the Admiralty Commissioners. On The Yarmouth, Down's, 12 March I sailed from Plymouth, with the Rainbow and Providence and several victuallers, and saw them to Gen. Blake's fleet. On returning for the North Cape, I chased a sail called the Virgin Mary of Calais, from Carthagena for St. Sebastian's, laden with tobacco, &c. After exchanging several shots, she struck her flag. I boarded her, and found she had 18 guns, 90 seamen and passengers, amongst whom is Don Diego de Castro, governor of Loca, a place in Peru, and several other Dons. After taking her, the Providence came up, and Capt. Littlejohn agreed to assist in seeing her safely brought in, not knowing what she might be worth. I was desired by the governor to look for a chest with about 5,000 pieces of 8 in gold and silver, but although I made search, it could not be found; I have however about a bushel of letters, which I will send up. I formerly complained of my master's deportment towards his commander, and as he has since most grossly abused me, I desire he may be removed, or
I cannot remain myself. [1½ pages.]

April 16. 92. Capt. Thos. Sparling to the Admiralty Commissioners. I
The Assistance, Ostend, sailed out of Dover Road for my station, with the Nightingale, Bramble, and Acadie, but we got separated. A small fishing boat came off from Blackenburg with a flag of truce, to buy the boat and nets I formerly advised you of having taken. On examining the fishermen as to what frigates had lately gone out of or into Ostend, they said they had not been there for 3 months, and were not allowed, in case intelligence should be forced from them; they admitted however that 4 small ships from the eastwards went in there on the 7th instant, and that the State's man-of-war, which was taken last year with the English convoys, is fitted for sea, has 40 guns, is bound for Biscay or Spain, and would have sailed but for the English ships arriving upon the coast. I have nothing to induce me to credit anything they say, save that I can discern through my glass a ship riding at the Brush, with the ragged staff at the main topmast head. I have had very foul weather with high winds, and the fishing boat I formerly mentioned, sinking at the stern, she was the next night carried away from her moorings. [1 page.]

W. W[alker to Ambassador Lockhart.] Little has been done this week in Parliament. The House meets daily, and adjourns till his Highness returns his answer. To-day the committee conferred with him, and are to meet him to-morrow at 3 p.m. You have heard of the wild people's design. They were seized in Bishopsgate Street; some of the chief about town of that judgment were seized, and are in custody. [1 page, copy. French correspondence.]

93. Hum. Robinson to [Williamson]. Despatch of letters, goods, books, &c. I sent your letter to Sir Ralph Hare, but hear nothing of him.

Our Protector cannot be drawn to accept of kingship, notwithstanding their frequent addresses to him; he takes further time to satisfy his conscience. The Parliament have done nothing but this since Easter, nor will till this is finished. We think he is the more shy because the Majors-general and much of the army are against it. Last week, our 5th monarchy men were arriving to dethrone him as an Antichrist, and Gideon-like, doubted not to do it with such a number that one should chase 1000; 20 or 30 were taken into custody. Major Harrison and some others of that judgment may be in the plot. Now we hear he has lately got a cold, and is much indisposed; it's said because they have sworn against kingship the name of emperor will content them; this may reconcile all. [1 page.]

[Sir Edw. Hyde] to Sec. Nicholas. You have a great advantage over us in the post, for our letters come to you early over night, and you have time till next noon; but yours come at night, and we have to send to the post before 10, so no wonder if we write in haste and omit things.

I have not sent Sir Rich. Browne's revocation, the King resolving, though he has not altered his opinion, to hear once more from France, and to see what alteration there will be in the Councils on the death of the Emperor; I suppose Mr. Young would not advertize you that of the 09.134.2: [Protector?] if he had not some information of it, yet you know we have had the same before, when not true.

I can yet give you no account of your friend Sir. Thos. Walsh, who has been with Don Alonso and Don John; by the assiduous care of the good father, he has seen Don John, who used him with some courteousness. A little paper, much to the same purpose with those you have seen, but shorter, and mentioning only his zeal to the service of his Catholic Majesty. The King has appointed lords Bristol and Rochester to examine him, which they will do in a day or 2. Except it be a fault not to do all myself, I must impute the forgetting the cypher to Harry. Two merchants who lately came over to Antwerp have been imprisoned for disaffection, and will not be released till they have yielded some milk.

VOL. CLIV.

If they are called spies, they may deserve it. Many solicit their release, and among them your friend Tosse, but ineffectually.

I will give the King the message you received from France. Nothing is left undone here that we can think of. I wish he would tell us how to take advantage of this. I still think the yielding will be on the Cardinal's part, and that he will yield in all and be friends. I wonder you think this stranger than that he sent an ambassador into England, after he had seized all the English goods in France, with as much rigour as he has done now the Dutch.

I see you have no faith in the good words we receive here ; tell us what else to do, and to what friends to betake ourselves, and I will trust these no more than you will do.

It is not easy to resolve what to say to M. Roper ; as soon as any conclusion is made, you shall know it.

I do not think Manley ? opposed Cromwell's being King, nor that he desired it for other reason than new importunity, to which he will yield at last. Excuse me to those to whom I cannot write by this post. [2 pages, Flanders correspondence.]

Lieut.-Gen. Middleton to Sec. Nicholas. The delay in arrival of yours has put me to great trouble, and his Majesty to very great charges for these soldiers that are on my hand. I know not what to do with them. The disbanding of them will hinder any future levies in these parts for his Majesty's service. I cannot keep them beyond Tuesday, for I am at the end of all my little shifts. As to my countrymen, if 10 ducats would do the business, I could not draw it from them. Indeed they are inconsiderable, two excepted, and these complain so much of past injuries that no good can be done with them. I have delivered none of his Majesty's letters, for they are not worthy of that respect.

Till money comes, I shall be kept here in cruel restraint ; 3,000 guilders would pay all I owe. But if by next post I am encouraged to go on with the levies, I hope that in return for my great charges, I might do his Majesty some small service.

No place has more kindness for the King than this. The King of Poland wrote effectually to the Senate on my business, and I expect a letter from him to our King daily. The Polish Commissioner has been treated very well, and says the King desires to see me, and if he comes near this place, will find a way to convoy me to his army. I am ill provided for long expeditions, so I told him I could not promise anything, but must wait my master's commands. The King and great ones in Poland are much satisfied with our King, and his letter was as welcome as if it had brought actual assistance.

Bradshaw, Cromwell's resident at Hamburg, is to be sent to the Emperor of Russia. I conceive the Muscoviter now being declared successor to the crown of Poland, a letter from the King of Poland to that Emperor may hinder his reception. If the Muscoviter take Riga this summer, as is expected, his friendship may be of great advantage to his Majesty. News from Poland. [3 pages, Flanders correspondence.]

94. John Griffith to the King. I submitted to your will and retired here, where I have continued 15 months, in great affliction at being deprived of his royal Highness' service. I beg pardon of whatever was laid to my charge, and restoration. I have done enough to prove that none alive could be more devoted to your person and interests. [1 page.]

Col. John Bamp[field to Sir John Hobart, Bart.] My best apology for troubling you is to assure you that I would not so transgress without leave, but that my great necessities enforce me, like a sinking person, to catch hold of any stay to save me from drowning.

I have been improvident enough, since my submission to the present government, not to have secured the friendship of any in power, except him whose dissatisfaction causes my present sufferings. I will present you with reflections pertinent to my justification from 2 particulars, which are the chief ground of the suspicions I lie under.

When the subtlety of my enemies had disposed their master to hate and remove me from his Court and service, without show of justice, he countenanced a forged accusation against lords Dysart, Lorne, Bacarras, Sir Herbert Murray, and myself, which was the only cause of my abandoning his party and returning to England, to seek sanctuary among those against whom I had fought. Now my enemies strike me at the altar, by accusing me of designs to embroil the present government, contrary to my promises; and knowing that their master's hatred of me, and my resentment of his oppression was too public for them to accuse me of negotiating for him, they try to ruin me with his Highness, by the same artifice with which they engaged their master against me, accusing me of making a party in England for his brother [James, Duke of York].

This fiction is unreasonable and inconsistent; first, from what I said to Mr. Secretary about his (the Duke's) leaving Bruges last Christmas, which was all I knew about him; then, from the nature of the thing to the royal party who are so alienated from him by the jealousy of his brother, and practice of his ministers, that there could have been no application; and if there had, I am the last person to make it, as they pursue me with malice. If the Presbyterians refuse to join their considerable interest with his brother [Charles II.], and with the assistance it is believed he will have from abroad, how unlikely it is that they should espouse the younger brother's unjust pretensions. I know that that party, who are zealous Protestants, have a greater aversion to the recovery of that family than some who make greater professions of fidelity, for they consider the Protestant interest interwoven with the present government. What Presbyterian, Independent, Protestant, or Englishman without religion, who considers the honour and prosperity of his country, or his own interest, would not rather sacrifice his life than suffer his religion, country, estate, and family, to become a prey to Spaniards and Irish rebels? If they massacred such vast numbers of English in Ireland unprovoked, at the beginning of the war, what will they do in revenge of what they have justly suffered since?

VOL. CLIV.

If there be any person alive who can prove me to have assisted to make a party for the Duke of York, either before or after his father's death, or to have delivered letters or messages for him, I will be content to die an ignominious death; but if I am not confronted with my accusers, I can have no redress.

I am accused of having a friendly discourse with Col. Mackworth, governor of Shrewsbury, the night before I left London, the substance of which I enclose, and the copy of it I sent long since to Mr. Secretary. Consider whether it is likely that, in the same breath, I should persuade him not to have anything to do with the royal family, as persons who would never keep faith with any, and yet to be false to his Highness, to whom I advised him to knit himself more closely than before. Next, how improbable is it that I should say anything tending to his Highness' disservice, when he told me that Progers and Hopton had made some overtures to him in the royal interest, but that he had informed his Highness of it, lest they should have been beforehand with him? Also he knew of my applications to the Protector and Mr. Secretary, and that I was leaving next day, and hoped to make my fortune in his Highness' service.

The reason why the informant said this was, first, to ingratiate himself; next, lest I should use to his prejudice some odd expressions he had used, and thinking that, as I was leaving the next morning, I should not know what he had done. Pray give the enclosed to Mr. Secretary, as you advise my writing to him; I have done so 14 times without acknowledgment. If he does not want me, I wish to serve under Sir John Reynolds, or in Portugal, or the Duke of Brandenburg, though from my acquaintance with the Court and army here, France is the place where I can best serve him. As I have told you all that ever passed between us, I hope this will not be considered a fault. If his Highness' ambassador here has written anything to my disadvantage, I am not surprised, yet I cannot clear myself, not knowing particulars, but shall persist in my fidelity to his Highness, notwithstanding any discouragement through the malice of my enemies.*

*I should be glad to serve with the English troops coming over under Sir John Reynolds, and could be useful to him, as knowing the language and manners of this people, and this may be better for me than any further intermeddling with politics. - II. Statement [by Col. Bampffield.] Being with the governor of Shrewsbury 14 days ago, he told me that Hopton had endeavoured to draw him to the royal party, assuring him that Charles Stuart had 17,000 men at the water side. I answered that when I left France 3 weeks ago, he had not 3,000, and I advised him not to trust any of that party, who had been unfaithful to each other, and advised him to marry some relation of those in power about his Highness, and to take active service if the English engaged in any foreign war, as being more honourable than shutting himself up in a garrison; but he said he liked his garrison, and should keep it if he could. I advised him to go oftener to Court, and spend his leisure at Whitehall, and give up some dissolute company he kept. This was all our discourse, and I appeal to the world whether it deserves banishment or imprisonment. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page, French correspondence.]

April 18. 95. Capt. Robt. Vessey to the Admiralty Commissioners. I transported Capt. John Whaly from Dublin to Rochelle by order of Lord Henry [Cromwell] and the Council, and having intelligence of 8 or 10 Spanish men-of-war laying upon the French coast for our Bordeaux fleet, I weighed in order to surprise them, and chased one, but lost her at night. Afterwards I came up with 4 more of from 3 to 6 guns each, took one, burnt the second, and disabled the third so much by shot that she was forced to run ashore, when she went to pieces, but the fourth got away; I have their three commanders prisoners. I did not judge it necessary to bring over the men, as there were 200, and my provisions were growing short, and I did not know what time I might get to England; I intend landing them at St. Martin's Island, near Rochelle. I hope to meet some more ships, and to that end will lie off the Poule Head of Bordeaux, having received letters from the merchants of Bordeaux of 16 or 20 sail of Englishmen that dare not come forth, by reason of men-of-war lying about the river's mouth. [ $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

April 19. 96. Capt. Robt. Plumleigh to the Admiralty Commissioners. remain and ply between the Flemish Road and Gravelines, to prevent any of the enemies' ships passing in or out of the Splinter. I have observed their actions, and find them to be as vigilant as possible. The enemy are very quiet. I have got no intelligence except from the master of a Dutch ship. I send a copy of his examination, and as there was no just cause for her detention, I allowed her to proceed on her voyage to Amsterdam. I desire order as to detaining Dutch or any other ships coming out of Dunkirk, although in friendship with the Commonwealth.

The Dartmouth and Redhorse requiring victuals, I have desired the commander of the Downs squadron to send others to supply their place; 6 sail should be constantly appointed to guard the road, viz., two 4th rate, two 5th rate, and two 6th rate frigates, as also to lie in Mardike Pitts. We have had much foul weather, but the whole squadron are in safety; the sick want fresh diet, and I hope care will be taken for a supply. I beg leave of absence at the end of the victualling on the 19th of next month. [1 page.] Annexing, [Sir Edw. Hyde] to Sec. Nicholas. Non-arrival of letters. I wish you were here to see how easy it is to get resolution in anything, as well those within our own determination as others, and then you would not wonder why I have not yet sent you Sir Rich. Browne's revocation or Mr. Roper's dispatch, yet I have prepared both.

The Spanish ambassador is where you would have him, at the Hague, though I wish him here, and your Frenchman is received as ambassador there, for which they unreasonably undervalue the intelligence of our friend Borreel, who sent word that he would appear only as envoy. I tell you still the yielding will be on the Cardinal's part.

When will you believe that I say what I think? I never in my life said anything to you that I did not believe. I no more believe that the King will stay here till near Whitsuntide than that he will go to Cologne, which I dare swear he does not think of. We shall be with you 3 days after we get away, but hitherto we have not had one dollar. Don Juan resolves to go to Antwerp this week, and I cannot imagine it possible to stay when he is gone. Some officers here are finer in their clothes than you or I, but I know none that keeps a coach and 6 horses.

The Duke of Buckingham is I believe in London; a petition has been delivered in his name to Cromwell, and graciously received, and it is said he shall have one of the young princesses, which he must be contented with now the Earl of Chesterfield has his mistress, which is much better than the other, and therefore the good lady ought not to be so troubled. I have given Church's bill to Mr. Fox, who will pay it.

99. Capt. Wm. Whitehorne to the Admiralty Commissioners. The postmaster seldom conveys packets to the Downs under less than 24 hours, when it might be performed in half the time. The Sub-commissioners for Prize Goods at Dover, as also Commissioner Desborow, have taken charge of the prize and her goods, and care has been taken to prevent embezzlements; I have sent Capt. Crapnell with 20 seamen from the Essex, to carry her up under convoy of the Nonsuch and Eaglet ketch, the latter of which will bring back Capt. Crapnell and the men, as also an anchor and cable and other things lent to the prize. I have sent 70 of the prisoners to Sandwich, in order to their being guarded up to London, and 20 of the principals in the Eaglet ketch, and in the prize.

Capt. Poynts having come down, I have sent Capt. Littlejohn up to you, and as soon as the master for the Yarmouth arrives, I will send up the present one, Capt. Mackey having already sent an account of what he is charged with.

Particulars of ships. The Mermaid has gone to Dieppe to fetch over Viscountess Montague and Sir Edw. Mansell. I hear from Capt. Plumleigh that the enemy at Dunkirk are very quiet, although some of their ships have their sails set, intending as he supposes to escape to sea if possible; this he will endeavour to hinder, and for that purpose desires a 5th or 6th rate frigate may be added to his squadron, which is in a very good plight, notwithstanding the late storm, as is also that before Ostend. 100. Capt. Thos. Sparling to the Admiralty Commissioners. I have seen little of the enemy since my last, but the Acadie chased a sloop on shore near Ostend, laden with wine, cheese, fruit, &c., which is lost. The Ostend fishermen have again applied for liberty to fish, their present condition being so sad that they have not bread to keep their families alive, and the various commanders were so much moved towards them, that they would have granted it had it lain in their power. Notwithstanding the long continued enmity between them and the French, they have hitherto forbore to seize or destroy each other's coast fishing boats, or to take any of ours, but they nevertheless complain that the best of their fish has been taken from them by men-of-war. I always feared the enemy's surprising their boats and getting intelligence thereby, but now I believe if they were freed by us from the point of starving, by giving them leave to fish, it would engage them to communicate such intelligence to us, but I will not grant anything until ordered.

There are 15 boats belonging to the place, which are tributaries to the Hollanders as well as the Spaniards, and are only suffered to come out upon special occasions, lest we should gain intelligence by them. The intelligence I received from Flushing is true; the 4 ships seen to go in before my arrival on the coast were the Leopold and 3 small frigates, which are yet in harbour, and there are 3 more fitted and ready to sail upon the King's account, one of which was the State's man-of-war, and 4 or 5 free booters. They had not been long at sea before they began to speak to the seamen according to their judgments as Quakers, which being disliked by Capt. Allgate and the gentlemen, and a disturbance arising, the captain examined them as to their reasons for going over to France, when they answered they were led over by the Spirit for the conversion of souls, and in order thereto they were carrying over the English and French book enclosed; they said they were willing to lose their lives for their religion. The captain, not knowing what might be the effect if he landed them on the French coast, has brought them back; for my own part, I verily believe that these sort of men who compass land and sea to gain proselytes will only share with the Pharisees in their portion. Hearing that there are 7 or 8 Holland men-of-war cruising in the Narrow, I have directed Capt. Allgate and the commanders of the Half-Moon and Hawk to endeavour to come up with them, and ascertain why they remain there, and to keep the sovereignty of the seas; but I believe they are there to warn their merchant ships not to go into any French port, and to annoy French vessels, as it is reported at Paris that war is proclaimed betwixt France and Holland, and that the Prince of Condé is coming with an army of 20,000 or 30,000 men, to secure the coast of Flanders. I sent an account of stores supplied to the fleet by the Fairfax, and beg you will inform Mr. Payler, and the other officers concerned, that they may be charged to the proper persons; other stores have been bought in Portugal for the fleet, of which I have no account.

We have destroyed the West India fleet consisting of 16 or 17 sail, at St. Crux off Teneriffe, but they had landed all their silver, and much of their goods, and some had taken in fresh provisions for the Indies, whither it was designed they should return, without coming nearer Spain, for fear of our fleet; their men were continually kept on board in expectation of us. They had erected new forts round the Bay, but we have destroyed them. We had 40 men slain, and 110 wounded, and the Speaker and some other ships are disabled. [1 page.]

It is thought the Emperor's death will sooner accord Holland with you. The Protector is not satisfied with the Parliament, large offers on the one side, and army's adverseness on the other. He has lately given them a paper of reasons, which it is believed may hold them till Whitsuntide, with hopes they may have at last that so long petitioned for. Some think he delays till he has some regiments from Ireland and Scotland that he dares confide in, and transport his dissenters. Since those few 5th monarchy men were in custody, we are very quiet. As they conceived themselves injured by being intercepted in their passage, I gave them liberty to go for any port not in subjection to the King of Spain, or to return home, of which they made choice, but with much discontent. Being in the dark touching such cases, and having nothing to warrant me in intercepting their passage except grounds of suspicion, I beg you to inform me what ships are to have liberty to trade with Ostend, or any part of Flanders; what goods are to be admitted, and what not. Pray add another ship to my squadron; 6 are not sufficient to block up the port of Ostend, and one is constantly required to ply in the offing, besides having to give convoys. bespatterings of Fras. Townley, who publicly reported that I had falsified my trust, and that Col. Clerke had told my servants that if others employed by the State made such bargains for them as I had done, it would soon impoverish the Commonwealth. I cannot therefore but insist upon my desire for a commission to be sent over, to examine upon oath all that were actors here in that business, not apprehending myself exempt from the common rule of discovering truth, nor that it can reflect upon me to have such as I entrusted quit themselves like honest men, or acquit me by declaring their own guilt if they proved faulty. When that course is taken here, it may also be prosecuted in England, there being some probability that the fault will be found to have been there.

Though I am shortly to depart to the Great Duke of Muscovy, it can be executed in my absence by any you may think fit, and on my return, I will willingly pass the test, and think it less disparagement than to be judged as having employed knaves and fools in the State's service. Though Mr. Townley and his servant Cambridge may not be known to all of you, yet Townley is known to some of you for his misdemeanors, for which he was commanded hence; nevertheless the Admiralty warrants still run in their names, and not in that of the contractor, and they are still looked upon as agents or factors for the State here, to their no small honouring among the resident merchants, who expected another kind of reward would have been given them for their insolent behaviour towards his Highness in his public minister here, which I cannot but think his Highness will so judge them worthy of, when the truth of their proceedings is known. [1 page.]

April 28. III. Capt. Thos. Sparling to the Admiralty Commissioners. The
The Assistance, Acadie brought off another small fishing boat, but as it was subse-Ostend. quently proved by the governor or chief burgher of Sluys, who sent out the chief bailiff with papers for that purpose, that she belonged to that place, although formerly to Blackenburg, and that her owners were late of Blackenburg, but had hired a house in Sluys, been in possession 14 days, and would have to continue there a year,—other circumstances showing how frequent it is to remove from one side to another, as war or peace presents—the boat was restored, as I have no order or inclination to injure any known inhabitant of the United Provinces.

I was informed by the chief bailiff that there are 8 or 9 ships in Ostend ready to come out, and that if the greater part of them had not been upon private men's account, they would have endeavoured to force their way to sea long ago; but the merchants cannot be drawn to adventure their ships upon such slender hopes, and there is little probability of their forcing out at present, except they should all be taken up on the King's account which by some is endeavoured. I beg a ship or two may be sent to my assistance with all speed, as the strength of Flanders is now in this port, and our whole squadron cannot make 600 men, whereas the enemy have more in 3 of their ships. Col. John B[amfield] to Sir John Hobart, Bart. I write again because my servant says you still remember me, which is all my support in my deep calamities. Not knowing my charge, I cannot say more in my defence. I beg God to make me an example of His indignation here, and to withhold His mercy from me at the great day of account, if I have been guilty of any plot against his Highness or the government since I first spoke to Sec. Thurloe 2 $\frac{3}{4}$  years ago, or if I would not hazard my life for it.

I have spoken so freely to Thurloe that I thought he could not have suspected me. I now find Ambassador Lockhart suspects that my correspondence with Thurloe cntrenches on his office here. I always feared this and have suffered by it, for during my imprisonment, M. Fobert, a Protestant with whom I lodge, was questioned about me, and promised preferment as a rider of his Highness' horses. On my return, I found my trunks had been broken open and my papers searched. I know not whether any were sent into England, but it would be to my advantage if they fell into Mr. Secretary's hands.

I am in a very hard condition, in odium with the Royal party, banished by the other. I cannot subsist without employment, but if

I apply to the French, ambassador [Lockhart] will baffle me; the Portugal ambassador says his mistress will welcome none that stand ill with his Highness, and the King of Sweden and Duke of Brandenburg would probably say the same.

VOL. CLV. MAY—JULY, 1657.

May 11.
Paris.

[Col. Bamfield to Sec. Thurloe.] My unhappy condition disables me from serving you as effectually as before. I told you that Lord Balcarres was sent away from Bruges in disgrace and want, but the Queen sent him 2,000 livres. He hopes to make his peace in England.

The Duke of York leaves the Spaniard's affairs and dominions, and goes to live with his sister at the Hague, partly because he is unwilling to act against the French, and is dissatisfied with the King and his minister, but chiefly because he thinks that there will be a breach between the English and the Dutch, and that he may be made admiral, or at least have a good squadron of ships. A match between him and one of the princess dowager's daughters is probable.

VOL. CLV.

His eldest brother proffered the Spanish Council at Brussels that if they would join all the English, Scotch, and Irish in their troops to the body he has already, and add 2,000 horse, he would command them in person; he proposed it as a means to break what forces the English should assist the French with, but they will hardly trust him with an army that would enable him and the Prince of Condé, who are great friends, to give the law to the Spaniards, and thus constrain them to the general peace. If this proposition fails, he resolves to go with the army, to try whether his presence will help to draw the English from the French service, which many are sanguine enough to believe. His youngest brother goes certainly into the field. I hope to tell you of the motions of the Duke of York. There is no ground for the suspicion contracted against 898 [Bamfield?]

Order is taken at Calais for reception of the 6,000 English daily expected. Cols. Lundsford, Donald, Napier, and others of the royal party, some of them Papists, are to have charges amongst the troops that come over under Sir John Reynolds.

To what a condition has my folly brought me! I left the rest of the world to gain you, yet I see the most obnoxious persons of that whole party preferred before me, and am banished my native country and proscribed, whatever side prevails; but I must be patient and wait a change, which I hope will either end my misery or my days. News from France, Germany, and Spain. [3 pages. Copy, French correspondence.]

Col. John B[amfield to Sec. Thurloe.] I cannot add to the vindications of myself sent to you and Sir John Hobart, being in the dark as to my accusers and their accusations, but if you will hear me, I will clear myself, or be content to lose my life. If I can be heard face to face with Col. Mackworth, I shall appear innocent of what he alleges against me; but there is no defence against this white powder, of which men die without knowing the hand that struck them. I have the same inclination and greater necessity to serve you than before. I beg some charge under Sir John Reynolds, or some employment where your officers could be witnesses, that my fidelity may be judged by my actions, and not by the malicious characters of my enemies. If not, let me go to the Duke of Brandenburg or to Count Waldeck, whom I know; or let me at least serve under Reynolds as a volunteer this summer. Also send me money, that I may pay debts contracted in your service, and redeem things pawned for subsistence. Let me have 3 lines to know your ultimate resolution. [2 pages, copy, French correspondence.]

1. William Simpson to his "worthiest Mecænas" [Williamson]. I thank you for your great kindness to me. I came to you inert and dejected, but you brought me to a better mind; instead of a pilgrim I became at home, honoured instead of humbled, rich instead of poor. I wish to compensate your favours by my future diligence and quickness. Let the sun of your kindness shine on me, that I may bring forth fruits worthy of such benefits. [*Latin, 1 page. May 2. Approval by the Protector of an order of 28 April. [I. 77, p. 809.]

May 4. 2. Col. Rog. Allsop to the Admiralty Commissioners. His Scotland Yard. Highness having commanded me upon this present expedition, is also pleased to continue me in my employment of marshal-general, with leave to appoint a deputy during my absence. I have appointed Rich. Gerard, Deputy Commissary-General of Musters, and desire you will cause all such money as from time to time is to be paid for the maintenance of the prisoners at Chelsea College to be imprested to him, and accept his receipts and certificates, as also those of Jno. Stainforth, whom he has appointed to assist him. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

May 4. 3. Capt. Wm. Whitehorne to the Admiralty Commissioners. We
The Essex, Downs. have had very violent southerly winds, but I will send over the Oxford or Wakefield to Dieppe, to bring Sir Edward Mansell to England, if Maj.-Gen. Kelsey and Com. Hatsell shall not order to the contrary, in regard of the urgency of the present intended service. Capt. Allgate has brought in a fly boat from Galloway, Ireland, on suspicion of being prize, as it is laden with wool and hides, the former prohibited goods. Upon examination I find she was bought of a Fleming; and the Irish or English that bought her, being bound to set her Dutch skipper and his company on shore at St. Malo, were going for Rotterdam, having in their passage heard of the war being proclaimed between France and Holland. Particulars of the movements of ships.

I have heard from Capt. Sparling, who, with the rest of the frigates before Ostend, is in good condition, and as he supposes the enemy there through their strength may come out to fight him, he desires another frigate or two may be sent to his assistance. I received a letter by the Virgin of London from Lisbon, from the Council at Lisbon to Secretary Thurloe, and sent it to Maj.-Gen. Kelsey and Com. Hatsell at Dover for quick dispatch. It contains the examination of a Genoese, who came from Cadiz to Lisbon, that he met 15 sail of Holland men-of-war, which had got in betwixt Gen. Blake's fleet and the shore, going into Cadiz, and that they said there were 15 sail more coming to assist the Spaniard against the English, and that the Spaniard had 38 or 40 sail of ships at Cadiz to fight the English. I also hear from Jas. Stephens, master of the Francis of London, that he spoke with the commander of the Ruby off Logus, where there were 6 sail more in his company, but Gen. Blake with the rest of the fleet set sail thence 3 days before, having heard by a private man-of-war that the Spanish Plate Fleet had arrived at the Canaries, and that this man-of-war fought with one of the Spanish ships that had lost her mainmast, but having 3 men slain, was forced to leave her. That there were 15 sail of Hollanders gone into Cadiz, and that the Hollanders had proffered to conduct the Spanish Plate Fleet from the Canaries, or to bring their plate from thence. I think we shall shortly have news either of the taking or destroying of the Plate fleet. [3 pages.]

The Assistance,
Ostend.

4. Capt. Thos. Sparling to the Admiralty Commissioners. I gave an account of the Nightingale being sent to the Brill with a convoy, and as there were 18 sail there waiting for a convoy to England, and two of them laden on the State's account, her captain was prevailed on to wait and see them safely over, after which he returned to his station. I hope he may be pardoned for giving convoy without order; I will refuse it in future without your approbation, but it could hardly be refused in this case, without incurring prejudice to the service there. I beg that a ship or two may be added to my squadron, as the enemy are reported to be very strong here, and they are still fitting out more frigates. If they intend to escape by night, they may attempt it very suddenly, but if to force their way by day, they may forbear until our ships are more foul, or some of them gone to tallow, which the Drake must do within a week, having been off the ground 9 weeks, which is 3 weeks longer than any of the enemy's vessels are ever victualled for. The Nightingale will also require more ballast. [1 page.]

May 4.

5. Examination of Wm. Reader, mariner of Poplar. Was informed by Thos. Clements, another mariner belonging to the Essex, and one of the company that brought the Virgin Mary prize to Blackwall, that one of the friars on board informed him there were several bars or ingots of gold and silver of great value hid in private places in that ship, and that Clements gave him so perfect a description of the places of concealment that he believes he can discover them on going on board, provided the ship is unladen; he proffers his service if he may be rewarded in proportion to what is found. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

May  $\frac{4}{14}$ .
Dunkirk.

6. The Judges of the Dunkirk Admiralty to the [Admiralty Commissioners.] We have spent a year and a half in a treaty about a general exchange of prisoners, and proceeded so far that it remained only to conclude; which however did not take effect, in regard of the difficulty occasioned by a small number of Spaniards taken out of Holland and Zealand ships, and some Walloons taken in their voyage to Spain, before the war, which you would not have comprehended in the exchange. This has given cause to the prisoners on both sides to redouble their complaints, in the continuation of the daily remonstrances of their miseries, being in truth such that they despair, through the apprehension they have of perishing in the end. We should not judge ourselves worthy the name of Christians if we endeavoured not to find out and apply some remedy, and since a general exchange is thought to be most commodious, and is most desired by the poor prisoners, we have thought fit to make a proposal thereof to you, and desire you will condescend to it, out of charity to the poor suffering prisoners. As for ourselves, we shall manifest all readiness to conclude upon such conditions as shall be thought just and honourable, and desire you to declare your intentions freely, that we may know how to conform thereunto. 18. John Kinsey, Thos. Watts, and Geo. Sargeant, commissioners for surveying, to the Protector. It is too true that there has been great waste of timber in Needwood Forest, the laws neglected, and fines not strictly required. Thus without care, one of the best forests in England will be devastated. Unless a party of horse be quartered near, we cannot preserve it from depredations, nor ourselves from interruption. Neither axebearer, keepers, nor Woodmote Court keep the people under, therefore we beg 12 or 14 horse to lie ready to deter trespassers, who day and night destroy the timber, and defy and threaten all who would control them. It will be a good opportunity, while soldiers are getting in the rents and fines for the Woodmote Court, to grant us an order to keep such a court, call officers to account, and receive moneys, being accountable therefor to the Worcester House Trustees. If you empower us to sell all timber felled without leave, and amerce all who have sold or used any, we could do good service. [1 page.]

I had a good opportunity of landing them, as the other ships had also, and the wind was very favourable, both going and returning, of which Major-Gen. May 12. 23. Petition of divers poor servants of the late King to the Protector. You know our condition, being old, incapable of any profession, many starved, and others perishing unless relieved. After long attending the Long Parliament, we got ourselves on the list, being inoffensive during the war. We lately petitioned for  $\frac{1}{2}$  of a small sum ordered 4 years ago by the Revenue Committee but not paid, and we got your order, but it specifies 2 lists, whereas there is but one general list, amounting to 4,000*l.*, in lieu of which 800*l.* was offered us, which would not have been 2/6 apiece among us, so we could not accept it, and are still suffering unutterably. We beg payment of the remainder. [1 page.]

3. On petition of the inhabitants of the chapelry of Attercliffe, in Sheffield parish, West Riding of co. Approved 15 May.

5. On report from the Committee on the petition of the Earl of Cassilis, Lord Burleigh, and Sir John Crawford,—that they and others of Scotland, out of affection to the cause, signed several bonds for the public before 1646, for moneys employed in carrying on the joint interest of both nations, and furnishing their armies sent into England to assist Parliament, which bonds the Scotch Parliament declared to be a public debt, and obliged the Estates thereof for the petitioners' relief, which notwithstanding, their lands and persons are seized and arrested, and they pray his Highness and Council for a like order as given 7 Aug. 1655 on Lord Balmarinsch's petition for debts contracted in 1638-40, viz., to suspend execution on bonds for public

7. To advise an order to the Treasury Commissioners to pay Rich. Lucy, Thos. Manby, John Hildsley, and — Cox, Judges in the Court for Probate of Wills, 300*l.* each for salary for the year ending 9 May, without fees.

8. The petition of John, Earl of Tweeddale, referred to the Scotch Committee, to report.

9. The pay of John Morgan as Maj.-General of Sir John Reynolds' forces to be 20*s.* a day. Approved 15 May.

11. Morgan to continue to receive pay as colonel of a regiment in Scotland till further order. Approved 15 May.

12, 13. There having been 1,475 men drawn from 10 regiments named to complete the 6,000 foot for Col. Reynolds' expedition, the Army Committee are to order the War-treasurers to pay such privates as were before May 7 drawn out of their respective regiments what shall complete their pay to 27 April 1657, to which day they are to stand as persons continued by the establishment; also to pay all such of the 1,475 men as have since been drawn from their regiments, according to the proportions mentioned, what will complete their pay to 18 May, to which day they are to stand as persons continued on the establishment. Approved 15 May.

14, 15. Maj.-Gen. Thos. Kelsey and Capt. Hen. Hatsell, out of the money at Dover designed for a month's pay to Reynolds' forces, are to stop 3 weeks' pay, from 27 April 1657 to 18 May, according to the establishment of the forces, for the 1,475 men ordered to be drawn from their respective regiments, towards reimbursing the money ordered on warrants from the Army Committee by the War-treasurers on the Army establishment, for completing their pay to May 18. Also to pay as many of the said 1,475 men as muster a week's pay from 18 to 25 May, according to the establishment. Approved 15 May.

16. There being 40 private soldiers drawn out of Capts. Skipper, Fryer, and Astell's companies, in Lord Lambert's regiment, to go with Sir John Reynolds, and they being at Yarmouth and Beccles, and a month more in arrears of pay than the rest of the regiment in London;—Order for a warrant from the Army Committee to the Treasurers-at-war, to pay them the said month's arrears, for their better encouragement. Approved 15 May.

17. The Worcester House Committee having been ordered to examine the accounts of Dr. Hen. Heyhurst, for services and disbursements as physician to the Northern army, and it appearing by affidavits that his commission, debentures, accounts, &c., were burned by the Scots in 1648, but that there remains due to him, from Oct. 1642 to Jan. 1645–6, 387*l.* salary, and 768*l.* for medicines.—Order that the said Committee give him the debentures ordered 3 July 1656 for lands in Ireland, which are to be as effectual as any other debentures given. - May  $\frac{1}{2}$  $\frac{5}{8}$ . Col. Jo. Bam[field to Sec. Thurloe]. My representations being disregarded, it seems folly to trouble you again, but I am resolved to set my face against this storm, and either reach the port, or sink in pursuance of it. I would have trailed a pike under Sir John Reynolds, but hearing that James Stuart is persuaded (contrary to his promise) to engage against this crown, and command his brother's troops, I suspend my resolution till I inform you, lest my going to your army (with a wish to die honestly rather than to live miserably) might be interpreted as a plot to debauch or betray your soldiers. Let me serve though only as a common soldier, to convince your commander of my fidelity.
- St. Germain-

I could serve you in the Duke of Brandenburg's Court, where I am well known, if a knowledge of German affairs would be of use to you, and if I had any means of getting thither; but I would rather serve in the condition to which I was bred. In our last of the  $\frac{4}{14}$ -th instant, we represented to you the daily complaints of the prisoners in hold here, and to give ease to them, as well as to ours detained in England, we were inclined to hearken to a general exchange, and to agree upon some just and equitable conditions to the same effect. As we have received no answer, nor understood your mind upon this particular, which causes us to suspect the safe delivery of our letter, we thought it convenient to advance as much as is possible so meritorious a business in itself, by sending a duplicate of our said letter, and to desire you, after you have considered the reasons alleged therein, to let us know your resolution. We also fell in with a Hollander, freighted with iron and other goods at St. Sebastian's by a Spanish merchant, and bound for Cadiz, as also the Kent, and rescued a Bristol man from a Dunkirk man-of-war of 28 guns, which we chased 8 or 10 hours, but could not come up with. prizes, while myself, with the Kent, plied at sea, where we met the Rainbow and Taunton, who brought a packet from the General for Capt. Stoakes to come to the fleet. Conceiving we might be included therein, we resolved, if we could get no intelligence after 3 days, to break it open; but before that time, the Kent went away with the ships left with the Providence to Lisbon, except the one I took the 1st of May, and afterwards we went to Lisbon, where we found the Kent, but I know nothing further of the Providence, Rainbow, or James, whose staying behind is contrary to order.

I found at Lisbon an order aboard of Capt. Adams, which was left by the General, to follow him to the fleet, as also for all other ships in the service, which I will observe. I have delivered the prizes to Mr. Henison, who produced an order from the General to dispose of them, and to whom I also gave the bill of lading and the examinations. I conceive that I did not prejudice the State by coming to England with my prize, but rather benefit it, in respect of the uncertainty of the weather, and the many enemies plying to and fro upon the coast. I am informed by a negro on board that there is a ship coming from Carthage bound for the Groyne. [1 page.]

Col. John Ban[field to Sec. Thurloe.] I wrote you a month since, directing to Mat. It were expedient for you to have some person, public or private, to give you an account of secret designs and public transactions. If you employ a person of quality, let me wait on him; but if you only employ a private person, M. Lamarine could serve you well.

I am going to Calais, to serve under Reynolds, if I may, and if I can have no other employment. Send me your orders there by Wednesday. 31. Capt. Thos. Sparling to the Admiralty Commissioners. The enemies' frigates are now tallowing and refitting with speed, and there are 2 upon the ground, with which it is supposed they intend to endeavour to escape by night, but I will endeavour to prevent it. There are also at Nieuport two sloops newly fitted out as men-of-war, and the ketch may be in danger of being surprised by them, except she be better manned.

I send a copy of a former order, and desire it may be amended by enlarging a little upon the word "stop," and that Ostend may be mentioned instead of Dunkirk, or rather Flanders, as there was a hoy laden with Spanish salt from Middleburg, bound to Ostend, and notwithstanding her papers, I could not be satisfied but that the salt was intended for the enemy, yet my orders did not permit me to stay her; on seeking the advice of the other commanders, and showing them my instructions, they recommended the sending of her back, and not for England.

I have approached nearer to the port, and ordered the ships so as to straighten the enemy more than ever the like number of ships have done before. I am informed that 2 colliers have lately been carried into Flushing by 2 small Dunkirkers, and wish the Tiger would arrive, or some other, as with the addition of 2 or 3 of the small vessels newly built, it would be a hard matter for any ship or vessel to pass in or out of Ostend, and I might then spare a ship to ply between Ostend and the Wellings, without prejudice to the present service, and intercept the passage of some of their prizes going in there. I have sent the Acadie for the Downs to tallow and revictual. [1 page.] Annexing,

31. 1. The Admiralty Commissioners to Capt. Sparling. You are to stop all vessels going to Dunkirk, whilst besieged by the State's ships, to join and strengthen the fleet, and not to give convoy unless it can be done without prejudice. 7 May 1657. [Copy,  $\frac{3}{4}$  page.]

32. Capt. Jno. Stoakes to the Admiralty Commissioners. I received yours denoting the arrival of the Kent at Plymouth with the Bristol ship, as also your displeasure at my sending her home on so mean an errand; but it was not only that vessel that moved me thereto, but also the merchant ships desiring my assistance, having seen 2 of the enemies' frigates the day before, and it being part of my orders to protect trade. I did not doubt also but the Yarmouth and Providence would have been with me in a day or two, as I ordered them to go no further than the Bay of Wyers, being the full extent of my orders; notwithstanding which the commander of the Yarmouth went on his own head to Lagust to Gen. Blake, who, admiring to see him come without orders, despatched him back; yet in his return, he goes up to the Bay of Wyers, and stays there at his pleasure, with a fair wind, together with the Providence, and instead of coming to the Cape, goes 80 leagues to the southwards for Lisbon; so that for 9 weeks I never saw nor heard of them, although I was never above 6 leagues from my station. I hope some strict course will be taken with them, lest others, by your clemency, do the like, which is not only too common, but dangerous; and although one has brought home a prize, it does not in the least mitigate his offence.

By intelligence received from the Spaniards, the fleet destroyed by General Blake at St. Cruz were twice at sea to come for the Groyne in the absence of these 2 frigates, which, if Providence had permitted, the effect might have proved very sad. On the 9th Gen. Blake sent for us to Cascaes, and I am now with him, as also the James and the ketch. [ $1\frac{1}{2}$  pages.]

and man all the ships in Chester and Liverpool, to prevent a conjunction between him and the Earl of Derby, and the Council of State ordered the Navy Commissioners to reimburse me. There are large sums due to me and others on that account, and yet I stand charged with exchanges drawn for that service.

Gen. Monk ordered Chas. Walley to hire a vessel to convey victuals to the Hare pink in Scotland; Walley imposed the service on me, and I drew a bill for it, which is charged to me as an imprest, though there is money due to the poor man for that service, and he is in prison for debt.

There was 490*l.* imprested to Phil. Evatt, my deputy check of the Primrose, who contracted with Col. Rob. Lilburne at the usual allowance of 9*d.* a day per man. I beg that I may have this allowance, the treasurer calling on me to pay the imprest. I was bound in 600*l.* to provide victuals for 400 men for 6 months for Col. Pride's company, which were never taken off my hands. I am out 225*l.* 15*s.*, and have had promises of relief 2 years, yet nothing done, and no employment. I have a wife and 6 children, whom I have three times removed from London to Liverpool, in order to my constrained intended planting in Ireland, amongst wolves and Tories, having spent my estate in hopes of satisfaction. I beg relief. [1 sheet.]

For 220 years we have enjoyed a waste ground and highway from the Falcon on the Bankside to St. George's Fields, and from the Falcon to Lambeth, &c., both in the time of the late Earl of Arundel and other lords of the demesne. But Wm. Angel has lately purchased it, built some cottages, and will build more, damming up the sewers, and bringing in many poor, to the undoing of the ancient inhabitants, who cannot keep their now poor. Also the new buildings will bring infection by taking away the air from our houses. Also he has stopped up most of the highway, and cut down ancient trees thereon, and barred us from getting water either for our households or for quenching fire. We beg the prevention of further building. With holograph reference thereon by the Protector to Council, desiring a speedy hearing of the petitioners. May 24. Col. John Bam[field to Sec. Thurloe.] You will have good intelligence from here, through those who have undone me to make way for their credit. The siege of Cambray is raised. Marshal de Gramont is going to Germany in 12 days with a great equipage. If you would send me with him, I could tell you all passages at the Diet, and the temper and designs of the princes, for I know the Duke of Brandenburg, the Prince Elector, and Prince Rupert, and could give you no ill information. I would conceal my correspondence with you, and only pretend that, having quitted the Royal interest, and not being well with the present Government in England, I wished to see Germany, and to seek employment in the wars there.

Dunkirk.

36. Admiralty Judges of Dunkirk to the Admiralty Commissioners. We received yours of the 21st ult., and thereby understood that you do not find it reasonable to admit of a general exchange of prisoners on both sides, by reason of the present juncture of time, which you say to be differing from that which was heretofore, when we treated to conclude a general exchange. To this we answer that we are willing to confess that the number of ours in England exceeds that of yours here at present, but the fortune of arms goes on daily, and we can easily equal the one with the other through the detention of the English and Scotch prisoners which the ships of war belonging to this Admiralty carry to the ports of Spain, who hitherto have been released as soon as they were brought in there, on hope of meeting with the like civility and commiseration.

We conceive that this difference ought not to retard so favourable and Christian a work, yea though it be to no other end than to preserve for the time to come from the miseries of a prison all those of your men who shall be taken and brought into any port of Spain, whom we shall be obliged to detain till a general exchange or some other resolution, to the great desolation of these afflicted and miserable creatures, which we believe you will take into consideration, and, to provide against it, hearken to the exchange proposed by us. For the furthering thereof we are contented to release all yours who remain here at present, or are taken hereafter, and brought by our ships, either into Spain or these parts, till they shall equal the number of ours which shall be released by virtue of this exchange. The Assistance,
Ostend,

38. Capt. Thos. Sparling to the Admiralty Commissioners. On the 24th inst., a small fisher boat came from Ostend, with a letter from two of the Lords of the States of Holland, who were sent from Amsterdam to Ostend overland to buy the ship formerly belonging to them, though lately rigged and ready to set sail upon the enemy's account. But seeing they cannot now get out by force, nor steal out in the night, they must of necessity either sell or use some juggling trick to get her out. The messenger said that they intend to come into Ostend with a small hoy of cordage to rig the said ship, after which they are to sail with her for Amsterdam, and that the Lords thought it convenient to acquaint me therewith, to the end they might prevent being intercepted and troubled, either going in or out. To this I answered that their acquainting me with their intentions could produce little advantage, as I was obliged to a punctual observance of orders; and that their request being opposite to what was already given me, I could only direct them to his Highness the Lord Protector, or the Commissioners appointed for carrying on the affairs at sea, from whom, if they could procure anything that might take off any part of what is already commanded me, I should gladly observe it; but in the meantime I desired them to forbear. To this the messenger said that the Lords did not look upon the business to be of such concernment as to require any further trouble than only to acquaint me, neither did they imagine to meet with any opposition, except by coming unexpectedly, without giving me notice thereof; upon this I promised to enclose their letter, and to endeavour a speedy receipt of your pleasure, which I desire and expect.

You know that I have nothing to warrant my intercepting their passage in or out of any part of Flanders except Dunkirk, instead of which if the words "any part of Flanders" had been added Ostend had been comprehended, and Dunkirk not exempted. This I look upon as a mistake, but my apprehending it so will not warrant my acting in such a case as this is, in which the correspondence of nations is concerned. Therefore I humbly beg that you will speed away my instructions. We are in such extraordinary want of a ketch, that in case it should not stand with your pleasure to grant it, we must of necessity spare one of the frigates to fetch water for the squadron, and how inconvenient that will be I leave to you to consider. [1 page Enclosing,

38. I. Three Lords of the States of Holland to the commander of the English squadron about Dunkirk. Being arrived here on commission of the Lords of the Council of the Admiralty residing in Amsterdam, to receive a man-of-war of the State of the United Provinces appertaining to the said Admiralty, called the Pheasant, which a year ago was overcome by twelve frigates of Dunkirk about the Maas and brought up here, for having defended certain English merchant ships in her company; yet being at last, by order of the Prince Don John of Austria, discharged, we find the said ship destitute of sundry necessaries, and besides the Captain Islerant de Vries, bearer hereof, and some few mariners, whom we caused to come hither from Zealand by the inner passage, we shall have need to send for 25 or 30 mariners more out of Zealand, with some provision for their sustenance, to convoy the ship to the Texel.

Now since the said mariners and provisions cannot be brought hitherwards the most convenient way by sea, nor the said ship brought forth from hence without your permission, as keeping the road, beset by men-of-war of the Commonwealth of England, Scotland, and Ireland, according to the orders of his Highness the Lord Protector Cromwell, we thought it expedient to dispatch the aforesaid Captain de Vries to request your consent thereto, not doubting but you will be disposed thereunto, with that discretion and readiness which the friendship and alliance between both States require, and which would be performed on our side on the least occasion.

Pray return a few lines in answer to this for our direction, and we shall order that the aforesaid ship coming

39. Thos. Gooch and Thos. Bendish, bailiffs of Yarmouth, to the Admiralty Commissioners. We were informed by Major Burton that Capt. Robinson of the Preston in the North Seas having then but 10 weeks' provisions, you would either send him a recruit, or another ship to relieve him; as it is now 6 weeks since he sailed, he cannot stay above 10 or 14 days longer at sea. We have since heard from him by 3 fishermen that his bread was for the most part mouldy, and that most of the fleet had not yet got half their voyage; this make us bold to remind you of it, for if some speedy course is not taken, the whole fleet, for want thereof, will be forced to come out of the sea with him, to the loss of all the profit of their voyage, which is their hope and the only hope of many hundreds of Yarmouth and parts adjacent, who have nothing else to sustain themselves and families all this summer. Major Burton also advised that you promised to send another ship to assist Capt. Thompson at Iceland, and so homeward; the time draws near, and the fleet there of 60 sail are too many for one ship, though no better than Capt. Thompson could be found to defend them in these dangerous times. We beg to represent the condition of both fleets, and beseech you to take such care of them, as their necessities, the concernment of these parts, and of the nation in general demands.

Last week 2 Dunkirk men-of-war, of 8 guns each, took 2 small vessels out of a light fleet bound for Newcastle, off the Spurn, and Capt. Wilkinson, hearing thereof, after he had convoyed several vessels into the Humber, made after them; the enemy stayed for him, but sent their prizes away; and after fighting with him for 3 hours, night coming on, they ran away after their prizes. As they have since taken 2 other vessels of Cromer, we think another ship of 24 or 26 guns should be appointed to ply between Winterton Ness and the Spurn, to secure the Newcastle trade. [1 page.]

I hope they may not be put to any loss of time, which often occurs, and makes them the more unwilling to go from ship to ship, but that they may be entered on board the Resolution from the time of their discharge from their respective frigates.

Upon the arrival of Capt. Newberry, I will observe your directions touching the guns of his frigate; I will also detain John Morgan, on the coming in of the Dover, to be gunner of the Gloucester, and put 20 more seamen upon the ketch attending on the London from the same ship, for her better security in calling in the Phoenix and Oxford. I sent the Phoenix to transport Lord Wm. Cavendish to Calais or Dieppe, and the Oxford to waft over the Hon. Fras. Boyle to Holland.

Capt. Whitstone met 2 Holland men-of-war, who were very submissive and courteous in saluting. Very few men have been pressed at present, but Capt. Whitstone has sent 20 on board the Nonsuch, and others may be taken out of the squadron. I will send Mr. Carslate away with those obtained to morrow, for the more speedy getting out of the Resolution.

Although Capt. Littlejohn, master of the London, has not yet come, there are 3 men of Deal named Pearce, Pie, and Peache, who are able to go as masters of any of the State's ships, and were all in the Dutch war. The Convert has gone as convoy to a hoy laden with shoes, coats, swords, and belts for the forces transported to France, and the Tiger passed through with soldiers on board from Yarmouth. Particulars of ships. I hear from Capt. Plumleigh that all the frigates before Dunkirk are in good condition, and the commanders of the two squadrons will appoint each of them a small frigate to lie before Nieuport, to annoy the enemies' fishing trade, being sensible of the prejudice that will accrue to them thereby. Many of the ships there, however, being nearly out of provisions, I want orders therein, as also as to the disposal of the Adventure.

I hear there are 70 sail of Hollanders ready to put to sea, and have therefore sent to Capt. Sparling to order a nimble frigate to ply eastward of him, and to have a watchful eye over their motions, and if they come this way, to give me a speedy account.

If they should intend perfidiously to affront this Commonwealth, they would very quickly overpower the frigates on the coast of Flanders. I will be ready with the Essex or any others that shall come into the Downs, for any emergency; the Essex would be more serviceable if she were cleaned and refitted; if the others with the Torrington come in to night, I hope to make up over 200 men. Let Capt. Rooth of the Dartmouth be ordered up the river, and paid off. [3 pages.]

May 25. 41. Examinations of Edw. Atkins, and 5 others, before Thos. White, mayor of Dover, respecting the embezzlement of goods out of the Virgin Mary, a Spanish prize, by Mr. Leomond and Mr. Cracknell, waiters, while being convoyed up to London from the Downs by a ketch commanded by Capt. Reader, and as to Leomond and Cracknell bribing the examiners with 40s. each to keep silence. [4 pages.]

May 25. 42. Capt. Robt. Robinson to the Admiralty Commissioners. I have regained a bark of Orkney, bound for Leith with barley, which was taken by an Ostender of 6 guns that is in these parts, with several others, as the 5 prisoners on board allege. I would have sent her in but the fishing fleet is now getting in a great store of fish, after a bad voyage, and being in full motion, and going

43. Capt. Thos. Sparling to the Admiralty Commissioners. The arrival of these 2 small vessels struck such fear into the Nieuport fishermen, that they have proposed terms which those who understand the difference between their fishing and ours think will be accepted. I have answered so far as, after conferring with the rest of the commanders, to grant them 7 days' fishing. As there are at present 4 frigates in port, ready to take the first opportunity to make their escape, it is necessary to employ all the squadron to watch their motions, and as not one could be spared at present to force them to take the sails from the yards, as we did before, and thus hinder their fishing at Nieuport, they could fish as well without the permission as with it. Upon the return from Dover of Capt. Henfield of the Acadie, who has often scared, but never could take one of them, I have promised the commander of the squadron before Dunkirk to send him, with one or two others, to oppose them, provided their terms are not accepted, and order is not sent to the contrary. [1 page.] Enclosing,

43. i. Peter Dolman to the General of the English navy before Ostend. On the earnest request of the fishermen of Nieuport, I beg you will permit them the ordinary freedom of fishing, till they receive a hopeful answer from those of Yarmouth, according to letters sent some days ago from the Admiralty of Dunkirk, about a friendly agreement on both sides, as they have with the French, to the great satisfaction of those of Yarmouth, and other fishing places.

*As our fishermen expect a happy agreement in a few days, they beg freedom of fishing in the interim, without molestation from your vessels before Ostend or Dunkirk, and they will present you with a small gift of 50 "pattacoutts." 44. Petition of Rich. Byfield, minister, and 6 godly inhabitants of Long Ditton, Surrey, to the Protector and Council. In 1641 and 1642, had a brief for collecting money in London and 6 counties for building their church, and part of the money has been 12 years in Sir Thos. Evelyn's hands, without account. No care being taken of the church, it fell down 7 years ago, the materials are much spoiled by exposure, and Byfield suffered much in his work until the granting of Thames Ditton public meeting place, till Long Ditton is rebuilt. He still suffers by the siding with a prelatical minister, Sir T. Evelyn's household chaplain, and by the concurrence of those of both parishes, and some from Kingston, who are potent against the power of godliness, which concurrence continues, even since his Highness "gave his godly and melting advice;" know not the consequence of such meetings as "the prelatical party is the most numerous, dissatisfied, closely working, though complying."

Beg an order for the speedy building of their church; for accounts of the brief money, and materials carried away, and for the laying of a land rate for further moneys. Beg that Shadrach Brice, J. P. and Obadiah Weekes, both of Kingston, may attend to these things, and see that the church is not built in the old superstitious way of chancel church, and church porch, but in one entire room. Also that the said concourse may be suppressed. [1 sheet.]

May 26. 45. Petition of Edw. Randall, of Enfield, Middlesex, to the Protector. I have long prayed for you, and looked on your deliverances in battle as the return of my prayers. Being constable for Enfield, I was ordered by Maj.-Gen. Barkstead to return the names of all delinquents. Capt. [Edw.] Story, who had sent a letter and money to the King's party in Colchester, employed Edw. Knevett, of Enfield, to offer me 30*l.* or 40*l.* to buy off his accusation. I told Barkstead, who bade me take the money, as it would be more full evidence against Story, for he had a large estate, and only one witness against him. I advised Story not to pay the money unless guilty, because it would be a witness against him, but he paid it to ensure me and Knevett, and he bound us over to appear at the sessions as trepanners. We petitioned you, and you referred the case to the Major-General and Commissioners, but Story declined to proceed before them, and prosecuted us at the Middlesex Quarter Sessions. There Capt. Methall, the witness against Story, could not be found; he told his own tale, and we were fined 20 nobles, which Knevett being unable to pay, he still lies in prison. I hear there are 6 or 7 more writs out against me for performing my duty, so that I cannot attend to my business, and shall be ruined, having spent 20*l.* in my own defence. I beg freedom from these suits, repayment of my own fine, and discharge of Knevett. Certified as true by Sir John Barkstead, 12 June 1657. [1 sheet.]

[Amb. Lockhart to Sec. He professed much zeal in the business, but said he expected a clearer invitation, and asked my authority for encouraging him. I said that in these cases custom settled rules of modesty, which straitened my liberty, and I feared I had gone too far when I assured him of welcome, and left the rest to his own merit and application.

I left him disposed to return, but am to receive his decision to-day or to-morrow; I will send it next post. Do not attribute his not answering at once in an affair of that importance to a want of readiness for the thing. [Extract, French correspondence.]

47. Capt. Robt. Plumleigh to the Admiralty Commissioners. Capt. Foote, of the Mermaid, being in Mardike Pitts, forced ashore a double sloop belonging to Dunkirk, having 3 guns and 30 men, which was destroyed, but her men gained the shore before the boats could get near them. The only action this station affords at present is to prevent the enemy from fishing. I have lately taken 2 small fishing boats, but no men. I proposed to Capt. Sparling for one of the new vessels with him to join with another of this squadron to lie before Nieuport, to prevent their fishing thereabouts, which is of great concernment for the relief of the enemy, and without which they would be miserable; but I am informed that Capt. Sparling has given a toleration for them to fish for 7 days. I am resolved not to allow it until I receive your Honors' commands. The enemy have 3 small men-of-war ready to sail, but dare not attempt to come forth. I have lately destroyed one of their prizes taken from the French going into Dunkirk, and my seamen had a pleasant skirmish with their horsemen on the Splinter, but without any loss on our side. I send the names of 7 of the squadron in Dunkirk Roads, and of 2 in Mardike Pitts, as also an account of their victua's. I have sent to the commander-in-chief in the Downs about a supply. Order in Parliament that next Wednesday, June 3rd, be set apart for a day of public thanksgiving in London and Westminster, for God's marvellous goodness in preserving the fleet in their late action at Santa Cruz, under General Blake, and giving them success against the ships of the King of Spain. [1 page.] Annexing,

i. Narrative of the action at Santa Cruz, on the island of Teneriffe. After spending several days at Cadiz, and not finding the enemy forward to come forth, it was decided to go to Santa Cruz, where we arrived on 20 April, and found that the West India fleet was in the harbour, 5 or 6 galleons, 3 being flag ships, and 16 others, some laden for and some from the Indies, having brass ordnance and their full complement of men. We resolved to attack them, though they were moored close along the shore, which was lined with musketeers, and commanded by the castle and 6 or 7 forts. Yet in 4 hours they were beaten, and all the ships driven ashore, except the Admiral and Vice-Admiral, which resisted most, but by 2 p.m. one was fired and the other blown up, and by evening all the rest were fired, except 2 that were sunk, and only their masts appeared above water.

To complete the mercy, our own ships got off well, though some were maimed and had to be warped off, and the wind blew right into the bay, and the forts and castle continued to play upon us.

We had only 50 slain and 120 wounded, and our ships so soon repaired that in 2 days we sailed to our former station near St. Mary's, where we arrived 2 May. To God be all the glory. With names of 17 commanders of Spanish ships, 5 of which were burned in Santa Cruz harbour, 20 April 1657. [4 pages.]

May 28. Order in Parliament that this narrative be printed and published, with the order for the day of thanksgiving. [All printed. Vol. II. No. 118, Collection of Acts, Rec. Off. Library, 498 French.]

May 29. <sup>The Lily, before Ostend.</sup> 48. Capt. John Pearce to Col. Jno. Clerke. After transporting the soldiers, I proceeded to Capt. Thos. Sparling, before Ostend, by order of Capt. Wm. Whitehorne, but as my ship is much undermasted, I hope she will be fitted proportionately, and thus made a good sailer. There is little news save that 20 boats belonging to Nieuport, and 14 from Blackenburg, are allowed to fish about Ostend. [ $\frac{2}{3}$  page.]

May 29. <sup>The Assistance, before Ostend.</sup> 49. Capt. Thos. Sparling to the Admiralty Commissioners. I have received your order to send ships into port to tallow and revictual, without further trouble; but being so short of frigates, I cannot spare more than one at a time, although I am in extreme want of clean ships, as the enemy have fitted and tallowed another within these two days, so that there are now five ready to go by us in the night if possible; if they accomplish this, it will be for want of clean frigates to pursue them.

VOL. CLV.

As things are now ordered, it will be impossible for any of their considerable frigates to get out in any reasonable weather without some of ours seeing them, if I am able to continue my present number; but if forced to send any away to clean before others arrive, I shall be incapable of knowing what passes out, and yet it would be very hard to get in. Eight ships, with the help of two boats, will just fill my line as a half-moon, and at such a distance from each other that it will be impossible for any ship to pass in or out during ordinary weather, and not be discovered by one ship or the other; yet it is possible for them to make their escape, if we do not keep the greater part of our frigates very clean. If they attempt getting out, it will be when they are newly tallowed; and if they do not do it within 3 or 4 days, they will take their sails from the yards, and give over their tallowing as lost, as they did once before.

The Tiger having returned, I have sent the Bramble to Dover to tallow and revictual, and will send the greater ships to Harwich, as they become foul.

I hope you will hasten your reply to the letter sent from the States of Holland; I am much troubled that your pleasure touching any business is so long in coming. [ $1\frac{1}{4}$  pages.] Annexing,

50. Capt. Wm. Whitehorne to the Admiralty Commissioners. I ordered Wivell, the victualler at Dover, to send 14 days' provisions to Capt. Plumleigh of the Reserve, under convoy of the Wakefield and Dover, and will order a month's for Capt. Haddock, who will sail for Dunkirk with all speed. I hear the Mermaid forced on shore to the west of Gravelines, one of the enemies' men-of-war having 3 guns and 30 men; it was destroyed, but the men got safe to land; there are 3 more within the Heads, waiting an opportunity to escape, but all care will be taken to prevent it.

I have desired Commissioner Pett, at Chatham, to send the Eaglet ketch to convoy a vessel laden with cables for Portsmouth, and for Capt. Reader to carry two long boats to Chatham, and then get orders for cleaning. The Torrington has arrived, having landed Major-Gen. Morgan and other army officers in France, and brought back Capt. Compton; the Oxford has also returned, having set the Honble. Fras. Boyle on shore at Helvoetsluys, where Capt. Algate reports there are 8 frigates fitting out; there are also 5 new ones at Rotterdam, the least having 50 guns, and the drums have beat up there these 14 days for Admiral Opdam, who is first to be manned, but there is little appearance of men; it is said they are all bound for the Straits.

Van Tromp has gone westward, with 6 or 7 sail, and 20 sail of Hollanders have also gone that way within this month. Particulars of the arrival and departure of ships, and names of 9 now in the Downs. The Cornelius and Beaver should be appointed to take a man out of each smack that comes from the River to the North Foreland to fetch fish, whereby 50 men may soon be gained.

52. Capt. Robt. Vessey to the Admiralty Commissioners. I have been cruising with the Griffin since the 19th instant, between Ushant and Belle Isle; I chased a Biscaneer on shore, and on getting her off with the boats, found she had 3 guns and 40 men. The following Wednesday, I, with Capt. Taylor and the prize, being in chase of another Spaniard, we espied 2 ships engaged together off Belle Isle, so leaving Capt. Taylor and the prize to follow up their chase, I made up to them, but night coming on, I lost them; at 3 the next morning I took one of them, which proved to be a French man-of-war, of 6 guns and 3 murderers, which had been taken by the other of 16 guns from St. Sebastian's, so that the possession of his prize was but short; I shall not be wanting in trying to get him; the one the Griffin followed got away.

We are now together with the two prizes, which we shall leave at St. Martin's until we have cruised about for 6 or 8 days, and then call for them, and make for Plymouth. We hear that several English merchantmen have been engaged with and taken, and that several Spaniards from St. Sebastian's, having from 16 to 36 guns each, are in this bay; I will endeavour to meet and cut them off, as being very detrimental to our merchant ships. 53. Capt. Fras. Allen to the Admiralty Commissioners. I came from Dundee on the 29th ult., with 3 ships bound for the Sound, and 9 laden for Hull, Bridlington, Newcastle, and Scotland; but it blowing hard, I stood over for the coast of Norway, and had to take one in tow; another laden with flax, not keeping close, was boarded by 2 small men-of-war. Hearing the guns, I cast off my tow, and made sail; Capt. Powell of the Portland, being between me and the shore, likewise made sail, and in a little time, we came up and retook him, Capt. Powell being first up by reason of my ship being so long off the ground, so he took the prisoners on board.

In the interim, another man-of-war of 8 guns came in amongst the rear of my fleet, and took another, whereupon I left Capt. Powell with the one retaken, and plied after him, and after 5 hours, retook him also, but the man-of-war got away with the master, although I have brought home the skipper. Capt. Powell's and my fleet consisted of 58 sail, and to secure them from the enemy, we were forced to go into harbour with them. We parted fleets on 28 May, 40 leagues from the Naze of Norway, and I arrived within the Head to-day, and after leaving the Hull ships, plied up with the

Has written him to supply the 3 ships with $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of raisins to every 3 lbs. of flour they carry, which is in lieu of a piece of beef or pork, and the oil they have must be expended in lieu of butter; also to supply Gen. | "                | Major Wm. | "                | Manley Callis andJohn Ruffhead, an-chor-smith, Deptford. | "                           | Have tested the iron bars, bolts, and spikes sent from the Forest of Dean, and find them good and serviceable.  | 89, 90          |

Com.              | Has made several journeys to Woolwich, to hasten the fitting out of the ships there, which will soon be ready to sail, if provisions are sent. The little frigate that came from the French forts in New England can be made serviceable at a small cost.  | 2                |
| "                | Major Wm. Burton,Yarmouth .                                  | "                      | The Freston having broken her mast in a chase, has supplied her with another, at a cost of 10 l . The Pearl was in the chase with her. The ketch plying about Lynn has taken a sloop, 7 of whose men ran on shore; has taken 3, and sent the hue and cry after the other 4. Having now 53 prisoners, it is much desired they may be exchanged for our men. As the coasts are full of the enemy, Capt. Plimleigh is waiting the return of the Wren and Vulture , sent to convoy a great coal fleet up the Swinn.   | 3                |
| "                | Capt. Robt. Robinsonthe Freston ,Yarmouth Roads . | "                      | While convoying 200 colliers to Yarmouth Roads, chased two sails for two hours; captured one of 2 guns and 27 men and boys, and sent her into Yarmouth. Went after the other, but breaking his mainmast, was forced to return to Yarmouth, leaving the Pearl to follow up the chase. Has received another mast, and will ply with Capt. Smyth northwards, as ordered; hopes to give a good account of the rogues in those parts. The Weymouth is gone as convoy to the colliers.   | 4                |
| "                | "   | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | To similar effect. Desires order for landing a quantity of empty beer casks, otherwise will have to stave them, contrary to instructions.  | 5                |
| "                | Capt. Rich. Had-dock, Dragon ,Downs .             | Adm. Com.              | Having taken in two months' provisions, &c., will proceed to Yarmouth Roads, and wait orders and a new anchor, having broken his best bower in Cadiz Bay; if ordered to lie on the north coast, will greatly need it.  | 6                |
| "                | Ordnance officers   | "                      | Send an account of powder delivered by 6 powder makers named, under contracts made with the Admiralty Commissioners; as Lewis Fossan and Thomas Fossan have not returned all the old powder delivered out to be repaired under a former contract, and valued at 40 l ., cannot make out a debenture to them without further order.  | 7, 8             |
| "                | John Pitt, the Dun-bar, Downs .                       | Robt.Blackborne.   | The Kent is gone for Chatham to be cleaned, and the Guinea will follow; the remainder of the Downs squadron should be sent in by two for cleaning, whereby they will be in a posture to outvail the enemy, and the advantage thereby accruing will balance the cost; although it will diminish the squadron for the time, there will be enough remaining to secure themselves, if not to annoy the enemy. Is certain Capt. Whitehorn will do his best in the Narrow and off the northern passage, and send small vessels to lie close in shore, to intercept and surprise the enemy. | 9                |

| "               | Adm. Com.   | Navy Com <sup>r</sup> . | Formerly gave order for refitting the Satisfaction and Princess Maria for service in the Channel, but several ships having since arrived from the Straits, belonging to Generals Blake and Montague's fleet, desire all further proceedings may be stopped.   | 13               |
| "               | Capt. Chas. Thorough-good, Dockyard,Portsmouth.   | Adm. Com.               | The Eagon and Lark have gone to their convoy at Corves, and the Hopewell pink has sailed with a ship that came from Genoa, and another laden with tin. The Hopewell wants victuals. The ketch will be launched next Friday, and if men and victuals are not wanting, she may sail in 7 days.  | 14               |

Maister, mayor, and 8 other merchants of Kingston-upon-Hull, to the Admiralty Commissioners, for a convoy for a cloth ship called the Ellenor of Hull, bound for Dort, she being richly laden, as also for two others with lead. Hopes it will be complied with, as their lading is valued at 20,000 l .   | 15, 16           |
| "               | Capt. David Dove,Nicodemus, LeithRoad.            | "                       | Has been plying on his station, and chased two or three Spanish men-of-war, one of which had taken a vessel with fish, belonging to Wells, which she abandoned, but it ran on shore in a fog at Peterhead, and was lost. Has come in to repair his furnace and anchor.  | 17               |
| "               | Capt. Robt. Plum-leigh, Reserve, Yar-mouth Roads. | "                       | Sailed from the Hope on the 29th ult., and met the Wexford from the Downs and the several merchantmen bound for Rotterdam, but there being so many pirates abroad, they would not adventure with such a small convoy, and were advised by Major Burton not to sail without additional strength. As Capt. Haddock of the Dragon has since arrived, will resail with the first wind, and give an account on his return. | 18               |
| "               | Capt. Jer. Country,Re ketch, nearLynn.            | "                       | Has been plying on his station, and after a long chase took a Dunkirk frigate, of 35 men and 4 guns; they threw all they could overboard, and the men ran on shore, but have since been taken by Major Burton. The prize is with Mr. Pewinger, at Yarmouth. Is about convoying several vessels in the Roads, bound for Lynn and other places.   | 19               |

| 1656.Aug. 4 | Judge - AdvocatePowler, the Dun-bar, Downs. | Robt.Blackborne.   | Would have written before, but did not know whether he was in London or with the Com-missioners at Chatham. Sends a letter from Griffith Lewis, late steward of the Reserve, inreply to his request for payment for provisions, denying that he, Fowler, or his servants,were ever borne upon the books of that ship. Also a letter to the Commissioners to settle theallowance he is to receive, in pay, provisions, and servants; is now deprived, by their order, of11 l. or 12 l. a year, and of one of his servants. It cannot be thought that a person in his positioncan do without one to copy, or that anyone who can handle a pen will submit to the drudgeryof cleaning a cabin, &c. When absent with his friends, thinks he ought to have money insteadof sea provisions, and the money not be allowed to the steward or purser. This is the questionbetween him and Lewis; Sprigg, the accountant, should pay the money to the steward.Has been plying on his station, and conveying vessels, by order of Capt. Com.              | The frigate taken by the master of the Recovery may be fitted out as a man-of-war for 300 l. , andher captors will be content with a small sum for her in her present condition. The ships boundfor Ireland want a convoy, the enemy being about the coasts.   | 25               |
| "               | John Smyth, War-wick Castle.                    | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Received their letter in the absence of Col. Hawksworth. The rate of carriage from hence is3 s. 6 d. per cwt., if the ways are good; the casks containing the shot may afterwards be madeserviceable at little expense.   | 26               |
| "               | Capt. Jer. Smyth,the Dunbar,Downs.          | Adm. Com.              | Signed and sent their paper to the Admiralty Judges at Dunkirk, but fears the packet boat hadleft Dover before it arrived. The Unicorn and Bristol are fitted and ready for service, butwant beer; the brewers make it as fast as they can, but cannot supply sufficient, and if caskedwhile hot, they fear it will stink in a month. A supply from London is needed. Particulars ofother ships; chase after a Dunkirk sloop.   | 27               |

| 1656.Aug. 6 | Capt. Hen. Hatsell,Esqter.                        | Adm. Com.  | Has received the money, and will dispose of it as directed; asks how the men are to be supplied with clothes. Capt. Salmon has arrived at Plymouth. Has ordered the officers and company of the Otter into the Bramble, and men to be procured; purposes returning to Plymouth to-day, and will give all despatch to her, and the Gainsborough. Will send a frigate to Milford, and give convoy to the Hopewell, bound to Jamaica.  | Vol. 143.44 |
| "               | T. Lodington, Vic-tailing Office.                | "          | Sends account of provisions received from Capt. Thos. Alderne, put on board the Hopewell, bound for Jamaica. The provisions ordered from Plymouth are ready, and only stay for a convoy. Capt. Hatsell not being upon the place.  | 45, 46          |
| "               | Navy Comrs. -  | "          | Send a survey by Manley Callis and Jno. Ruffhead, 30 July, of bolts, bars, and other ironwork brought from Dean Forest to Deptford, and useful for ships or anchors.  | 47, 48          |
| "               | John Pitt, the Dun-bar, Downs.                   | "          | Hears that the Dart, lately taken off the Land's End, is to be fitted out at Dunkirk with 28 guns and 240 men, and another of 30 guns and 300 men, and they are to rendezvous at Vigo; Capt. Smith is acquainted with it, and will inform Capt. Whitehorn, so as to prevent them passing. There are several sloops ready to come out of Ostend, but as the frigates upon the coast have had timely notice, they may surprise some of them.  | 49              |
| "               | Capt. Jere. Smyth,the Dunbar, Downs               | "          | Sends an account of the Downs squadron, and a letter from the Admiralty Judges at Dunkirk. Has ordered the Bristol to Yarmouth, to take in the remainder of her beer coming from Dover, but if it is not ready, she shall go without it. The brewers there are so pressed to brew, and the weather is so hot, that the beer is not much better than water, and will soon stink. Capt. Sparling complains that the Assistance and other frigates are so foul they cannot chase the enemy with any success; Capt. Whitehorn wants more ships, although he has 11, and if none are sent, he intends joining those at Ostend, as he hears several of the enemy's ships are coming out from thence, but it is strange if the 4 or 5 frigates there are afraid to engage with all the strength either of Ostend or Dunkirk. | 50              |
| "               | Adm. Com. -  | Navy Comrs | Order for 40 of the extraordinary men at Deptford yard to be sent to Woolwich, there being an increase of work there.   | 51              |
| "               | "  | "          | Order for cleaning the Dartmouth at Harwich, and victualling her for 3 months -   | 52              |
| "               | Capt. Ri. Hodges,the Basing, Mil-ford Haven. | Adm. Com.  | Has not had 3 hours' fair wind since leaving Portsmouth, and the vessels from Bristol fair have not yet arrived. Hearing there is a small Ostender laying under Caddy Island for those coming from the fair, will look after him, and return to Milford. Commissary Reynolds desires to be transported to Ireland, according to an order received, but as there is no other frigate upon the coast to convey the ships expected from Bristol, has desired him to wait until they arrive.  | 53              |
| "               | Capt. Robt. Mackey,the Yarmouth,Harwich.     | "          | Has made no delay in getting to sea, but used all care and diligence, and his men have had little rest night or day; hopes to proceed to his former station next Tuesday.   | 54              |

| 1656.Aug. 7 | Capt. Robt. Plumleigh, the Reserve, Yarmouth Roads. | Adm. Com.                         | Convoys 8 merchant ships to Rotterdam, with the Dragon and Wexford, and brought back 18 out of 21, the other 3 not being ready. Did not see any men of war, but heard they had been waiting on the coast for those he brought over. The Wexford is ordered to convoy those for London, and then return to the Downs, and the Dragon is to remain in the Roads, by order of Major Burton, until further orders, she being very foul.  | Vol. 143.55 |
| "               | Capt. Ed. Salnon, Scarborough Castle.               | "                                 | After receiving his Highness' commands for the North, attended the Admiralty Chamber to kiss their hands, but they were absent; also to acquaint them that last Wednesday, a Dunkirk man-of-war of 16 guns fell in with some fishing boats belonging to Wibby, two of which she took and plundered, and would have so served the rest, had not the Pearl come to their relief. Also that last Thursday, a light fleet of 43 ships and hoys passed the castle, which feared no enemy, or they would not have come without a convoy, scattered as they were, and having no guns. Soon afterwards a laden fleet of 36 sail also passed without a convoy, but the Preston, which had just returned from sea, was in sight. | 56              |
| "               | Capt. Jno. Simonds, the Jersey, Downs.              | "                                 | Desires two guns of 3 cwt. each. Being at Plymouth when the fleet sailed southward, missed the supply which was then made to the ships at Portsmouth.  | 57              |
| "               | Adm. Com. - - -  | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup>            | Order to receive from Capt. Jno. Leverett a surrender of a vessel brought by him from Acadia, belonging to the Commonwealth, and lying at Wapping, and his account of disbursements for wages, &c.   | 58              |
| "               | Capt. Rich. Rooth, the Dartmouth, Harwich.          | Adm. Com.                         | Has come in from the Downs to tallow, refit, and victual, and will use all means to obtain despatch.   | 59              |
| "               | Major Wm. Burton, Yarmouth.                         | "                                 | Delivered their letter to Capt. Penrose. Cpts. Plumleigh and Haddock have arrived with the Holland fleet from Rotterdam; the Wexford is gone for the Thames, with those bound for London, and Capt. Plumleigh is about sailing with others for Hull. The Newcastle men still stay for the coming of the Northern squadron with a laden fleet, and Capt. Haddock for orders, as he wants his ship cleaned and tallowed.   | 60              |
| "               | Capt. Rich. Haddock, Dragon, Yarmouth Roads.        | "                                 | Has been with Capt. Plumleigh, and the Wexford, as convoy to 8 vessels bound to the coast of Holland, and brought back 17, and waits orders; wants an anchor.  | 61              |
| "               | Phil. Grant - - -  | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup>            | Particulars of a conversation heard between one Pitt, a Commissioner, and Monday, a purveyor of timber, as to getting bills from the State for timber before delivery, and appropriating the money to their own use. Pitt is a man of evil report in Suffolk, and Monday is his tenant.  | 62              |
| "               | Thos. Hayter, Little Dean.                          | Edw. Hopkins, Navy Office. | Has been much delayed by the confusion and intricacy of the accounts, occasioned through the death of one, and the ignorance of others, and though engaged from 6 a.m. till 8 p.m., has not completed them.  | 63              |

| 1656.Aug. 8 | Capt. Hen. Hatsell,Plymouth.                           | Adm. Com.             | Particulars of the careening of the Gainshorough , also a demand for powder and gunner's stores for her and the Sornings , the latter having expended 80 barrels in the last encounter. Has ordered Capt. Morris to convey a ship laden with provisions for Dover as far as Spithead, and desires they will appoint another to convey her thence; there are doubtless ships waiting at the Isle of Wight for a convoy to the Downs, and they might go together.  | Vol. 143.64  |
| "               | Capt. N. Heaton,Plymouth.                              | Robt.Blackborne.  | Particulars of the damage done to his ship that "dark sad night," which are so many that it is a mercy they escaped. Cannot tell what the Commissioners may think of him or do with the master, but they have few such honest careful men in their frigates; hopes the Commissioners will not be hard with himself. Concerning Turks, one in 10 or one in 5 is every man's interest. Has come in by order of Capt. Hatsell, to tallow and victual, and will make all despatch -                                      | 65               |

| "               | "   | "                     | Find additions or alterations in their number, on which there may be some alteration in their patent; do not doubt but their commands will be suitable to their power, yet think it will not be judged presumption but prudence to desire a copy of the patent, so far as it relates to the Navy Commissioners. Samuel Raven having bought the Horsleydown shallop, with apparel, furniture, and guns, and the latter being in their custody, desire they will deliver them to him, he having paid his money. | 67               |
| "               | "   | Ordnanceofficers. | Begs aid for the bearer, Mrs. Field, in obtaining a warrant to search the ships bound for Barbadoes, for Thos. Williams, a boy of 16, who was apprenticed to her husband, an apothecary in Westminster, but has run.   | 68               |
| "               | Ja. Nutley, MiddleTemple.                             | Robt.Blackborne.  | Will attend the Commissioners' order on the arrival of the Phoenix . Desires payment of his account of disbursements for the Portuguese ambassador, amounting to 40 l. ; was prejudiced 200 l. in waiting upon that service.  | 69               |
| "               | Capt. Thos. Penrose,the Bristol, Yar-mouth Roads. | "                     | Is endeavouring to complete his number of men, 16 of whom run, although they had 6 months' pay due. Desires leave of absence for a fortnight, to transact some urgent business in London.  | 70               |
| "               | "   | Adm. Com.             | Asks a supply of trenails from Chatham, those from Dean Forest made from dotard timber not being serviceable; has broken 2,000 in using them. Mr. Eastwood should be hastened to send down his plank, and Mr. Hayward the lighters to fetch it from Essex; begs that the number of workmen may be augmented.   | 71               |
| "               | Christ. Pett, Wool-wich.                              | Navy Com <sup>s</sup> | As the captain of the cloth ship for Dart will attend the Commissioners to solicit that the Saphire may be appointed as his convoy, would have been present himself, had he not to attend the funeral of his dearest friend; begs him to advance the business, considering the fair wind, long demurrage, her value, and the season of the year.   | 72               |
| "               | Thos. Skinner, Lon-don.                               | Col. Clerke           | Sent their packet to Capt. Whiteborne, and believes the Bristol is now in the Yarmouth Roads, waiting orders; but other ships named have not yet arrived. Capt. Nath. Browne, of the Taunton, whom he has ordered to Chatham, has no anchors nor cables to spare for the Jersey ; hears from Commissioner Pett that some are coming by the hoy. Desires more ships may be sent to act as convoys, as there is great complaint for want of them.  | 73               |
| "               | Capt. Jere. Smyth,the Duubar, Downs.                   | Adm. Com.             |  | 74               |

| "               | Major N. Bourne,Harwich.                        | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | The Yarmouth is detained for want of victuals, which must be sent from London. Will have to take up money to pay wages, and desires they will direct the Treasurer to make provision. Has got 400 trees, the best parcel of timber he has seen for years.   | 82              |
| "               | "  | Adm. Com.              | To similar effect. Desires order to sell some old and unserviceable stores, as they take up much room. Has got 400 trees down to Ipswich from Hitcham, and is in treaty with the gentleman for the remainder, but it is a business involving much trouble and charge. The Dartmouth and Vulture have come in to repair and victual.   | 83              |

| 1656.Aug. 9 | Jno. Paine - -  | Adm. Com.             | Petition for payment of a bill of exchange for 640 l. given for provisions sent by his father for supply of the fleet at Boston, New England, he having sent out to him a further supply of much greater value upon the supposition that such bill would be paid, and he thus enabled to settle with the creditors, who are now very pressing, but the order for payment has been casually lost. With reference to the Navy Commissioners, to make out another warrant on receiving a proper indemnity.  | Vol. 143.89 |
| "               | Capt. Robt. Wilkinson, Weymouth pink, Newcastle. | "                     | Has brought in 20 Yarmouth vessels. Met the Pearl, who had chased two Dunkirk men-of-war until she cracked both her topmasts, when she was disabled. Saw the Preston at the Humber, conveying some ships there, and met several fleets without convoy. A couple of good frigates are needed to ply between Newcastle and Flamborough Head.  | 90              |
| "               | Capt. Jno. Wolters, Nonsuch, Leith Road.         | "                     | Account of proceedings in conveying vessels from Leith to Norway and back to Aberdeen and other ports, by order of Gen. Monk. Desires order to come in to clean and victual. His purser says the captain has nothing to do with such matters, and he will do what he lists.   | 91              |
| "               | Col. Ed. Salmon, Scarborough.                    | "                     | The Preston has captured and brought in the St. Ann, of Ostend, with 38 men, and as she is the best sailer set out of Ostend this year, Capt. Robinson thinks she will be very useful between Yarmouth and the Thames. As he is conveying some ships to Yarmouth, has desired him to take her with him, and await orders. Has not heard of the Pearl, and the Weymouth pink is such a dumb beast she signifies little more than nothing.  | 92              |
| "               | Capt. Eras. Allen, Advise, Ostend Road.          | Navy Com <sup>r</sup> | According to order from the Admiralty Commissioners, sent two of his officers to Hull to impress men, and obtained 30, and by beating drum for volunteers, 20 able seamen came to the governor and officers. The ship being at Flamborough Head, the men were secured in the castle, and order sent for him to go to the Humber to take them in. Took and entered them in the ship, and allowed them 6 d. a day for 4 days, as little as could be allowed for victuals; hopes they will not think the charge unnecessary, and will order the money to be paid. | 93              |
| "               | Capt. Abr. Aligate, the Wexford, Harwich.        | Adm. Com.             | Received orders from Capt. Plumleigh to see the 4 vessels he conveyed from Rotterdam for London, as also some others, into the river, but has been forced into Harwich by contrary winds.   | 94              |
| "               | Capt. Nath. Browne, the Tanton, Chatham River.   | "                     | Has come up from the Downs by order of the commander-in-chief there, to clean and revictual, and will return when completed.  | 95              |

| "                | Major Wm. Burton,Yarmouth.                          | "                     | Sent their letter to Capt Penrose, who has gone with Capt. Haddock to Long Sound. As there is a rumour of 8 of the enemies' ships having gone to meet the Iceland fleet, and as only 4 of the fleet came out of the country without convoy this year, and they were all taken, desires a man-of-war may be sent to protect them. Hopes it will not be long before the prisoners are released in Flanders, as their wives will not let him be quiet. | 103             |
| "                | Robt. Robins, Jno.Alhertson, bailiffs,Yarmouth. | "                     | Have 70 Dunkirk and Ostend prisoners brought in by captains of ships, and no one is ordered to pay for their diet, which is 4d. a man per day, and it is growing to a considerable sum; desire orders to Mr. Pewtinger to defray the charges; also for some provision to be made for sick and wounded men sent on shore. The convoy for the herring fishery will be required by the 24th or 26th inst.                                       | 104             |

| "                | Capt. Philemon Powell,Esqulet ketch, Downs.         | Navy Com <sup>r</sup> | While carrying a packet to Capt. Whitehorne on the coast of Flanders, chased one of the enemies' men-of-war on shore, and destroyed her; also chased another which surrendered to a French man-of-war, so ordered them both into the Downs, to be disposed of as the Admiral should think fit. Has convoyed several ships, but can do little good in such a small vessel; desires a remove before winter.   | 106             |
| "                | Capt. Jer. Smyth, theDunbar, Downs.                 | Adm. Com.             | Sends particulars of the Downs and Flanders squadrons and other ships. Dispatched their letter to the Admiralty Judges at Dunkirk; will distribute the 100 tuns of beer received from London. As there are great complaints for want of convoys, desires more ships for that purpose.   | 107-109         |

Thorowgood,Dockyard, Portsmouth.        | Robt.Blackborne.  | Has launched the Chesnut ketch, and if men appear, she will be ready to sail this week, as also the Hopewell pink; wants the captain and some one to look after the provisions. Delivered their warrants, but no carriages have arrived for the guns. The Amity is at Spithead, with some vessels bound for Seine Head.   | 110             |

| "                | Capt. Robt. Vessey,Nightingale, Milford Haven | "                      | Hearing that a man-of-war had chased 3 merchantmen from the West Indies into Berehaven, and believing her to be consort to the one he formerly took, plied about the Cape, but not meeting her, convoyed the merchantmen to Kinsale. Heard of another which had sunk a small vessel and plundered two or three others, but cannot do much service, his frigate being foul and out of repair. As there is much pay due to his men, which their families want, and his frigate is not fit to stay out the winter, hopes shortly to be called in.  | 120               |

Nixon, who has come over for water, and reports that the enemy is not so strong as was believed. Capt. Sparling, with 6 ships named, considered himself equal to the enemy's force, before the Cheriton and Sparrow were ordered to join him, there being only 6 men-of-war in Ostend besides the Holland men-of-war, which are to be returned to the Hollanders. When the Dartmouth and Yarmouth arrive, there will shortly be 16 sail upon that coast, but they will not be able to remain but at great hazard, and would do more service if sent out by twos. The Jersey chased 2 frigates from Dunkirk, but being very foul, was forced to give it up. | 122               |

She was only an old rotten sloop or boat, of 2 or 3 tons, with a loading of 12 or 14 rogues, who ran, but were retaken, a grapnel and piece of rope, half a cheese, and 4 lbs. of bread, the whole value, 4 l. 14 s. 0 d.   | 135              |

Hearing from Commissioner Pett that the Sapphro and Taunton are ready to sail, hopes they may go no further than the Swale for men and provisions, as the men of other ships in the Hope are still running to their relations in London, to the hindrance of the service. Com.            | Has discharged the clerk of the check and the steward as ordered, and entered in their room Jno. Marichurch, purser, who has taken an account of the remains of victuals; having received fresh supplies, hopes to sail this evening, but requires an order for stores. The Little Michael has been taken, and brought to Dublin Bay by Harleston, the pirate, who could not have less than 2,000l. A great whale was cast on shore near St. David's last Sunday, and if the people had not cut it up and carried it away, it might have been of good value, but the vice-admiral is now executing his power. The Basing has gone with Sir J. Reynolds to Dublin, and the Nightingale is about Calder, to secure the barks on their return from Bristol fair. Gave Mr. Marichurch his commission and instructions. There are several Dutch and other ships riding in Torbay; two Italian friars, who came on shore, disowned the Popish religion, and declared that several of the ships had a great quantity of Spanish goods on board. Capt. Pley went on board the Dutch convoys, and desired a list of the ships, but they refused to give it, and there is not sufficient strength there to force them to it. Has ordered the Bryer and two others to join the ships there, and Capt. Heaton to go in one of them. Is repairing the Gainsborough.  | 3                |

He reports, as well as Capt. Smyth, that the coasts are full of the enemies' men-of-war, and that they do not know how to secure the fleets. The Iceland fleet will be lost if some ships are not speedily sent to act as convoys. Several ships have been taken since the last 3 were ordered to lie upon the north coasts, and the herring fishing boats, the Hull ship with cloth for Dort, and others with lead for the Downs, are all waiting for a convoy. Lost his boat and 8 men in boarding her, and is now going northwards. Recommends his gunner, Geo. Hoggis, as commander to the prize.   | 6                |

Holland,Assurance , Douvs .                        | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Has just arrived from the fleet, which has done nothing of great concernment, save that at Vigo, in Galicia, and that at Malaga, where Capt. Smith burnt and destroyed most of the ships in the Mould, as also a galley, and spiked 6 pieces of ordnance. The greatest loss was when coming off, as they kept up a continuous fire, and killed and wounded 20 men. The fleet is in good condition, and can hold out for some time longer; the rear and vice-admiral are in Cadiz Road. | 12               |

Robinson. Beg an order to Mr. Pewtinger, collector of customs, who has to deal with the prizes, for payment. Have also a great complaint to make against the Commissioners for Sick and Wounded, as they take no care for any put on shore, not for payment of the charges, but leave it to them to disburse their own money, and get it as and when they can. Have written them several times, but to no effect, and having several sick men, hope some fit person may be appointed to take care of and make provision for them, and all others who may hereafter be sent on shore. | Vol. 144.27 |

| 1656.Aug. 19 | Major N. Bonne,Harwich.  | [Adm.Com.]       | Formerly advised his having drawn a bill on the Navy Treasurer for 400 l. , for money taken up to carry on the public affairs; since then has taken a more particular account of the state of matters in the port, and of the amount owing for wages and stores; although the sums are small, they amount to 700 l. ; there will also be 500 l. due for carting 500 trees from Hitcham Woods, part of which are already at Ipswich or Deptford. As these sums must be paid, hopes the money will be lodged with the Navy Treasurer. Has been ill for 3 or 4 days, but hopes to be able to go to the woods, to settle with the proprietor for the remainder, and will then return to London. | Vol. 144.39 |

| "                | "   | "                    | The Commissioners had an account of his going to Torbay from Capt. Hatsell, but another will shortly come from a person better able to do it than himself. Blesses God that no blood was spilt, but for the honour of his nation; could not avoid going on board a Dutch frigate of 24 guns, on one side, and the Fagons on the other, as also another great Dutch man-of-war, to help his friend. Lay lashed fast for two hours, clashing swords and touching each other with pikes, and at length parted, but in spite of them, brought away one of their fleet, called the Golden Fox, bound to Malaga, and arrived with her and the Jamaica ships safely at Plymouth.  | 42              |

Went towards Newcastle by his order, to tallow, but meeting 120 colliers from Sunderland, could not leave them open to the enemy without convoy, the coast being much infested. Has chased 8, but lost them through his ship being so foul; hopes, as Major Burton is at Norwich, he will give order for his sailing.   | 44              |

Has not heard of any men-of-war upon the coast, but will endeavour to clear it of them northward, and bring a laden fleet that way, as the other two are southward.                                  | 50               |

| 1656.Aug. 21 | Comr. Peter Felt,Chatham.     | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup>         | Has sent the Kentish and other ships to the Hope, as ordered. | "                | Major Wm. Burton,Yarmouth.    | Adm. Com.                      | Is daily looking for a convoy for the Iceland fleet, the herring fishery, and for some ships in the Roads, laden with cloth and lead of great value, bound for the Maas, all of which have been waiting some time, at a great loss. Has not lost any of the prisoners brought in by the ships, but as the gaol will not hold a quarter of them, is forced to keep them in two of the towers upon the walls, as also a strict guard, both of horse and foot; the three companies being small, they have hard duties. Is sorry the Admiralty Judges in Flanders will not exchange prisoners, and there is a great cry from the women. The enemies' captains offer to send to Ostend and Dunkirk, and get the Yarmouth men exchanged man for man, if allowed. The prize brought in by Capt. Robinson is fit for the service, but the Prize Commissioners will not deliver her up without order; is surprised that servants should turn masters; they ordered her to be sold, but, with much difficulty, he got them to put it off. | 60              |

Finds those who conveyed the prisoners from Scarborough are at sea, but if they return, will observe orders. The Preston came in for water, and then sailed to look after a Dunkirker, which has taken a small cobbler of Whithy, and after stripping her men of nearly all they had, put them on shore half naked. 100 sail have passed by, but standing out so far, could not see whether they had any convoy.   | 62              |

Was forced to hire men to load Mr. Condiek's boy with plank, and has presented a bill for 20 l. , which is a small matter for the business done in the New Forest; the timber having been all brought down, the men expect their money, and 100 l. will clear the business. Has sent an account to Commis- sioner Willoughby, who will satisfy them as to what money he has used and disbursed, besides his own expenses in converting and transporting timber by land and water, which have been great. Begs money to clear the workmen, to whom he has hitherto given content; also an order to employ Mr. Newlad's vessel to carry the rest of the plank from Redbridge to Woolwich; he will want the freight as soon as delivered. | 74               |

Mr. White of Dover, reporting that the provisions received from Plymouth were bad, but have been re-pickled, has supplied the Jersey, Essex, and other ships, and will send much that is aboard to be re-pickled. There is great want of the beer from London. The Unicorn and Wexford have arrived; the latter is not fit for further service, and is only a prey to the enemy. Pley to do the like. The Golden Fox is at Plymouth, and the Sub-Commissioners for Prize Goods took the examination of the skipper and steersman, and sent them to the Commissioners for Prize Goods in London, but as she is laden with pipe staves, little can be discovered until she is unladen. The skipper lived in Ostend during the Dutch war, and cleared a ship taken by our frigates. Being a Papist, he is a fit fellow to manage this business. Has sent the Bryer and Bramble with the Jamaica ships bound to Carriekfergus. Particulars of ships, with depositions of Capt. Thos. Elliott, commander of the Fagon , Jno. Potter, master, Edm. Willmott, boatswain, and Nath. Elliott, master's mate; also of Capt. Nich. Heaton of the Gainsborough , that while at Torbay on the 9th inst., 40 sail wearing Holland, Hamburg, and Swedes' colours, under convoy of a Dutch admiral and vice-admiral, arrived and anchored in the bay; and two friars having gone on shore from that fleet, and deposited upon oath before Capt. John Pley, deputy vice-admiral of Devon, and the mayor of Dartmouth, that three of them, carrying Holland colours, were Ostenders, a search was demanded, and refused; whereupon some of the vessels were lashed to the State's ships, to prevent their sailing, but afterwards set free, save one called the Fox , which Capt. Elliott took and brought into Plymouth. They received much abuse from the Dutch, but gave none in return. | 99, 100          |

Took a small vessel bound from Rotterdam to Ostend with herrings, cheese, vinegar, &c., and has sent her to the Commissioners at Dover; the weather proving bad, was forced in there himself, as also the Tiger and Mermaid. It will be very dangerous for such ships to lie upon the coast of Flanders when the nights are dark, in regard of the many sands; will return with the first wind unless otherwise ordered. | 1656,Aug. 29 | Capt. Hen. Hatsell,Plymouth.                            | Adm. Com.                | Will send the Gainborough and another to Portpatrick and Carrickfergus, to convoy the Jamaica ships, and have a ship ready to carry the packet to the Generals. Particulars of ships and convoys. Hearing that 3 Ostend or Dunkirk men-of-war had taken a vessel near the Start, and freed her on payment of some money, ordered the Sortings and Lark to range the coast, but they have not yet seen any.  | Vol. 144.125 |
| "                | Major Wm. Burton,Yarmouth.                              | Adm. Com.                | Their letter is satisfactory to all reasonable men, but not to the women whose husbands are in prison, and who, with their children, are likely to starve; is weary of their lamentations. As the Iceland fishers have arrived, will send Capts. Colman, Thomson, and Jno. Parker, as the convoy with the herring fishers, after they have cleaned and tallowed. The ships for the Maas will sail to-night, under convoy of the Advice and Saphire, who are to stay 30 hours, to bring over such ships as are bound for England. As the Prize Commissioners' Deputy will deliver up the prize for the State's use, desires a commander may be appointed, and an order sent to procure what is necessary, for everything portable is always taken out of prizes; also an order to the deputy to pay the amount due for keep of prisoners.  | 126              |
| "                | "  | "                        | Begs to report the arrival of the Iceland fleet, but some of the barks were separated by the ice on 5 July, and have not since been seen. Asks where they are to clean and victual. Capts. Colman and Thomson might be appointed as convoy for the fishery, as the fishers will not go without, and are waiting at a great loss, the Dutch meantime bringing in fish to serve the market.   | 127              |
| "                | Capt. Robt. Colman,Elizabeth, Yar-mouth.           | "                        | On the 9th ult., set sail with the Hull, Scotch, and Russia fleet, and after seeing them safe, went to Iceland, and came back with Capt. Thomson and 18 fishermen for England; but there were 18 more, besides a Bristol man, some of which have been driven away by the ice. Anchored in St. Magnus Sound, where they met 4 of those lost, and then all proceeded for Yarmouth Roads, where they have safely arrived; Capt. Thomson has gone to see 4 Wells men to their port.   | 128              |
| "                | Capt. Edm. Thom-son,Expedition,Yarmouth Roads. | "                        | Has convoyed in the Iceland fleet. Received 33 barks belonging to Yarmouth and other ports, and sailed from Wells Bay 17 Apr.; 8 left him without notice, but saw the rest on to the fishing grounds in the West Port, where they found such a plentiful supply that most of them had got their voyage by July. On the 5th, the wind from the N.W. brought in the ice, and forced away 8 barks; though the rest of the fleet was ready, waited several days for their return; set sail on the 30th, and met Capt. Colman, who had been sent to join him as additional security. Upon arriving at St. Magnus Sound, in the Isles of Orkney, found 4 of the missing barks, and brought them home with the rest, but 11 are still wanting. Hears from the Governor of Kirkway that one was taken, another put on shore, and two went into Leith. Desires further orders as to victualling, &c. | 129              |

Sent the Fame and Adventure with 17 Newcastle and Hull men, and has brought the rest into the Hope, with the Portsmouth. Is returning to Yarmouth Roads, but Capt. Sansum wanting provisions is coming up. Hopes they will now grant the liberty he formerly petitioned for. | 134              |

Could not sail before, the wind being easterly. There is an old woman living at Pevensey, who prophesied they would not get out for three months. She is accounted as very evil tongued, and, by report, has done a great deal of harm both to the people and their cattle. A shallop from Dieppe came in, and her men carrying some pieces of silk on shore to evade the duty, has seized it for the use of the State by order of the customs' officer, who is ill.   | Vol. 145.3 |

Is desired to survey all the blocks, &c., as they are delivered by the maker, but that would not be so well, as when delivered, they seem better than they afterwards prove to be, by the shrinking of the pine, &c.; and if he thus certified, it would clear the block maker and bring the blame upon himself, if they proved defective. The former pulley maker surveyed them as they were used; hopes nothing more will be expected of him than to take care for what is spent at Deptford; asks a warrant for the better carrying on of the work. Has received 1 ton of fag ends of hawsers, and 19 cwt. of small cordage from Mr. Pomefield, and as he spoilt his clothes with the tar in getting it in, hopes a reward. The former Commissioners granted him all the stones which the State's ships brought in to Deptford and Woolwich as ballast, the same as the master attendant had at Chatham, but they have been taken to pave the yards. Begs allowance for them. | 8              |

| 1656Sept. 13 | Jno. Burrowes   | Adm. Com.                           | Petition for satisfaction for seamen's clothes lost in the Discovery, Cat pink, Islip, and Paragon, amounting to 149l. 19s. 7d. Deserted a good employment for this service, and has engaged his whole estate in it. With reference thereon to the Navy Commissioners, and their report that, as the clothes were shipped by the slopsellers for their own profit, and if issued to the men, were owing for by them, the State is not bound to make satisfaction, and has before refused in much clearer cases. | Vol. 145.47, 48 |
| "                | Capt. Philemon Fownell, Eagle ,Downs .    | Navy Comrs                          | Sends a muster book, and sent another when he took command last June. Has had many men run, as they get more pay in colliers and merchantmen, and those with him only stay for their arrears. Succeeded in destroying a double shallop and chased another. Desires an exchange, as coming from Jamaica he will suffer from the cold, this winter.   | 49                  |
| "                | Comr. Peter Pett,Chatham .                       | "                                   | The completion of the joiners' works on the London and other ships occasions the discharge of many joiners, whose wages amount to 150l. As some live remote, and as the work performed by Mr. Bostock amounts to 1000l., has granted him a bill of imprest for 100l., to pay the men who are most clamorous; he promises to clear that amount, with the rest of his imprest, when his bills are paid.   | 50                  |
| "                | Capt. Wm. Had-dock, Hannibal ,Downs . | "                                   | Has had very rough weather since leaving the Thames; several of his men were hurt heaving the anchor, and one since dead; left several behind, through being hurried away; desires order to the commander in the Downs to supply him with as many as he wants. Asks whether the frigates bound to Gen. Blake have sailed from Portsmouth, as he was to go in their company.   | 51                  |
| "                | Adm. Com.   | Rich.Hutchinson,Navy Treasr | Order to pay to Jno. Maidstone, on a Council order of 5 Sept. 1656, 4,000l. for the occasions of his Highness' household, out of the 30,000l. to be received of the Portugal money, and to be repaid by Maidstone out of the first money he receives from the Exchequer.  | 52                  |
| "                | "   | Navy Comr                           | Order for cleaning and refitting the Dragon, coming up from the Nore for Woolwich or Chatham, and for victualling her for 4 months.   | 53                  |
| "                | "   | "                                   | To make out a bill to Jno. Powell, messenger, for 5l., disbursed by him for the service   | 54                  |
| "                | Com. Peter Pett,Chatham .                        | "                                   | Sends notes touching cordage, hemp, and tar, having little in the stores for setting out a fleet; hoped a supply on the last return of the east country ships. Will be ready to launch the Portsmouth and Tiger by Monday. Mr. Cooling has just come into the yard distracted. How much we are beholden to God in keeping us!   | 55                  |
| "                | "   | Adm. Com.                           | Has sent up Fortescue by Mr. Hill, who apprehended him last evening, and lodged him in the Dolphin goal at Rochester, by warrant of the Major-General. Cannot ascertain that he was a designer or plotter against the present power or navy, and therefore did not examine him, but has sent him up to Whitehall.   | 56                  |
| "                | Robert Henfield   | —                                   | Certificate in favour of Jno. Hewell to be gunner on the Accadia frigate at Deptford   | 57                  |

Wishes they had as much power as to aged persons good. The gaining of the ruinous college at Rochester for the chest from the Lord Protector or Parliament might be some help, and an order ought to be forthwith obtained to prevent the giving of it away, or stealing the remainder of the lead, which, of late, has been sorely wasted. Arkenstall of defective provisions in the stores. Is exceeding glad to hear of their willingness to further so charitable a work as procuring the college at Rochester for the use of the chest. The church and ground whereon it stands evidently belong to the State, and no portion has ever been sold; such like property was exempted from the Act for Sale of Bishops' and Deans' and Chapters' Lands, but if granted for the use of the chest, some things may be discovered which are at present concealed. There are from a quarter to half a year's arrears still due to the poor wounded seamen.  | 100, 101        |

Smith and the Adm Com. | Sends report of a council of war on board the Reserve, respecting the charges made against him by Jonas Palmer, carpenter, and other officers of the Adventure, of having and circulating a book received from the Harrisons of Scarborough, entitled "A letter from a friend out of the country to a Christian brother" and containing much scurrilous language against his Highness; as also for asserting that the war with Spain was very unjust, as we should not take other princes' lands. It being found that such charges arose more from malice than truth, the whole matter was referred to the commander-in-chief in the Downs. If the Admiralty Commissioners will own their printed instructions, they must also own him, as he has done nothing but what they told him therein, viz. , to strictly examine his officers, as also the stores. His doing so gave rise to these malicious reports; complains of the ill conduct of the carpenter, boatswain, and purser, and desires they may be removed. Wishes 2 muster books. | 104, 107        |

Has spoken to the captain of the Falcon as to charging bills upon the treasurer, but it was simply for victuals and carpenters' work for the Falcon, without which she could not have kept at sea, as also the reason of his taking a freight. On arriving at Cape Clear , was sent back with the Lieut.-General's letters, and on the way, chased and engaged with a ship for 3 hours, but she being clean outsailed him and escaped. | 1656.Oct. :3 | Capt. Jer. Smyth, theDunbar, Downs.                | Adm. Com.            | Sends particulars of the sailing of ships, some of which have been damaged in the storms. The Constant Warvieck has gone to Deptford with the prisoners. A Hambugher and a Flemish vessel have arrived from Bordeaux; they were boarded by three men-of-war, who enquired in what readiness the English ships were at Bordeaux, and they also met some others off Belle Isle. Imagines that these pirates are lying about to surprise the English fleet of Bordeaux and Rochelle, and desires that Capt. Plumleigh may be sent that way, with the Adventure, Nonsuch, and Assurance, as it will be impossible to miss them, they being daily seen by others. Asks that Capt. Sparling may be drawn off his station at Ostend, as he will not be able to ride there in the winter; the Red Horse has come from thence with a broken tiller, and reports that they have not met one another these 5 or 6 days, through the bad weather. | Vol. 146.128 |

Mr. Cudworth opened his design, but to no end, for the fleet has passed here; he intends going to them at Portsmouth to-morrow. Had got together 100 l. ; asks whether Mr. Opey's bill is paid, so that he may apply to him in time, as some of his bills have been sent back by Mr. Jeffery.  | 129              |

Heaton, theGainsborough, Ply-mouth.  | Robt.Blackborne. | Sends his log book from the time he left Plymouth on 1 Sept., to convey some ships bound for Jamaica, until his return to Plymouth Sound on Oct. 18. Met the fleet with the welcome news of taking the Plate fleet, and after leaving the Jamaica ships off Scilly, attended upon Lieut.-Gen. Brayne. Has had very bad weather, but hopes the fleet with Gen. Montague have arrived, as he parted with them on the 19th. His new master has arrived, but he is fit for a better ship. Col. Clarke would have allowed him a lieutenant, if the Admiralty Commis- sioners would have bestowed such a place upon his old master; although the wages are less, it would be an encouragement.  | 132, 133         |

Particulars of ships.   | 134              |

As she had lost her rudder, and was otherwise damaged, lay by her until the tide served, and then took hold of her stream cable, and towed her to Aldborough Bay, and the next day to Harwich, where she now is. Had to put 30 on board the Jersey, for supply of 8 ships named of Gen. Blake's fleet; but if ordered, will direct Mr. Harris, the sailmaker, to send down men to make 6 or 8 suits of sails. Desborow. Asks whether they, or he for (apt. Haisell, is to disburse the 4 d. a day for these or any future prisoners. Particulars of ships.  | 13               |

Smythe,the Dunbar ,Downs .       | "                       | Received theirs by the last victualling ship, which sailed with the Assistance and two others, buthad to put back by contrary winds. They have chased a Dunkirk man-of-war off the Ile ofWight ; will do his utmost to secure the Narrow , and Capt. Plumleigh with several ships isnow there. Capt. Parker of the Cheriton being still ill, has appointed an able commander, themaster not being capable. Capt. Marryot is recovering, and returns thanks for his leave onshore. Is nearly out of provisions; desires a supply from London, as Dover will not be ableto furnish sufficient for the frigates in the Channel. Asks leave of absence, on account of hischildren, and matters which will admit of no further delay. | 23                  |

| 1656.Nov. 3 | Capt. Wm. Whiteborn, the Spythead, Essex. | Adm. Com.              | Landed the Portuguese agent at Seine Head, and returning, chased and took the St. John of Ostend, with 70 men and 13 guns, besides 13 in her hold, and other arms and ammunition. Sends the examination of Capt. Peter Clinckerd, her commander. Having 8 midshipmen aboard, asks how many are allowed. Wants his company increased to 276, and then if he meets the enemy he will be able to handle them, as they fight very stoutly. The present prize fired 7 or 8 guns before yielding, and the captain said if it had been a ship of not above 26 guns, he would have fought to some purpose, before being taken. Capt. Crapnell of the Essex desires the command of her, as she will make a serviceable frigate. | Vol. 147.25, 26 |
| "               | Capt. Fras. Wilmoughby, Portsmouth.       | "                      | After Capt. Whiteborne had landed the Portugal agent, between Beachy and the Isle of Wight , he met an Ostend man-of-war of 80 men and 13 guns, which he took; she is only 5 years old and a good sailer; if she should be fitted out for the service, desires Capt. Boury may be appointed to command her.   | 27                  |
| "               | "  | "                      | Could not deliver their commands to the captain of the Entrance as he had sailed; the end would be answered by appointing Capt. Penn to the Bristol . The Rainbow has arrived; wants money to discharge the unruly seamen, who are under no command on shore, and to supply emergencies, as people are continually applying for their due. The surgeons cannot get as much as 50s. to recruit their chests; the stores are destitute, and 20 months' pay is due to the company of the Sornings lying in the Roads . If a supply is not quickly sent, the odium cast upon their actions will not be easily repaired.   | 28                  |
| "               | Capt. Thos. Wright, Fane, Grimsby Road.   | "                      | Has come in with a fleet of laden colliers. Received their orders and will proceed to the Humber and convey the vessels there bound for Dort , and then return to his station, between the Maas and Yarmouth . Sends a certificate by Capt. Robt. Robinson of the Preston , as also, one by himself and his officers in favour of Philip Pceke, late minister of the Preston , for employment in the Fame .   | 29-31               |

Com.  | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Order to forbear making out a bill for the freight of the John of Stroud , for attending upon the Rainbow , until further order, her master, Edw. Good , having taken in a seaman at Lishon who is charged with embezzling several parcels of plate and silver belonging to the State, and carrying it on shore at Plymouth .  | 32                  |
| "               | Rich. Bradshaw, Hamburg.                  | Adm. Com.              | Hears the ship they mention has gone with her convoy for Newcastle . Hopes the 440 l. 17 s. 4 d. he has paid at Hamburg will be repaid to his servant.  | 33                  |

| 1656.Nov. 4 | Capt. Saml. Larke,Plymouth Fort.                                      | Adm. Com.                                    | Secured the captain and 54 of the company of the Lady Mary taken by the Hampshire, and sends a list of their names and quality; the other 32 have been allowed by the mayor to transport themselves, there being no order to detain them. Has secured the former in the castle, but it being weak and insufficiently guarded, hopes they will find a more convenient place, or increase the guard. Many wonder that the prisoners do not fall upon the small guard and destroy them in the night, and then make their escape. Suggests the erection, for 40 <sup>l</sup> , of a wooden house on the Green of the castle, capable of holding 200, and that, with a guard of 20 men, would secure the prisoners. Noted that Capt. Hatsell is to give order for building it at a cost not exceeding 50 <sup>l</sup> . | Vol. 147.35  |

The house occupied by Capt. Pett is covered with tarpanlin which is rotten; it should be replaced with lead at a cost of 55 <sup>l</sup> , or with canvas, which is of short continuance and hazardous.  | 36               |

At request of Capt. Tatnell, gave a certificate in his favour, although disagreeing with him on the subject of baptism.   | 38               |

Montague,M.P.,Whitehall. | Desires order as to the disposal of the late Spanish governor of Havana and his 6 servants, and the captain of the Plate fleet; wants money for their entertainment, some warm clothing, and a guard of horse, that at the garrison being small, and much weakened by sickness. Capt. Whiteborne of the Essex has brought in an Ostend man-of-war, with 80 prisoners, and as the town can ill accommodate them, desires they may be sent elsewhere, under conduct of a guard of horse. Since leaving Portsmouth, has been prevented receiving his provisions by the weather; hopes soon to do so, and observe their orders.  | 41               |

Blake, and other ships having also come in, desires orders respecting them and their men. Several ships will soon be fit to sail. The seamen and soldiers of the Unicorn have been both entreated and threatened to their duties, and the clerk of the check has strict orders, in all such cases, to call frequently, and prick the absentees out of victuals and wages.  | 43               |

The 10,000 l. has arrived, and will commence paying the Naseby and others to-morrow, and act with all frugality with the remainder. | 1656.Nov. 8 | Capt. Jno. Smith,Yarmouth.                | Adm. Com.              | Came in with part of the laden fleet, several having been lost in the storm, as were also his anchors, cables, and sails. Is much impeded by the bailiffs, merchants, &c., of Yarmouth, to convey 9 vessels to the Maas, and if ordered, will do it. Wanting sails, &c., desires an order to refit and prepare for the winter guard.  | Vol. 147.84 |
| "               | Capt. J. Whitstove,Plymou, Downs.         | "                      | Sailed from Plymouth on the 1st inst., but through stress of weather and fog, could not make the Wight, and after much difficulty recovered the Downs, which if he had missed, he might have run the hazard of the loss of the ship and life.   | 85              |
| "               | Thos. White, Dover.                           | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | The master of the John ketch that attended the Unicorn was Christ. Sluce, and not Edw. Wood. She is discharged, and no prize was taken while she was employed. There was another John ketch in the service, which left with the fleet. Desires payment of his bill for 300 l .   | 86              |
| "               | Capt. Wm. White-horne, Portsmouth,        | Adm. Com.              | Received 6 of the enemies' men on board, including the master, and believes 4 of them are English. Will put them on shore with the rest, who will make 80 in all, and on the arrival of the Great President or Sapphire, return to the Downs for further orders. It is very tempestuous.  | 87              |
| "               | Capt. Fras. Wil-loughby, Ports-mouth. | "                      | Has paid off the Naseby and Resolution, and will proceed with the Rainbow and Andrew, if money is sent down. The Bristol and other ships wait their victuals; others having come in to be cleaned and repaired, desires 40 more workmen may be taken on. The prisoners have been put on shore, save 6 in the Essex, and 30 secured in the town prison; as it will not hold any more, the rest have been quartered, with an allowance of 4 d . a day each, in alehouses, where there is but a slender guard; will order them to London. The Prize Office ought to defray their keep, and give some gratuity to seamen bringing in prizes, for want of which, and conduct money to carry them to their ships, they are bound to steal, and the State thus loses 5 times as much. | 88              |
| "               | Jno. Morris, Granes-end.                  | "                      | Will deliver their packet to Capt. Allen, of the Advice, when he arrives. The Happy Entrance has come up, and her captain will attend them to-morrow.   | 89              |
| "               | Adm. Com. - -                                 | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Order for setting forth the Oxford frigate for service in the Channel, and victualing her for 4 months for 110 men.   | 90              |
| "               | Capt. John. Baskett,Portsmouth.           | Adm. Com.              | As the new frigate Wakefield has been launched, reminds them of their promise to give him the command; will see that she is properly equipped and manned.   | 91              |
| "               | Capt. Jer. Country,Roe ketch, Lynn.       | "                      | Has been at Yarmouth with 9 vessels bound for London, and also conducted 6 others as far as Humber, where he was detained by foul weather. Has rode in the Deeps, where no vessel rides in winter but through necessity. Has only 17 days' provisions left.   | 93              |

| 1656.Nov. 10 | Capt. N. Heaton,the Gainsborough,Plymouth Sound.          | Adm. Com.             | Has been forced in by a violent storm; the Fagon, ordered for Scilly with the money, has not been able to make the Channel, through the defects in her head and masts. The ships ordered for the coast of France will do good service. Will neglect no opportunity of finding the enemy, but 5 ships are very few for such a wide station, and ought to be doubled. Thanks for the warrant for his old master. Is about putting to sea, and hopes to hear of the Fagon, but there have been many wrecks of late.   | Vol. 147.94 |
| "                | Capt. Rich. Potter -  | "                     | On 1st Sept. 1656, took a French prize, and sent 10 of his men on board, with orders to send back the Frenchmen, but they could only find 12 out of 29, the rest having hid. A storm coming on, lost sight of the prize, whereupon the men hid came forth, wounded the master, overcame the Englishmen, and carried them to France, where they remained in prison for 3 months. Being sent southward, desired Capt. Hatsell to send them a letter of credit, to obtain some relief, which was done by some English merchants, to the value of 51 l. ; as he stands engaged to Capt. Hatsell for that amount, desires it may be allowed. | 95              |
| "                | Jas. Puckle, Yarmouth.   | "                     | Delivered their order to Capt. Thomson of the Expedition, who will sail for Scotland to-morrow, and convey the vessels for Leith; also their letter to the captain of the Vulture, who is coming in with some vessels for the river, and to Capt. Wilkinson of the Weymouth pink, who is in the Roads with the Advice and Norwich, and some vessels from the Downs, bound for Chatham.   | 96              |
| "                | Capt. Jer. Smyth, the Dunbar, Downs.                               | "                     | Sends an account of the Downs squadron, and a survey of the damage done in a storm to the Assurance, which is ordered to Portsmouth to refit. Several ships, with their convoys, are detained in the Downs by weather. Desires leave of absence, his children being young and sickly, and under the care of strangers and servants, and his small estate being amongst persons he knows little of. Capt. Plumleigh will take the command meantime, his ship requiring refitting.   | 97-99           |
| "                | Capt. Jno. Taylor,Griffin, Plymouth.                           | "                     | Delivered some gunpowder at Guernsey, and then convoyed some vessels from Portsmouth to St. Malo, where he saw a small Ostender carry in a prize, richly laden with French goods. Brought back 12 sail, and saw them to their several ports, and having since washed, tallowed, and victualled for 2 months, waits orders.   | 100             |
| "                | Capt. Robt. Wilkin-son, Weymouthpink, YarmouthRoads. | "                     | Will observe orders. Came in with some of his convoy, and with the Advice, the rest having been dispersed in the storms, in which he was nearly sunk.  | 101             |
| "                | Capt. Fras. Wil-loughby, Ports-mouth.                     | Navy Com <sup>r</sup> | Asks the price of rosin, some being offered for sale; wants hemp, cables, and anchors, as the stores are empty, and ships expect supplies there the same as at Chatham or in the river. The Rain-bow has been paid off, the Naseby and Resolution dispatched, and the new frigate Wakefield launched; desires a surgeon for her.   | 102             |

Particulars of ships. The deputy governor intends sending the prisoners to London to-morrow, under a guard; as they are short of soldiers, through sickness, wants one of the companies quartered at Kingston to be sent to Bagshot, to relieve them. In the bad weather, a Flemish ship from the Canaries has been cast away, off the Isle of Wight. Capt. Baskett attended at the launching of the Wakefield, and if his commission is sent, he will be able to man her. | Vol. 147.103 |

A council of war has been held on board the Dumbar, respecting some slanders made against him by some of his officers, which were not proved; the council having suspended Jonas Palmer, his carpenter, wants another.   | 104              |
| "                | Rich. Johnson, late boatswain of the Tudip .   | "                                     | Petition to be boatswain on the Sorlings, or the frigate building in the Forest [of Dean]. | "                | Capt. Robt. Grasingham, Harwich .              | "                                     | Has cleaned and repaired the Portsmouth, and will soon be ready to sail  | 110              |
| "                | Capt. Ben. Gunson, Truelove, Rye .             | "                                     | Has not lain in harbour longer than necessary; was forced in, and is detained by the weather, but will convey 12 or 14 sail with the first wind, and proceed to the Narrow to look after Capt. Plumleigh and his squadron, as ordered. The ships he should have been with were forced to the Isle of Wight; conveyed others for London, and went on board the Duubar in the Doves; Capt. Smyth had feared that he had been lost. Has been to Dover, to repair and victual. There have been several shipwrecks on the coast.                                  | 111              |

The Unicorn will not be fit for lanneing for another week; the soldiers will be neither intreated nor threatened to their duty. | 1656Nov. 12 | Adm. Com. -  | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Order to make out a bill to Thos. Broughton for 300 l. 6 s. 11 d. , advanced by him to Capt. Thos. Fleet, commander of the Falcon flyboat, on his bill of exchange, and charge it on Capt. Fleet's account.   | Vol. 147.116 |
| "               | Sarah, widow of Capt. Thos. Webber, of the Recovery . | Adm. Com.              | Petition for payment of a bill of exchange for 100 l. , given her husband by Gen. Wm. Penn and Gregory Butler, two of the Commissioners in America. With reference to the Navy Commissioners, desiring they will send an account of the freight, and whether a bill of exchange has not been paid. Also contract 4 April 1655 between Governor Dan Searle, of Barbadoes, and Capt. Webber, whereby the latter agrees to carry his lading to the forces at Hispaniola, on receiving 220 l. on delivery, and 220 l. a month till discharged.  | 117, 118         |

James, who has served under him in the Unicorn 4 months, and is now entered in the George, and desires they will pay him 6 l. , stopped on an alleged false bill presented by a woman of Poplar on behalf of his brother, who lately returned from Jamaica, and is since dead, and to whom he is executor; the woman has her remedy at law against him, if the bill should prove good.  | 120              |
| "               | Peter Murford, Portsmouth .                           | Adm. Com.              | Sent a guard, under Major Hurst, out of the weak and sickly garrison, with the 80 Ostend pirates, but on drawing them out, 8 were unable to march, some being so desperately sick, and others having but one leg and a wooden stump, not able to march; the Major only started with 72, and having gone 4 miles, two boys and an old man could proceed no further, and were sent back, so that only 69 may be expected. Asks how to dispose of the 11 remaining, and who is to make the allowance of 4 d. a day to each. Portsmouth is a most inconvenient place to keep prisoners in, for want of prisons and other accommodation. | 121              |

Had a violent storm yesterday, when many vessels were lost; the Fame is so leaky that Capt. Wright is compelled to keep the pumps going, and has sent on shore for orders to come in.   | 126              |
| "               | Capt. Robt. Sansum, the Portsmouth , Harnick . | Adm. Com.              | Has cleaned and repaired his frigate, but was much hindered by the foul weather; having 7 weeks' provisions on board, desires order for 6 weeks' more, which may now be shipped without much loss of time.   | 127              |

| 1656.Nov. 12 | Capt. Fras. Wil-loughby, Ports-mouth.           | Adm. Com.              | They have paid off the 4 great ships, the Taunton and Bristol are waiting for their butter and cheese, and the President for Capt. Potter. The cause of the delay in sending down provisions is that the contractors for butter and cheese are engaged to send them from London by water, it being more costly to transport by wagon; and the ships being sometimes wind bound, causes delay. Will dispatch the Assurance when she arrives.  | Vol. 147.129 |

| "                | Adm. Com.   | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Order to make out a bill to the executors of Thos. Lawes, deputy treasurer to the West India fleet under Gen. He received 8,000 l. from Mr. Child at Portsmouth, out of which credit is to be given for 7,991 l. 14 s. 9 ½d. disbursements, but 2 l. 10 s. 9 d. charged for exchange of money is to be disallowed, as not reasonable for the State to bear. Nutton,the Norwich, Yar-mouth Roads. | "                      | Plied off Ostend several weeks, and was then forced by foul weather into the Downs, where he received orders from Capt. Smyth to convoy some vessels to Yarmouth Roads, then ply between Orfordness and the Willings, speak with Capt. Sanders of the Tiger, and when his victuals were expended, make for Chatham, which he will do.  | 138              |
| "                | "   | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Having only 5 or 6 days' provisions, is making for Chatham, by order of Capt. Smyth. There are 5 of the State's ships in the Roads; 4 merchantmen were cast away here in the last storm.   | 139              |
| "                | Ordnance Officers   | Adm. Com.              | Certify the number and sizes of iron ordnance, consisting of demi cannon, culverins, and sakers, in the possession of Thos. Foley, at Sudland, co. Kent; having been cast for the State, and having the arms of the Commonwealth engraven upon them, they would be very fit for the fleet.   | 140              |

The George is ready but waits for her commander, men, and the remainder of her provisions. Jno. Dixon, lately belonging to the Unicorn, having been found guilty, by a coroner's jury, of the death of a boy, by striking him, asks whether he shall send him to gaol, or have him tried by a court martial. Capt. Clerke and the other officers of the ship believe that he is innocent, and that the boy died of an ague, for which he sickened in harbour a few days since.   | 141              |

Will give all the assistance he can; the coast is clear of the enemy.   | Vol. 147.142-144 |
| "                | Capt. Jno. Smith,Yarmouth Roads.                    | "                                 | Sailed with the Fame, and 12 sail bound for the Maas, but was forced back through a storm, showing his lights as ordered, which some of them observed, but others not. The Fame is disabled, having sprung a leak; is very unfit to proceed, wanting sails and ground tackle, and there are no other men-of-war in the Roads but what are disabled and called in. Received order from Jas. Puckle to take sufficient victuals to serve the voyage out of the Fame. Cannot get a pilot unless he pays him, so must contract for ready money, or they will not serve the State; there is a difficulty in getting them at all this winter. Asks where he shall clean and revictual.  | 145                  |
| "                | Capt. Jer. Smyth, theDunbar, Downs.                 | "                                 | The Phoenix and Assurance have sailed, with the John and Abigail and the William under their convoy, with provisions for the ships at Jamaica, as also with 20 sail bound for the Isle of Wight. Two men belonging to the Cheriton have been suffocated with the noisome smells arising from the pump well, and others had nearly died through the neglect of the carpenter. A court martial was held on board the Dunbar respecting it; refers them to Judge Advocate Fowler's narrative. Hopes the carpenter may be made an example of, so that all such foolish, sottish, and careless fellows may be warned by it.  | 146                  |
| "                | Capt. Jo. Topping,Tynemouth Castle.                 | "                                 | Hen. Tyson, master of the Hope of Amsterdam, and Paul Andrence, one of his men, drinking with some English seamen at Shields, Paul related how he broke prison at Yarmouth, and escaped to London, and on being advised to be careful what he said, he drew a knife, and swore he would stick his adviser. Has secured him, and he has since confessed that he was formerly taken in a Dunkirk man-of-war, and carried to Yarmouth, from whence he and six others made their escape. Is much solicited by some in the town to move the Admiralty Commissioners to obtain the release of Wm. Clerke and Mark Cooke, two masters, who have been prisoners in Ostend for some time, and who write their wives at Tynemouth that they are in a sad condition. | 147                  |
| "                | Capt. T. Whitstone,Phoenix, Ports-mouth. | Rob.Blackborne.               | Wants the Admiralty Commissioners to grant him 6 more guns. Has never had more than 34, the number formerly allowed to frigates of his rate, but which, during his absence in transporting the Portuguese agent, were increased by the Generals to 40; in the Dutch war, the Phoenix never carried less than 46 or 48.  | 148                  |

Is on board the hulk, and will be ready to haul on shore on Wednesday. The George being ready to sail from Chatham, desires the renewal of the warrant for Jno. Cox as gunner. All the other officers are on board; the last 3 days, has entered 50 men.   | 149150           |

| 1656.Nov. 14 | Capt. Rob. Colman,Yarmouth.   | Adm. Com.              | After his return from Holland, saw the fishers to their ports and none have been taken; the very tempestuous weather makes sails and cables old before their time; will want a recruit when he goes to Harwich to revictual.   | Vol. 147.151 |

| "                | Jas Puckle, Yarmouth.   | Robt. Blackborne.      | Sent his letter on board the Elizabeth, returned from Hollarod. Has kept the Vulture to convoy the vessel with the brass ordnance, which having lost her cable, was forced in by the weather. The Hunter came in for more ballast, and the Pearl for victuals and a sail.  | 153              |

| "                | Capt. Jno. Baskett,Portsmouth.  | Adm. Com.              | Thanks for his commission and instructions. His guns having arrived, will soon be ready to sail; there is much useless shot in the stores; asks a warrant to receive 10 tons as ballast.   | 157              |
| "                | Josiah Child, Portsmouth.   | "                      | Not having received the butter and cheese from London, as expected, has procured sufficient to serve the Taunton and Mermaid, one of which has sailed to the Downs, and the other will go with Capt. Morgan the Victualler to-morrow. Hearing the wagons with the butter had arrived at Petersfield, to save the wind for the southward ships, procured a warrant from the Major for the wagons to travel to-morrow (the Lord's day), and then hopes to complete the victualing of the Bristol and President, so that they may also sail. Is sorry the want of commodities has occasioned such an interruption, but can justly acquit himself, as he gave advice as soon as informed of the wants, and could not provide at Portsmouth on any terms. The shipping of provisions is not his proper business, but the storekeeper's. Particulars of ships. | 158              |

| "                | Capt. Rich. Conoury,Hind ketch, Dover.                                  | "                      | Went to Harwich to refit, but was much delayed by the foul weather. Convoeyed a hoy from thence, laden with provisions, bound for Dover, but lost her; having seen the victualler's agent safely landed, will proceed to his station.  | 160              |

Such of his own company as were engaged in it have been punished, and ordered by the court martial to refund 20 l. 16 s. 4 d. , which he now holds, to make good such goods as were not found. The 17 packs of wool shall be disposed of, and the proceeds shared amongst the officers and company, who return thanks for so large a favor; will keep the silk stockings till further orders. When the Dunbar leaves the Downs, will endeavour so to manage the trust, and order the squadron, as to secure trade, and annoy the enemy. | "                | Capt. Jno. Smith,Pearl, Yarmouth Roads.           | "                    | Is sorry to hear that some of his giddy-headed men, who have been lately punished, have much abused him to them, simply through his being too strict; they not only threatened his life, but also to run away with the boat; was compelled to carry a pistol for his own security. Is about sailing with the fleet for the Maas, but hopes to give satisfaction as to his conduct hereafter; can refer to Mr. Puckle as to the provisions received out of the Fame. Would rather lose his right arm than be exposed to such men's will, who neither fear God nor devil. | 40              |
| "                | Ja. Puckle, Yarmouth                                  | "                    | Delivered their letter to Capt. Wright who has gone for Harwich, and the Pearl with the fleet for the Maas. There has been a mutiny on board, and the captain, being in fear of his life, sent on shore for some soldiers. Not approving thereof, went on board himself and heard that it all arose from the captain's being too strict with the gunner and some disorderly men; having brought 4 of the principal ringleaders on shore, desires order concerning them, as they deny any ill intentions against the captain.  | 41              |
| "                | Capt. Rich. Had-dock, Dragon,Hope.     | "                    | Has been to the River Elbe with the Roebuck and Hamburg Merchant and other vessels, and brought back 2 hoys richly laden, belonging to the Merchant Adventurers' Company; could not stay for Nath. Cambridge's ship, from fear of being frozen up in the river. Asks a warrant for his chaplain, Robt. Walléy, approved of by the Commissioners at Chatham.   | 42              |
| "                | Navy Comrs. - -  | "                    | There has been a plot carried on for some time by several persons to deceive the State, and many poor people, by false administrations; believing Marriott and Smith to be the chiefs, although they will confess nothing, have sent them up, as also some examinations.  | 43              |

Hatsell to take the wood for the service of the State, and the tar was given to him by Capt. Morgan, her commander; they are much prejudiced against him; will forbear answering all their charges until he is more composed, having much to do in the harbour, without anyone to assist him. | 1656.Nov. 20 | Adm. Comrs. - -                               | Navy Comrs | As there are but few frigates to be fitted out at Chatham, cannot see any need for an increase of workmen, if those allowed are kept to their duties. Will send a copy of the contract made with Major Burton for his cordage; what he has in hand belonging to the State is to be sent to Deptford. With reference to the loss of Thos. South's vessel in Mardike Pitts, ask what compensation has formerly been given in like cases.  | Vol. 148.55 |
| "                | John Browne, Harwich.                  | "          | Account of the wants of the Elizabeth and Fame; desires a supply of cables may be sent down -   | 56              |
| "                | Navy Comrs. - -                               | Adm. Com.  | Desire order for payment of the wages due to the officers and company of the Fox fireship, burnt in the Straits, as they have lately returned in another ship. With the order accordingly.  | 57              |
| "                | "   | "          | Capt. Haddock will attend them respecting the ship at Hamburg, laden with hemp; as there is great want of it and that river may soon be frozen up, a vessel should be dispatched to give her convoy at once.  | 58              |
| "                | Comr. Peter Pett, Chatham.             | "          | Particulars of ships. Is in great want of sheet-lead and leaden scuppers, and Mr. Lake will supply no more, through not being paid, as promised. Asks what can be done with him, there being no other plumber to deal with.   | 60              |
| "                | "   | Adm. Com.  | Repair, arrival, and departure of ships. Desires victuals may be hastened down - -  | 61              |
| "                | Capt. Robt. Plumleigh, Reserve, Downs. | "          | Capt. Smyth, of the Dunbar, will sail for Chatham River, and take the Hawk ketch with him, to be refitted for service on the coast of Holland, for securing trade, and annoying the enemy infesting those parts. The Cheriton is detained in the Downs, her commander being sick. Asks whether to send certain ships up to revictual and clean.   | 62              |
| "                | Capt. Jer. Smyth, Dunbar, Downs.       | "          | Mr. Pitts is with Capt. Plumleigh. Having received a pilot from Chatham, will sail with the first wind, and hopes, on arriving there, for leave of absence, having had many alarms from his relations in the country of the damage done through his non-appearance. The Mermaid is conveying a vessel with stores for Portsmouth, and will then return to Capt. Hanam in the Kent in the Narrow. Capt. Best, of the Adventure, chased a Dunkirker of 8 guns on to the shoals of the coast of France. Suggests sending the Hawk ketch to ply off the Maas, as several Dunkirkers there lately surprised an English ship. | 63              |
| "                | Capt. N. Heaton, Plymouth.             | "          | Has got the provisions on board for the fleet, but will put them on shore again, as ordered, and then proceed to sea. Has two months' provisions for himself.   | 64              |

His declaration and examination. Two notes from Agues, wife of Thos. Lane, to Majors Bourne and Thomson, desiring Marriott's release on bond, as he will be useful in discovering the others; she and her husband are out of pocket by attending them in the matter; they were offered the half of an administration of 35 l. if they would personate the administrators of a deceased seaman. Also her deposition, and that of Mary Middleton, Marriott's mother-in-law, and of Wm. Barboure. Also note of the addresses of Marriott, Fras. Cotterell, and Rich. Kelsey, and parted with them off the Lizard; tried to gain St. Martin's Island, but was prevented by the winds. Spoke some Dutch vessels from Bordeaux and Nantes, and heard that there were some picketboats near Belle Isle, and that the Dutchmen were plundered in their outward passage of all their provisions. 12 English vessels came from Bordeaux at the same time, but without convoy, and 14 more were nearly ready to sail. There were only two English ships in Nantes River, and a State's man-of-war at St. Martin's.  | 79                 |

Desires their favor on Clerke's behalf, as he is an enemy to the Cavaliers, and several of his friends, who are honest and well affected, have suffered in the late wars. Has Capt. Tyssen, and Brookes, his quarter-master, prisoners in Scarborough Castle; if either Spont or Brookes might be released, Clerke would have his liberty to come to England.                           | 36               |

Was requested to send some men-of-war to try and redeem the prizes, but there was no one but Capt. Country of the Rose ketch , and as there was no hope of his doing anything, he did not go. Whichborne, and acquainted him with their commands concerning the supply of gunners' stores; will set sail with the Oxford to ply in the Narrow, with the others designed for that service, but the foulness of the frigate renders her unserviceable for cruising. The Mermaid has returned to the Downs ; the same day, ordered the Cheriton to Dover to clean and revictual. | 60               |

| 1656.Dec. 6 | Capt. Wm. White-horne, the Essex ,Douras .    | Adm. Com.  | Sends a certificate by Jno. HUDSON, his purser, as to victuals received from Portsmouth for 250 men for 126 days, which is the complete time they should last, notwithstanding the victualing for one day of 336 men taken prisoners in the St. John of Ostead. Has received and will observe their instructions. The Reserve and two others are ready to ply in the Narrow, and the Sparrow has gone as convoy to a vessel richly laden for Amsterdam, which is needful, there being 2 or 3 men-of-war upon that coast. Has appointed the Mermaid to convoy two vessels with the State's goods bound for Portsmouth to Spithead, and 10 or 12 more bound westward as far as the Wight. As there are several bound for Caen and Newhaven, has desired Capt. Plumleigh to send in two of the vessels plying with him in the Narrow; it will not in the least prejudice the service required. Hears from Dover that 3 men-of-war went out of Dunkirk last week, but which way is not known. | Vol. 149.62, 63 |
| "               | Major Rich. Elton,Hull .                                 | "          | The merchants return thanks for the convoy promised for their ships bound for London, most of which will be ready this week; as they have 8 others bound for Holland, and as there are 2 or 3 of the enemies' men-of-war upon that coast, they desire a convoy for them; they dare not stir without. The poor man who had given 12 l. for the old boat returns thanks for the satisfaction given to him in the past, and hopes to be further considered. Has sent up his son, Ensign Rich. Elton, and hopes they will pay him the 20 nobles for the man.   | 64                  |

| "               | Capt. Robt. Saunum,the Portsmouth ,Yarmouth . | "          | Will use all opportunity to get to his station and observe their commands   | 67                  |

| 1656,Dec. 8 | Capt. Thos. Morris,Portsmouth.           | Adm. Com.  | Received their commands through Mr. Blackborne, respecting his boatswain having 2 wives, and as it was a general report of his men, informed Capt. Willoughby. The boatswain admits that he had a wife in London when he joined, but not having seen her for years, and not knowing if she was living, he has since married another. Will sail to Spithead with the first wind.  | Vol. 149.72  |

Penn,the Bristol, Spithead.   | "          | Sailed with his convoy from Spithead on the 5th, but was forced to anchor off South Yarmouth the same day, and the next day was forced back, and remained until the 8th. The wind still blowing hard at S.W., returned to Spithead and will take in some petty warrant provisions, so that he may be able to keep his sea victuals until he sails.   | 73               |

| "               | Capt. Jno. Parker,Cheriton, Dover Pier.  | "          | Is somewhat restored to health, and came in last Friday; the caulkers have been delayed by the foul weather; desires an order for building a forecastle, as the ship can well carry one.   | 78               |
| "               | Thos. White, Dover                           | "          | The Cheriton has come in to be caulked, and as the captain requires a forecastle, desires order for building one, that it may not hinder her dispatch.   | 79               |
| "               | Capt. Thos. Wright,Fame, Harwich.        | Adm. Com.  | Has washed and tallowed, and is ready to take in provisions. Wrote to the Navy Commissioners for a long boat of 25 feet, his old one not being worth repairing.  | 80               |
| "               | Capt. Wm. White-horse, the Essex, Downs. | "          | Several vessels have been prevented sailing to their stations with their convoys by contrary winds, and others have been forced in. A fleet of 50 merchantmen came out of Guernsey with Capt. Mackey, of the Assistance, bound for Bordeaux and other ports, and have arrived off the South Foreland. Will send an account of the stations of the Downs squadron. Will send 5 Ostend prisoners, whom he has on board, to Deptford, by the Amity or Truclove; one named Capt. Anth. Collard, offers himself in exchange for any English prisoner in Ostend, and the other 4 are sturdy fellows. | 81               |

| "               | Capt. Chas. Thorow-good, State's Yard,[Portsmouth]. | Adm. Com.   | Particulars of ships. The clerks have gone on board to pay the Hare. Gave Mr. Bayley, the muster, his warrant; will try to send up the boatswain of the Springs to London, and has directed the clerks not to try him. Mr. Tippetts has surveyed the decks of the Paradox , and she will soon be dispatched. Thinks the ships and frigates ordered for Ireland ought to be better fitted than those in the Channel, as they seldom receive a supply.  | 85              |

The Assistance has gone with a dozen bound for Lynn, Boston, &c. Many of the Bordeaux masters complain of the abuses offered to them at Blay Castle; it cost one of them 1,000 livres for not saluting the Castle, and another 600 or 700 for not doing it in the right place, besides imprisonment and other injuries. Having been 3 months off the ground, and being short of provisions, cables, &c., desires order to go up to Chatham to clean, as it will be dangerous doing so at Harwich during winter. | 86              |

Ask leave to appoint an officer for that place at 30 l. a year, to be borne on the quarter books, and to send two labourers there, to take care of the stores and prevent embezzlements.   | 99               |

| 1656.Dec. 12 | Capt. Robt. Clarke,George, Hope. | Adm. Com.              | The painters having finished the ship's head, will set up the rigging, and hopes to sail for the Downs, and ply on his station by Monday. Having a number of supernumeraries on board, asks whether to clear or detain them, or at least 13, in addition to his complement of 320 men, as there is no doubt they will be wanted in the fleet.  | Vol. 149.114 |

| "                | Daniel Sherley                              | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Petition for an enquiry as to the truth of his complaint and information, viz., that he was one of the carpenters on board the Torrington in the late expedition to the West Indies, and although he faithfully discharged his duties for 2 years, he sustained insufferable abuses and injuries from John Woolger, the master carpenter, for not complying with his irregular practices. Woolger, while at Jamaica, sold a barrel of pitch, skin of tallow, and 80 l. worth of prize plate at 4 s. an ounce to those on board the Tenerife Merchant. Complained to the Admiral, but Woolger's influence prevailed, so thought it convenient to wait until the ship came home, when by a strict investigation, the truth would come out. Since returning, Woolger, to prevent an enquiry, indicted him for slander, but did not appear to prosecute; was discharged by the jury, but has been put to extraordinary charges thereby. Woolger endeavoured to obtain petitioner's wages, by alleging he was his master, but having no indenture, they were paid to petitioner. Nevertheless upon coming forth, Woolger, with his wife and brother, violently set upon him, and took the money out of his pockets, whereupon he procured a warrant to apprehend them as felons, but not being inclined to take the rigour of the law, compounded with them for one half of it. | 116              |

Lilburne has given order for their being cleared, and Spont is one of them; if speedy course is not taken for the release of our men by exchange, all the prisoners will be gone, some having escaped already.   | 119              |

Is endeavouring by beat of drum and otherwise to raise the volunteers required, to go with Col. Moore, but having little hope of success, asks him to write to Limerick and Athlone, where a number of foot are quartered, and volunteers would be more easily obtained, as the noise of the late loss may not have had the same influence at so great a distance, and they will be much better than pressed men. With depositions of Capt. Jas. Williams and the other officers of the Sapphire, that while at sea on 25 Oct. last, they found, after a great storm, that she made water, and the pumps being choked, the company of 18 men had to continue baling her day and night, until they got into Cork Harbour. Heard Peniwell, one of the mates, assert he would not go the voyage in her unless he went fettered, and the surgeon wished himself on shore, if only with his skin, although he had 100 l. ventured in her, and said if he got on shore, he would rather be hanged than go the voyage in her, unless she was repaired; many others alleged she was in a bad condition. 17 Dec. | 190-192          |

Convoys several vessels down the Swinn, laden with merchants' goods, and some with corn from Sandwich, bound to Mr. Clarke, the victualler at Ipswich, on the State's account. Is now plying off Orfordness, until ships arrive and require conveying to the river's mouth.   | 24               |

| "                | Capt. Hen. Paek,Amity , Plymouth .                    | "                      | Since arriving at Plymouth, has been forced to take in another month's provisions. The Lark with the convoy could not get in with him, on account of foul weather, but they have since arrived safe, and will resal with the first wind.   | 26               |
| "                | Adm. Com.   | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Order for Capt. Thos. Alderne to provide and ship 4 months' victuals for 5,600 men for Gen. Blake's fleet, one-third in beer, to see that it is good and packed in iron-bound casks, and to take up ships in the Thames, and at Portsmouth and Plymouth, for its transportation.   | 27               |

| "                | Navy Comrs.   | Adm. Com.              | In the late expedition to the West Indies, a tun of brandy was put on board the Portland, and Capt. Newberry being absent, the steward signed for it, and has since stood charged for it. The captain however alleges it was sent as a perquisite, and for his own use, and was no more than was given to other captains in the fleet. A stop has been laid upon his entertainment until the State has satisfaction therein, at which the captain is much troubled. Desire order therein, as it is the first case of the kind that has come before them.   | 30               |
| "                | Capt. Wm. White-horne, the Esser ,Douras .        | "                      | Received their warrant for Jno. Hills to be gunner of the Redhorse pink, and will call the carpenter before a Council of War. Appointed the Dartmouth to convoy 2 vessels with hemp, &c., on the State's account to Portsmouth. The Pembroke will be ready to come out to-morrow, and her provisions are expected in a few days; suggests that Capt. Groves should again have the command. As the great ship lately built at Dunkirk must come into the Splinter to take in her guns, ammunition, and provisions, intends sending some of the Downs squadron to try and destroy her, before she comes any further. Movements of ships. | 31               |

| 1856.Dec. 24 | Capt. J. Whirstone,Phoenix, Falmouth.        | Adm. Com.                          | Took the Love and Honeycomb , bound for Lisbon, under his convoy, but the latter being leaky and likely to sink, put back with him for Falmouth; but a fog coming on, lost sight of him, so cannot say whether he got into Plymouth or was swallowed in the sea; putting aside the public concernment and the poor men's lives, this would be a meet reward for men who prefer self-interest before the public weal, in obtruding their own insufficient ships, and declaring them to be of ability, when they know they are not, whilst other able vessels of private men, ready to be employed at an easier rate, lie by. The wind being now fair, a ship of the Phoenix's charge should not wait longer for 3 or 4 score tuns of beer, being upon business of concernment, and will therefore set sail. | Vol. 150.32 |

Hatsell. The Dartmouth has arrived with 2 hoys from the Downs, with provisions for the yard. Recommends Baker, boatswain's mate of the Laurel , as boatswain for the Wildman . Hears there are many of the enemies' small vessels abroad, waiting all opportunities, but will seek to prevent them.   | 35              |

Was compelled to put into Leith Road for ballast and water.   | 36              |

The ship with the lading has arrived at Chatham, and if a person is sent down to survey and certify their goodness and value, will make the best bargain he can.   | 40, 41          |

Lord Gen. Monk has ordered some more forces to march thither, to be ready for field service. Would have attended them but is too ill to travel.   | 60              |

Has had the command of her for 4 years, been in many hot contests with the enemy, and been exposed to many dangers, but has kept her from one penny damage, and if he or his master, to whom the navigation of the ship was committed, had been acquainted with Harwich, he would not have taken a pilot, or entrusted him, unless confident of his abilities. | 1656.Dec. 29 | Major Wm. Barton,  | Col. Jno.Clarke. | Those who assert that Capt. Colman is not a favourer of godliness abuse him; has known him 16 years; if his chaplain was ever out of his place, he would do the duty himself, and he kept a man on board to learn the young men writing and arithmetic. Has enquired respecting him of Mr. Bridge, the pastor, and although Capt. Colman is not one of Bridge's members, his wife is, and is a very good woman. Hopes they will not harbour any evil thoughts until they have heard the truth; it may be the complaint of some purser. | "                | Capt. Phil. Holland,Assurance, Scar-borough. | Adm. Com.            | Convoyed 6 ships from Spithead to the Downs, but was much driven about by the stormy weather. Hearing that 2 of the enemies' men-of-war were upon the coast, lay off and on 6 days, and chased 3, of which two were Hollanders from Scotland, and the other a man-of-war, which they lost in the chase. Is in a condition to keep at sea.   | 72               |

Both himself and Mr. Newberry have examined the gunner of the Yarmouth , and although they do not find him so sharp-sighted as some men, yet not so purblind but he can see far and near enough to do the State service; Newberry says he is a very solid man. Particulars of ships. | 66               |

Com.              | As there is a ship going to Dean Forest, will send masts for the frigate now being built there by Mr. Furzer; it will be a saving to the State if her guns and stores are sent at the same time.   | 69               |

| 1656-7.Mar. 13 | Navy Comrs.  | Adm. Com.         | Do not conceive it necessary to send any iron hoops to Jamaica in the Exchange, considering the great quantity of iron and coals which were taken out there with the fleet; the smiths there ought to work and make what is required, as nothing but necessity will prompt them to be industrious.   | Vol. 163.70  |
| "                  | Adm. Com.  | Navy Comrs        | Order to make out a bill to Jno. Athy, vintner, for 54 l. , for a pipe of Canary delivered to Dr. Blake, for the use of Gen. Blake.   | 71               |

Penn's fleet to the West Indies, while she lay in port, they having had no advantage by her service, and to do therein as is agreeable to justice; noted that she was contracted for 21 July 1654, at 50 l. a month, and engaged to 3 Aug. 1655, abating 6 weeks. With certificate by Jno. Tippetts that 10 l. 17 s. 6 d. was expended upon her for materials and workmen's wages, and an account by John Dymocke of stores supplied amounting to 87 7s. 6 <sup>3</sup> / <sub>4</sub> d. | 72-74            |

Hopes they will pay his bill for disbursements to Jno. Edwards, the Dover Post, as he cannot proceed without it.   | 88               |
| "                   | Capt. Wm. Badiley  | "                    | Has treated with several smiths concerning the chains, and thinks it needful to allow $\frac{3}{4}$ in weight more to a fad of chain than formerly, which will cause the fad to weigh 2 cwt. Has stretched a line over, and finds the river is 225 fads in breadth, so if 25 fads more are made, it will do the work, which will rise to 25 tons of chain. The smiths warrant the chain for a year and a day, at 56 l. per ton, which will amount to 1,400 l. , and the ground work may be laid for 100 l. Will get Mr. Loder, of Deptford, to make a fad [of chain] as soon as possible.                             | 89               |

Asks further orders.   | 91               |
| "                   | Navy Comrs. - -  | Adm. Com.            | Have considered the petition and papers of Jno. Rye, purser of the Sorlinges , and although very sensible of the knavery practised by such persons, as also by stewards, in framing forged certificates to pass their victualing accounts, by which the State is greatly defrauded, yet as divers of his papers appear to be true, think they ought to be allowed. Such references for the future ought to be made to the persons before whom the whole accounts of the victualing lie, who being daily conversant thereabouts, and having instruments abroad in all ports, have all the advantage to secure the State from damage. | 92               |

| 1656-7.Mar. 19 | Adm. Com. - -                               | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Reference of the petition of Robt. Willis, diver, for employment in endeavouring to recover some brass guns belonging to the Liberty, which was cast away off Harwich, as also of those belonging to the Sussex, which was burnt off Portsmouth, and which he endeavoured to recover 2 years since, but was prevented by the storms. With draft reply that it is desirable to re-attempt it, and would be advisable to send some competent persons from Harwich in one of their wherries to search for the guns, and meantime to have the diver's hoy fitted, and if he should do no good there, then to order him to Portsmouth, where there is great probability of his recovering the Sussex's guns and anchors. | Vol. 163.93, 94 |

Hopkins, for 195 l. 10 s. , due to Hopkins at his decease, on his salary as a navy commissioner, at 400 l. a year, but he will do well to move the Commissioners to pay the full quarter entered into, it being customary. With draft of a warrant of 7 March 1656-7, on an order from the Protector of 4 Sept. 1656, for 196 l. 17 s. 6 d. , 250 l. having been received within the time.  | 97, 98              |
| "                  | Aug. Aldridge, Lidney, Dean Forest . | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup> | Has freighted the John and Mary with timber, and she has also taken in six gentlemen. Sends an account of timber at the water side ready to be shipped, and in the wood ready for carriage. Cannot procure many carriers at present, as they are sowing their corn, but will make as much speed as possible. As letters often miscarry, has sent up the bearer with his account; hopes they will consider his loss of the chips, and that the 140 l. he has received on account of his salary the last 2 years and upwards has not paid for his maintenance, but that he has had to spend his own money that he brought down.  | 99                  |

| "                  | Ordnance Officers -                         | "                      | Sends an account of 353 pieces of ordnance received out of the Gideon and Raven prizes, some of which have been dispersed amongst the State's ships, and the remainder are at the Tower Wharf and Chatham. If restitution is required by the King of Sweden, his agent should ascertain the number and nature of those claimed, as an account is kept in the ordnance office of the names of all prize ships from which any guns have been received, without any reference to the name of the master.   | 101                 |
| "                  | Comr. Peter Pett, Chatham .          | "                      | Is in great want of the deals long since ordered, and unless suddenly sent down, will be forced to buy some at extraordinary prices. Major Browne's note will show how low the stores are of hemp and tar, a supply of which would prevent discharging the men.   | 102                 |

Is vicinualing the London, and launched the Torrington, and is now setting her masts, her victuals being sent for.  | 103                 |

Com.              | Cannot account for his pink having sprung another leak so soon after being refitted, and his company do not believe that it has been wilfully done; is much troubled that it should have happened, as having asked to be removed to another station, an ill-construction may be put upon it, but his conscience is clear. Will endeavour to find out the leak, and also take in the 14 days' provisions he left behind.  | 28               |

Has spent so much of his victuals that he has now only sufficient for 8 days, and but little powder that is serviceable; having been a year at sea, most of it is damp.   | 29               |

Encloses a letter received from 21 merchants and masters of ships at Hamburg , some of whom went over with him, thanking him for his convoy, and desiring him to stay to see them back; as there are 12 or 15 sail, and some of them laden upon the State's account, has agreed to wait for 4 days, and hopes it will not be considered a breach of his orders. | 30, 31           |

| 1657.Apr. 6 | Capt. N. Heaton   | Capt.Hatsell.      | The Sapphire's captain is honest and able, but the company are divided to his grief, especially the boatswain, master, and master's mate, which if continued, things are likely to be badly per-formed, to the State and the captain's prejudice, and to the great discouragement of all whomay sail in the ship. The captain is willing to compose things; there is a necessity for regu-lating them before Capt. Clay goes out of port again. Com.              | Has endeavoured to man his ship with able seamen, but has great difficulty in regard of the manymerchantmen setting out, and the paucity of ships from Newcastle, who remain wind-bound athome. Will sail with the first wind; the pilot is giving constant attendance. The Exchangestill lies at Blackwall; asks whether he is to wait for her, or let her follow him to theDowns.   | 40               |

The Bramble has run on board the Drake, and carried away the bowsprit and endangered her head; cannot impute any blame to the captain or company of the Drake, as they were on board and their ship at anchor. Mathew, late purser of the Drake, for wages, which has been stopped by the Treasurer, on account of a double ticket having been presented by mistake. | "               | Jno. Mathew -  | MajorRobt.Thomson.                 | Begs consideration of what he has suffered through Mr. Hutchinson, the navy treasurer, who alleged that he was turned out of the Reserve about 2 tickets; answered at Whitehall in 1653, before Sir Hen. Vane and a full committee of the Admiralty Commissioners, and was then cleared, as is proved by certificate of Capt. Robt. Clarke, then commander of the frigate. Had leave to go to London to pass his accounts for a former voyage, as purser of the Drake, and not having dispatched his business, and the ship sailing, another was put in his place. Had a warrant as steward in the Heartscase, a Dutch prize, but the Treasurer wrote from Chatham against him, caused him to lose that employment, and put in one of his friends, who has never since passed an account, whereas he has passed all his accounts. But for him the State would have been wronged by the navy contractors of 300 l. ; has 3 suits at law, involving 3,000 l. , which he cannot follow for want of the money which the Treasurer detains. | 52               |

Set sail the 27th with them, but meeting with contrary winds and thick weather, was compelled to bear for the Roads, where he is still detained.   | 55               |

Penn's lady to transport her to Bristol; but the wind continuing easterly, was detained there until the arrival of the Basing, and her ladyship resolved to go in her. The Adam and Eve, commanded by Capt. Coppen, arrived after loss of her rudder and many other difficulties, and desired assistance; has advanced Capt. Examined the officers and company of the Sapphire, as ordered, which took up the whole day and a greater part of the night, although he called to his assistance several officers. The surgeon and one of the master's mates were judged to be ducked, &c., for many miscarriages; the boatswain was thought unfit to be continued any longer, as he could give no account of his stores, and had not posted them for 4 years, and it was found that a cable, hawser, mainsail, &c., were wanting, besides his breach of orders and commands. The master is also displaced (although he made a request for 3 months' absence, through age and infirmity) on account of his loose carriage in suffering the officers and company to abuse each other. Was commanded to send up the examinations in full, but if they had been taken with all the circumstances, many sheets of paper must have been used. Has put in the master of the Fagons as master on board the Sapphire, and Abr. Potter, boatswain of the Griffin, as boatswain; if approved, desires their warrants. Will dispose of the ships in port so that they may protect trade and annoy the enemy. There is much foul weather, and the wind is still southerly. Asks payment of the wages due to him while in the Dunbar, being in great distress, and much pressed by his creditors. Hopes to be able to give them satisfaction as to the gunner having received the 10 barrels of powder from Mr. Powell at Bristol; it was brought on board the Discovery in her long boat. Could not go to trial with his action last term for want of money, and unless they stand his friends, nothing will be done this term. | 108              |

Called at his lodgings in London, but heard he was gone to the Parliament, and was glad to find he was in a condition to walk abroad; hopes, at his leisure, he will avail himself of the Elmstead air, where the singing of the birds will add something to the removal of anything that ill afflicts him, besides the free welcome he will receive. | 1657.Apr. 17 | Ordnance officers                               | Adm. Com. | The gunners of the State's ships have long been supplied with large quantities of canvas, paper, needles, thread, &amp;c., for making and fitting up cartridges for the guns on board their ships when at sea, and have, on their return, under pretence of some small expenditure thereof, converted a great part to their own use, whereby the State has been considerably abused in their stores, and the ordnance officers bereft of any clear way of reconciling or putting a sufficient check upon such accounts. As they cost the State between 13 and 140l. a year, have resolved from henceforth to deliver out cartridges ready made, according to the number of guns borne by each ship, whereby the State will save the charge of paper, which at sea grows spongy and rotten, as also the charge of starch, needles, and thread, amounting to 600l. a year. Have contracted with Dani. Prigg to deliver as many cartridges as required by 24th June next, at from 3l. to 4l. each, but the certain number and the time should be ascertained; the contractor craves a settlement of the business for 3 years, and this is reasonable, as the commodity made will be fit for no other use.  | Vol. 164.112 |
| "                | "   | "         | As they have not sufficient guns to furnish the 8 small vessels on the stocks, which will be launched in a few days, desire order to purchase them; the cost will not exceed 100l., there being a few in the stores, as also 2 brass 3-pounders in the custody of Commissary Knight at Windsor Castle, which were brought from Wallingford.  | 113              |
| "                | Capt. Robt. Sanders,Torrington, Til- | "         | Having careened, got his powder on board, and increased his company from 130 to 150, wishes the wind would change westerly, so as to bring a fleet of colliers down, when he would make for the Downs.  | 114              |

Watts                                       | "         | Petition for an order for payment of the balance of the freight due on contract for the hire of the William, of which he is owner, to carry provisions to Jamaica at 4l. 10s. a ton, amounting to 1,291l. 3s. 2d., and of which he has received 488l. 1s. 7d., and might have received the remainder had the convoy appointed him by the State performed their part. The Bristol was appointed in the first instance to go as convoy, but after waiting for her 5 weeks, the commander-in-chief called her off to other service on the coast of Spain; the Fagon was then ordered to convoy him, but she having only just come in from sea, and her men not paid off, she only convoyed the William 80 leagues from the Land's End, and then left her, although they fell foul of a man-of-war the night before; 2 hours after the Fagon had left, a Dunkirkier came up, and although they resisted until next day, the William was overcome and carried to Dunkirk. Has performed his part, and the failure has been on the other side, but out of modesty and honour to the State, has not hitherto importuned for the remainder of the freight, which, with the loss of his vessel, will amount to 1,500l. With affidavits of Robt. Gurling, commander, and Thos. Drury, master's mate of the William, attributing her loss to the causes before described; as also of Jno. Harris, sailmaker, of Tower Wharf, London, that he supplied her with sufficient sails for a much longer voyage. | 116-119          |

| 1657.Apr. 18 | Capt. Robt. Sausum,thePortsmouth,Scarborough. | Adm. Com.         | Sailed from Yarmouth Roads with the Amity and several ships for Hull and the Firth; the wind turning easterly, ordered Capt. Paeké to take charge of the Hull ships, and see them to the Humber, and then ply on his station; sailed himself with those for the Firth, and then returned to his station, when he again met the Amity . Has had many applications from the merchants and masters of Hull to convoy their ships trading between there and the Thames, but having no order, would not do it. Having many sick men on board, put several of them on shore at Seahorrough, where they have been entertained, but the town now refuse to take any more, either from him or Capt. Hearing that Capt. Shelley of the Guinea was at St. Malo, convoyed some vessels bound there, and was then ordered by him to convoy over several vessels bound for English ports as far as Guernsey, and he would join them at Jersey. After waiting for him 9 days, received a certificate of 4 merchants and 10 masters of 18 ships brought over, as to the loss and inconvenience they had sustained by waiting for Capt. Shelley, and they agreed to accept the Lark as a sufficient convoy, and to be bound by his orders and directions; saw them safe to their several ports. There are 3 at Spithead, bound for London, waiting for a convoy, but having spent his main topmast in chasing a vessel, will not be ready to sail before to-morrow. | 14, 15           |

The Lark has arrived with several vessels from St. Malo, laden with linen and hemp for the stores at London, where Noyals canvas is much wanted, and the Wakefield can convey them to the Downs if ordered; being rich, they are unwilling to sail without a convoy. Money is much wanted to pay for the keep of prisoners, to defray bills for cordage, and for carrying some plate to London; is much solicited for money, as he agreed to pay within 3 months and it is now 5; hopes they will not let the State's and his own credit suffer, it being good husbandry to draw trade to Portsmouth as much as may be. Has bought 20 tons of French hemp at 38s. per cwt, and having the offer of 10 tons of cordage, half rise hemp and the other half Flemish yarn at 44s., desires order as to purchasing it. Will pay off the Mathias, which is in harbour, to-morrow. | 26               |

Colman,Elizabeth, Har-wich.            |   | While going to Iceland to convoy home the fleet, boarded a Hollander bound from Lynn to Rotterdam, and finding 300 l. worth of prohibited tallow, and divers other goods not mentioned in the cockpit, sent her to Yarmouth. The merchants at Norwich and Lynn, taking advantage of his absence, cleared all their barrels of tallow as decayed butter, as also other goods not mentioned in their cockets, and also charged some of his company with stealing some stockings of the value of 100 l. , and upon his coming home, they arrested him for it, notwithstanding his innocence, being absent. Having found out some of the plunderers, desires that the pay due to them upon their tickets may be stopped for his use, so that justice may be done, and some of the burden taken from off his shoulders. | 32               |

There are 13 ships at the mouth of the Humber, bound for Holland or London. Capt. Pickering will convoy the latter to the Thames with the first wind. With the petition of Hide and others, stating that while on a voyage from Newcastle to Rotterdam, they were taken by an Ostend man-of-war, and carried to Ostend, where they are now confined close prisoners, suffering great straits and very hard usage, and as there are several Ostend prisoners in London, they beg their enlargement by exchange.  | 33, 34           |

While lying off that town, was impertuned by some masters of ships to give them convoy, but the Lark being also there, bound for Guernsey, advised them to keep her company there, and when he had been to Jersey, he would call for them, which he did, but they had sailed three days before. It is common with some masters, if you do not throw aside all other orders and comply with their sudden desires, to write and speak evil of men in his place; Dr. Cartwright can give a further account of that business. | 55               |

Supplied the Adam and Eve at Ireland with some necessaries; as his own ship is very defective, desires order to go into dock.   | 58               |

Has paid the Mathias, and if money comes down this week, will pay the yard. Being solicited by 20 or 30 masters of small vessels bound westward to appoint a convoy to attend them, as the Guinea and Capt. Baskett or Taylor to convey all the St. Malo ships to the Downs, and Capt. Lardge to convey 40 others bound westward as far as Plymouth. Was in hopes of a supply of money by the wagons, so that the clerks might have gone home. Will endeavour to procure some cordage, but the last he agreed to pay for at 3 months has now been owing 5; it is better to give 43s. per cwt. at Portsmouth than 44s. elsewhere, and the State to be at the charge of freights to that place. As there was 300 l. imprested for the dock 6 weeks since and nothing yet paid, the man is under great discouragement, and may throw up the bargain; desires he may have it next week, so that the credit of the officers may not further suffer. There is great need for the erection of a house to tar yarn, as at other ropeyards, the present one being too little and dangerous. It was estimated to cost 220 l. ; desires order may be given for it, or the great charge they have been at about the rope field will be as thrown away. | Vol. 165.64-66 |

Having only 60 men, good and bad, wants a press warrant sent to Commissioner Pett, as men are not to be got by invitation. There is something against Mr. Leake, his gunner; begs favor for him, as he is a civil and able man; but if he is dismissed, hopes John Morgan, late lieutenant of the Dover, and now a reformado there, may have the place; he was gunner of the Laurel and Susan.   | 71                 |

Com.              | Conveyed several vessels from Harwich to the Yarmouth Roads, and then sent a letter on shore to Mr. Burton, respecting the Star. Resailed with her and 49 others bound for Norway, where most of them got into harbour, but himself and the Zaphania, bound for the Eastland, were forced into the Port of Marda. Perceiving they have been informed of the miscarriages of some of his men at Ipswich, arising from the badness of the bread and beer, sends two papers he received from them thereon, by which it will be seen that, upon arriving at Harwich, 3 of his company, together with the quarter-master, went to the victualler to complain, who thereupon sent for the baker and the brewer, and made it appear that he paid 12s. a cwt. for the bread and 1/12s. 0d. a tun for the beer. The victualler and brewer were very civil, but the baker called them ruminous rogues, said that it was too good for them or their betters, and that if they were at Jamaica, they would be glad of the worst bit of it, and should have worse next time. On their return to the ship, they and the rest of the company were so exasperated that next day 40 of them, unknown to him, went to the baker, and he being out, they committed some disorders, for which they shall be punished, although he cannot blame them for their just complaints. Had their Honors seen and tasted the bread and beer, they would have considered it not fit to eat or drink; never saw worse sent to sea, as will be proved by Cpts. Wright and Sansum, and other commanders, who victualled at that place; 1 cwt. of bread received at London, Portsmouth, or Plymouth, is better than 2 cwt. here, and the like of the beer. | 74-76            |

Could not get anyone on board to admit they had any Spanish goods, or had any interest therein, or that the value was above 16,000 dollars, but the Spanish bill of lading and other writings found hid in the gun room contradicted them.   | 77               |

Sends the examinations respecting the purser of the Sorbing ; thinks the worst gaol keeper in London had a better life than Capt. Clay had while at sea, and his surgeon, instead of cordials, made use of corrosives, by carrying tales from man to man, yet so that his captain could charge him with nothing; he denied all, until honest men upon oath made his villainy appear to his face. Besides this, the master bricklayer of Deptford yard, by virtue of his warrant, claims a right to the place, and his instrument has acted under him there for several years; if another is to be appointed, he would be the most fit, they having had long experience of his abilities and care.  | 95              |

Mackey, and if the persons who brought her to Yarmouth, or others concerned were examined, much of the goods might be found. It is said by other depositions that there was gold and silver shipped in this vessel to the value of 20,000 l. , and it is a pity unfaithfulness should bereave his Highness of what Providence seasonably gives him. | 99              |

Peter Pett,Chatham.                           | Navy Comrs                     | Sends the names of the officers chosen for the 2 small frigates lately built, which will sail to-morrow for the Hope. Sent a copy of their agreement with Thos. Parker, master of the Charly ketch, to the officers of the London, and will send them a jack. As the Entrance will be launched next week, desires her victuals may be sent down. The Dunbar and Gloucester are taking in their ordnance and beer, and will sail next Monday. Robinson, the Freston , at Sea.      | "                              | He and the captain of the Sparrow (who has now recovered) have kept with the fishing fleet, and will endeavour still to protect them from the enemy, but they continually stray from the flags. His victuals will end 20 June, by which time he hopes most of the fleet will be ready to return home. Wrote Major Burton of having lost his best hower and part of his cable off Yarmouth, but has not heard whether they have been found.   | 104              |

Has given order for dispatching the Phoenix and Nonsuch , but they want men. The Guinea is at sea. As there are other parcels of cordage owing for besides Mr. Clarke's, desires they may be paid for as they come to hand, and will contract for as long time and at as easy terms as he can. Has bought a parcel of good Flemish cordage for 43s. a cwt.  | 106              |

The Dartmouth having been forced back with her convoys by contrary winds, has kept her in lieu of the Mermoid , and sent the latter to Capt. Plumleigh. Ordered Capt. Rooth to send to Dover for a month's provisions, and also sent for 14 days' for the Essex and 3 weeks' for Capt. Godfrey, whom he has supplied with a boat, &c., from the Essex . Has ordered Capt. Alligate and others to return to the Downs by Monday next, and expects there will then be 7 ships. Particulars of ships. Desires the Eagle ketch may be hastened down, and may bring the master of the Essex and the 20 seamen who went up with the prize.—P.S. The Eagle is just coming in. Colman, Elizabeth, Rolling Ground, Harwich. | "                              | Is waiting for 40 barrels of powder from London, in lieu of what was defective, and cannot go to sea without it; hearing by two passengers from London that the hoy with it was at Gravesend 9 days since, is afraid of some miscarriage, as the wind has been fair for 4 or 5 days.   | 109              |
| "                | Capt. Lambert Cornelius, Bramble, Ostend Road.          | Col. Clarke, Whitehall. | Hoped on taking leave of him at Whitehall, to have given some pleasing account of his proceedings ere this, but the opportunity has not presented. If they will give him a frigate answerable to his desires, and send him to the coast of France, hopes to do some service.   | 110              |

His cook becoming distracted at some times of the moon, let him go, and put in his place Edw. Rogers, as he has a wife and large family; he has formerly served under Vice-Admiral Badiley and Capts. Will endeavour to bring the expense of the tar-house within the estimate. Is informed Lord Richard [Cromwell] has sent an answer about the tops, lops, &c. Begs instructions so as to proceed to fell the remainder of the trees already ordered; there being little timber felled this year, cannot otherwise supply the necessities of the yard. Not being satisfied with the gunner's account as to its expense, as he is now in Jamaica, have entered a caveat against his wages until his return. | 44               |

| 1557.May 7 | Navy Coms. -   | Adm. Com.              | Send Robert Orton, master of the Katherine hoy, and Robert Birkhead and Robert Earle, watermen at Woolwich, together with their examinations, on a charge of receiving ropes and a clench of a cable, embezzled from the Pembroke by John Cole, the boatswain's boy; they ought to be made examples of, as it is an ancient practice. Believe the youth has declared the truth, and it may be a warning to him for the future. Also confession of Jno. Cole, servant to Lawrence Harde, boatswain of the Pembroke, as to embezzling cables, ropes, sails, oars, &c., out of the frigate, and selling them to the master of the hoy that brought down the provisions for the frigate, for 3 lbs. of tobacco, as also other like stores to watermen of Woolwich and Horsleydown for 2s. 6d., 3s., and 1s.                                | Vol. 166.50-54 |

Has also found Mr. Tyler's note that he was only to receive from the treasurer what was due to him, Marrayott, after the State was satisfied, so that they may see it was not intended to receive any more than was due, but the treasurer has been trying to destroy him and his family, who have heretofore never known the like straits. Hopes they will now order payment of the wages due to him in the Dunbar, which were the dearest he ever earned. Believes he shall never see any of them again, but prays God to bless and prosper all their undertakings, and to forgive the treasurer. | 56                 |

Leake, Gloucester frigate.                               | " "                    | Sends an account of ordnance on board the Gloucester, and the powder and ammunition required. Received 86 barrels of powder from the stores, but on passing his indent, only found 80 entered in it. Put the remaining 6 in a boat, and acquainted his captain that he intended carrying them to the Tower, but putting ashore at Gravesend, they were seized by the searchers, until he had a discharge from his captain. Fearing to lose the tide, and the next day being the Sabbath, made a note to clear the powder, which was accepted, but having lost his opportunity of going to London, hired a Gravesend boat for 4 s. to carry it on board, until he acquainted the Ordnance officers therewith. Going afterwards on board, that boat was again stayed, and the powder re-seized by the same parties, and afterwards transported from place to place. Had no dishonest intentions; the 86 barrels were the proper allowance, and on the last voyage to Jamaica, he saved and returned a great quantity of overplus powder into the stores; with note of the proportion required for the frigate. | 66, 67           |

For their better security, ordered the Amity to see them into the Roads; and another fleet of 60 sail coming by in the evening, himself and the Pearl kept them company as high as the well, and then plied northwards. As Capt. Pickering has only 2 days' bread and beer, he has sailed for Hill; having only 20 days' himself, desires they may both have orders where to revictual.  | 68               |

Right, the carpenter they appointed, from the time they sailed from Gravesend until his clearing in Dover Road. With a note by Thos. Com.              | Saw the letter from the Navy Commissioners to Mr. Aldridge, for the speedy felling and conveying of 400 tons of timber in Dean Forest, and had hopes of seeing no more such orders to a surveyor, whilst a shipwright is always felling timber for a frigate, and would fell for other purposes. The clashing of one against the other is destructive both to the State and the workmen. He cannot lay anything of dishonesty to either, and either might be appointed for the work, yet it is ugly to behold, and cannot be better while it remains in two men's hands. Hopes they will consider this, appoint one to the work, and order the other to forbear meddling. | Vol. 166.70 |

Monk, who then ordered him to follow former instructions, and take in his way all such merchant vessels as were ready for the Yarmouth Roads. If he can get men, will have the Naseby ready by the 20th, and the Resolution 10 days after. If they were to appoint Capt. | "               | " -  | "   | Have had a survey taken of the mast dock at Deptford, as to what is required to make it more commodious. There should be 2 pairs of gates to keep the water out or in as occasion requires, also a sluice to keep the dock clean, and a wharf of 250 feet, on the Thames side, which will make a large and convenient place to lay ordnance carriages, &c., and save much charge to the State, besides the taking off a present rent of 12l. a year for a piece of ground far less useful for that purpose. The estimate for cleansing, wharfing, and completing the work is 1,200l. If it is to be proceeded with, desire a speedy order, also for the sale of the Mary flyboat and Primrose hoy, both unserviceable. Saw a list of unserviceable stores at Portsmouth, which Commr. | 1657.May 13 | Capt. Fras. Willoughby,Portsmouth.              | Adm. Com.              | The Naseby and Nonsuch have gone into the road, but he cannot send off their provisions through the weather. The Naseby has 400 men and boys. Finds it hard to keep men in harbour, as of 48 that were put on board her from the Sorlings, half are gone, although there is from 5 to 7 months' pay due to them, and there are not above 60 remaining of 100 entered in the Resolution. When they give order to other ships to spare of their number; hopes they will tell them not to send their worst, which they usually do. Particulars of ships. Asks whether to hire a Hamburger in harbour to transport the stores to Gen. Blake's fleet. Has given order for the masts, many of which are made. | 1657.May 14 | Capt. Fras. Wil-loughby, Ports-mouth.    | Adm. Com.   | Acquainted them with the complaints for nonpayment for cordage bought at 43s. a cwt. payable in 3 months, and now one Pitt of Hampton complains that 400 l. has been due to him since Oct., and that he cannot obtain payment. Having promised to write them on his behalf, he agreed to deliver 10 tons more within a month, half hemp and half Holland yarn, at 42s. 6 d. a cwt. As there are also several petty bills of 7 l. or 8 l. for things of continual use, that cannot be obtained without cash, desires their consideration thereof, as also of the poor dockmen, who are great sufferers for want of their pay, they giving 2½ d. for every 2 d. they are constrained to go on the score for. Wm. Aldridge, who had command of the boat, and who was master's mate of the Amity, thereupon went into the cabins and took away certain clothes, money, and books; and upon being told to do no more than be could justify, he replied that he did nobbing more than he had orders for, and that if the seamen would have their clothes, they must come on board the Amity for them.   | 111              |

Ensign Leake arrived last Wednesday with 30 from Lynn, and yesterday an ensign of Col. Salmon's with as many, and Lieut. Read from Southwold and Lowestoft with 10. The 30 from Lynn and Capt. Wise's 10 are quartered in the town at Yarmouth, and Col. Salmon's 30 in Goultstone. Desire a speedy order, as some of Ensign Leake's men are very short of money, not having been long in pay, and it will be impossible to march them by land without money; therefore would like them shipped. Wants a proceeding of Council's order for recruiting, not understanding whether they are to be 80 or 100. Is proceeding with the new frigate; the master builder is very industrious, but does not think she will be ready to launch until August. Blackborne.              | Met the Fagons, who had taken a prize built at Brest a year since; she has two decks, 6 guns aloft, and 18 ports on her gun deck; as she was well fitted with sails and rigging, and fit to keep at sea, manned her out of both ships, and has taken her into his company, and intends to ply about the Channel until he comes in to clean and re-victual, when he will deliver her up to the Prize Officers, if the Commissioners do not fit her out again. When Mr. Potter was transferred to the Sapphire, he put his Lieutenant under Capt. Elliott of the Fagons, until his master came down, when Capt. Elliott put him in command of the prize, where he now is; if their honours should fit out these frigates, hopes they will give his lieutenant the command of one of them, as he has done some service, is a stout, honest, able, and deserving man, and willing to go in any ship, and upon any service. Hopes the Gainsborough will sail so well as to take the next man-of-war. Asks a warrant for Geo. Bolt to be his minister, his former one having been sent to the Unicorn, and Capt. As the ketch is much wanted and nothing has yet been heard of her, desires she may be hastened down. Begs furtherance to Norwood, that he may be appointed either to the Triumph or Victory, so that men may be gained in time to supply present wants.  | 119              |

Gave their instructions to the Oxford, which came in to day, but Capt. Allgate had orders from Major-Gen. Kelsey and Com. Hatsell at Dover to take in some soldiers in the Downs, who came from Sandwich, and 158 were shipped off this evening, very orderly, and they most cheerfully proceeded on their voyage. Has sent orders to the commanders of 13 ships named in Dover Road to take all opportunity to impress mariners, so that no advantage may be lost for gaining them.  | 120              |

The merchants of Hull having10 laden ships bound for London have entreated him to desire their order for Capt. Pickeringto convoy them to the mouth of the Thames; there is also a ship richly laden with cloth boundfor Dort, that will go with the Porrell to Yarmouth, but the owners much desire a convoythence to Holland. The Hull packet of letters did not arrive by the last post.  | 4                |
| "               | Capt. Jas. Strutt,Half Moon , Hast-ings .   | "  | Was called off his station to further the business at Dover, where he was some time. Then wentto Seize head to convoy some vessels to Hastings, and is now plying on his station betweenBeachy and Dungeness, taking care of the fishing vessels, and speaking with ships that pass.  | 5                |
| "               | Major Jno. Wade,Little Dean .                                 | "  | Perceive they intend as soon as the frigate is launched to dispense with one of the master work-men, and that they are informed she will be launched in 3 weeks; thinks it will be 3 times3 weeks. Much time has been lost in carrying timber for the State's yard to the water side,where there are already several ship loads; instead of to the new frigate, and both those servicesmay be performed by one hand, and at the saving of much money. Cannot say which of thetwo is most fit to be employed, but Mr. Aldridge has carried himself like an honest man; whenhe was first sent to the forest, he returned a good report of what timber was to be had for theState's use, and he made good his report by sending to the State's yards that which was wellapproved of, when other shipwrights had reported that there was no timber in the forest, thoughfor one ton that was there when Mr. Aldridge came, there were a thousand,—far exceeding whatthere is now in goodness—burnt for charcoal. Mr. Furzer has also carried himself very honestlyand carefully in husbanding all things; he is young and able of body, and an able artist. | 6                |
| "               | Capt. Fras. Wil-longhby, Porte-smouth .            | "  | Is using all expedition about the 2 great ships. Asks whether to supply them with ordinary seastores, or as they were furnished when they last went forth, and also with 4 months' provisions,for as they take in, so they must be ballasted. If they alter after the ballast is in, it may notonly injure the ships, but make them incapable of stowing so much as otherwise they might.   | 7                |

The Oxford has gone to Sandgate Castle to take in the 30 soldiers from Southampton, and will carry them over. Shipped the recruits which came under the conduct of Col. Mill, who, with Col. Allsopp, went over with them, and the frigates have returned after a safe landing. Tomorrow will order the shipping of Sir John Reynolds' horses, coach, and necessaries, with such other of the officers' horses as they have left behind, and hope to finish and come for London on Tuesday.   | 10             |

Leak, gunner of the Gloucester , having come up with 6 barrels of powder in a boat, which he pretended was sent down above his number, and that he was going to take it back to the Tower by direction of his captain, it was stayed until he produced the captain's certificate. Thereupon he hired another boat to go to his ship to obtain it, and having counterfeited one by the way, returned and was allowed to proceed with the powder to the Tower; but his motions being watched, and it being observed that he went eastward, it was again seized, conveyed to the fort and secured for the night. The next day he was taken by a guard to the captain, who he pretends is privy to it; conceives that this will prove but a foul business, and that it was left on board Kemp's boy, who brought down the other stores. The captain will be at Gravesend tomorrow with an account of what stores are on board. Will send up the counterfeit certificate, and has written the officers at the Tower, to make enquiries after Kemp's boy, and if anything else can be found on board, as Kemp is a subtle man, and may have carried up more, or some other of the stores. The Dunbar and Norwich are gone to the Hope and the London is in Leu Road. | 13             |

Having formerly written on behalf of his gunner, must now with shame alter his voice, as last Saturday he came with a hoy from the Tower, in which were 86 barrels of powder and other stores; being asked if he had all, he said he had more by 6 barrels of powder, which the officers of the Tower commanded him to bring up again. Not having time to examine the bills of lading, being then much troubled by the wives of some impressed men for their discharge, the gunner put off with the hoy and the 6 barrels of powder, and transferred them to a wherry near Gravesend, where he and they were seized by the searchers, and delivered into the custody of Col. Crompton. Was told by the gunner that he was but to have 80 barrels, but the bill of lading mentions 86; has examined all the stores on board by the bills, and finds nothing wanting but the 6 barrels of powder and two hides; sends the survey. Has often demanded his indenture, but he stated he had not indented; having received him on board from the colonel, will have him forthcoming at the pleasure of the Commissioners. Has 214 men, and will be ready to sail the end of the week, but will endeavour to get more men as ordered. Edw. Robinson of Stroud, who was master of the Eutrance in the Dutch war, desires employment by attending on some great ship with his hoy. With list of his ordnance stores.

Richd. Leake, gunner of the Gloucester, having embezzled 6 barrels of powder, being part of her stores, was seized by Pelling and Morrice, custom officers, on Saturday last, when he affirmed that he was ordered by Capt. Newberry to carry them up to the Tower, as being more than the complement; to be satisfied of the truth, they sent him aboard to Capt. Newberry with two of their officers and a guard, to acquaint him with the business, and to make a survey of all the stores sent on board, which they found all right according to the indent, only 6 barrels of powder and 2 hides wanting. Would have dealt with the gunner and sent him up to the Commissioners, he having counterfeited the captain's hand to effect his base design, had not Capt. Newberry undertaken it.

Is carrying timber to the loading place at Lidney Pill, and felling and squaring as ordered, but money is hard to come by; when Major Wade should receive 500*l.* he hardly gets 200*l.*, and has greater payments than he can receive or get in at present. Has been with him and as he cannot give any certain time for a supply, begs a letter of credit to take up money for carrying on of the service, being in a very great strait.

Begs preferment; was recommended by Col. Thos. Ceely, and was clerk of the check and purser in the Weymouth pink under Capt. Wilkinson 4 years. Is now bound for Hull with 2 laden ships under convoy.

Has washed and tallowed 6 frigates, and fitted 20 more with cordage, &c., amounting to 500*l.*, and as the frigates designed for Ostend will have 100*l.* worth of cordage, has received 500*l.* of the State's money from John Powell, and drawn a bill upon them, which he hopes they will pay, as its being at Dover has saved 3*l.* in bringing of it down. Wants masts. The Kaven has come in, having lost her head and bowsprit, and sprung her masts.

Thoroughgood, but he is not inclined to accept, although he gives no reasons; supposes the thoughts of his going under the command of a man who has been much his inferior is no small discouragement, and it would be very inconvenient to take him away, there being no one at Portsmouth fit to supply his place. Pett that 2 hoys laden with cables and anchors for the Naseby and Resolution had sailed for the Douvs, has sent the Eagle ketch to convoy them. For the better impressing of seamen, the Elizabeth with a small frigate should lie between Yarmouth and Orfordness. Capt. Plumleigh writes that there is little appearance of the enemy at Dunkirk, and that all the frigates are in good condition on that station. The Raven having spent her mast in a chase, has ordered her into Dover to set a new one, and to clean and victual. Capt. Came aground on a bank, but got off safely, and as it was the first time, hopes it will be the last. Will use all means possible to clear the coast of the enemy.  | 29               |

All the ships are ready, but waiting for a wind; has advised them to hasten to Milford. Will take in a recruit of provisions, follow their orders, and give an account on his return. Cromwell, and also chased a small man-of-war of 3 guns and 36 men, but there being but little wind, he rowed away. Having been at sea 27 months, his wants are very great. Sends a demand by the master shipwright for stores, and desires they may be sent down in the horseboat from Deptford, with some sails, and the victuals for the Satisfaction, Triumph, and Victory. Wants an order as to some cables demanded by Mr. Sewell, to follow 4 anchors already sent to Portsmouth. Asks them to make out a bill of impress for 500 l . to Mr. Mundy, for paying divers persons for plank bought at Chatham, as since the last impress to him of 500 l ., nearly 600 l . worth more of plank has been delivered, and the remainder to come in will amount to 700 l . more. Has told Mr. Mapleton to send up his account, and considers that all purveyors should do so once a year, unless at a great distance. | 38                  |

Robert Wil-kinson, Weymouth pink, Humber . | "                      | After seeing the Hull ships into Humber , heard of 2 Ostend men-of-war which had surprised 2 coal ships and sent them away; making sail after them, they lay with their sails to the west until he came up; they fought from 6 to 9 p.m., when they put to sea, having disabled his upper work, sails, and rigging, and wounded several of his men. Questions not but he has done very much damage both to their men and frigates, as the dispute for the time was very hot. Will convoy all ships bound for Yarmouth Roads , according to Major Burton's son's order.                                  | 48               |

| 1657May 22 | Capt. Fras. Wil-loughby, Ports-mouth.    | Adm. Com.                              | Has careened the Naseby, and taken in 200 tons of ballast, and will rig, victual, and get her into the Road with all speed. Capt. Cutance has brought some men, and desires as lieutenant Jno. James, of the Essex, who has a good character from Capt. Whiteborne. Will proceed with the Resolution, but wants men. The Guinea has arrived from the coast of France, bound to Jersey with money for the soldiers. The Lark has been talloved; will order 20 men out of her as directed. Mr. Bradley is willing to go as Master of the Andrew, but not to remove to Chatham, it being troublesome and changeable; Roger Keate, who was Master of a merchant ship in the Dutch war, and then of the Marmaduke, and wounded in the June fight, is very fit to go as Assistant Master in either of the two great ships. They are proceeding with the Naseby; hopes by Tuesday to take in the beer. Brought down 40 men, and expects 20 more from other parts. Wants a Master, as also a ketch to procure more men. | Vol. 167.49  |
| "              | Capt. Roger Cut-tance, Portsmouth.            | Robt.Blackborne.                   | Has been plying on his station; chased a vessel, which proved to be a Helligoland dogger boat, and convoyed several vessels laden with butter and cheese, as also 2 boys, with victuals and powder on the State's account, to the River's mouth.  | 50               |
| "              | Capt. Rich. Country,Buoy of the Nore.         | Adm. Com.                              | The merchants and masters of Hull return thanks for the convoy given to their ships which have sailed for London and Dort, and the Weymouth pink convoyed the Success of Hull ten leagues on the sea towards Hamburg, and then returned to his station. Capt. Wilkinson had a great desire to go that way, in hopes of meeting with the two Dunkirk men-of-war, which he fought with lately, who had taken 2 colliers of ours bound for London, by the mouth of the Humber. Sends an account of his disbursements for the Porrell frigate 637. 2s. 6d., and desires payment to his son Ensign Rich. Elton. When the Weymouth and others come in, will give them all necessaries.  | 51               |
| "              | Major Rich. Elton,Hull.                       | "                                      | Having seen their convoys out of Yarmouth Roads to the Humber, and receiving notice from a collier of 2 Ostend men-of-war that had taken 2 of his consorts, bore towards them, and had a very hot dispute for 3 hours. They being 2, the one no sooner gave them his broadside but the other was ready to do the like; provided for their coming, and gave them their bellies full, which forced, them to leave, it being night. Having received some damage in the rigging sails, &c., and it being night, the captain thought it not convenient to pursue them.   | 52               |
| "              | Christ. Payne, Wey-mouth pink, Hum-ber. | Maj. Beake,Adm. Com.Whitehall. | To the same effect. Hopes for the sake of his kinsman and friend, Col. Ceely, they will do him some good.   | 53               |
| "              | "  | Adm. Com.                              | Will give convoy to a Hamburg ship, richly laden, part of the way, to spend his victuals and in hopes of meeting the two frigates again. The Governor of Hull has ordered him to give convoy to the London fleet.   | 54               |
| "              | Capt. Robt. Wilkin-son, Hull.                 | "                                      | Sent their orders to the victualler's agent at Ipswich, and if any of the ships therein mentioned arrive, will give them dispatch.  | 55               |

| 1657.May 23 | Jno. Morris, Graves-end.                           | Robt.Blackborne   | The Gloucester has sailed from the Hope with 233 men, but none of the pressed men have appeared; if they are watermen it is not usual for them to appear in 4 or 5 days after the time limited on their tickets, and most of them come without clothes, and when entered, desire to go up for them, stay 4 or 5 days more, and then their masters or friends come down with them to make their excuse. It is also their practice to make great complaint for conduct money to carry them down to the Hope, professing they have only received it for Gravesend from the masters of the Hall. Asks whether to disburse anything for sending them on board; also whether to send the 300 men named to the Dunbar and Entrance, as the Gloucester is gone; the Dunbar has 187, and the Entrance 104. | Vol. 167.57  |
| " 24            | Capt. Edw. Grove,Roe hatch.                         | Adm. Com <sup>r</sup> | Since his last of the 2nd, has been and still is conveying ships to and from Yarmouth Roads, Lynn, and London. Capt. Country having taken away the press warrant, wants another.  | 58               |
| " 25            | Capt. Robt. Colman.  | "                     | Received their order from the Commander-in-Chief in the Downs, to ply with Capt. Horne, of the Parrot, between the mouth of the Channel and Orfordness, for securing trade, annoying the enemy, and impressing mariners out of the colliers, and has impressed about 50. Expects more daily, if wind and weather permit.  | 59               |
| " "             | Jno. Falkener, L.Audeley,Ord-nance Office. | —                     | Account of powder delivered into the stores by 7 makers named, with particulars of the quantity contracted for by each, and what has yet to be sent in.   | 60               |
| " "             | Dan. Furzer, Lidney.                                    | Navy Com <sup>r</sup> | Has been much hindered in the work in Dean Forest for want of carriage for the timber, but it is now likely to come in faster. Thinks the new frieze will be ready to launch the middle of August; supposes Major Wade has given an account of the obstruction.   | 61               |
| " "             | Geo. Pley, Wey-mouth.                              | "                     | Has sent 3 pieces of English sailcloth by the Dorchester wagon at 1s. 3d., 1s. 4d., and 1s. 6d. a yard, amounting with the carriage to 8l. 0s. 8d. It is not so fair in color as French Noyals, being whiter, it being their custom here to buck the yarn to make it white before it is woven; yet for use it is esteemed by those of Bristol and Barnstaple far before the French, of which they have had proof for 20 years past: the French Noyals grow softer in use, whereas this, when it comes to the water, grows very hard and thick. Some of our merchants have often proffered good French Noyals for sale to those of Bristol, but they will not touch it on any terms, and this, although dearer, never lies on hand. If approved, will follow their orders for a greater quantity.  | 62               |

| 1657.May 25 | Comr. Peter Pett,Chatham.                | Robt.Blackborne   | As to the persons proposed as masters for the great ships, has little knowledge of Mr. Thomson; Rich. Paxford was master of the Paragon and Convertine, and in the time of the revolt, his integrity was a little questioned, but nothing proved. Since then he has served in the James as mate, under Thos. Arkenstall, and was wounded in the thigh in the first engagement against the Dutch off Dover. Afterwards he was master of the Tiger under Capt. Peacock, where he remained until his wound forced him to petition to come home; he is an able master. Many watermen have come down, but to little purpose, for all the service they will be invited to at present is to enter their names and begone again, as they pretend to fetch their clothes; but the naked truth is they would be in pay, and yet spend as much time in rowing at home for their own advantage as they could. Wants an order for searching the river, and for persons who are taken from their duties to be punished, and for all persons that shall be pressed to be ordered to bring their clothes. The Victory is taking in her beer, and the Triumph and Satisfaction will begin to-morrow if it arrives. They also want their carriages. With certificates by Thos. Arkenstall for Paxford. | Vol. 167.63, 64 |
| "               | Capt. Robt. Sansum,thePortsmouth,    | Adm. Com.   | Having but 6 days' provisions left, cannot continue longer on his station, and will make for Harwich to revictual.   | 65                  |
| "               | Capt. Fr. Willoughby,Portsmouth.         | Adm. Com.   | As there is great need of 2 small smacks to man and attend on the 2 great ships, and there are 2 in harbour fit for that service, asks if he shall agree for them at the same rate as the State gives for such vessels. The Elias has come into St. Helan's with 3 vessels laden with cables and anchors for the great ships, and went back with one laden with defective powder, and some others. The Sochings is in the Roads bound for the Downs, with 2 or 3 vessels from St. Malo; she has been 6 months off the ground, and has only 14 days' victuals. Desires order for her cleaning, and for selling a quantity of decayed powder in the stores.  | 66                  |
| "               | Capt. Rob. Wilkimson,YarmouthRoads. | MajorBourne,Navy OfficeScaddingLane. | After seeing 4 Hull vessels into the Humber, heard of 2 Ostend frigates 10 or 12 guns, and reached and fought with them on the 21st from 6 to 9 p.m., when they sailed away much damaged. Begs removal into another frigate. Is troubled at being so undervalued.  | 67                  |
| "               | Adm. Pride & Co.  | 68                  |

| "               | John Morris,Gravesend.                   | Adm. Com.   | Will enter the 30 pressed watermen on board the Dunbar and Entrance, when they come down; only 5 or 6 have yet arrived, and they have no clothes. Has mustered 200 men in and about the Dunbar, and 113 in the Entrance; the former has 35 and the other 36 men absent.  | 70                  |

Hears they desire to know the state of the stores as to Noyals canvas; has a good quantity, but as none is to be had thereabouts, 100 bales more might be ordered. Supposes they have heard of the arrival of Capt. Story from the Canaries, and of his having destroyed 16 Spanish ships. The Nonsuch has arrived from the Downs, with 140 men for the great ships; is giving them all dispatch. If they have not hired a small vessel to attend upon those ships, there is one at Portsmouth which may be had reasonably.   | 76              |
| "               | "   | Adm. Com.          | Need not inform them of the arrival of Capt. The Nonsuch has arrived with the master of the Resolution and 143 men, but fears they will run when they come on shore, having but one or two months' pay due. Wants one more ship in the Road before any more men are sent. Hopes to carry on the business with those he now has, there being 120 entered on board the Naseby . Jno.Clerke.               | Has sent up 3 pieces of English sailcloth to the Navy Commissioners from 1 5d. to 1 8d. per yard, and if found fit, can supply a greater quantity. The Guinea and Lark were appointed to ply on their stations between Alderney, Portland, and the Isle of Wight, but having been called off, and Capt. Lardge refusing to convey any vessels, except as far as Guernsey, as beyond his station, there are a number of ships laden with drapery bound for St. Malo, now waiting a convoy. Asks that Lardge may be ordered to see them as far as Cape Frehaile, where he is as likely to meet with the enemy as in any place, and this will content the merchants, encourage trade, and advance the State's revenue in customs and excise, which is much obstructed by the long lying of vessels in port. | 98               |
| "               | Capt. Fras. Wil-loughby, Ports-mouth.    | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup>             | Sends a note of 76 bundles of hemp and 15 lasts of tar sent from Hamburg by Mr. Wood, and received into the stores on Capt. Alderne's account; also an account of the sale of decayed stores, and iron furnaces received from Mr. Quintin, and desires order as to hiring a small ketch to attend the Resolution. Has received the galleon and Elias prize from the prize officers, and asks whether to make out bills to them for such ships as are taken into the State's hands. With notes of reply.  | 99, 100          |
| "               | "  | Adm. Com.                          | Will dispose of the decayed provisions to the best advantage, reserve such sail cloth as may be fit for hammocks or awnings, and observe their directions about the Sorlings and Wolf when they arrive. The Nonsuch has come in; 20 men might be taken out of her and other ships. Will give the Hampshire all dispatch.   | 101              |
| "               | Capt. Rich. Had-dock, Dragon,Dover Road. | "                                  | Will repair to the squadron before Dunkirk, as soon as he has taken in the month's provisions ordered by Capt. Whiteborne.   | 102              |
| "               | Capt. Robt. Henfield,Acadita, Ostend.         | Navy Com <sup>rs</sup>             | Sends 2 muster books. Has granted 3 tickets, and as they are the first, hopes they will be allowed. The Assistance and her squadron are waiting all opportunity against the enemy.   | 103              |
| "               | "  | "                                  | List of 126 prisoners, English, Irish, French, and Spanish, taken at sea and now in Plymouth Castle.   | 104              |

| "               | Shipmasters  | "                                  | Receipts for prisoners conveyed on board several ships bound for London from the Clara of Hull.  | 106-123          |

CALENDARS OF STATE PAPERS, &c.

[IMPERIAL 8vo., cloth. Price 15s. each Volume or Part.]

As far back as the year 1800, a Committee of the House of Commons recommended that Indexes and Calendars should be made to the Public Records, and thirty-six years afterwards another Committee of the House of Commons reiterated that recommendation in more forcible words; but it was not until the incorporation of the State Paper Office with the Public Record Office that the Master of the Rolls found himself in a position to take the necessary steps for carrying out the wishes of the House of Commons.

On 7 December 1855, he stated to the Lords of the Treasury that although "the Records, State Papers, and Documents in his charge constitute the most complete and perfect series of their kind in the civilized world," and although "they are of the greatest value in a historical and constitutional point of view, yet they are comparatively useless to the public, from the want of proper Calendars and Indexes." Acting upon the recommendations of the Committees of the House of Commons above referred to, he suggested to the Lords of the Treasury that to effect the object he had in view it would be necessary for him to employ a few Persons fully qualified to perform the work which he contemplated.

Their Lordships assented to the necessity of having Calendars prepared and printed, and empowered the Master of the Rolls to take such steps as might be necessary for this purpose.

The following Works have been already published under the direction of the Master of the Rolls:—

CALENDARIUM GENEALOGICUM; for the Reigns of Henry III. and Edward I. Edited by CHARLES ROBERTS, Esq., Secretary of the Public Record Office. 2 Vols. 1865.

This is a work of great value for elucidating the early history of our nobility and landed gentry.

The two preceding volumes exhibit the negotiations of the English ambassadors with the courts of the Emperor Charles V. of Germany, of Henry II. of France, and of Philip II. of Spain. The affairs of several of the minor continental states also find various incidental illustrations of much interest. The Papers descriptive of the circumstances which attended the loss of Calais merit a special notice; while the progress of the wars in the north of France, into which England was dragged by her union with Spain, is narrated at some length. These volumes treat only of the relations of England with foreign powers.

Mr. Bergenroth was engaged in compiling a Calendar of the Papers relating to England preserved in the archives of Simancas in Spain, and the corresponding portion removed from Simancas to Paris. Mr. Bergenroth also visited Madrid, and examined the Papers there, bearing on the reign of Henry VIII. The first volume contains the Spanish Papers of the reign of Henry VII.; the second volume, those of the first portion of the reign of Henry VIII. The Supplement contains new information relating to the private life of Queen Katharine of England; and to the projected marriage of Henry VII. with Queen Juana, widow of King Philip of Castile, and mother of the Emperor Charles V.

THE CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

[ROYAL 8vo. half-bound. Price 10s. each Volume or Part.]

On 25 July 1822, the House of Commons presented an address to the Crown, stating that the editions of the works of our ancient historians were inconvenient and defective; that many of their writings still remained in manuscript, and, in some cases, in a single copy only. They added, "that an uniform and convenient edition of the whole, published under His Majesty's royal sanction, would be an undertaking honourable to His Majesty's reign, and conducive to the advancement of historical and constitutional knowledge; that the House therefore humbly besought His Majesty, that He would be graciously pleased to give such directions as His Majesty, in His wisdom, might think fit, for the publication of a complete edition of the ancient historians of this realm, and assured His Majesty that whatever expense might be necessary for this purpose would be made good."

The Master of the Rolls, being very desirous that effect should be given to the resolution of the House of Commons, submitted to Her Majesty's Treasury in 1857 a plan for the publication of the ancient chronicles and memorials of the United Kingdom, and it was adopted accordingly. In selecting these works, it was considered right, in the first instance, to give preference to those of which the manuscripts were unique, or the materials of which would help to fill up blanks in English history for which no satisfactory and authentic information hitherto existed in any accessible form. One great object the Master of the Rolls had in view was to form a corpus historicum within reasonable limits, and which should be as complete as possible. In a subject of so vast a range, it was important that the historical student should be able to select such volumes as conformed with his own peculiar tastes and studies, and not be put to the expense of purchasing the whole collection; an inconvenience inseparable from any other plan than that which has been in this instance adopted.

Of the Chronicles and Memorials, the following volumes have been published. They embrace the period from the earliest time of British history down to the end of the reign of Henry VII.

1. THE CHRONICLE OF ENGLAND, by JOHN CAPGRAVE. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1858.

Capgrave was prior of Lynn, in Norfolk, and provincial of the order of the Friars Hermits of England shortly before the year 1464. His Chronicle extends from the creation of the world to the year 1417. As a record of the language spoken in Norfolk (being written in English), it is of considerable value.

2. CHRONICON MONASTERII DE ABINGDON. Vols. I. and II. Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A., of University College, Durham, and Vicar of Leighton Buzzard. 1858.

This Chronicle traces the history of the great Benedictine monastery of Abingdon in Berkshire, from its foundation by King Ina of Wessex, to the reign of Richard I., shortly after which period the present narrative was drawn up by an inmate of the establishment. The author had access to the title-deeds of the house; and incorporates into his history various charters of the Saxon kings, of great importance as illustrating not only the history of the locality but that of the kingdom. The work is printed for the first time.

3. LIVES OF EDWARD THE CONFESSOR. I.—La Estoire de Seint Aedward le Rei. II.—Vita Beati Edvardi Regis et Confessoris. III.—Vita Æduuardi Regis qui apud Westmonasterium requiescit. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1858.

The first is a poem in Norman French, containing 4,686 lines, addressed to Alianor, Queen of Henry III., probably written in 1245, on the restoration of the church of Westminster. Nothing is known of the author. The second is an anonymous poem, containing 536 lines, written between 1440 and 1450, by command of Henry VI., to whom it is dedicated. It does not throw any new light on the reign of Edward the Confessor, but is valuable as a specimen of the Latin poetry of the time. The third, also by an anonymous author, was apparently written for Queen Edith, between 1066 and 1074, during the pressure of the suffering brought on the Saxons by the Norman conquest. It notices many facts not found in other writers, and some which differ considerably from the usual accounts.

4. MONUMENTA FRANCISCANA. Vol. I.—Thomas de Eccleston de Adventu Fratrum Minorum in Angliam. Adæ de Marisco Epistolæ. Registrum Fratrum Minorum Londoniæ. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. Vol. II.—De Adventu Minorum; re-edited, with additions. Chronicle of the Grey Friars. The ancient English version of the Rule of St. Francis. Abbreviatio Statutorum, 1451, &c. Edited by RICHARD HOWLETT, Esq., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law. 1858, 1882.

The first volume contains original materials for the history of the settlement of the order of Saint Francis in England, the letters of Adam de Marisco, and other papers connected with the foundation and diffusion of this great body. It was the aim of the editor to collect whatever historical information could be found in this country, towards illustrating a period of the national history for which only scanty materials exist. None of these have been before printed. The second volume contains materials found, since the first volume was published, among the MSS. of Sir Charles Isham, and in various libraries.

5. FASCICULI ZIZANIORUM MAGISTRI JOHANNIS WYCLIF CUM TRITICO. Ascribed to THOMAS NETTER, of WALDEN, Provincial of the Carmelite Order in England, and Confessor to King Henry the Fifth. Edited by the Rev. W. W. SHIRLEY, M.A., Tutor and late Fellow of Wadham College, Oxford. 1858.

This work derives its principal value from being the only contemporaneous account of the rise of the Lollards. When written the disputes of the school, men had been extended to the field of theology, and they appear both in the writings of Wycliff and in those of his adversaries. Wycliff's little bundles of tares are not less metaphysical than theological, and the conflict between Nominalists and Realists rages side by side with the conflict between the different interpreters of Scripture. The work gives a good idea of the controversies at the end of the 14th and the beginning of the 15th centuries.

6. THE BUIK OF THE CRONICLIS OF SCOTLAND; OR, A METRICAL VERSION of the History of Hector Boece; by WILLIAM STEWART. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by W. B. TURNBULL, Esq., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law. 1858.

This is a metrical translation of a Latin Prose Chronicle, written in the first half of the 16th century. The narrative begins with the earliest legends and ends with the death of James I. of Scotland, and the "evil ending of the traitors that slew him." Strict accuracy of statement is not to be looked for; but the stories of the colonization of Spain, Ireland, and Scotland are interesting if not true; and the chronicle reflects the manners, sentiments, and character of the age in which it was composed. The peculiarities of the Scottish dialect are well illustrated in this version, and the student of language will find ample materials for comparison with the English dialects of the same period, and with modern lowland Scotch.

7. JOHANNIS CAPGRAVE LIBER DE ILLUSTRIBUS HENRICIS. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1858.

This work is dedicated to Henry VI. of England, who appears to have been, in the author's estimation, the greatest of all the Henries. It is divided into three parts, each having a separate dedication. The first part relates only to the history of the Empire, from the election of Henry I., the Fowler, to the end of the reign of the Emperor Henry VI. The second part is devoted to English history, from the accession of Henry I. in 1100, to 1446, which was the twenty-fourth year of the reign of Henry VI. The third part contains the lives of illustrious men who have borne the name of Henry in various parts of the world. Capgrave was born in 1393, in the reign of Richard II., and lived during the Wars of the Roses, for which period his work is of some value.

8. HISTORIA MONASTERII S. AUGUSTINI CANTUARIENSIS, by THOMAS OF ELMHAM, formerly Monk and Treasurer of that Foundation. Edited by CHARLES HARDWICK, M.A., Fellow of St. Catharine's Hall, and Christian Advocate in the University of Cambridge. 1858.

This history extends from the arrival of St. Augustine in Kent until 1191. Prefixed is a chronology as far as 1418, which shows in outline what was to have been the character of the work when completed. The only copy known is in the possession of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. The author was connected with Norfolk, and most probably with Elmham, whence he derived his name.

9. EULOGIUM (HISTORIARUM SIVE TEMPORIS): Chronicon ab Orbe condito usque ad Annum Domini 1366; a Monacho quodam Malmesbiriensi exaratum. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by F. S. HAYDON, Esq., B.A. 1858-1863.

This is a Latin Chronicle extending from the Creation to the latter part of the reign of Edward III., and written by a monk of the Abbey of Malmesbury, in Wiltshire, about the year 1367. A continuation, carrying the history of England down to the year 1413, was added in the former half of the fifteenth century by an author whose name is not known. The original Chronicle is divided into five books, and contains a history of the world generally, but more especially of England to the year 1366. The continuation extends the history down to the coronation of Henry V. The Eulogium itself is chiefly valuable as containing a history, by a contemporary, of the period between 1356 and 1366. The notices of events appear to have been written very soon after their occurrence. Among other interesting matter, the Chronicle contains a diary of the Poitiers campaign, evidently furnished by some person who accompanied the army of the Black Prince. The continuation of the Chronicle is also the work of a contemporary, and gives a very interesting account of the reigns of Richard II. and Henry IV. It is believed to be the earliest authority for the statement that the latter monarch died in the Jerusalem Chamber at Westminster.

10. MEMORIALS OF HENRY THE SEVENTH: Bernardi Andreae Tholosatis Vita Regis Henrici Septimi; necnon alia quædam ad eundem Regem spectantia. Edited by JAMES GAIRDNER, Esq. 1858.

The contents of this volume are—(1) a life of Henry VII., by his poet laureate and historiographer, Bernard André, of Toulouse, with some compositions in verse, of which he is supposed to have been the author; (2) the journals of Roger Maehado during certain embassies on which he was sent by Henry VII. to Spain and Brittany, the first of which had reference to the marriage of the King's son, Arthur, with Catharine of Arragon; (3) two curious reports by envoys sent to Spain in the year 1505 touching the succession to the Crown of Castile, and a project of marriage between Henry VII. and the Queen of Naples; and (4) an account of Philip of Castile's reception in England in 1506. Other documents of interest in connexion with the period are given in an appendix.

11. MEMORIALS OF HENRY THE FIFTH. I.—Vita Henrici Quinti, Roberto Redmanno auctore. II.—Versus Rhythmici in laudem Regis Henrici Quinti. III.—Elmhami Liber Metricus de Henrico V. Edited by CHARLES A. COLE, Esq. 1858.

This volume contains three treatises which more or less illustrate the history of the reign of Henry V., viz.: A Life by Robert Redman; a Metrical Chronicle by Thomas Elmham, prior of Lenton, a contemporary author; Versus Rhythmici, written apparently by a monk of Westminster Abbey, who was also a contemporary of Henry V. These works are printed for the first time.

12. MUNIMENTA GILDHALLÆ LONDONIENSIS; Liber Albus, Liber Custumarum, et Liber Horn, in archivis Gildhallæ asservati. Vol. I., Liber Albus. Vol. II. (in Two Parts), Liber Custumarum. Vol. III., Translation of the Anglo-Norman Passages in Liber Albus, Glossaries, Appendices, and Index. Edited by HENRY THOMAS RILEY, Esq., M.A., Barrister-at-Law. 1859-1862.

The manuscript of the Liber Albus, compiled by John Carpenter, Common Clerk of the City of London in the year 1419, a large folio volume, is preserved in the Record Room of the City of London. It gives an account of the laws, regulations, and institutions of that City in the 12th, 13th, 14th, and early part of the 15th centuries. The Liber Custumarum was compiled probably by various hands in the early part of the 14th century during the reign of Edward II. The manuscript, a folio volume, is also preserved in the Record Room of the City of London, though some portion in its original state, borrowed from the City in the reign of Queen Elizabeth and never returned, forms part of the Cottonian MS. Claudius D. II. in the British Museum. It also gives an account of the laws, regulations, and institutions of the City of London in the 12th, 13th, and early part of the 14th centuries.

13. CHRONICA JOHANNIS DE OXENEDES. Edited by Sir HENRY ELLIS, K.H. 1859.

Although this Chronicle tells of the arrival of Hengist and Horsa in England in 449, yet it substantially begins with the reign of King Alfred, and comes down to 1292, where it ends abruptly. The history is particularly valuable for notices of events in the eastern portions of the kingdom, not to be elsewhere obtained. Some curious facts are mentioned relative to the floods in that part of England, which are confirmed in the Friesland Chronicle of Anthony Heinrich, pastor of the Island of Mohr.

14. A COLLECTION OF POLITICAL POEMS AND SONGS RELATING TO ENGLISH HISTORY, FROM THE ACCESSION OF EDWARD III. TO THE REIGN OF HENRY VIII. Vols. I. and II. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A. 1859-1861.

These Poems are perhaps the most interesting of all the historical writings of the period, though they cannot be relied on for accuracy of statement. They are various in character; some are upon religious subjects, some may be called satires, and some give no more than a court scandal; but as a whole they present a very fair picture of society, and of the relations of the different classes to one another. The period comprised is in itself interesting, and brings us, through the decline of the feudal system, to the beginning of our modern history. The songs in old English are of considerable value to the philologist.

15. The "OPUS TERTIUM," "OPUS MINUS," &c., of ROGER BACON. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. 1859.

This is the celebrated treatise—never before printed—so frequently referred to by the great philosopher in his works. It contains the fullest details we possess of the life and labours of Roger Bacon: also a fragment by the same author, supposed to be unique, the "Compendium Studii-Theologie."

16. BARTHOLOMÆI DE COTTON, MONACHI NORWICENSIS, HISTORIA ANGLICANA; 449-1298: necnon ejusdem Liber de Archiepiscopis et Episcopis Angliæ. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1859.

The author, a monk of Norwich, has here given us a Chronicle of England from the arrival of the Saxons in 449 to the year 1298, in or about which year it appears that he died. The latter portion of this history (the whole of the reign of Edward I. more especially) is of great value, as the writer was contemporary with the events which he records. An Appendix contains several illustrative documents connected with the previous narrative.

17. BRUT Y TYWYSGION; or, The Chronicle of the Princes of Wales. Edited by the Rev. JOHN WILLIAMS AB ITHEL, M.A. 1860.

This work, also known as "The Chronicle of the Princes of Wales," has been attributed to Caradoc of Llancarvan, who flourished about the middle of the twelfth century. It is written in the ancient Welsh language, begins with the abdication and death of Caedwala at Rome, in the year 681, and continues the history down to the subjugation of Wales by Edward I., about the year 1282.

18. A COLLECTION OF ROYAL AND HISTORICAL LETTERS DURING THE REIGN OF HENRY IV. 1399-1404. Edited by the Rev. F. C. HINGESTON, M.A., of Exeter College, Oxford. 1860.

This volume, like all the others in the series containing a miscellaneous selection of letters, is valuable on account of the light it throws upon biographical history, and the familiar view it presents of characters, manners, and events. The period requires much elucidation; to which it will materially contribute.

19. THE REPRESSOR OF OVER MUCH BLAMING OF THE CLERGY. By REGINALD PECKOCK, sometime Bishop of Chichester. Vols. I. and II. Edited by CHURCHILL BABINGTON, B.D., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1860.

The "Repressor" may be considered the earliest piece of good theological disquisition of which our English prose literature can boast. The author was born about the end of the fourteenth century, consecrated Bishop of St. Asaph in the year 1444, and translated to the see of Chichester in 1450. While Bishop of St. Asaph, he zealously defended his brother prelates from the attacks of those who censured the bishops for their neglect of duty. He maintained that it was no part of a bishop's functions to appear in the pulpit, and that his time might be more profitably spent, and his dignity better maintained, in the performance of works of a higher character. Among those who thought differently were the Lollards, and against their general doctrines the "Repressor" is directed. Peckock took up a position midway between that of the Roman Church and that of the modern Anglican Church; but his work is interesting chiefly because it gives a full account of the views of the Lollards and of the arguments by which they were supported, and because it assists us to ascertain the state of feeling which ultimately led to the Reformation. Apart from religious matters, the light thrown upon contemporaneous history is very small, but the "Repressor" has great value for the philologist, as it tells us what were the characteristics of the language in use among the cultivated Englishmen of the fifteenth century. Peckock, though an opponent of the Lollards, showed a certain spirit of toleration, for which he received, towards the end of his life, the usual mediæval reward—persecution.

20. ANNALES CAMBRIÆ. Edited by the Rev. JOHN WILLIAMS AB ITHEL, M.A. 1860.

These annals, which are in Latin, commence in 447, and come down to 1288. The earlier portion appears to be taken from an Irish Chronicle, used by Tigernach, and by the compiler of the Annals of Ulster. During its first century it contains scarcely anything relating to Britain, the earliest direct concurrence with English history is relative to the mission of Augustine. Its notices throughout, though brief, are valuable. The annals were probably written at St. Davids, by Blegewryd, Archdeacon of Llandaff, the most learned man in his day in all Cymru.

21. THE WORKS OF GIRALDUS CAMBRENSIS. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Professor of English Literature, King's College, London. Vols. V., VI., and VII. Edited by the Rev. JAMES F. DIMOCK, M.A., Rector of Barnburgh, Yorkshire. 1861-1877.

These volumes contain the historical works of Gerald du Barry, who lived in the reigns of Henry II., Richard I., and John, and attempted to re-establish the independence of Wales by restoring the see of St. Davids to its ancient primacy. His works are of a very miscellaneous nature, both in prose and verse, and are remarkable chiefly for the racy and original anecdotes which they contain relating to contemporaries. He is the only Welsh writer of any importance who has contributed so much to the mediæval literature of this country, or assumed, in consequence of his nationality, so free and independent a tone. His frequent travels in Italy, in France, in Ireland, and in Wales, gave him opportunities for observation which did not generally fall to the lot of mediæval writers in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, and of these observations Giraldus has made due use. Only extracts from these treatises have been printed before, and almost all of them are taken from unique manuscripts.

The Topographia Hibernica (in Vol. V.) is the result of Giraldus' two visits to Ireland. The first in 1183, the second in 1185-6, when he accompanied Prince John into that country. Curious as this treatise is, Mr. Dimock is of opinion that it ought not to be accepted as sober truthful history, for Giraldus himself states that truth was not his main object, and that he compiled the work for the purpose of sounding the praises of Henry the Second. Elsewhere, however, he declares that he had stated nothing in the Topographia of the truth of which he was not well assured, either by his own eyesight or by the testimony, with all diligence elicited, of the most trustworthy and authentic men in the country; that though he did not put just the same full faith in their reports as in what he had himself seen, yet, as they only related what they had themselves seen, he could not but believe such credible witnesses. A very interesting portion of this treatise is devoted to the animals of Ireland. It shows that he was a very accurate and acute observer, and his descriptions are given in a way that a scientific naturalist of the present day could hardly improve upon. The Expugnatio Hibernica was written about 1188 and may be regarded rather as a great epic than a sober relation of acts occurring in his own days. No one can peruse it without coming to the conclusion that it is rather a poetical fiction than a prosaic truthful history. Vol. VI. contains the Itinerarium Cambriæ et Descriptio Cambriæ; and Vol. VII., the lives of S. Remigius and S. Hugh.

22. LETTERS AND PAPERS ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE WARS OF THE ENGLISH IN FRANCE DURING THE REIGN OF HENRY THE SIXTH, KING OF ENGLAND. Vol. I., and Vol. II. (in Two Parts). Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A., of University College, Durham, and Vicar of Leighton Buzzard. 1861-1864.

These letters and papers are derived chiefly from originals or contemporary copies extant in the Bibliothèque Impériale, and the Dépot des Archives, in Paris. They illustrate the policy adopted by John Duke of Bedford and his successors during their government of Normandy, and other provinces of France acquired by Henry V. Here may be traced, step by step, the gradual declension of the English power, until we are prepared for its final overthrow.

23. THE ANGLO-SAXON CHRONICLE, ACCORDING TO THE SEVERAL ORIGINAL AUTHORITIES. Vol. I., Original Texts. Vol. II., Translation. Edited and translated by BENJAMIN THORPE, Esq., Member of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Munich, and of the Society of Netherlandish Literature at Leyden. 1861.

This Chronicle, extending from the earliest history of Britain to 1154, is justly the boast of England; no other nation can produce any history, written in its own vernacular, at all approaching it, in antiquity, truthfulness, or extent, the historical books of the Bible alone excepted. There are at present six independent manuscripts of the Saxon Chronicle, ending in different years, and written in different parts of the country. In this edition, the text of each manuscript is printed in columns on the same page, so that the student may see at a glance the various changes which occur in orthography, whether arising from locality or age.

24. LETTERS AND PAPERS ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE REIGNS OF RICHARD III. AND HENRY VII. Vols. I. and II. Edited by JAMES GAIRDNER, Esq. 1861-1863.

The Papers are derived from MSS. in the Public Record Office, the British Museum, and other repositories. The period to which they refer is unusually destitute of chronicles and other sources of historical information, so that the light obtained from them is of special importance. The principal contents of the volumes are some diplomatic Papers of Richard III.; correspondence between Henry VII. and Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain; documents relating to Edmund de la Pole, Earl of Suffolk; and a portion of the correspondence of James IV. of Scotland.

25. LETTERS OF BISHOP GROSSETESTE, illustrative of the Social Condition of his Time. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1861.

The Letters of Robert Grosseteste (131 in number) are here collected from various sources, and a large portion of them is printed for the first time. They range in date from about 1210 to 1253, and relate to various matters connected not only with the political history of England during the reign of Henry III., but with its ecclesiastical condition. They refer especially to the diocese of Lincoln, of which Grosseteste was bishop.

26. DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE OF MANUSCRIPTS RELATING TO THE HISTORY OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND. Vol. I. (in Two Parts); Anterior to the Norman Invasion. Vol. II.; 1066-1200. Vol. III.; 1200-1327. By Sir THOMAS DUFFUS HARDY, D.C.L., Deputy Keeper of the Public Records. 1862-1871.

The object of this work is to publish notices of all known sources of British history, both printed and unprinted, in one continued sequence. The materials, when historical (as distinguished from biographical), are arranged under the year in which the latest event is recorded in the chronicle or history, and not under the period in which its author, real or supposed, flourished. Biographies are enumerated under the year in which the person commemorated died, and not under the year in which the life was written. This arrangement has two advantages; the materials for any given period may be seen at a glance; and if the reader knows the time when an author wrote, and the number of years that had elapsed between the date of the events and the time the writer flourished, he will generally be enabled to form a fair estimate of the comparative value of the narrative itself. A brief analysis of each work has been added when deserving it, in which the original portions are distinguished from those which are mere compilations. When possible, the sources are indicated from which compilations have been derived. A biographical sketch of the author of each piece has been added, and a brief notice of such British authors as have written on historical subjects.

27. ROYAL AND OTHER HISTORICAL LETTERS ILLUSTRATIVE OF THE REIGN OF HENRY III. Vol. I., 1216-1235. Vol. II., 1236-1272. Selected and edited by the Rev. W. W. SHIRLEY, D.D., Regius Professor in Ecclesiastical History, and Canon of Christ Church, Oxford. 1862-1866.

The letters contained in these volumes are derived chiefly from the ancient correspondence formerly in the Tower of London, and now in the Public Record Office. They illustrate the political history of England during the growth of its liberties, and throw considerable light upon the personal history of Simon de Montfort. The affairs of France form the subject of many of them, especially in regard to the province of Gascony. The entire collection consists of nearly 700 documents, the greater portion of which is printed for the first time.

28. CHRONICA MONASTERII S. ALBANI.—1. THOMÆ WALSHINGHAM HISTORIA ANGLICANA; Vol. I., 1272-1381: Vol. II., 1381-1422. 2. WILLELMI RISHANGER CHRONICA ET ANNALES, 1259-1307. 3. JOHANNIS DE TROKELowe ET HENRICI DE BLANEFORDE CHRONICA ET ANNALES, 1259-1296; 1307-1324; 1392-1406. 4. GESTA ABBATUM MONASTERII S. ALBANI, A THOMA WALSHINGHAM, REGNANTE RICARDO SECUNDO, EJUSDEM ECCLESIE PRÆCENTORE, COMPILATA; Vol. I., 793-1290: Vol. II., 1290-1349: Vol. III., 1349-1411. 5. JOHANNIS AMUNDESHAM, MONACHI MONASTERII S. ALBANI, UT VIDETUR, ANNALES; Vols. I. and II. 6. REGISTRA QUORUNDAM ABBATUM MONASTERII S. ALBANI, QUI SÆCULO XV<sup>mo</sup> FLORUERE; Vol. I., REGISTRUM ABBATIS JOHANNIS WHETHAMSTEDE, ABBATIS MONASTERII SANCTI ALBANI, ITERUM SUSCEPTÆ; ROBERTO BLAKENEY, CAPELLANO, QUONDAM ADSRIPTUM: Vol. II., REGISTRA JOHANNIS WHETHAMSTEDE, WILLELMI ALBON, ET WILLELMI WALINGFORDE, ABBATUM MONASTERII SANCTI ALBANI, CUM APPENDICE, CONTINENTE QUASDAM EPISTOLAS, A JOHANNIS WHETHAMSTEDE CONSCRIPTAS. 7. YPODIGNA NEVSTERIÆ A THOMA, WALSHINGHAM, QUONDAM MONACHO MONASTERII S. ALBANI, CONSCRIPTUM. Edited by HENRY THOMAS RILEY, Esq., M.A., Cambridge and Oxford; and of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law. 1863-1876.

In the 1st two volumes is a History of England, from the death of Henry III. to the death of Henry V., by Thomas Walsingham, Precentor of St. Albans, from MS. VII. in the Arundel Collection in the College of Arms, London, a manuscript of the fifteenth century, collated with MS. 13 E. IX. in the King's Library in the British Museum, and MS. VII. in the Parker Collection of Manuscripts at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.

In the 3rd volume is a Chronicle of English History, attributed to William Rishanger, who lived in the reign of Edward I., from the Cotton. MS. Faustina B. IX. in the British Museum, collated with MS. 14 C. VII. (fols. 219-231) in the King's Library, British Museum, and the Cotton MS. Claudius E. III., fols. 306-331: an account of transactions attending the award of the kingdom of Scotland to John Balliol, 1291-1292, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI., also attributed to William Rishanger, but on no sufficient ground: a short Chronicle of English History, 1292 to 1300, by an unknown hand, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI.: a short Chronicle Willelmi Rishanger Gesta Edwardi Primi, Regis Angliæ, from MS. 14 C. I. in the Royal Library, and MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI., with Annales Regum Angliæ, probably by the same hand: and fragments of three Chronicles of English History, 1285 to 1307.

In the 4th volume is a Chronicle of English History, 1259 to 1296, from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI.: Annals of Edward II., 1307 to 1323, by John de Trokelowe, a monk of St. Albans, and a continuation of Trokelowe's Annals, 1323, 1324, by Henry de Blaneforde, both from MS. Cotton. Claudius D. VI.: a full Chronicle of English History, 1392 to 1406, from MS. VII. in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge; and an account of the Benefactors of St. Albans, written in the early part of the 15th century from MS. VI. in the same Library.

The 5th, 6th, and 7th volumes contain a history of the Abbots of St. Albans, 793 to 1411, mainly compiled by Thomas Walsingham, from MS. Cotton. Claudius E. IV., in the British Museum: with a Continuation, from the closing pages of Parker MS. VII., in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.

The 8th and 9th volumes, in continuation of the Annals, contain a Chronicle, probably by John Amundesham, a monk of St. Albans.

The 10th and 11th volumes relate especially to the acts and proceedings of Abbots Whethamstede, Albon, and Wallingford, and may be considered as a memorial of the chief historical and domestic events during those periods.

The 12th volume contains a compendious History of England to the reign of Henry V., and of Normandy in early times, also by Thomas Walsingham, and dedicated to Henry V. The compiler has often substituted other authorities in place of those consulted in the preparation of his larger work.

29. CHRONICON ABBATIE EYESHAMENSIS, AUCTORIBUS DOMINICO PRIORE EYESHAMIE ET THOMA DE MARLEBERGE ABBATE, A FUNDATIONE AD ANNUM 1213, UNA CUM CONTINUATIONE AD ANNUM 1418. Edited by the Rev. W. D. MACRAY, Bodleian Library, Oxford. 1863.

The Chronicle of Evesham illustrates the history of that important monastery from its foundation by Egwin, about 690, to the year 1418. Its chief feature is an autobiography, which makes us acquainted with the inner daily life of a great abbey, such as but rarely has been recorded. Interspersed are many notices of general, personal, and local history which will be read with much interest. This work exists in a single MS., and is for the first time printed.

30. RICARDI DE CIRENCESTRIA SPECULUM HISTORIALE DE GESTIS REGUM ANGLIÆ. Vol. I., 447-871. Vol. II., 872-1066. Edited by JOHN E. B. MAYOR, M.A., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1863-1869.

The compiler, Richard of Cirencester, was a monk of Westminster, 1355-1400. In 1391 he obtained a licence to make a pilgrimage to Rome. His history, in four books, extends from 447 to 1066. He announces his intention of continuing it, but there is no evidence that he completed any more. This chronicle gives many charters in favour of Westminster Abbey, and a very full account of the lives and miracles of the saints, especially of Edward the Confessor, whose reign occupies the fourth book. A treatise on the Coronation, by William of Sudbury, a monk of Westminster, fills book iii. c. 3. It was on this author that C. J. Bertram fathered his forgery, De Situ Britanniæ, in 1747.

31. YEAR BOOKS OF THE REIGN OF EDWARD THE FIRST. Years 20-21, 21-22, 30-31, 32-33, and 33-35. Edited and translated by ALFRED JOHN HORWOOD, Esq., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law. YEAR BOOKS, 11-12 Edward III. Edited and translated by ALFRED JOHN HORWOOD, Esq., of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law; continued by LUKE OWEN PIKE, Esq., M.A., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister-at-Law. 1863-1883.

The volumes known as the "Year Books" contain reports in Norman-French of cases argued and decided in the Courts of Common Law. They may be considered to a great extent as the "lex non scripta" of England, and been held in the highest veneration by the ancient sages of the law, and received by them as the repositories of the first recorded judgments and dicta of the great legal luminaries of past ages. They are also worthy of attention on account of the historical information and the notices of public and private persons which they contain, as well as the light which they throw on ancient manners and customs.

32. NARRATIVES OF THE EXPULSION OF THE ENGLISH FROM NORMANDY 1449-1450. —Robertus Blondelli de Reductione Normanniæ: Le Recouvrement de Normandie, par Berry, Hérault du Roy: Conférences between the Ambassadors of France and England. Edited, from MSS. in the Imperial Library at Paris, by the Rev. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A., of University College, Durham. 1863.

This volume contains the narrative of an eye-witness who details with considerable power and minuteness the circumstances which attended the final expulsion of the English from Normandy in 1450. Commencing with the infringement of the truce by the capture of Fougères, and ending with the battle of Formigny and the embarkation of the Duke of Somerset. The period embraced is less than two years.

33. HISTORIA ET CARTULARIUM MONASTERII S. PETRI GLOUCESTRÆ. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by W. H. HART, Esq., F.S.A., Membre correspondant de la Société des Antiquaires de Normandie. 1863-1867.

This work consists of two parts, the History and the Cartulary of the Monastery of St. Peter, Gloucester. The history furnishes an account of the monastery from its foundation, in the year 681, to the early part of the reign of Richard II., together with a calendar of donations and benefactions. It treats principally of the affairs of the monastery, but occasionally matters of general history are introduced. Its authorship has generally been assigned to Walter Froucester, the twentieth abbot, but without any foundation.

34. ALEXANDRI NECKAM DE NATURIS RERUM LIBRI DUO; with NECKAM'S POEM, DE LAUDIBUS DIVINÆ SAPIENTIÆ. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A. 1863.

Neckam was a man who devoted himself to science, such as it was in the twelfth century. In the "De Naturis Rerum" are to be found what may be called the rudiments of many sciences mixed up with much error and ignorance. Neckam was not thought infallible, even by his contemporaries, for Roger Bacon remarks of him, "this Alexander in many things wrote what was true and useful; but he neither can nor ought by just title to be reckoned among authorities." Neckam, however, had sufficient independence of thought to differ from some of the schoolmen who in his time considered themselves the only judges of literature. He had his own views in morals, and in giving us a glimpse of them, as well as of his other opinions, he throws much light upon the manners, customs, and general tone of thought prevalent in the twelfth century. The poem entitled "De Laudibus Divinæ Sapientiæ" appears to be a metrical paraphrase or abridgment of the "De Naturis Rerum." It is written in the elegiac metre, and though there are many lines which violate classical rules, it is, as a whole, above the ordinary standard of mediæval Latin.

35. LEECHDOMS, WORTCUNNING, AND STARCRRAFT OF EARLY ENGLAND; being a Collection of Documents illustrating the History of Science in this Country before the Norman Conquest. Vols. I., II., and III. Collected and edited by the Rev. T. OSWALD COCKAYNE, M.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge. 1864-1866.

This work illustrates not only the history of science, but the history of superstition. In addition to the information bearing directly upon the medical skill and medical faith of the times, there are many passages which incidentally throw light upon the general mode of life and ordinary diet. The volumes are interesting not only in their scientific, but also in their social aspect. The manuscripts from which they have been printed are valuable to the Anglo-Saxon scholar for the illustrations they afford of Anglo-Saxon orthography.

36. ANNALES MONASTICI. Vol. I.:—Annales de Margan, 1066-1232; Annales de Theokesberia, 1066-1263; Annales de Burton, 1004-1263. Vol. II.:—Annales Monasterii de Wintonia, 519-1277; Annales Monasterii de Waverleia, 1-1291. Vol. III.:—Annales Prioratus de Dunstaplia, 1-1297. Annales Monasterii de Bermundescia, 1042-1432. Vol. IV.:—Annales Monasterii de Oseneia, 1016-1347; Chronicon vulgo dictum Chronicon Thomæ Wykes, 1066-1289; Annales Prioratus de Wigornia, 1-1377. Vol. V.:—Index and Glossary. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, M.A., Fellow and Assistant Tutor of Trinity College, and Registrar of the University, Cambridge. 1864-1869.

The present collection of Monastic Annals embraces all the more important chronicles compiled in religious houses in England during the thirteenth century. These distinct works are ten in number. The extreme period which they embrace ranges from the year 1 to 1432, although they refer more especially to the reigns of John, Henry III., and Edward I. Some of these narratives have already appeared in print, but others are printed for the first time.

37. MAGNA VITA S. HUGONIS EPISCOPI LINCOLNIENSIS. From MSS. in the Bodleian Library, Oxford, and the Imperial Library, Paris. Edited by the Rev. JAMES F. DIMOCK, M.A., Rector of Barnburgh, Yorkshire. 1864.

This work contains a number of very curious and interesting incidents, and being the work of a contemporary, is very valuable, not only as a truthful biography of a celebrated ecclesiastic, but as the work of a man, who, from personal knowledge, gives notices of passing events, as well as of individuals who were then taking active part in public affairs. The author, in all probability, was Adam Abbot of Evesham. He was domestic chaplain and private confessor of Bishop Hugh, and in these capacities was admitted to the closest intimacy. Bishop Hugh was Prior of Witham for 11 years before he became Bishop of Lincoln. His consecration took place on the 21st September 1186; he died on the 16th of November 1200; and was canonized in 1220.

38. CHRONICLES and MEMORIALS of the REIGN of RICHARD the FIRST. Vol. I.:—ITINERARIUM PEREGRINORUM ET GESTA REGIS RICARDI. Vol. II.:—EPISTOLÆ CANTUARIEŒ; the Letters of the Prior and Convent of Christ Church, Canterbury; 1187 to 1199. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Vicar of Navestock, Essex, and Lambeth Librarian. 1864-1865.

The authorship of the Chronicle in Vol. I., hitherto ascribed to Geoffrey Vinesauf, is now more correctly ascribed to Richard, Canon of the Holy Trinity of London. The narrative extends from 1187 to 1199; but its chief interest consists in the minute and authentic narrative which it furnishes of the exploits of Richard I., from his departure from England in December 1189 to his death in 1199. The author states in his prologue that he was an eye-witness of much that he records; and various incidental circumstances which occur in the course of the narrative confirm this assertion.

The letters in Vol. II., written between 1187 and 1199, are of value as furnishing authentic materials for the history of the ecclesiastical condition of England during the reign of Richard I. They had their origin in a dispute which arose from the attempts of Baldwin and Hubert, archbishops of Canterbury, to found a college of secular canons, a project which gave great umbrage to the monks of Canterbury, who saw in it a design to supplant them in their function of metropolitan chapter. These letters are printed, for the first time, from a MS. belonging to the archiepiscopal library at Lambeth.

39. RECUEIL DES CHRONIQUES ET ANCIENNES HISTOIRES DE LA GRANT BRETAGNE A PRESENT NOMME ENGLETERRE, par JEHAN DE WAURN. Vol. I. Albina to 688. Vol. II., 1399-1422. Vol. III., 1422-1431. Edited by WILLIAM HARDY, Esq., F.S.A. 1864-1879.
40. A COLLECTION of the CHRONICLES and ANCIENT HISTORIES of GREAT BRITAIN, NOW CALLED ENGLAND, by JOHN DE WAURN. Albina to 688. (Translation of the preceding Vol. I.) Edited and translated by WILLIAM HARDY, Esq., F.S.A. 1864.

This curious chronicle extends from the fabulous period of history down to the return of Edward IV. to England in the year 1471 after the second deposition of Henry VI. The manuscript from which the text of the work is taken is preserved in the Imperial Library at Paris, and is believed to be the only complete and nearly contemporary copy in existence. The work, as originally bound, was comprised in six volumes, since rebound in Morocco in 12 volumes, folio maximo, vellum, and is illustrated with exquisite miniatures, vignettes, and initial letters. It was written towards the end of the fifteenth century, having been expressly executed for Louis de Bruges, Seigneur de la Gruthuyse and Earl of Winchester, from whose cabinet it passed into the library of Louis XII. at Blois.

41. POLYCHRONICON RANULPHI HIGDEN, with Trevisa's Translation. Vols. I. and II. Edited by CHURCHILL BABINGTON, B.D., Senior Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. Vols. III., IV., V., VI., VII., and VIII. Edited by the Rev. JOSEPH RAWSON LUMBY, D.D., Norrisian Professor of Divinity, Vicar of St. Edward's, Fellow of St. Catharine's College, and late Fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge. 1865-1883.

This is one of the many mediæval chronicles which assume the character of a history of the world. It begins with the creation, and is brought down to the author's own time, the reign of Edward III. Prefixed to the historical portion, is a chapter devoted to geography, in which is given a description of every known land. To say that the Polychronicon was written in the fourteenth century is to say that it is not free from inaccuracies. It has, however, a value apart from its intrinsic merits. It enables us to form a very fair estimate of the knowledge of history and geography which well-informed readers of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries possessed, for it was then the standard work on general history.

The two English translations, which are printed with the original Latin, afford interesting illustrations of the gradual change of our language, for one was made in the fourteenth century, the other in the fifteenth. The differences between Trevisa's version and that of the unknown writer are often considerable.

42. LE LIVRE DE REIS DE BRITANIE E LE LIVRE DE REIS DE ENGLETERE. Edited by JOHN GLOVER, M.A., Vicar of Brading, Isle of Wight, formerly Librarian of Trinity College, Cambridge. 1865.

These two treatises, though they cannot rank as independent narratives, are nevertheless valuable as careful abstracts of previous historians, especially "Le Livre de Reis de Engleterre." Some various readings are given which are interesting to the philologist as instances of semi-Saxonized French. It is supposed that Peter of Ickham was the author, but no conclusion on that point has been arrived at.

43. CHRONICA MONASTERII DE MELSA AB ANNO 1150 USQUE AD ANNUM 1406. Vols. I., II., and III. Edited by EDWARD AUGUSTUS BOND, Esq., Assistant Keeper of the Manuscripts, and Egerton Librarian, British Museum. 1866-1868.

The Abbey of Meaux was a Cistercian house, and the work of its abbot is both curious and valuable. It is a faithful and often minute record of the establishment of a religious community, of its progress in forming an ample revenue, of its struggles to maintain its acquisitions, and of its relations to the governing institutions of the country. In addition to the private affairs of the monastery, some light is thrown upon the public events of the time, which are however kept distinct, and appear at the end of the history of each abbot's administration. The text has been printed from what is said to be the autograph of the original compiler, Thomas de Burton, the nineteenth abbot.

44. MATTHÆI PARIENSIS HISTORIA ANGLORUM, SIVE, UT VULGO DICITUR, HISTORIA MINOR. Vols. I., II., and III. 1067-1253. Edited by Sir FREDERIC MADDEN, K.H., Keeper of the Department of Manuscripts, British Museum. 1866-1869.

The exact date at which this work was written is, according to the chronicler, 1250. The history is of considerable value as an illustration of the period during which the author lived, and contains a good summary of the events which followed the Conquest. This minor chronicle is, however, based on another work (also written by Matthew Paris) giving fuller details, which has been called the "Historia Major." The chronicle here published, nevertheless, gives some information not to be found in the greater history.

45. LIBER MONASTERII DE HYDA: A CHRONICLE AND CHARTULARY OF HYDE ABBEY, WINCHESTER, 455-1023. Edited, from a Manuscript in the Library of the Earl of Macclesfield, by EDWARD EDWARDS, Esq. 1866.

The "Book of Hyde" is a compilation from much earlier sources which are usually indicated with considerable care and precision. In many cases, however, the Hyde chronicler appears to correct, to qualify, or to amplify—either from tradition or from sources of information not now discoverable—the statements, which, in substance, he adopts. He also mentions, and frequently quotes from writers whose works are either entirely lost or at present known only by fragments.

There is to be found, in the "Book of Hyde," much information relating to the reign of King Alfred which is not known to exist elsewhere. The volume contains some curious specimens of Anglo-Saxon and Mediæval English.

46. CHRONICON SCOTORUM: A CHRONICLE OF IRISH AFFAIRS, FROM THE EARLIEST TIMES TO 1135; WITH A SUPPLEMENT, CONTAINING THE EVENTS FROM 1141 TO 1150. Edited, with a Translation, by WILLIAM MAUNSELL HENNESSY, Esq., M.R.I.A. 1866.

There is, in this volume, a legendary account of the peopling of Ireland and of the adventures which befell the various heroes who are said to have been connected with Irish history. The details are, however, very meagre both for this period and for the time when history becomes more authentic. The plan adopted in the chronicle gives the appearance of an accuracy to which the earlier portions of the work cannot have any claim. The succession of events is marked, year by year, from A.M. 1599 to A.D. 1150. The principal events narrated in the later portion of the work are, the invasions of foreigners, and the wars of the Irish among themselves. The text has been printed from a MS. preserved in the library of Trinity College, Dublin, written partly in Latin, partly in Irish.

47. THE CHRONICLE OF PIERRE DE LANGTOFT, IN FRENCH VERSE, FROM THE EARLIEST PERIOD TO THE DEATH OF EDWARD I. Vols. I. and II. Edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A. 1866-1868.

It is probable that Pierre de Langtoft was a canon of Bridlington, in Yorkshire, and that he lived in the reign of Edward I., and during a portion of the reign of Edward II. This chronicle is divided into three parts; in the first is an abridgment of Geoffrey of Monmouth's "Historia Britonum," in the second, a history of the Anglo-Saxon and Norman kings, down to the death of Henry III., and in the third a history of the reign of Edward I. The principal object of the work was apparently to show the justice of Edward's Scottish wars. The language is singularly corrupt, and a curious specimen of the French of Yorkshire.

48. THE WAR OF THE GAEDHIL WITH THE GAILL, OR, THE INVASIONS OF IRELAND BY THE DANES AND OTHER NORSEMEN. Edited, with a Translation, by JAMES HENTHORN TODD, D.D., Senior Fellow of Trinity College, and Regius Professor of Hebrew in the University, Dublin. 1867.

The work in its present form, in the editor's opinion, is a comparatively modern version of an undoubtedly ancient original. That it was compiled from contemporary materials has been proved by curious incidental evidence. It is stated in the account given of the battle of Clontarf that the full tide in Dublin Bay on the day of the battle (23 April 1014) coincided with sunrise; and that the returning tide in the evening aided considerably in the defeat of the Danes. The fact has been verified by astronomical calculations, and the inference is that the author of the chronicle, if not himself an eye-witness, must have derived his information from those who were eye-witnesses. The contents of the work are sufficiently described in its title. The story is told after the manner of the Scandinavian Sagas, with poems and fragments of poems introduced into the prose narrative.

49. GESTA REGIS HENRICI SECUNDI BENEDICTI ABBATIS. THE CHRONICLE OF THE REIGNS OF HENRY II. AND RICHARD I., 1169-1192, KNOWN UNDER THE NAME OF BENEDICT OF PETERBOROUGH. Vols. I. and II. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, Oxford, and Lambeth Librarian. 1867.

This chronicle of the reigns of Henry II. and Richard I., known commonly under the name of Benedict of Peterborough, is one of the best existing specimens of a class of historical compositions of the first importance to the student.

50. MUNIMENTA ACADEMICA, OR, DOCUMENTS ILLUSTRATIVE OF ACADEMICAL LIFE AND STUDIES AT OXFORD (in Two Parts). Edited by the Rev. HENRY ANSTEY, M.A., Vicar of St. Wendron, Cornwall, and lately Vice-Principal of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. 1868.

This work will supply materials for a History of Academical Life and Studies in the University of Oxford during the 13th, 14th, and 15th centuries.

51. CHRONICA MAGISTRI ROGERI DE HOVEDENE. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1868-1871.

This work has long been justly celebrated, but not thoroughly understood until Mr. Stubbs' edition. The earlier portion, extending from 732 to 1148, appears to be a copy of a compilation made in Northumbria about 1161, to which Hoveden added little. From 1148 to 1169—a very valuable portion of this work—the matter is derived from another source, to which Hoveden appears to have supplied little, and not always judiciously. From 1170 to 1192 is the portion which corresponds with the Chronicle known under the name of Benedict of Peterborough (see No. 49); but it is not a copy, being sometimes an abridgment, at others a paraphrase; occasionally the two works entirely agree; showing that both writers had access to the same materials, but dealt with them differently. From 1192 to 1201 may be said to be wholly Hoveden's work: it is extremely valuable, and an authority of the first importance.

52. WILLELMI MALMESBIRIENSIS MONACHI DE GESTIS PONTIFICUM ANGLORUM LIBRI QUINQUE. Edited, from William of Malmesbury's Autograph MS., by N. E. S. A. HAMILTON, Esq., of the Department of Manuscripts, British Museum. 1870.

William of Malmesbury's "Gesta Pontificum" is the principal foundation of English Ecclesiastical Biography, down to the year 1122. The manuscript which has been followed in this Edition is supposed by Mr. Hamilton to be the author's autograph, containing his latest additions and amendments.

53. HISTORIC AND MUNICIPAL DOCUMENTS OF IRELAND, FROM THE ARCHIVES OF THE CITY OF DUBLIN, &c. 1172-1320. Edited by JOHN T. GILBERT, Esq., F.S.A., Secretary of the Public Record Office of Ireland. 1870.

A collection of original documents, elucidating mainly the history and condition of the municipal, middle, and trading classes under or in relation with the rule of England in Ireland,—a subject hitherto in almost total obscurity. Extending over the first hundred and fifty years of the Anglo-Norman settlement, the series includes charters, municipal laws and regulations, rolls of names of citizens and members of merchant-guilds, lists of commodities with their rates, correspondence, illustrations of relations between ecclesiastics and laity; together with many documents exhibiting the state of Ireland during the presence there of the Scots under Robert and Edward Bruce.

54. THE ANNALS OF LOCH CÉ. A CHRONICLE OF IRISH AFFAIRS, FROM 1014 to 1590. Vols. I. and II. Edited, with a Translation, by WILLIAM MAUNSELL HENNESSY, Esq., M.R.I.A. 1871.

The original of this chronicle has passed under various names. The title of "Annals of Loch Cé" was given to it by Professor O'Curry, on the ground that it was transcribed for Brian Mac Dermot, an Irish chieftain, who resided on the island in Loch Cé, in the county of Roscommon. It adds much to the materials for the civil and ecclesiastical history of Ireland; and contains many curious references to English and foreign affairs, not noticed in any other chronicle.

55. MONUMENTA JURIDICA. THE BLACK BOOK OF THE ADMIRALTY, WITH APPENDICES. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by SIR TRAVERS TWISS Q.C., D.C.L. 1871-1876.

This book contains the ancient ordinances and laws relating to the navy, and was probably compiled for the use of the Lord High Admiral of England. Selden calls it the "jewel of the Admiralty Records." Prynne ascribes to the Black-Book the same authority in the Admiralty as the Black and Red Books have in the Court of Exchequer, and most English writers on maritime law recognize its importance.

56. MEMORIALS OF THE REIGN OF HENRY VI. :—OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THOMAS BEKYNTON, SECRETARY TO HENRY VI., AND BISHOP OF BATH AND WELLS. Edited, from a MS. in the Archiepiscopal Library at Lambeth, with an Appendix of Illustrative Documents, by the Rev. GEORGE WILLIAMS, B.D., Vicar of Ringwood, late Fellow of King's College, Cambridge. Vols. I. and II. 1872.

These curious volumes are of a miscellaneous character, and were probably compiled under the immediate direction of Bekynton before he had attained to the Episcopate. They contain many of the Bishop's own letters, and several written by him in the King's name; also letters to himself while Royal Secretary, and others addressed to the King. This work elucidates some points in the history of the nation during the first half of the fifteenth century.

57. MATTHÆI PARISIENSIS, MONACHI SANCTI ALBANI, CHRONICA MAJORÁ. Vol. I. The Creation to A.D. 1066. Vol. II. A.D. 1067 to A.D. 1216. Vol. III. A.D. 1216 to A.D. 1239. Vol. IV. A.D. 1240 to A.D. 1247. Vol. V. A.D. 1248 to A.D. 1259. Vol. VI. Additamenta. Edited by HENRY RICHARDS LUARD, D.D., Fellow of Trinity College, Registry of the University, and Vicar of Great St. Mary's, Cambridge. 1872-1882.

This work contains the "Chronica Majora" of Matthew Paris, one of the most valuable and frequently consulted of the ancient English Chronicles. It is published from its commencement, for the first time. The editions by Archbishop Parker, and William Wats, severally begin at the Norman Conquest.

58. MEMORIALE FRATRIS WALTERI DE COVENTRIA.—THE HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS OF WALTER OF COVENTRY. Vols. I. and II. Edited, from the MS. in the Library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1872-1873.

This work, now printed in full for the first time, has long been a desideratum by Historical Scholars. The first portion, however, is not of much importance, being only a compilation from earlier writers. The part relating to the first quarter of the thirteenth century is the most valuable and interesting.

59. THE ANGLO-LATIN SATIRICAL POETS AND EPIGRAMMATISTS OF THE TWELFTH CENTURY. Vols. I. and II. Collected and edited by THOMAS WRIGHT, Esq., M.A., Corresponding Member of the National Institute of France (Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres). 1872.

The Poems contained in these volumes have long been known and appreciated as the best satires of the age in which their authors flourished, and were deservedly popular during the 13th and 14th centuries.

60. MATERIALS FOR A HISTORY OF THE REIGN OF HENRY VII., FROM ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS PRESERVED IN THE PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE. Vols. I. and II. Edited by the Rev. WILLIAM CAMPBELL, M.A., one of Her Majesty's Inspectors of Schools. 1873-1877.

These volumes are valuable as illustrating the acts and proceedings of Henry VII on ascending the throne, and shadow out the policy he afterwards adopted.

61. HISTORICAL PAPERS AND LETTERS FROM THE NORTHERN REGISTERS. Edited by JAMES RAINE, M.A., Canon of York, and Secretary of the Surtees Society. 1873.

The documents in this volume illustrate, for the most part, the general history of the north of England, particularly in its relation to Scotland.

62. REGISTRUM PALATINUM DUNELMENSE. THE REGISTER OF RICHARD DE KELLAWE, LORD PALATINE AND BISHOP OF DURHAM; 1311-1316. Vols. I., II., III., and IV. Edited by Sir THOMAS DUFFUS HARDY, D.C.L., Deputy Keeper of the Public Records. 1873-1878.

Bishop Kellawe's Register contains the proceedings of his palacy, both lay and ecclesiastical, and is the earliest Register of the Palatinate of Durham.

63. MEMORIALS OF SAINT DUNSTAN, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY. Edited, from various MSS., by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. 1874.

This volume contains several lives of Archbishop Dunstan, one of the most celebrated Primate of Canterbury. They open various points of Historical and Literary interest, without which our knowledge of the period would be more incomplete than it is at present.

64. CHRONICON ANGLIÆ, AB ANNO DOMINI 1328 USQUE AD ANNUM 1388, AUCTORE MONACHO QUODAM SANCTI ALBANI. Edited by EDWARD MAUNDE THOMPSON, Esq., Barrister-at-Law, and Assistant-Keeper of the Manuscripts in the British Museum. 1874.

This chronicle gives a circumstantial history of the close of the reign of Edward III. which has hitherto been considered lost.

65. THÓMAS SAGA ERKIBYSKUPS. A LIFE OF ARCHBISHOP THOMAS BECKET, IN ICELANDIC. Vol. I. Edited, with English Translation, Notes, and Glossary, by M. ERÍKER MAGNÚSSON, Sub-Librarian of the University Library, Cambridge. 1875.

This work is derived from the Life of Becket written by Benedict of Peterborough, and apparently supplies the missing portions in Benedict's biography.

66. RADULPHI DE COGGESHALL CHRONICON ANGLICANUM. Edited by the REV. JOSEPH STEVENSON, M.A. 1875.

This volume contains the "Chronicon Anglicanum," by Ralph of Coggeshall, the "Libellus de Expugnacione Terræ Sanctæ per Saladinum," usually ascribed to the same author, and other pieces of an interesting character.

67. MATERIALS FOR THE HISTORY OF THOMAS BECKET, ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY. Vols. I., II., III., IV., V., and VI. Edited by the REV. JAMES CRAIGIE ROBERTSON, M.A., Canon of Canterbury. 1875-1883.

This Publication will comprise all contemporary materials for the history of Archbishop Thomas Becket. The first volume contains the life of that celebrated man, and the miracles after his death, by William, a monk of Canterbury. The second, the life by Benedict of Peterborough; John of Salisbury; Alan of Tewkesbury; and Edward Grim. The third, the life by William Fitzstephen; and Herbert of Bosham. The fourth, Anonymous lives, Quadrilogus, &c. The fifth and sixth volumes, the Epistles, and known letters.

68. RADULFI DE DICETO DECANI LUNDONIENSIS OPERA HISTORICA. THE HISTORICAL WORKS OF MASTER RALPH DE DICETO, DEAN OF LONDON. Vols. I. and II. Edited, from the Original Manuscripts, by WILLIAM STUBBS, M.A., Regius Professor of Modern History, and Fellow of Oriol College, Oxford. 1876.

The Historical Works of Ralph de Diceto are some of the most valuable materials for British History. The Abbreviationes Chronicorum extend from the Creation to 1147, and the Ymagines Historiarum to 1201.

69. ROLL OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE KING'S COUNCIL IN IRELAND, FOR A PORTION OF THE 16TH YEAR OF THE REIGN OF RICHARD II. 1392-93. Edited by the REV. JAMES GRAVES, A.B. 1877.

This Roll throws considerable light on the History of Ireland at a period little known. It seems the only document of the kind extant.

70. HENRICI DE BRACON DE LEGIBUS ET CONSUEUDINIBUS ANGLIÆ LIBRI QUINQUE IN VARIOS TRACTATUS DISTINCTI. AD DIVERSORUM ET VETUSTISSIMORUM CODICUM COLLATIONEM TYPIS VULGATL. Vols. I., II., III., IV., and V. Edited by SIR TRAVERS TWISS, Q.C., D.C.L. 1878-1882.

This is a new edition of Bracton's celebrated work, collated with MSS. in the British Museum; the Libraries of Lincoln's Inn, Middle Temple, and Gray's Inn; Bodleian Library, Oxford; the Bibliothèque Nationale, Paris; &c.

71. THE HISTORIANS OF THE CHURCH OF YORK, AND ITS ARCHBISHOPS. Vol. I. Edited by JAMES RAINE, M.A., Canon of York, and Secretary of the Surtees Society. 1879.

This will form a complete "Corpus Historicum Eboracense," a work very much needed, and of great value to the Historical Inquirer.

72. REGISTRUM MALMESBURIENSE. THE REGISTER OF MALMESBURY ABBEY; PRESERVED IN THE PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE. Vols. I. and II. Edited by J. S. BREWER, M.A., Preacher at the Rolls, and Rector of Toppesfield, and CHARLES TRICE MARTIN, Esq., B.A. 1879, 1880.

This work illustrates many curious points of history, the growth of society; the distribution of land, the relations of landlord and tenant, national history; customs, &c.

73. HISTORICAL WORKS OF GERVASE OF CANTERBURY. Vols. I. and II. THE CHRONICLE OF THE REIGNS OF STEPHEN, HENRY II., and RICHARD I., BY GERVASE, THE MONK OF CANTERBURY. Edited by WILLIAM STUBBS, D.D.; Canon Residentiary of St. Paul's, London; Regius Professor of Modern History; and Fellow of Oriol College, Oxford; &c. 1879, 1880.

The Historical Works of Gervase of Canterbury are of great importance, as regards the questions of Church and State, during the period in which he wrote. This work was printed by Twysden, in the "Historiæ Anglicanæ Scriptores X.," more than two centuries ago. The present edition has received critical examination and illustration.

74. HENRICI ARCHIDIACONI HUNTENDUNENSIS HISTORIA ANGLORUM. THE HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH, BY HENRY, ARCHDEACON OF HUNTINGDON, from A.D. 55 to A.D. 1154, in Eight Books. Edited by THOMAS ARNOLD, M.A., of University College, Oxford. 1879.

Henry of Huntingdon's work was first printed by Sir Henry Savile, in 1596, in his "Scriptores post Bedam," and reprinted at Frankfort in 1601. Both editions are very rare and inaccurate. The first five books of the History were published in 1848 in the "Monumenta Historica Britannica," which is out of print. The present volume contains the whole of the manuscript of Huntingdon's History in eight books, collated with a manuscript lately discovered at Paris.

75. THE HISTORICAL WORKS OF SYMEON OF DURHAM. Vol. I. Edited by THOMAS ARNOLD, M.A., of University College, Oxford. 1882.

The first volume of this edition of the Historical Works of Symeon of Durham, contains the "Historia Dunelmensis Ecclesiæ," and other Works. The second volume will contain the "Historia Regum," &c.

These Letters are of great value for the illustration of English Ecclesiastical History.

78. THE REGISTER OF S. OSMUND. Edited by the Rev. W. H. RICH JONES, M.A., F.S.A., Canon of Salisbury, and Vicar of Bradford-on-Avon. Vol. I. 1883.

This Register, of which a complete copy is here printed for the first time, is among the most ancient, and certainly the most treasured, of the muniments of the Bishops of Salisbury. It derives its name from containing the statutes rules, and orders made or compiled by S. Osmund, to be observed in the Cathedral and Diocese of Salisbury. The first 19 folios contain the "Consuetudinam," the exposition, as regards ritual, of the "Use of Sarum."

WORKS PUBLISHED IN PHOTOZINCOGRAPHY.

DOMESDAY BOOK, OF THE GREAT SURVEY OF ENGLAND OF WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR, 1086; fac-simile of the Part relating to each county, separately (with a few exceptions of double counties). Photozincographed, by Her Majesty's Command, at the Ordnance Survey Office, Southampton, Colonel Sir HENRY JAMES, R.E., F.R.S., &c., Director-General under the Superintendence of W. BASEVI SANDERS, Esq., Assistant Keeper of Her Majesty's Records. 35 Parts, imperial quarto and demy quarto (1861-1863) boards. Price 8s. to 1*l.* 3s. each Part, according to size; or, bound in 2 Vols., 2*0*l. (The edition in two volumes is out of print.)

This important and unique survey of the greater portion of England* is the oldest and most valuable record in the national archives. It was commenced about the year 1084 and finished in 1086. Its compilation was determined upon at Gloucester by William the Conqueror, in council, in order that he might know what was due to him, in the way of tax, from his subjects, and that each at the same time might know what he had to pay. It was compiled as much for their protection as for the benefit of the sovereign. The nobility and people had been grievously distressed at the time by the king bringing over large numbers of French and Bretons, and quartering them on his subjects, "each according to the measure of his land," for the purpose of resisting the invasion of Cnut, King of Denmark, which was apprehended. The commissioners appointed to make the survey were to inquire the name of each place; who held it in the time of King Edward the Confessor; the present possessor; how many hides were in the manor; how many ploughs were in demesne; how many homagers; how many villeins; how many cottars; how many serving men; how many free tenants; how many tenants in soccage; how much wood, meadow, and pasture; the number of mills and fish-ponds; what had been added or taken away from the place; what was the gross value in the time of Edward the Confessor; the present value; and how much each free man or soc-man had, and whether any advance could be made in the value. Thus could be ascertained who held the estate in the time of King Edward; who then held it; its value in the time of the late king; and its value as it stood at the formation of the survey. So minute was the survey, that the writer of the contemporary portion of the Saxon Chronicle records, with some asperity—"So very narrowly he caused it to be traced out, that there was not a single hide, nor one virgate of land, nor even, "it is shame to tell, though it seemed to him no shame to do, an ox, nor a cow, "nor a swine was left, that was not set down."

Domesday Survey is in two parts or volumes. The first, in folio, contains the counties of Bedford, Berks, Bucks, Cambridge, Chester and Lancaster, Cornwall, Derby, Devon, Dorset, Gloucester, Hants, Hereford, Herts, Huntingdon, Kent, Leicester and Rutland, Lincoln, Middlesex, Northampton, Nottingham, Oxford, Salop, Somerset, Stafford, Surrey, Sussex, Warwick, Wilts, Worcester, and York. The second volume, in quarto, contains the counties of Essex, Norfolk, and Suffolk.

Domesday Book was printed verbatim et literatim during the last century, in consequence of an address of the House of Lords to King George III. in 1767. It was not, however, commenced until 1773, and was completed early in 1783. In 1860, Her Majesty's Government, with the concurrence of the Master of the Rolls, determined to apply the art of photozincography to the production of a fac-simile of Domesday Book, under the superintendence of Colonel Sir Henry James, R.E., Director of the Ordnance Survey, Southampton. The fac-simile was completed in 1863.

FAC-SIMILES of NATIONAL MANUSCRIPTS, from WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR to QUEEN ANNE, selected under the direction of the Master of the Rolls, and Photozincographed, by Command of Her Majesty, by Colonel Sir HENRY JAMES, R.E., F.R.S. Director-General of the Ordnance Survey, and edited by W. BASEVI SANDERS, Assistant Keeper of Her Majesty's Records. Price, each Part, with translations and notes, double foolscap folio, 16s.

Part I. (William the Conqueror to Henry VII.). 1865. (Out of print.)

Part II. (Henry VIII. and Edward VI.) 1866.

Part III. (Mary and Elizabeth). 1867.

Part IV. (James I. to Anne). 1868.

The first Part extends from William the Conqueror to Henry VII., and contains autographs of the kings of England, as well as of many other illustrious personages famous in history, and some interesting charters, letters patent, and state papers. The second Part, for the reigns of Henry VIII. and Edward VI. consists principally of holograph letters and autographs of kings, princes, statesmen, and other persons of great historical interest, who lived during those reigns. The third Part contains similar documents for the reigns of Mary and Elizabeth, including a signed bill of Lady Jane Grey. The fourth Part concludes the series, and comprises a number of documents taken from the originals belonging to the Constable of the Tower of London; also several records illustrative of the Gunpowder Plot, and a woodcut containing portraits of Mary Queen of Scots and James VI., circulated by their adherents in England, 1580-3.

FAC-SIMILES of ANGLO-SAXON MANUSCRIPTS. Photozincographed, by Command of Her Majesty, upon the recommendation of the Master of the Rolls, by the DIRECTOR-GENERAL of the ORDNANCE SURVEY, Lieut.-General J. CAMERON, R.E., C.B., F.R.S., and edited by W. BASEVI SANDERS, Assistant Keeper of Her Majesty's Records. Part I. Price 2*l.* 10*s.*

The Anglo-Saxon MSS. represented in this volume form the earlier portion of the collection of archives belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Canterbury, and consist of a series of 25 charters, deeds, and wills, commencing with a record of proceedings at the first Synodal Council of Clovestho in 742, and terminating with the first part of a tripartite cheirograph, whereby Thurstan conveyed to the Church of Canterbury land at Wimbish, in Essex, in 1049, the sixth year of the reign of Edward the Confessor.

FAC-SIMILES of ANGLO-SAXON MANUSCRIPTS. Photozincographed, by Command of Her Majesty, upon the recommendation of the Master of the Rolls, by the DIRECTOR-GENERAL of the ORDNANCE SURVEY, Major-General A. COOKE, R.E., C.B., and collected and edited by W. BASEVI SANDERS, Assistant Keeper of Her Majesty's Records. Part II. Price .

The originals of the Fac-similes contained in this volume belong to the Deans and Chapters of Westminster, Exeter, Wells, Winchester, and Worcester; the Marquis of Bath, the Earl of Ilchester, Winchester College, Her Majesty's Public Record Office, the Bodleian Library, the Somersetshire Archeological and National History Society's Museum in Taunton Castle, and the Salt Library at Stafford. They consist of charters and other documents granted by, or during the reigns of Baldred, Æthelred, Offa, and Burgred, Kings of Mercia; Uhtred of the Huiccas, Ceadwalla and Ini of Wessex; Æthelwulf, Eadward the Elder, Æthelstan, Eadmund the First, Eadred, Eadwig, Eadgar, Eadward the Second, Æthelred the Second, Cnut, Eadward the Confessor, and William the Conqueror, embracing altogether a period of nearly four hundred years. They include the magnificent Charters of Dunstan and Eadward the Confessor to Westminster Abbey, and that of the same King uniting Devon and Cornwall in one sec at Exeter. Ore's Guild at Abbotsbury, one of the earliest and most interesting records of these associations known in England, is reproduced in this volume, which finishes—as to date—with a charter of William the Conqueror, in the beginning of his reign, to Exeter, of great beauty and historic interest. The dates of this collection range from A.D. 693 to A.D. 1069.

This work is intended to form a comprehensive Palæographic Series for Ireland. It will furnish characteristic specimens of the documents which have come down from each of the classes which, in past ages, formed principal elements in the population of Ireland, or exercised an influence in her affairs. With these reproductions will be combined fac-similes of writings connected with eminent personages or transactions of importance in the annals of the country to the end of the reign of Queen Anne.

The specimens are reproduced as nearly as possible in accordance with the originals, in dimensions, colouring, and general appearance. Characteristic examples of styles of writing and caligraphic ornamentation are, so far as practicable, associated with subjects of historic and linguistic interest. Descriptions of the various manuscripts are given by the Editor in the Introduction. The contents of the specimens are fully elucidated and printed in the original languages, opposite to the Fac-similes—line for line—without contractions—thus facilitating reference and aiding effectively those interested in palæographic studies.

In the work are also printed in full, for the first time, many original and important historical documents.

Part II. : From the Twelfth Century to A.D. 1299.

Part III. : From A.D. 1300 to end of reign of Henry VIII.

Part IV. 1. : From reign of Edward VI. to that of James I.

In Part IV. 2.—now in the Press—the Work will be carried down to the eighteenth century.
